AT LEAST ONE LOCAL RESIDENT enjoyed the ample snowfall of the past week which provided both cross-country and downhill skiers with excellent conditions over the holiday week. For many in the Charlevoix area, however, the recurring blizzards over the week created much hardship as road crews struggled to keep ahead of the drifting snow. By last Friday morning, roads had been cleared sufficiently to prompt the lifting of a state of emergency which had been declared six days earlier. (Photo by Audrey Collins)

Davis backs erosion project

Charlevoix was advised by U.S. Rep. Bob Davis, R-Gaylord, last week to pursue a proposed project to protect a city water main from possible erosion damage along a short strip of the Pine River channel.

A roughly 150-foot strip of bank on the northeast side of the U.S. 31 bridge has eroded over the years and resulted in the water main being exposed.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is willing to build a wall along that stretch of the bank which would prevent further erosion and eliminate the risk of the water main being damaged. That project could possibly be done this spring before the boating season starts, said Bernard Malamud, technical branch chief for the Detroit district Army Corps of Engineers.

The corps is limited to spending up to $250,000 for the project and maintenance of the wall would be the city's responsibility.

City treasurer James Brinker and Mayor Ken Staley explained that city officials are reluctant to OK the project because of the possible cost to the city if the project should exceed $250,000 and because of the corps' maintenance provision.

Davis and Malamud said they believe the cost would be under $250,000. Should the cost exceed $250,000, Davis said he would then explore other federal funding avenues for the project.

Regarding maintenance, Davis said he would introduce legislative amendments that, if approved, would give the corps of engineers jurisdiction over the proposed wall. This would also make the corps responsible for maintaining it, he said.

Davis and his aides were at Nanny's Old Place for an informal breakfast discussion with the public. About 14 city, township, school and business officials from the Charlevoix area attended the coffee town-house session and water appeared to be the main item on their minds.

There was a brief discussion of the city's water pollution problem.

Davis also heard from resident Bruce MacArthur, representative of the Swimming Pool Lovers Advocating Safety and Health (SPLASH) group that is seeking an indoor swimming pool for the community. MacArthur asked Davis who at the federal level could assist him in pursuing possible federal funding for this project.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud indicated that Charlevoix's priorities should be drinking water first and swimming water later.

"I'm all for you," Stroud told MacArthur. "But I think we should finish up projects before starting new ones."

MacArthur responded that it would be interesting to compare the health hazards resulting from contamination of the city water supply and deaths from drowning because people don't know how to swim.

Chances appear good for "two-track" approach to TCE

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) may institute a "two-track" approach to locating the source of contamination in the city water supply and for studying alternative sources for clean water.

An aide to U.S. Rep. Bob Davis, R-Gaylord, said last week he believes chances are good the EPA will approve the two-track proposal and that Charlevoix's water problem could be solved in 1984.

Meetings between city officials, state departments of Public Health and Natural Resources officials, and the EPA have resulted in a new approach for the federal Superfund project in Charlevoix.

Greg Vanderlaan, chief of the remedial response section of EPA region in Chicago, said the phased approach may result in the EPA recommending an alternative water supply within six months — possibly by next spring.

Bill Huber, aide to Davis, explained the two-track proposal at an informal breakfast meeting that Davis attended last week in Charlevoix with local government officials. Under the two-track proposal, the EPA's first priority for funding would be a new water supply for Charlevoix. Once Charlevoix residents are provided with a clean water supply, then the EPA could go back and fund the costs for locating and, if possible, eliminating the pollution source, Huber said.

Test wells, drilled to assist in locating the trichloroethylene (TCE) contamination source of the municipal water supply, have been completed. Although final test results won't be available until the middle of this month, Vanderlaan said TCE is being found in the wells.

He would not indicate which wells, nor the TCE concentrations. Readings of a similar chemical, perchloroethylene (PERC) also have been recorded, Vanderlaan said.

The dozen test wells fan out from the municipal well and various tests now will be taken to determine the rate of groundwater flow.

The data will be analyzed to try to identify where the contamination is coming from, Vanderlaan said. The EPA will next determine if control or removal of the source is "viable," he said.

"My professional intuition is that most likely it won't be, but we have to have the data to substantiate that," he added.

If it's determined elimination of the source of TCE is not practical either because of time or cost factors, the EPA will study other improvements for the water supply.

Data analysis collected by various federal, state and local agencies will be used as the EPA concentrates on studying alternative water supplies — groundwater or lake water supply, he said.

Vanderlaan stressed that recommendations and suggestions from local and state agencies will be well-

New committee formed to support Medusa, other local industry

Two area businessmen are organizing a community action committee in support of local industry.

Bill Poquette, owner of Petoskey Electric Motor Service Inc., and Jim Doyle, owner of Impact Tool of Charlevoix, currently are surveying Northern Michigan residents and businesses to determine the amount of interest in the group.

"The action committee idea was prompted by the joint filing of a lawsuit against Medusa Cement Co. by the state and a local group calling themselves WATCH Inc., which claims to represent the community of Charlevoix," Poquette said.

The citizens group WATCH — Water and Air Team Charlevoix Inc. — was organized in July to restore and protect the air quality of the Charlevoix area.

State Attorney General Frank Kelley filed suit in November charging Medusa has continuously failed to meet its commitment to keep dust pollution under control. The suit was filed upon request of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Air Quality Division and lists WATCH as co-plaintiff in the suit.

No pre-trial or trial date has been set, according to a spokeswoman in Charlevoix County Clerk's office.

"We have received encouragement from a cross section of the community," Doyle said. "We do not share the views of WATCH Inc. nor do we consider a major industry to be a public nuisance as they allege in their suit."

"If our communities are to prosper and grow we must attract and retain industry and business. Our employment base in this state is shrinking. How can we expect to attract new business to our area unless we demonstrate acceptance and tolerance of our industrial neighbors?"

"This area cannot afford the loss of a single job let alone support a threat to a major employer."

Poquette and Doyle are Northern Michigan natives and both operate businesses which supply or provide services to Medusa.

"We haven't talked to Medusa," Poquette said. "We just felt this was something we should do. The idea came directly from the WATCH group — only we're on the other side."

"I've watched one cement plant close down and frankly I don't want to see another close."

Medusa Plant Manager Jack Schmidt said this morning he welcomes the support from the community. Dan Somes, president of the cement corporation in Cleveland, echoed Schmidt's remark.

Schmidt said he's familiar with industrial associations, but believes this support group may be the first of its kind.

"I think it shows a concern on the part of the community to have this take place," he said.

Although they would not comment on the lawsuit, both Schmidt and Somes said there have been continual meetings with the DNR to address environmental concerns. During meetings last week Me-dusa tentatively agreed to make provisions to control fugitive dust. Some of the steps Medusa may take include adding an enclosed area for clinker, improving its preventive maintenance program, and meeting stack release specifications.

Arden Toland, DNR air quality engineer from Rosconition, said the company has been receptive to staff clean-up suggestions. Toland said it's his hope that the suit won't go to trial but the parties could agree to a course of action.

That course of action would probably be in the form of an "order" from the DNR requesting certain steps and spelling out penalties if not met, he added.

Medusa is currently on its annual winter shut down and maintenance program.

Poquette said he has been impressed with Medusa's efforts to control pollution.

"I'm no expert," he said, "but I've done work in every major plant in Northern Michigan, and I've never seen a plant so well run and so concerned about pollution."

"I've never seen a plant spend so much on clean up — something that means no money coming in, to them."

After finding out how much support the industry support group has, the men plan to start a letter writing campaign to state representatives seeking legislation which would improve the business climate. Dianne Murray and Paula Holmes-Greeley contributed to this report.

Obituaries

MARGUERITE M. WHITLOCK

Mrs. Marguerite M. Whitlock, 83, who had resided in Charlevoix since 1973, died Dec. 22 at the Petoskey Nursing Center.

The body was returned to Detroit for interment in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Born in Petoskey May 16, 1900, the former Marguerite M. Dufresne was graduated from the Harper Hospital School of Nursing in Detroit and, for many years, was employed at St. Carmel Hospital as a Registered Nurse. She was married to John Whitlock who preceded her in death in 1959. In 1973 she returned to Charlevoix to make her home.

She has no immediate survivors.

RUTH ANN NACKERMAN

Funeral services for Ruth Ann Nackerman, 51, of Lake Orion who died Dec. 23, were held Dec. 27 at the St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Lake Orion. Interment was in Mt. Carmel Cemetery in Cadillac. Arrangements were handled by Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home at Lake Orion.

Mrs. Nackerman is the daughter-in-law of Frank and Grace Nackerman of Beaver Island.

She is survived by her husband, Rod Nackerman, three sons, Michael, Daniel, and Patrick, two daughters, Maureen and Mary, one brother, James Robbins of Petoskey, one sister, Marjorie Laurent of Greenville and many nieces and nephews.

DOROTHY M. McRAE

Funeral services for Mrs. Dorothy M. McRae, 72, kindergarten teacher at the Charlevoix Elementary School for 31 years, were held Dec. 29 at the United Methodist Church. The Rev. Glenn Hinton of the Burnard and Norwood Methodist Churches, officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. McRae died Dec. 23 at her winter home in North Palm Beach, Fla.

Mrs. McRae who retired in 1979 had been the teacher who introduced more children to school than any other teacher in the history of the Charlevoix school system. "She introduced three generations of Charlevoixans to school. She was a loyal and trusted faculty member," Ralph Raymer, elementary school principal, said of her.

Fellow teachers had nothing but admiration for her. Mary Ann Bell, who presently teaches fourth grade, said she had her as a teacher and as a fellow faculty member.

"Four of my family had her as a teacher, my brother, two sisters and me. She was a very caring person. She made allowances for each individual child. She dedicated her life to education. We thought the world of her as did all her students and her fellow teachers."

As a member of the now-defunct Goldman Fund Committee, countless children had warm jackets, boots and other clothing as a result of her caring.

The former Dorothy M. Iken was born in Charlevoix Sept. 18, 1911, and was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1928. She attended the National College of Education which was affiliated with Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., majoring in elementary education. She taught two years at Pellston prior to her marriage to Ralph McRae at Charlevoix Aug. 20, 1933. They made their home in Chicago until 1942 when they returned to Charlevoix to make their home. The same year she joined the faculty at the Charlevoix schools where she taught until retiring in 1975.

She and Mr. McRae were active in the Youth for Understanding program, a foreign exchange program, and hosted two students from the Netherlands, Mrs. Jan (Iris) Kroes, Groen and Nyneke Bierma, both of whom have returned here many times to visit them.

She was a member of the United Methodist Church and the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

Surviving are her husband, Ralph of Charlevoix and North Palm Beach; a sister, Mrs. Clarence F. (Marie) Babach of Charlevoix and two brothers, Harold of Vandalia and Carlton of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Railroad gone; controversy remains

by FRANK MARTIN

Rail traffic on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad through Charlevoix has been a part of the past for some time. However, controversy regarding the railroad continues.

First, it was the dismantling and removal of the railroad bridge across the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix last fall, and more recently, it is a suit brought by the Chicago Club to reclaim approximately 800 feet of right of way which runs through the Chicago Club property.

Summer Resort Co., an Illinois corporation, known locally as the Chicago Club, against the C & O Railway Co. seeking return of the 800 feet of right of way, a railroad right of way, the return of the 100 feet right of way that extends from Chicago Ave. on the north to the U.S. Coast Guard property on the south.

The property extends from the 16-foot wide street known as Coast Guard Drive east to the lake front property on Lake Charlevoix already owned by the Chicago Club.

The suit contends the Chicago Summer Resort Co. "conveyed an easement for railroad purposes" and that "certain rails, bridges and other improvements have been removed from said easement, making rail passage presently impossible."

The suit states further that because the railroad bed and its appurtenances have been removed in some spots and due to the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of abandonment of the request of the C & O, the railway has abandoned all interest in the road bed and the right of way.

The railroad first came to Charlevoix in June 1891. The right of way conveyance was dated May 2, 1891, and recorded July 3, 1891.

Another approximate 150 feet that extends from the U.S. Coast Guard property to the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, where the railroad bridge was located, is not included in the suit.

The C & O has 20 days in which to respond to the Chicago Club's request following the filing of the papers at the Detroit office of the company sometime during the week of Dec. 19, Davidson said.

Belvedere Club, another summer resort community located to the south of the Round Lake-Lake Charlevoix channel won a suit that returned to the club the railroad right of way through the club property.

John W. Hall, M.D., of the Department of Internal Medicine, The responsibility as "team physician" involves attending any major road trip such as bowl games.

The Burns Clinic urologist has been the band's physician for the past seven years, taking over the position from Richard Wakulak, M.D.

In addition to providing medical care to the band, Dr. Hall also cares for the variety of illnesses. One of the group is too ill to continue on the trip, I generally remain with him until he is well enough to return home.

As the band's physician, Dr. Hall has traveled to four Rose Bowl and several other major games. He has been invited to accompany the University's Symphony Band on a European tour next summer.

New 'Old' waterwheel built for restaurant

by PEG OHLE

One of the most popular vestiges of early America is the old waterwheel and mill pond which powered our early mills and factories.

Charlevoix County had many water-powered saw and grist mills in its formative years, the largest and perhaps best known of which was the Argo Mill in Charlevoix on the Pine River Channel.

There were other smaller mills in the outlying areas, too: the sawmill at Phelps, the grist mill at Porter's Creek (Adrian), the sawmill at Barnard, and the grist and sawmills at Horton Bay, among others.

All of these mills, with their waterwheels and mill ponds, have long since disappeared, the victims of other sources of power and techniques. However, next year there will be a new waterwheel and mill pond in Hayes Township. It will be part of the operating scenery of the Turn of the Century Mill Restaurant being built by Charlevoix restaurateur Dave Phillips at Windmill Farm on the Charlevoix-Bozette City Road.

The waterwheel is being made by Hurlford Industries of Charlevoix from a pattern designed by the Filz Water Wheel Company, the last manufacturer of waterwheels, which went out of business in 1963.

The wheel is 14 ft and a half feet in circumference and constructed of natural ash. It will be placed in a small stream which has been dammed up to create an upper pond for a raceway and flume which will power the waterwheel and fill a lower mill pond. The power generated by the waterwheel will be used to provide part of the electricity for the restaurant.

Phillips expects the water wheel and pond to be an attraction for both local people and tourists, many of whom will be waterwheel and old mill buffs.

"The first thing one thinks about when he thinks about a mill is the wheel," Phillips explains. The romance of the mill and the waterwheel is being kept alive by organizations such as the Society for the Preservation of Old Mills (SPOOM), headquartered in Mishawaka, Indiana, whose members seek to "promote interest, both publicly and privately, in old mills and other American now passing from the present scene."

There are still 123 mills in Michigan, according to Phillips, and one water-powered sawmill still operating in Emmet County. It is the Silver Creek mill north of the Emmet County line, where all the machinery and even the lights are powered by water.

The Society for the Preservation of Old Mills publishes a quarterly magazine called "Old Mill News," which features stories and pictures of old mills, where they are located, and how they operate. A recent issue contained a story by SPOOM president Fred Beale and his wife, Betty, who spent weekends visiting mills in southern Michigan and Wisconsin. They reported on Bowens Mill in Barry County and the Cartwright Mill in Homer, as well as the former Wittenburgh Woolen Mills in Cedarburg, Wisconsin and the Miley Mill in Millhouse, Wisconsin.

Perhaps another year they will add the Turn of the Century Mill in Charlevoix County to their list.

For those who cannot travel around the countryside to romantic old mills, there are several books devoted to the subject, including a handsomely illustrated coffee table volume titled simply "The Mill." It opens with a six-stanza poem by Robert Louis Stevenson about coming home from the wars to find "the old mill wheel in motion, turning and churning that river to foam."

On a more practical side, this book relates the importance of water-powered mills in settling the New World, bringing about the Industrial Revolution.

Phillips is an admirer and student not only of waterwheels, but of covered bridges and WATERWHEELS LIKE THIS ONE operated at several mills in the Charlevoix and Emmet county areas. The lone water-powered one still in operation in Emmet is the Silver Creek Sawmill north of Epsilon.

Tax election suit thrown out

by FRANK MARTIN

Karl Waldner of Wilson Township, representing the Organized Voters of America, was dealt a legal blow recently when a visiting Judge, Probate Judge John Unger of Bellevue, ruled against him in a case he had filed against the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and former County Prosecutor, Scott T. Beatty.

Waldner had brought the case against the defendants in April after the board refused to accept citizens' petitions calling for a special election to reduce the county's millage rate of 15 mills.

As the result of the judge's ruling there will be no election.

In the Organized Voters of America's petition, they sought to reduce the county's fixed millage rate from 15 to 13 mills. In allocating the proposed 12 mill rate, the petitions earmarked 2 mills for libraries.

It was in this that Judge Unger established his decision.

It was found that petitions submitted by the Organized Voters of America were invalid under provisions of the Michigan University public television stations beginning Jan. 21 on WCMU-TV Channel 6, Alpena.

The classes will be broadcast each week from 11-11:30 a.m. The sessions will cover the applications and methodology of microcomputers.

Steven Baerney of Petoskey represented the Board of Commissioners in the case, replacing Beatty who was dropped from the case after provisions of government immunity were cited and because of a prosecutor's advisory role to the Board of Commissioners.

The status and authority of public libraries brought out at

The November trial was to become a major point in the case. The question, however, specific procedures must be followed.

The judge basically stated that people have a right to initiative, but, however, specific procedures must be followed.

The Judge stated that Waldner had been given every benefit of every doubt. Technical defects in the plaintiff's pleadings, including questions of appropriateness of the parties and the plaintiff's conclusions in lieu of facts, have been waived by defendants (the county) and overlooked by the court in order that the substance of plaintiff's claims could be decided.

The court likewise has been liberal in allowing amendments to pleadings and granting continuances of the trial. Unger noted.

No local costs were awarded to the county because the suit involved a public issue.

The 1984 Weather Shield - American Field catalog of outdoorwear for sportsmen, just off the presses, has a decidedly Charlevoix look. Featured as models in the catalog are several area residents. The catalog features the American Field producer line of the Weather Shield company based in Charlevoix. It is distributed to sales representatives all over the United States and to several foreign countries. P.B. Photo Graphics of Troy did the photography for the catalog. Shown here as they appear in the catalog are, from left, Chuck Prevø, owner of Chuck's Landscaping in Charlevoix; Bob Schofield, Irish Boat Shop employee; Mike Barnard, owner of Nanny's Old Place; Tom Miller, who managed the Weatherhavne Restaurant this summer; and Bob Diehl, a local student.

Cathy Siterlet will offer weaving and spinning for grades 9 through adult from 7-9 on Tuesdays and on Wednesday evenings. Ballet students the following hour. Lisa Bodary will offer Jazz I for grades 9 through adult on Tuesdays from 7-8, and Jazz II the following hour.

Charlevoix's 1st Swimming Pool

The building committee of SPLASH Swimming Pool-Lovers Advocating Safety and Health — will meet 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3, at Village Inn Pizza in Charlevoix. SPLASH has proposed construction of a community swimming pool through private donation and millage collected by the school district.

The public is invited to discuss possible pool sites and estimated costs. The committee has a list of nine possible sites for the proposed pool. The committee believes it needs approximately 2 1/2 acres to accommodate the pool and parking. Other things that need to be considered include: security, esthetics, ease of acquisition, availability of federal or private funding, likelihood of taxpayer renewal of operating millage.

Building committee members are: community members Dale Boss, Dr. Dave Strawn, George Lou Olmsted, who developed conceptual drawings for the pool, Larry Levenson, Frank Cook, and Jack Schmidt. School board members serving on the committee are: Steve Smith, Doris Pearl, Elaine Martin and school business manager Vince Olach.

The committee will present its report at the 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 18, meeting at Village Inn Pizza of the SPLASH membership.

The pictures show a swimming pool which was once operated in Charlevoix by the Pere Marquette Railroad at the Inn Hotel property contiguous to the south side of Depot Beach park. The following excerpt from a Pere-Marquette Railroad Time Table and advertising pamphlet for the season of 1901 explained the reason for the pool.

"A summer resort would not be a fully equipped place of enjoyment if it lacked bathing facilities. The objection met with at most Northern Michigan Resorts is that the beach bathing is unpleasant and unhealthy because of the extremely cold water and the limited time you can swim. At Charlevoix, this objection is obviated by the swimming pool, a substantial building of modern design and complete equipment. The pool is on the beach at Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and the capacity of the tank is 105,000 gallons of water. The water is constantly kept fresh by intake and outflow. For raising the water to an agreeable temperature, a special heating plant is maintained, and patrons provided with bathing suits, dressing rooms and all the necessities of pleasurable bathing. At night the building is illuminated with electric lights and trained attendants are on hand to attend to the wants of the bathers.

The management has secured the service of Herr Leopold Fischer as swimming instructor at the pool. Herr Fischer was formerly engaged in like capacity at the military school at Koblenz-on-the-Rhine, Germany."

The pool was a large cement tank built above the ground. The building housing the pool was built around it after the tank was put in place.

LAST DAY OF REGISTRATION SCHOOL ELECTION

NOTICE OF THE LAST DAY OF REGISTRATION OF THE ELECTORS OF CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM COUNTIES, MICHIGAN TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Please Take Notice that the Board of Education of Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, has called a special election to be held in the school district on Tuesday, February 14, 1984.

The following proposition will be submitted to the vote of the electors at the special election:

MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, be increased by 15.25 mills ($15.25 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 2 years, 1984 and 1985, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a renewal of 15.25 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1983 tax levy)?

Take Further Notice that the following proposition will be voted upon by the registered school electors of the school district at the special election to be held on Tuesday, February 14, 1984, which proposition was set forth in a resolution adopted by the Intermediate School Board of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Michigan, on November 28, 1983, to wit:

SPECIAL EDUCATION MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION

Shall the one mill limitation ($1.00 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation on the annual property tax previously approved by the electors of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Michigan, for the education of handicapped persons be increased by eight-tenths mill ($0.80 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 3 years, 1984, 1985 and 1986 (this being a renewal of eight-tenths mill for special education purposes which expired with the 1983 tax levy)?

THE LAST DAY ON WHICH PERSONS MAY REGISTER WITH THE APPROPRIATE CITY OR TOWNSHIP CLERKS, IN ORDER TO BE ELIGIBLE TO VOTE AT THE SPECIAL ELECTION CALLED TO BE HELD, ON TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1984, IS TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1984. PERSONS REGISTERING AFTER 5:00 O'CLOCK, P.M., ON TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1984, ARE NOT ELIGIBLE TO VOTE AT THE SPECIAL ELECTION.

Persons planning to register with the respective city or township clerk must ascertain the days and hours on which the clerk's offices are open for registration.

This Notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Lines will extend to special district

City, township agree on sewer

by DAVE KNIGHT

Both the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Township Board granted approval Monday night to an agreement between the two units that will extend city sewer lines to provide service to southside township customers within a special assessment district.

Under the "intergovernmental agreement," customers within the district will pay 1.5 times what city residents pay for tap fees, monthly service and commodity fees and any other fees involved with the sanitary sewer service. There are currently 39 potential residential customers within the district, one commercial customer, Irish Boat Shop, and one industry, DME.

In addition to the agreement, the township board also gave final approval to the establishment of the special assessment district tax rolls and passed a bonding resolution thus paving the way for the start of preliminary engineering on the project.

John Campbell, chairman of the township's sewer committee and coordinator of the effort to extend the sewer lines, told the township board that the first engineering work may be ready for inspection by the board's next regular meeting scheduled for March 12.

At the city council, the agreement passed on a 4-2 vote with First Ward councilman Raymond Wood and Second Ward councilman James Block casting "no" votes.

Wood stated that, in his opinion, the council had not yet studied thoroughly enough the long range impacts of extending sewer lines outside city limits and that he did not want to "rush into" an agreement with the township without sufficient planning. "Without the right planning," said Wood, "our little community could go right down the tubes."

Block's position was that the city should consider selling part of the sewage treatment facility to the township to help defray the cost of the currently under-utilized plant.

City manager Robert Hunt, who has been negotiating with Campbell on the draft agreement for the past several months, described it as a "superior plan" to any partial sale of the treatment plant.

Hunt acknowledged the uncertainty of how extending sewer lines outside city limits will eventually affect the city saying, "I don't think anyone really knows what will happen."

He pointed out that while extension of the lines may open the door to commercial development in the township that some have claimed will threaten businesses within the city, it also has the potential to allow condominium growth in the township, which might relieve some of the pressure for multiple family housing within the city.

"You can pick theories that will come out any way you want," said Hunt. "Either way you are taking a risk."

First Ward councilmember Michael Greeley supported the agreement saying that the types of businesses that might locate in the township would probably not be the same types that would locate in the central city and that extension of the lines was a necessary move to address the current deficit in the sewer fund.

Third Ward councilmember Shirley Roloff pointed out that the IMAGES OF SUMMER, buried over the past weeks in the almost seven feet of snow that has fallen this winter already, are rekindled by this photo taken by regular Courier contributor Anne Kelly of her family last summer romping in the Lake Michigan dunes. That's Rich Kelly, superintendent of the Boyne City schools, leading the charge on the right with, from left, Scott, Jenny, Amy and Laura. Anne submitted the photo last year to the Parade

While limited space prevented actual use of the photo in the nationally circulated Sunday supplement, carried locally by the Detroit Free Press, Anne's name was mentioned in the December 17 edition as one of the winners. She also received $100 and a certificate for her efforts.

Small Business Assistance Center backed by Board

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County is supporting the idea of a Small Business Assistance Center located in Northwest Michigan.

At its meeting last week, the County Board passed a resolution suggesting that the Northwest

Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, located in Traverse City, be the body designated to administer the Center and its programs.

Commissioner Don Smith presented the resolution and was joined by County Planner Larry Sullivan in explaining the operation of the Center.

Sullivan noted that the Center would be funded by the Regional Planning Commission, the State, and the Private Industry Council. Through the Regional Planning Commission, it would have facilities to assist small businesses and developing larger businesses with grant applications, federal procurements, export information, and other services not readily available.

"We would have local control over the staff," Sullivan said, "and the office is already there."

Sullivan further said that the Small Business Assistance Center would not conflict with the Charlevoix County Task Force, which is awaiting approval of a grant application by the State Department of Commerce so it can get going. This Task Force has been assured of financial support by the three cities in the County, the County Board of Commissioners, the Economic Development Commission, and local industry.

"The Assistance Center would complement the Task Force," Sullivan explained. They could do things the Task Force could not do. While the management of the Assistance Center would be regional, delivery of service would be sub-regional."

Marion Twsp. finally buys site of town hall

by DAVE KNIGHT

The residents of Marion Township have just purchased some real estate with a special importance to them; it's the land on which their own township hall has been located for almost a century.

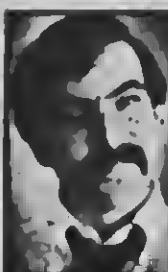

Following months of negotiation between the township board and owners of the property James and Darlene Hisey, the transaction was closed December 27. It involved the purchase for $6,000 of the two-acre plot on which the township hall is located with 400 feet of frontage along Marion Center Rd. and 227 feet on Ferry Rd. There is also an option to buy an additional two acres from the Hisey's if and when their farm adjoining the township hall

But what about the dog?

by Dave Knight

I received the following correspondence the other day:

"Regarding your column of Jan. 4, 84, you wrote that your dog had run off the Thursday night before Christmas and you then related the subsequent events surrounding Christmas. But you never finished the story."

"Did the dog return home safely?" Had he left for New Orleans to view the Sugar Bowl? Did you perhaps receive a card from Florida or a basket of fruit from sunny California?

"Please let us know - what happened to the poor pet, as the description of the weather sounds as though the conditions weren't fit for man or beast."

"We also own some property perched high atop an Eveline Township ridge" and had contemplated building on same. Now we're not so sure, perhaps a snug little place at the foot of the hill next to the stream would give us a better chance of survival in Charlevoix County."

"Warmest wishes to you and your readers for a very Happy New Year."

James & Kathleen O'Flaherty, Detroit.

My apologies to the O'Flahertys and everyone else who has expressed concern over the fate of my dog Vernice. The column did indeed leave her out in the cold.

County board reconvenes...

Supervisors was organized on January 5.

All six members were present to re-elect L. Lee Moerland of Charlevoix chairman and Larry D. Matthews of Wilson Township vice-chairman. County Clerk June E. Brannon serves the County Board as clerk.

The County Board has just completed its first year as a six-man body, having been reduced from 15 members at the end of 1982. Each County Commissioner represents one of the three cities in the County or several townships.

Matthew's district consists of Ilaves, Bay, Evangeline, and Melrose Townships; Ralph E. Harmon represents Chandler, Hudson, Boyne Valley, and Wilson Townships and the eastern part of Eveline Township; Oral Suttile represents the City of Boyne City; Thomas Breakey represents the City of East Jordan and South Arm Township; Donald Smith represents the western part of Eveline Township and all of Marion, Norwood, Charlevoix, St. James, and Peaine Townships; and Moerland represents the City of Charlevoix.

The Board of Commissioners will continue to hold regular meetings on the second Wednesday of each month at 9:30 a.m. and on the fourth Wednesday at 7 p.m. during April through October and at 7:30 p.m. during November through March. All meetings are open to the public.

The Board of Commissioners relies heavily upon standing committees to carry on County business. The committees report to the County Board on all matters referred to the committee by the Board; they review all appropriation requests directly related to its own functions and make recommendations to the Board and Means Committee of the Ways and Means Committee of the Board; they act as liaison between the Board of Commissioners and the several County officers, boards, commissions, and agencies respecting matters under the jurisdiction of the committee; finally, the committees keep minutes of meetings and report to the next regular meeting of the County Board.

Members of the County Board

Here's what happened and I think many dog owners will relate to it. We had planned to set off for Wisconsin early Saturday morning, Christmas Eve. Vern therefore had to check in at the vet for a week's lodging on Friday. The vet, Dr. Dave Norton, also had plans to travel so Vern had to be there by 11 a.m. Friday.

Vern, of course, ran off Thursday night. By the next morning, she was still on the lamb so we reluctantly called to cancel the reservations and worry about what to do next.

Vern strolled into the yard about noon, mission completed. Do these animals know what they put us through sometimes? If so, what do they have against us?

As to life on Eveline Township ridges, we may get the harshest winds of winter but we also get the coolest breezes of summer. I suspect that not even those snug little hollows by the stream provided much sanctuary from the furious weather Christmas weekend.

We at the Courier have heard stories after harrowing story about how local people coped with the ill-timed blizzard on that memorable holiday weekend. I would like to invite everyone who had a unique experience to share it with us. Send your account to the Courier, Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or call 547-6558 and ask for Dave or Peg.

Clockwise

Aliens among us

by Bob Clock

It comes as something of a surprise that Michigan presently is home to some 100,000 illegal aliens, most of whom are expected to apply for U.S. citizenship as soon as Congress passes its controversial amnesty bill. The Senate already has approved the measure and the House will debate the bill this month.

James H. Montgomery, district director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Detroit, expects final approval before Easter.

Who are the "aliens" among us, since you can't identify them by their pointy ears or antenna sprouting from their temples like you can the aliens in science fiction movies? Montgomery said about 60 percent are Mexicans and Central Americans. The rest are Middle Easterners, Africans and Canadians. About 1,000 of them presently are presently fighting deportation.

HAVING COME FROM a family of illegal aliens, I can sympathize with their plight. Many members of my family drifted to these friendly shores from Canada in the late 1800's and early 1900's - but no one paid much attention to who they were or where they came from. They paid taxes and voted and no one asked any questions.

Some of them married American citizens and assumed they had American citizenship. But it wasn't a big deal. Citizens of both countries traveled across the border without a great deal of fuss. Then came World War II and all that changed. Both governments decided to count noses and demanded proof of who was who. Canadians living in the United States were asked to either become naturalized citizens or move out. A though my mother was born in Canada, she always assumed she was an American because her father was a minor when her grandfather "took out his papers," as they used to say. But she wasn't sure until a panel of three Philadelphia lawyers (that's not a turn of phrase, that's a fact) decided she did indeed have derivative citizenship and prepared documents to that effect. My sister and I threw a party for her to celebrate the occasion.

I guess that's why I've always been in the corner of the illegal alien. The ones I knew really weren't alien, and I wince when I think that any of them ever did anything illegal. They all loved the United States for the opportunities it offered - and if that's a crime, Vern's something wrong with the law.

Secondly, I would rather spend my tax dollars on something the people of Charlevoix can enjoy rather than on mistakes to knock the taxpayers out of some unsuspecting Arab or Russian.

Let's ask President Reagan to reduce our defense taxes by the same amount we will spend to run the pool. That will give him something to think about.

Letters: WATCH responds to new group

To the Editor:

Reference is made to the article appearing in the January 4, 1984 issue of the Courier relating to the activities of Messrs. Bill Poquette and Jim Doyle in organizing a Community Action Committee. Presumably this group intends to support local industry and specifically support Medusa in the pending legal action filed by the State of Michigan and Watch, Inc. As substantial and long time suppliers to Medusa, one wonders about the depth and sincerity of their support. Local industry and the regional economy of northern Michigan. Notwithstanding that point, there are several comments in the article attributed to these two gentlemen which are eligible for comment and/or correction. If indeed these gentlemen have been correctly quoted:

1. Mr. Poquette is quoted as stating, "Watch, Inc. claims to represent the Community of Charlevoix." Watch emphatically denies that such a statement has ever been made. What has been stated is that Watch, Inc. represents approximately 1500 Charlevoix area tax paying residents, 400 of whom (now approaching 500) have voluntarily contributed and/or pledged money in support of Watch objectives. Quite a difference! Also eloquent testimony as to the strength of our local support.

2. Mr. Doyle states, quote "We do not share the views of Watch nor do we consider a major industry to be a public nuisance, as Watch alleges in their suit." I defy Mr. Doyle to find any such allegation in the Bill of Complaint. What the complaint does state is quote, "This is a civil action brought by the Attorney General...to compel the defendant, the Medusa Corp. to abate the continuing air pollution violations, which constitute a public nuisance." Quite a difference!

3. Mr. Poquette states, quote "I am impressed with Medusa efforts to control pollution," then he states quote "I am no expert but I've done work in every major plant in northern Michigan and I've never seen a plant so well run and so concerned about pollution." Well, Mr. Poquette, you said it and we agree, "you're no expert!" The professional engineers of the Air Quality Division of the D.N.R. are experts and they too agree that you're no expert. The preponderance of documented evidence we have assembled relating to statutory violations by Medusa extending back several years also agrees with the fact that "you're no expert." Finally what is important is the judge will heed the testimony of "experts" and I believe we will certainly be vindicated in his "judgment." I would suggest to Messrs. Poquette and Doyle that before they malign Watch and its valid objectives any further that they first do their homework. For starters, they could visit Lansing and inspect the D.N.R. files on Medusa. Under the Freedom of Information Act, these files are open for public inspection. Were they to do this, I believe they might be appalled by Medusa's long history of continuing citations and violations of various statutes relating to the Clean Air Act, violation of their state issued "Permit to Operate," etc.

Demagoguery and half truths as alluded to in the statements attributed to Messrs. Poquette and Doyle do not cloud the issue at hand or any intelligent and fair minded Charlevoix resident. He is well aware that cement dust emissions have been a chronic nuisance in Charlevoix for a long time. He knows that Medusa has also done a lot of good things for the community and makes a significant contribution to the economic health and well being of the area. Watch members are also cognizant of these facts.

This, however, does not give them the license to continuously foul up the air which we all breathe. Medusa, quite simply must cease being like the truculent cow who gives a pail of milk and then kicks it over. Watch is not anti Medusa nor is it anti business. To imply or insinuate that we are irresponsible and without one iota of factual evidence. Some of Watch's largest financial supporters are successful business men, well aware of the regulatory constraints which corporate business must live with. The writer includes himself as one of these.

In closing, Watch is encouraged by developments in the last 30 days coming out of a meeting between the attorneys and representatives of Medusa, Watch and the State. It now appears possible that the "nucleus" of a "consent agreement" might be in the making. Insofar as the State and Watch are concerned, an essential and mandatory provision of any such final agreement would have to provide that the "agreement" be registered with the court so that it would be court enforced. Failing acceptance of this one provision by Medusa the matter will go to litigation on July 18, 1984. We in Watch certainly hope that this does not happen as we would far rather use our available funds for a worthwhile project for the benefit of Charlevoix rather than making wealthy men out of the lawyers.

The site for the township hall, originally one quarter acre, was first leased as a meeting place by the Marion Township board in 1980 at the rate of five cents a year for 50 years. No one is quite sure when the present township hall was constructed.

According to township supervisor Michael Bonar, there are no records of the lease being renewed when it would have expired in 1930. It was his feeling and eventually that of the current board, said Bonar, that the time had come for the township to own the property for its town hall and provide for future growth. The owners of the property for many years previous to this were Mrs. Hisey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowley Williams. Bonar expressed gratitude to the Hiseys saying, "I enjoyed dealing with Jim Hisey. He could have said 'no' to the township when we first approached him and it could have resulted in a terrible legal hassle. During offers and proposals, the board and Mr. Hisey were both sensible with no harsh or angry words. He tried to protect his interest and the board tried to act in the best interest of the residents. I feel things worked out well."

Bonar said there are no present plans for expansion or improvement of the township hall but that the purchase of the two-acre site and the option on an additional two acres will provide the opportunity for more parking and improve the potential for future growth.

"Finally owning the land on which our township hall sits is a great way for Marion Township to start the new year," said Bonar.

Weddings

Sneathen-Samson

Patty Ann Sneathen and Gunnar Brager Samson were married on Saturday, December 3, in the rectory of the United Unitarian Church of Stamford, Conn.

Russell Well of New York City served as best man.

A reception was hosted on December 27 by the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Slekmann at the Slekmann's home in Harbor Springs. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Sneathen of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Gunnar Samson of Westport, Conn. and Mrs. Amie Slekmann of Lake Forest, Ill. Lisa Samson, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, and, York City.

How to keep your poinsettias going

by PEG OHLE

Those who received poinsettias for Christmas are probably wondering what to do with them now to keep them blooming - and healthy.

The Cooperative Extension Service has prepared a brochure with an illustrated month-by-month procedure for keeping poinsettias growing from year to year.

For the next two months, the plants should be in full bloom. They should be kept near a sunny window or other well lighted area, but should not touch a cold window pane. The best daytime temperature for them is between 60 and 70 degrees, and the best night time temperature is 55 to 60 degrees.

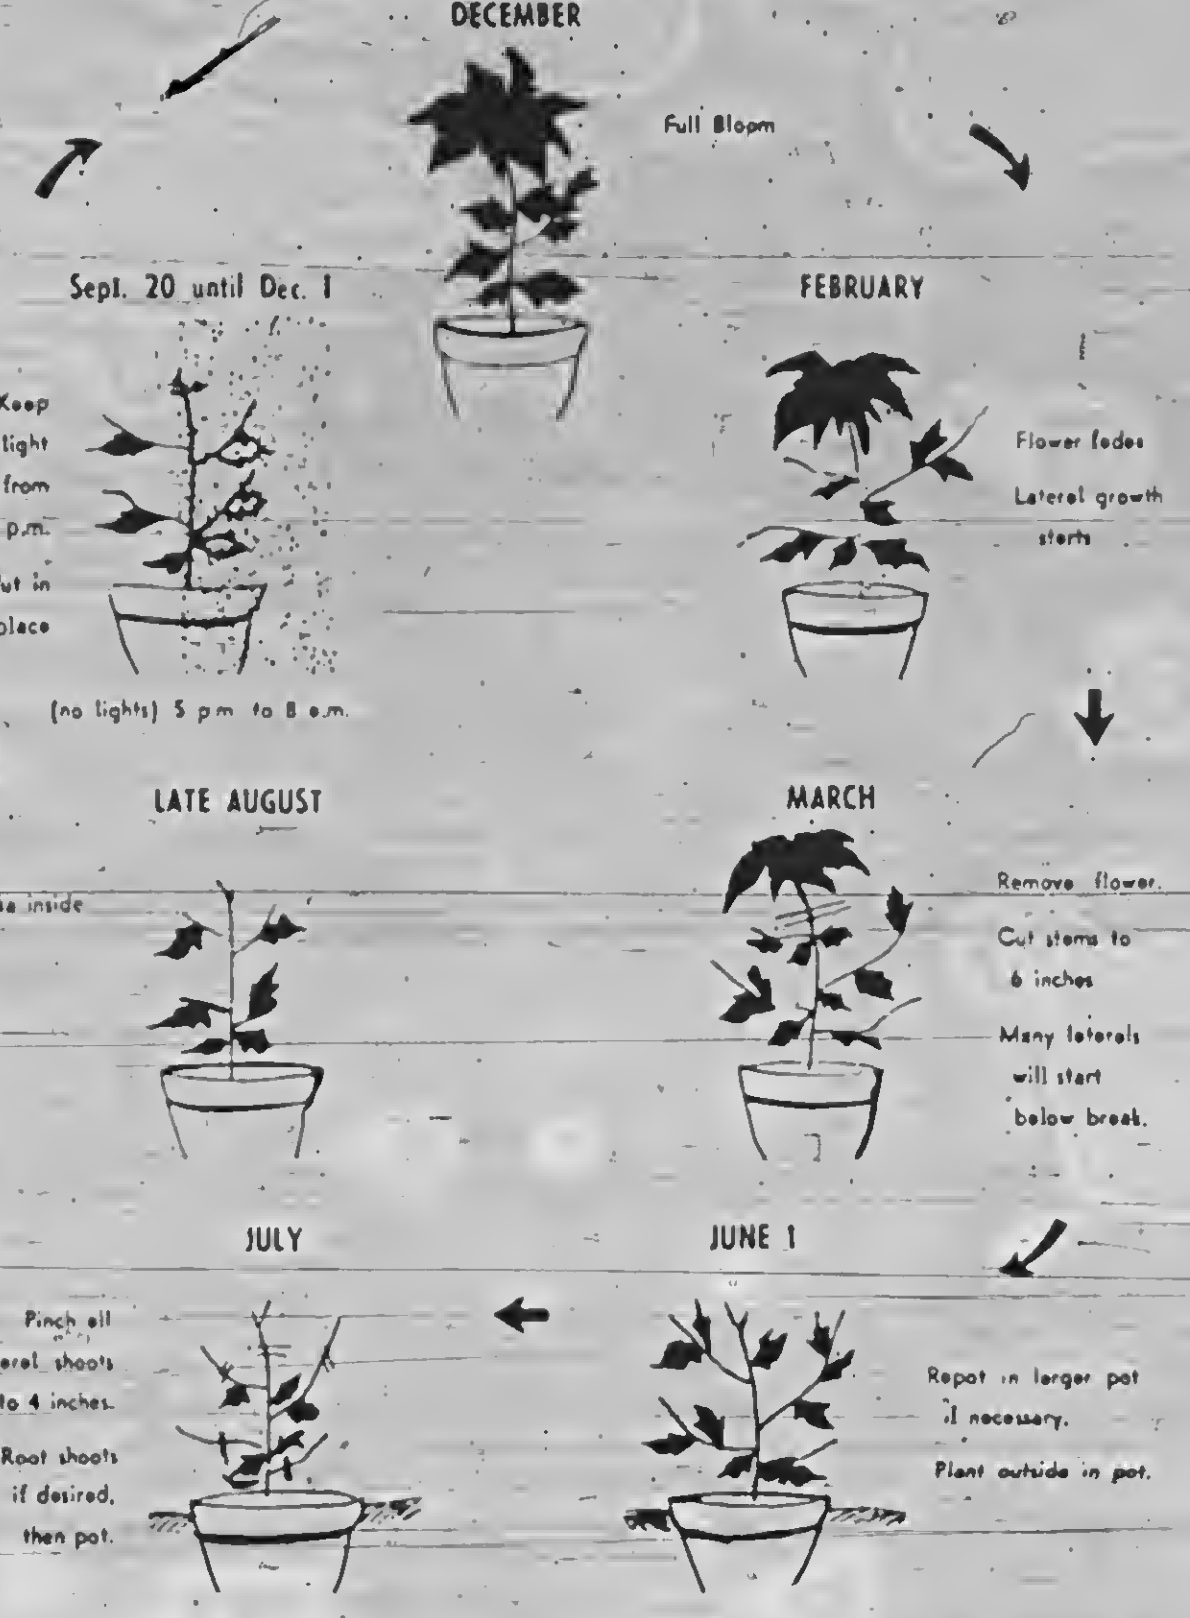

The plants should be watered only when the soil is dry to the touch, and enough water should be applied to soak the soil to the bottom of the pot. Excess water should be discarded. A soluble fertilizer should be applied once a month.

In late winter and early spring, side shoots will develop below the flowers and grow up above the old flowering stem. In order to have a well-shaped plant for the following year, it is necessary to cut back the original stem of the poinsettia to four to six inches in height, removing the old flower and one or two side branches. Keep the plant in a summer window at a temperature between 60 and 70 degrees and water and fertilize as needed.

If the plant is too large for the old pot, it should be repotted about the first of June in a soil mix of two parts of garden soil, one part of peat moss, and one part of sand, vermiculite, or perlite plus one tablespoon of superphosphate thoroughly mixed in with each pot full of soil. After the danger of frost is past and night temperatures exceed 50 degrees, the poinsettia should be moved to a sunny window as before. In order for it to flower, it must be kept in complete darkness between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. daily from the end of September until color shows in the buds Christmas.

Art Center exhibition to feature quilts of all types and designs

Quilts are the theme of the McCreary Arts Center's Gallery Exhibition which will run through February 28, 1984. The show will consist of old and new, traditional and contemporary designs. Many artists throughout the north as well as throughout the state will be presenting the heritage of their families or their very own ideas. The ideas of these artists have been pieced into wall hangings, bed quilts, pillows and even quilted clothing. There is a tremendous interest now, world-wide, in quilting, reports Karen Boese-Schaller, one of the chairpersons of the show. "It is a lost art coming back," she says. "This resurgence of interest has occurred mainly in the last five years, and there are now well-known quilters from all over the world, reports Boese-Schaller. There is a high interest in quilting in the United States, Ireland, England, Japan and France. The most common use for quilts being made today is for wall decorations, with other uses being as bed coverings, pillow covers and tablecloths. more 40 quilts which Committee members Pat Postle and Karen Boese-Schaller have from 18 till 5 in the Arts Center Gallery.

LAST DAY OF REGISTRATION

SCHOOL ELECTION

NOTICE OF THE LAST DAY OF REGISTRATION OF THE ELECTORS OF CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM COUNTIES, MICHIGAN

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT:
Please Take Notice that the Board of Education of Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, has called a special election to be held in the school district on Tuesday, February 14, 1984.

MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION
Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, be increased by 15.25 mills ($15.25 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 2 years, 1984 and 1985, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a renewal of 15.25 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1983 tax levy)?
Take Further Notice that the following proposition will be voted upon by the registered school electors of the school district at the special election to be held on Tuesday, February 14, 1984, which proposition was set forth in a resolution adopted by the Intermediate School Board of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Michigan, on November 28, 1983, to wit:

SPECIAL EDUCATION MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION
Shall the one mill limitation ($1.00 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation on the annual property tax previously approved by the electors of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Michigan, for the education of handicapped persons be increased by eight-tenths mill ($0.80 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 3 years, 1984, 1985 and 1986 (this being a renewal of eight-tenths mill for special education purposes which expired with the 1983 tax levy)?

THE LAST DAY ON WHICH PERSONS MAY REGISTER WITH THE APPROPRIATE CITY OR TOWNSHIP CLERKS, IN ORDER TO BE ELIGIBLE TO VOTE AT THE SPECIAL ELECTION CALLED TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1984, IS TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1984. PERSONS REGISTERING AFTER 5:00 O'CLOCK, P.M., ON TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1984, ARE NOT ELIGIBLE TO VOTE AT THE SPECIAL ELECTION.

Persons planning to register with the respective city or township clerks must ascertain the days and hours on which the clerks' offices are open for registration.

This Notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS COMMUNITY EDUCATION PROGRAM 1984 WINTER TERM HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION PROGRAM

The schedule below lists the classes which are being offered each night beginning the week of Jan. 23-26 and continuing for 17 weeks. These classes are FREE to those 18 or older who do not have their high school diploma or those under 20 who have their diploma. Any others are welcome in these classes for a fee of $25. Upon successful completion of each class you will be given 1/2 credit toward the 20 credits needed for your diploma. If you have already completed a number of credits, call us so we can find out how many classes you should take to complete your work. Age does not matter; an older person may be given credits for "life experiences", military service, or G.E.D. tests that have been taken. You may be surprised at how close you are to that diploma... so call and find out. The phone number to call to enroll or inquire about your situation is 547-3222.

4. All classes meet at Charlevoix High School unless stated differently above.
5. Since initial enrollment determines whether a class will be held or not, there will be no refunds after the start of the class.
6. The last day to sign up for these classes is January 20, 1984. At this time any classes with insufficient enrollment will be canceled and those who have signed up will be notified of such cancellation.

Names In The News

STEVEN COOPER of Charlevoix has been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at the University of Detroit. Cooper, a freshman studying architecture, achieved a 3.38 grade point average for the semester. He is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Two Charlevoix High School students are among 200 Michigan high school musicians to be named to the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association (MSBOA) 50th Anniversary Honors Orchestra. Trombonist PETER PLACER, son of Dr. and Mrs. Merle Placer, and ANDRE FIEDLER, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fiedler, will be performing with the Honors Orchestra in Hill Auditorium at the University of Michigan Ann Arbor campus on Friday, January 20 as part of the MSBOA's 50th anniversary celebration.

Over 50,000 band, orchestra and jazz students from high schools throughout Michigan were eligible to audition for the Honors Orchestra.

The January 20 performance of the Honors Orchestra will be conducted by Dr. A. Clyde Holley, for many years conductor of the Houston Symphony, Lamson Symphony, Amarillo Symphony and Interlochen Center for the Arts.

BARBARA SUTTER, above, of Charlevoix, was the winner of a twelve-piece Cornish Ware set in a drawing held December 31 by the Crown Drug store in the Captain's Corner shopping center. Mrs. Sutter was one of over 1,200 entries received in the contest.

Navy Gunner's Mate Seaman WILLIAM J. PARMER, son of Ralph D. and Mary J. Parmer of East Jordan, has completed the Tartar Missile Course.

The 72-week course was conducted at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes. Students received detailed instruction on the operation, maintenance and repair of the Tartar anti-aircraft, guided missile and its shipboard launching system.

Chamber elects four new board members

Four new members were elected to three year terms to the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors recently. They will assume their duties at the organizational meeting. They are Gary Gleason, of Gleason Sailmakers, Kjell Johansson, manager of the Westervane Terrace Hotel, Gordon W. Van Wieren, Superintendent of the Charlevoix Public Schools, and John Schmidt, Superintendent of the Medusa Cement Co. They succeed Linda Mason of Charle's and Linda Mason Interiors, Peter Pace of the Grey Gables Inn, Suzi Reis of Ski & Shore Properties, Inc., and Jeannine Wallace of the Shop of the Gulls.

Other members of the Chamber Board of Directors are David Knight, Editor of the Charlevoix Courier, Josh Barnes of the Lexile Corp., John Frey representing the agricultural community, Michael Greeley of Wharfedale Market, Roy Hayes, attorney, James Mabee of The Clothing Company, Dr. F. James Stewart of the staff of the Charlevoix Area Hospital and Dr. David Strawbridge, dentist.

The Board of Directors will meet Jan. 21 for a two-day seminar at which long-term plans as well as goals for the year will be the chief topics discussed.

Two members of the 1982-83 Charlevoix High School basketball squad that won 24 straight games before losing in the quarterfinals of the state tournament have made Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) varsity teams. GEORGE SMITH, left, a 6'3", 175 pound forward plays for the Lake Superior State College Lakers and CRAIG KLOOSTER, right, a 6'3", 175 pound guard made the Ferris State College Bulldogs squad. According to the LSSC basketball press guide, Smith "made the grade on the Laker team with a solid fall showing. Great shooting skills and intelligence. Should see spot action at the small forward/shooting guard position." Smith is a science major at Lake Superior State. In the Ferris State press guide, Bulldog coach Tom Ludwig says of Klooster, "Craig has proven to be a great hustler in the preseason. He loves to mix it up and is not afraid to take the ball to the basket or do the defensive things necessary to stop his man." Klooster is listed as an advertising major at Ferris State.

Lake trout quarantined

Fish are back at DNR fish hatchery here

by DAVE KNIGHT

It had been at least six years since any fish have been reared in the massive concrete tanks of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Great Lakes Fishery Station in Charlevoix. For reasons mostly budgetary, all hatchery operations were ended in 1978 and, since then, the tanks have been dry and the station utilized solely for fishery research.

But now at least one of the tanks is teeming with activity again as part of a unique new program that is hoped will help re-establish depleted lake trout stocks in Lake Michigan. Between 1,000 and 1,200 yearling lake trout were delivered to the DNR station by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) in late December. The fish originated as eggs from the Apostle Islands area of Lake Superior, were hatched in a State of Wisconsin hatchery and are now in Charlevoix for a two-year quarantine period before their hoped-for use as brood stock by the FWS.

DNR station supervisor Myri Keller describes the new role of his facility as that of "a halfway home for wayward fish."

While being raised in Charlevoix, the young lake trout will be regularly tested by pathologists for any sign of disease that would prevent their use as brood stock.

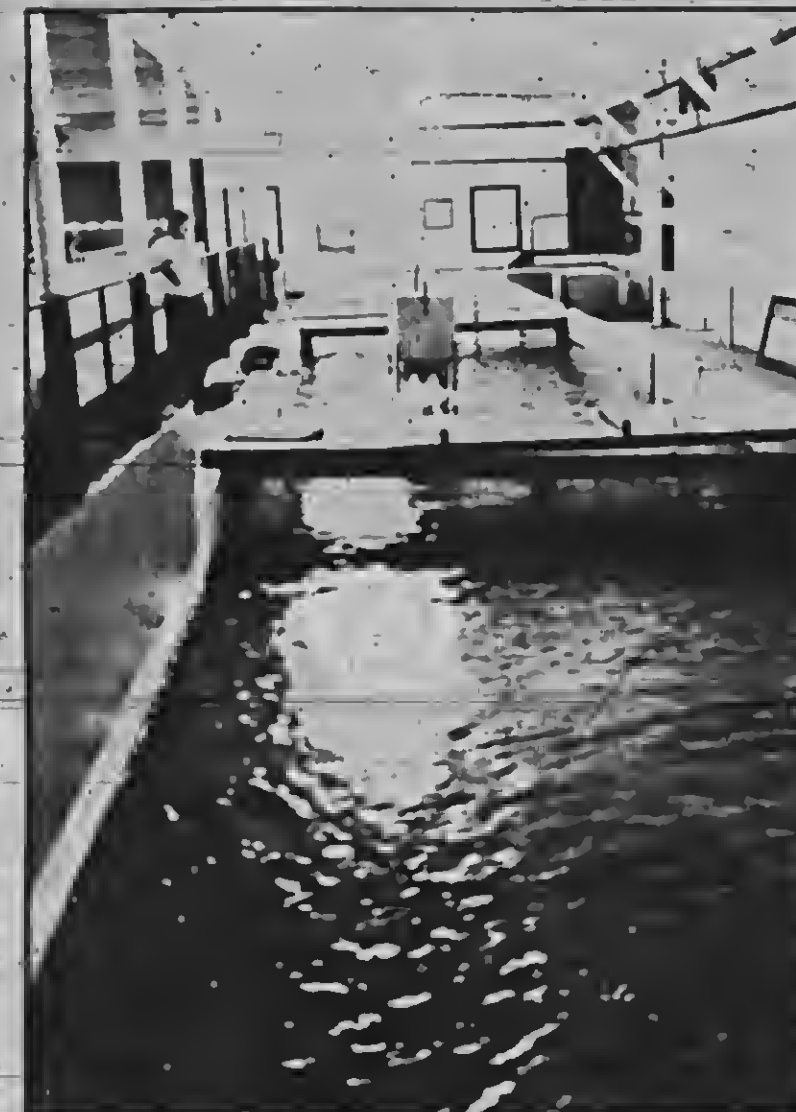

Larry Wubbel, manager of the Jordan River Hatchery, said that the fish quarantined in Charlevoix are part of a new approach by the FWS to supply increased numbers of lake trout brood stock to fill a growing demand.

With a new federal hatchery now on line in Iron River, Wisconsin, said Wubbel, the FWS can no longer rely on its past sources, such as the State of Michigan's hatchery in Marquette, to produce enough brood stock.

The long range goal of the program, said Keller, is to re-introduce lake trout into areas such as northern Lake Michigan strains of lake trout that were established in other, isolated locations many years ago.

Some of the strains being looked at for restocking in the Great Lakes include those from Green Lake, Wisconsin and a lake in Yellowstone Park.

Hatchery tanks at Charlevoix's DNR Great Lakes Fishery Station are active again after standing idle for six years.

Yearling lake trout swarm around the feeder in their "halfway home."

County faces move to new district

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County has been asked to leave its home in the State 37th Senatorial District and move south to the 36th District.

By action of a legislative elections committee, Charlevoix County has been traded, along with Antrim and Grand Traverse Counties, all heavily Republican, for a similar size area in the northwestern part of the State, including Alpena, which is heavily Democratic.

Mitch Irwin, a Democrat from South Ste. Marie who was elected in 1982 for a second four year term to represent the 37th District, will complete his term at the end of 1986, at which time Charlevoix County will move to the 36th District.

State elections officials say that only three legislative districts—two house and one senatorial—are not affected by the new state-wide redistricting.

This is the second time in two years the State has been redistricted. Following the 1980 census, it became necessary to redistrict to insure that districts would be as near the same in population as possible. The legislature could not agree upon a redistricting plan at that time, so one was devised by the Court with the stipulation that if, after the 1982 elections, the legislature could come up with a plan, it could replace the Court's redistricting. That is what has just happened.

Charlevoix County was not affected by the last redistricting so far as the Senatorial District was concerned, but it was affected by the House redistricting. Ralph Ostling of Roscommon, who had represented only part of Charlevoix County (including the City of Charlevoix) up until that time, was given all of Charlevoix County for his 103rd House District. Charlevoix County remains in that district.

Both Republican and Democrat leaders in Lansing say they are satisfied with the new districts, although the "bouncing around" can be expensive for some local political units. In Charlevoix County, the Clerk will have to issue new identification cards for the almost 4,000 registered voters by the time the County joins the 36th Senatorial District—Voter cards cost about 27 cents apiece.

G. T. Long, Senator Irwin's local representative, told the Courier last week that Charlevoix County residents will continue to be well represented by Irwin.

"Mitch says that as far as he's concerned, lines don't make any difference. He will continue to represent all of northern Michigan," Long explained.

Indoor pool sites narrowed to nine

by DAVE KNIGHT

As of this week, nine sites in and around Charlevoix remain under consideration as possible locations for a public indoor swimming pool recently proposed by local citizens group.

The nine sites have been culled from a total of 24 suggested to date and reviewed by the building committee of SPLASH! Swimming Pool Lovers Advocating Safety and Health, according to committee member Bruce MacArthur.

Also calculated by the committee at a recent meeting was a rough cost estimate for the pool project of $800,000. Tentative plans are to build the community pool with private donations and a millage collected by the school district.

Not included in the sites still being considered is a location on Park Avenue along the Pine River Channel adjoining the lot donated to the city in December by Dr. Walter

Bridge tender retires after 32 years

By FRANK MARTIN

After 32 years of ups and downs, Danford D. "Chick" Gallagher has called it quits.

Saturday was his last day as tender on the highway bridge over the Pine River Channel here.

According to Chick who received this unusual nickname as a child because he was always whistling like a chickadee, it all started in 1951 when he was recovering from major surgery. "I'd had surgery and knew it would be sometime before I could return to my work as a plumber. This job as a bridge tender came up and I decided to take it until I could return to my regular job. That was May 14, 1951," Gallagher said at his retirement. He went on to say that after he'd been on the job for a while, he decided he liked it and has been at it ever since.

"What's the most exciting thing that happened while I was on duty at my bridge. Nothing really. One time anirate boatman came to the bridge and was going to settle scores with the tender; another time, a car went in the channel during the night and other things happened but never to me," he chuckled.

He went on to say that "probably the biggest thing that happened to me was trying to explain to pedestrians standing on the bridge, that the sidewalk section of the bridge must be raised along with the roadway section to allow boats to come and go. I know that sounds ridiculous but it's true," he said.

He went on to say that motorcycle riders had been known to pull an "Evil Knievel stunt" by running up on the spans as they were being lifted and jumping over the opening between the two. Pedestrians, on occasion, would also try to jump from one span to the other. "I'd just stop and lower the bridge spans. That, I learned, would put an end to such stunts," he explained.

"Through the years I've met a lot of fine people. I've answered a lot of questions about the bridge and its operation and about boats including everything from the small ones to the freighters that pass through the bridge. I will miss it. I'd been a good job," Gallagher said.

He went on to say that the last night on nine years have been more enjoyable for him. "We used to change shifts every week. It was hard because you'd just get used to days when you'd be on the 3 to 11 shift, then the night shift. It was rugged changing so often. About 1975 the Michigan Department of Transportation decided it wanted the chief tender on days so each tender was assigned a shift. I've been on the 3 to 11 shift and have liked it," he commented.

Tenders presently work six days and have two days off, he said.

"The fall has been my favorite time of the year. Things taper off after the fast pace of the summer. The weather is nice. It's just my favorite time of the year on the job," he said.

Karl Soblaskey of St. Ignace is the chief bridge tender. Edwin "Pete" Zettler has the night shift and Charles M. Bergmann is the relief man, filling in for which ever tender is having his days off. Gallagher's successor has not been named at this time.

On Sunday, he was guest of honor at a family dinner at his home here and later at a surprise open house hosted by his wife, the former Edna Novotny and his daughters, Mrs. Marion (Mary) Young of Charlevoix and Mrs. Joel (Lily) Donaldson of Boyne City. In attendance were also four of his five grandchildren. His family presented him with a recliner and his co-worker at the bridge a pewter plate bearing a sketch of the bridge he has manned for more than 22 years.

A native of Beaver Island where he was born Aug. 20, 1918, he later lived in Chicago and Milwaukee before coming to Charlevoix with his parents, the late Owen F. and Vivian Gallagher, in 1927.

He was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1938, attended Alma College for 2 1/2 years and served 2 1/2 months in the U.S. Navy. Later he entered the U.S. Army and was assigned to the U.S. Air Force serving as a radio-operator-gunner on a B-17 operating out of England during World War II. He returned and was employed as a plumber prior to accepting the job from which he retired Jan. 14, 1984.

RULES

1. Anyone can enter, except the employees of the paper and their families. Use the entry blank from the paper or make your own, following the same plan. A copy of the Charlevoix Courier will be available at the Courier office to anyone wishing to copy the list of names.

2. Weekly gift certificates will be awarded to the persons naming the most winners. All tie games are considered incorrect unless picked as ties on your entry blank. In case of a tie, persons guessing nearest correct score in the tiebreaker box will win. Insert what you think total score will be of the game in the tiebreaker box.

3. Gift certificates are redeemable at the participating sponsor designated on this page only. Entries should be addressed to: Contest Editor, Charlevoix Courier and postmarked by not later than 5 p.m. Thursday night. Winners will be announced the following weeks.

4. On the entry form simply draw a circle around the number of the team you predict will win each of the games listed in each of the odds. Then, predict the total on the points "tie breaker" at the bottom of the entry form.

KCB hears update on city's water situation

Progress by the City of Charlevoix on dealing with the trichloroethylene (TCE) contamination of its water supply was the main topic of the January 7 meeting of the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. Mayor Kenneth Staley and District No. 2 Health Department sanitarian Larry Levenson were the featured speakers at the meeting held at Village Inn Plaza. Staley briefly summarized the history of the problem dating back to the initial discovery of the contaminant, the unsuccessful attempt by the city to pass a bond issue for a lake water treatment plant and the inclusion by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) of Charlevoix's water system on its Superfund-eligibility list.

Levenson said that 22 monitoring wells have now been drilled in the search for the contamination, the most recent of which were 12 wells drilled in November and December as part of the Superfund remedial investigation. He said that samples from the latest test wells are currently being analyzed with results due later this month. Should it be determined that the contamination is such that elimination of the source is not feasible, Staley explained to KCB members, Superfund money may be available to help fund up to 90 percent of an entirely new water system for the city, up to $400,000 has already been committed by EPA to its remedial investigation-feasibility study in Charlevoix. Both Staley and Levenson agreed that whether the EPA will help fund a new water system should that be necessary has become a political issue in the past, it has not been involved before in municipal water plants.

In other business, a change was made in the planting date for the 1984 Operation Petunia. On the recommendation of Dale Boss, it was decided to hold the planting bee from 5:30 p.m. to sunset on the Thursday before Memorial Day, May 24. Superfund remedial investigation still be plenty of daylight to get the planting done and that there would be less traffic.

Bus ridership reported

During December, the Charlevoix County Transit System provided rides to 132 people throughout the County who had not ridden the buses during the previous two months. Most of the rides were single one-way round trips. This brings to 367 the total number of people served by the Transit System in the first three months of its new fiscal year.

Those riding the buses in December accounted for 5,673 trips - 2,673 by senior citizens, 1,257 by handicapped persons (mostly to and from the Bergmann Center), and 1,743 by employed people, shoppers, etc. The average fare paid for each ride was $6.5 cents. Art Saworski, Transit System Manager, told the Commission on Aging last week that he had had to reduce his annual budget from $115,000 to $127,000 because of cuts in State funding. In addition to State money, the Transit System is supported by farebox receipts and County millage. The Charlevoix County Transit System, which is headquartered in Boyne City, employs the equivalent of 13 full-time people, nine of whom operate buses.

Charlevoix Yesterday

No one at the Courier has been around long enough to identify this point of land called "Breezy Point" on a Charlevoix picture postcard. The card was mailed from Charlevoix on August 28, 1907 to a Mrs. S.M. Boyle of Maple Rapids, Mich. A note on the card reads, "Breezy is putting it mildly. Will have a bad night on Lake Mich. Edw." Who can tell us where "Breezy Point" was (or is)? (Postcard courtesy of Dr. Daniel Gilbert)

Tickets now on sale for hospital's Jaguar raffle

Raffle tickets for the elegant 1983 Jaguar Mark X, donated by Mr. Julius Gilbert to Charlevoix Area Hospital, go on sale this week and the Jaguar is on display at the Erber-McKeown Ford Dealership.

Only a limited number of tickets, not more than 225, will be sold at $50 each, according to hospital spokespersons.

Mr. Gilbert donated the classic Jaguar to Charlevoix Area Hospital to help with the $50,000 drive to underwrite new monitoring equipment for the hospital's Intensive-Coronary Care Unit. Two specialized types of monitoring will be added to existing ICU monitoring. Richard Krueger explained. Invasive monitoring, which sends tiny delicate instruments into the heart of the most critically ill patients will help ICU staff detect heart function changes before problems occur. Telemetry - radio controlled monitoring - will permit less seriously ill patients to be monitored in hospital rooms outside the unit, at least cost, under more close to normal conditions, and with the effect of freeing unit beds for the most critically ill patients.

Mr. Gilbert, who has been a long time supporter of the unit, and who helped raise the funds to open the unit in 1973, announced the donation of the Jaguar last month.

Now on display at Erber-McKeown in Charlevoix, the 1983 Mark X, 4-door sedan, is, according to Richard Langworth, author and automobile expert, "the largest Jaguar sedan ever... with massive untutored body, and coil spring independent rear suspension."

Langworth described the Mark X's "lovely" power steering, Borg-Warner automatic transmission and "wood faced dash, bristling with switches and dials." The interior is all leather and wood, with wood secretary type desks with mirrors, reminiscent of the Beolite, which pull down for the rear seat passengers. Langworth says, "...despite its size, this big cat could reach 120 m.p.h., and maintains "the graceful Jaguar styling."

Only 225 tickets will be sold at $50.00 each. For more information contact Diane Novotny at 547-4024, extension 209. Some tickets are available at Erber-McKeown. Checks may be sent directly to Charlevoix Area Hospital, ICU Fund, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720.

Chamber announces dates for major events in coming year

The dates for the major events sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce during 1984 have been announced by Jacques Merla, executive director of the organization.

They are as follows:

- Feb. 18-19 8th Annual Winter Cup.
- June 18-23 73rd Annual Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament.
- July 4 6th Annual Champagne Cruise.
- July 14-16th Annual Lakeside Hobbycraft Fair.
- July 26-29 54th Annual Venetian Festival.
- Aug. 11 38th Annual Waterfront Air Fair.
- Aug. 18-19 Annual Sidewalk Sales.
- Oct. 13-14 5th Annual Apple Festival.
- Oct. 15-16 3rd Annual Color Cruise.
- For further information regarding any of the above events, write to the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 404 Bridge St., Charlevoix 49720 or call 615-547-2101.

Deeds office still behind

Real estate activity in Charlevoix County was not as light during 1983 as it may have appeared to be. According to Register of Deeds Stephen Pond, his Department processed over 10,000 pages of material having to do with land ownership, and took in $75,300 in revenues, up 31 percent over 1980. The employees of the Register's Department have been working overtime for several weeks trying to catch up with unprocessed documents, but as of the first of the year, they were still 3,000 pages behind, Pond recently told members of the County Board.

A solution to the work overload is being sought by the County Board.

County board earned $32,950 for 1983 meeting attendance

by PEG OHLE

The six members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners collected $32,950 from the County in 1983 for attending regular and special committee meetings of the County Board.

Not included in the above figure is the per diem County Commissioners received for attending meetings of the various local and regional boards and commissions on which they serve, such as the District Health Department, Planning Commission, Commission on Aging, Mental Health, Human Services, Parks and Recreation, Manpower Consortium, Veterans Affairs, and Criminal Justice Planning, among others.

Also not included is the round-trip mileage, at 20 cents a mile, County Commissioners were paid for all regular and special committee meetings. (The mileage rate was raised this year to 25 cents.)

The amount each Commissioner received from the County can be broken down into a base salary of $150 a month for attending two County Board meetings, one daytime and one evening, plus per diem paid for attending County Board committee meetings held either on a regular or as-needed schedule. Per diem is paid at the rate of $60 for meetings lasting four hours or more, including travel time, and $40 for meetings lasting less than four hours, including travel time.

The $32,950 paid for County Board meetings during 1983 was divided among County Commissioners as follows:

Oral Sutliff, $6,910; Lee Moorland (Board Chairman), $6,170; Larry D. Matthews, $5,120; Donald Smith, $5,250; Ralph Harmon, $4,380; and Thomas Breakey, $4,120.

Wieland re-elected chairman of County Planning Commission

Tom Wieland of Marion Township was re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission at the Commission's recent annual meeting.

Arnold Hudson of Walloon Lake was elected vice-chairman, and Larry Levengood of Charlevoix was elected secretary. Hudson succeeds Dennis Jason of East Jordan, and Levengood succeeds Dorothy Custer of Charlevoix. Other members of the Planning Commission are Junior Hunt of Boyne Falls, Ray Towne of Boyne City, Vivien Vischer of St. James, and Walter Thorsen of East Jordan. Jason and Mrs. Custer also remain on the Commission.

Their goal: To provide massage therapy for U.S. Olympians in Sarajevo

By PEG OHLE

Three northern Michigan massage therapists are seeking a sponsor (or sponsors) to help pay their way to Yugoslavia so they can join the training organization of four United States Olympic teams.

Lana Franchek of Bellaire, Betty Craig of Traverse City, and Carl Childress of Glen Arbor recently returned from Lake Placid, where they massaged the tightness out of members of the U.S. cross country ski, luge, sledding, bobsledding, and biathlon (cross country and rifle) teams. Team members and their coaches were pleased with the fitness results of the massage-ing that they invited the three massage therapists to join them in Yugoslavia next month for the Winter Olympics. Since there is no Olympic money for transportation of massage therapists, Franchek, Craig, and Childress are telling the public they need about $1,000 each so they can go to Yugoslavia to take over the unpaid jobs of massage therapists to some of this country's best athletes.

The group's association with Olympic athletes began some time ago when the VASA cross country ski group came to Traverse City. Childress, who is associated with a massage and health center there, gave the skiers free massage treatments. The invitation to Lake Placid followed, along with contacts with the other Olympic teams. Franchek and Craig learned the technique of massage in classes taught by Childress.

People who use the facilities of the new Charlevoix Fitness and Health Center will become personally acquainted with Childress when he joins its staff within the next few weeks as a massage therapist and teacher of massage. His future plans also include taking over massage duties for the U.S. Olympic kayak and canoe teams before the Summer Olympics in California.

Franchek and Craig will join him in working with these teams. Massage therapists are not ordinarily part of the training organization of American Olympic teams and no money is allotted for them. Franchek and Craig are volunteering their services as Americans to help American teams. They pointed out that European cross country ski teams receive one hour of massage for every three hours spent on skis.

Childress is a trained nurse as well as a massage therapist. He studied at the Detroit School of Swedish Massage after receiving massage treatments for his injured back. Among his he lists the bosers Hearnes, and Moham- Interested persons at 31278 Trumbull Road, more famous patients Larry Holmes, Thomas med Ali, may contact Childress Maple City, 49664.

Vikings, Hurons fail to mar Rayders' clean M-HSC slate

Charlevoix's varsity basketball squad put the two teams as well as John Pearl developing as a top rebounder, the Rayders looked as good as they've looked all year at times.

Charlevoix jumped to a 14-6 in the first quarter but Rogers City quit giving ground in the second quarter and at halftime the score was 27-20 Rayders.

Things stayed pretty even again in the third stanza with the Rayders outscoring their opponents by only one, Grayling in which the Vikings outscored the Rayders 25-16 fell just short and Charlevoix pulled out a 68-62 win.

Cole's 22 points and Sloan's 22 led the Rayders while Wayne Ross had 23 for the Vikings.

Several from Charlevoix compete in CUSSA ski series at Thunder Mtn.

The Central division of the United States Ski Association (CUSSA) held a series of four races last weekend at Thunder Mountain. A Charlevoix contingent of 13 racers competed with 150 of the best boy and girl racers in Michigan.

In the Elite division Jason Brindel came in 12th and 15th out of 47 racers. Lauren Pace topped the Charlevoix boys in the Elite races with finishes of 8th, 8th, 5th and 6th. Close behind was Nini Pace with a 1st, 6th, 6th and 14th. Allison Hall and Lenore Erber collected 14th, 14th and 22nd. Last January this prestigious event, 68 the Mid-American races were held at Boyne Mountain. Eighty-four of the best men and 50 of the best women ski racers in the mid-west competed.

The next venue for CUSSA will be Boyne Mountain (Elite) and Thunder Mountain. Christie Pace were invited to compete in (Select) on January 21st and 22nd. Last January this prestigious event,

Skiers make impressive debut placing second in five-team meet at Nub's Nob

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams did very well in their first competition of the season, placing second behind Petoskey in the boys' meet and tying with Harbor Springs for second in the girls event according to Coach Eric Lundteigen.

Petoskey won the boys' meet with 46 points. Charlevoix placed second with 55 followed by Harbor Springs with 65, Gaylord with 144 and East Jordan with 168.

In the girls meet Petoskey had 33 points, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs 74 each, Gaylord 136 and East Jordan 147.

Matt Lignell captured a first in the slalom, defeating a Petoskey skier who had placed first in the state in '83. Lundteigen said, "He also had a ninth place in the giant slalom."

Jason Brindel had a fifth in the slalom and a second in the giant slalom; Mark Trimmer, an 11th in both events. Jim Morrige, 10th in the slalom and sixth in the giant slalom; John Marsh 22nd in the slalom and 16th in the giant slalom; Brian Wilmut, 14th in the slalom and 31st in the giant slalom.

Sue Miller, skiing very well, captured a fifth place in the slalom and a fourth in the giant slalom. Lundteigen said, "Christie Pace was seventh, Nini Pace sixth and Lenore Erber, 10th in the slalom; Kim Snitz was 19th in the slalom and 18th in the giant slalom; Cheryl Hull, seventh in the slalom and 41st in the giant slalom; Beth Revell, 21st in the slalom and 21st in the giant slalom."

Lundteigen said: "he was very pleased with the team's performances in their first meet of the season. 'Everything went well' he added.

The teams will be at Bear Mountain at Petoskey wins triangular meet hosted by Charlevoix

Petoskey was the winner in the triangular meet hosted Thursday by Charlevoix winning by a score of 57-13 over Charlevoix and Onaway.

while Charlevoix lost to Onaway by a score of 46-22.

Coach Greg Bryan felt the grapplers did well in the meet despite the fact that they gave up seven of the 12 weight classes each time they wrestled.

In the meet with Onaway the Rayders won four of six matches and three of six against Petoskey.

This week the Rayders will meet Boyne City on the Ramblers' mats at 6:30 p.m.

In the meet with Onaway the results were as follows:

Rick Gallant (138) won by a pin in 1:14 over Andy McGinn.

Shawn Hartnett (146) won by a 14-6 major decision over David Dunn.

Matt Hall (155) lost by a pin in 2:21 to J.D. Price.

Bill Marquardt (180) lost by a pin in :47 to Rick Moore.

Jeff Mervyn won by a pin in :34 over Stu Wright.

In the meet with Petoskey the results were:

Kelly lost by a pin in 2:30 to Howard Damer.

Gallant won by a major decision, 8-4, over Jim Harrington to boost his record to 16-3-1 for the season.

Hartnett won by a 10-7 decision over Roland Haven.

Hull won by a pin in 6:25 over David Hoffman.

Marquardt lost by a 4-0 decision to Earl Franz.

Mervyn lost by a pin in 2:35 to Todd Reeves.

Rayder matmen place sixth of eight at Kalkaska Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers placed sixth among eight teams entered in the Kalkaska Invitational Saturday morning. Coach Greg Bryan reports, "St. Ignace won the meet followed by Kalkaska, Reed City, Onaway, Glen Lake, Charlevoix, Mancelona and Frankfort in that order."

Overall, the team wrestled well, placing four of the seven who participated, Coach Bryan said.

Rick Gallant (138) did well all day before losing in the finals to Gary Horn of St. Ignace by a 10-9 decision. Earlier he had pinned Troy M. Moly of Mancelona in 3:05 and won by a 2-1 decision over Dave Ridgeway of St. Ignace 7-2.

In placing second in the heavyweight class, Jeff Mervyn pinned Tony Walker of St. Ignace in 2:20 and was pinned in turn by Al Cronin of Kalkaska in 1:09 in the finals.

Shawn Hartnett (145) lost to Ernie Latta of Glen Lake 21-13; lost to Mike Campbell of Kalkaska by a pin in 3:40; won over Dave Cole of Frankfort by a pin in 3:14 and lost in the finals to Mike Marshall of St. Ignace 7-2.

A.J. Witthoft (167) was pinned in :45 by Bob Hall of Kalkaska and in :55 by Mike Denler of Rogers City.

The team will be at Boyne City Thursday.

Girls volleyball team opens with win over Boyne City

The Charlevoix girls volleyball team posted a 3-0 win over Boyne City in the opening game of the current season Wednesday.

The JV squad, playing the best two of three games, lost to the Boyne City Varsity team 2-0.

Boys City does not have a JV squad.

Charlevoix Varsity won 15-11, 15-4, 15-6 in the best three out of five sets.

The JV's lost the the visiting Varsity by scores of 15-9 and 15-11.

Charlevoix will play at Petoskey on Wednesday.

The Charlevoix Middle School seventh grade team, coached by Henry Wagner, is composed of young players who are participating in their first intramural competition.

Kerr, Mike Himebauch, Mike Stargardt, David Miller, Tom Herriman, Wes Cumberland.

8th graders win, 7th graders lose

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams returned to the court last week with the eighth graders posting victories over Cheboygan and Petoskey and the seventh graders dropping games to teams from the same schools.

The Charlevoix teams will travel to Kalkaska this Wednesday and host East Jordan on Wednesday.

In their meeting with Cheboygan, the locals won 54-33 and 35-29 over Petoskey.

Charlevoix headed Cheboygan 15-7, 29-9 and 48-14 by quarters before posting the lopsided win. Dan Drury had 15 points, Mark LaBlance 12 and Scott DeYoung 11 for the victors. D. Woodgate had seven for Cheboygan.

In the meeting with Petoskey, Charlevoix outscored them 13-4 in the final period to win by a six point margin after trailing 10-6, 17-14 and 25-17 by quarters.

DeYoung had 11 and Roger Smith 10 points for the winners. Plehl had eight and Hoffman six for Petoskey.

The seventh graders did not fare as well losing to Cheboygan 32-11 and to Petoskey 22-11 in the Cheboygan game, Charlevoix trailed 13-0, 21-2 and 29-9 by quarters.

Shawn Putman had four points for Charlevoix. C. Rozek had 12 for Cheboygan.

In the Petoskey game, Charlevoix led 7-2 before Petoskey took over 10-9 at the half and 15-11 going into the final period.

Putman and Mike Picha had four points each for Charlevoix. Rasmussen had four for the visitors.

JV team comes from behind to win

The Charlevoix Rayder Junior Varsity basketball team got off to a slow start against the young Grayling Vikings but came back strong to win 54-40 on Tuesday.

This week the team will round out the first half of the schedule when they travel to St. Ignace on Friday.

In the meeting with Grayling Tuesday, the host team got off to a 9-1 first period lead. However, as the second period got underway, the Rayders took command for a 28-14 advantage at halftime and a 38-29 lead going into the final period.

When they outscored Grayling 16-11 for the victory.

The Charlevoix five won the game on the free throw line, connecting on 16 of 28 tries and 11 persons fouls Grayling scored on.

Jody Putman had 23 points and Sean Ferguson 12 for Charlevoix, Tom Klinger had 12 for Grayling.

only two of 16 attempts and 22 personal fouls. Both teams had 19 field goals.

Freshmen record victory over Harbor Springs Rams

The Charlevoix Rayder Freshmen posted a 45-38 victory over the visiting Harbor Springs, freshmen Monday night.

The team was scheduled to play at Gaylord Monday in a make-up game from Dec. 21 and host St. Ignace Jan. 19.

In their meeting with the young Rams, the teams played to a 8-0 first period tie before Charlevoix took off with 18 points to three for the visitors to take a 24-9 halftime lead.

Harbor Springs came back strong as the second half got underway to trim the Rayder lead to 29-22.

John Selike had nine and Jeff Kimerer eight for Rogers City.

Jody Putman had 15 and Sean Ferguson and Tim Salmonson 10 points each for the victory.

The young Rayders will begin their second round of play at St. Ignace Friday.

Hurons no match for Rayder JVs

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs posted a 57-29 victory over the visiting Rogers City quintet Friday, taking an early lead and increasing the advantage to 18 points at the buzzer.

Scoring 12 points in each of the first three periods, the Rayders led the young Hurons 14-24-22 and 34-28 by quarters before dumping in 21 in the final period when Coach Don Carey emptied the bench.

Jody Putman had 15 and Sean Ferguson and Tim Salmonson 10 points each for the victory.

John Selike had nine and Jeff Kimerer eight for Rogers City.

The young Rayders will begin their second round of play at St. Ignace Friday.

Workshop will teach new pattern techniques

Homeowners in the Emmet, Charlevoix and Boyne City areas will learn a new way to sew and fit patterns in two workshops to be held at the Weigh Station Restaurant in Petoskey on Monday, February 13, 1984.

In the Fitting Workshop participants will learn how to take their measurements, check their patterns including the necessary ease, and how to make the pattern fit using pivot and slide techniques on waxed paper with a tracing wheel. There is no slashing or spreading of the pattern to cutting. Larger seam allowances, no guesswork. Patterns fit the first time, every time, without smiles, frowns, or other wrinkles. Alteration practice on mini patterns is included.

In the Sewing Workshop participants will learn how to set in sleeves without pinning, how to cut and sew plaids so they match, how to sew an invisibly stitched patch pocket, how to make collars where seams disappear like magic, how to sew long seams so they come out even on the other end without pinning, how to sew without fabric, and much more.

Linda Woyshner, instructor for the classes is a graduate of Michigan State University and a certified Sew-Fit instructor. She has traveled extensively throughout the United States lecturing on the teaching sewing and pattern fitting.

The schedule for the workshops is 11:30 noon lunch, sandwich and salad bar, $1.50; 12:30-4:30 Fitting Workshop, 4 hours of instruction and hands on, $5; 5-6 p.m. dinner, your choice of cold or chicken, $5; 6:30-8:30 Sewing Workshop, 2 hours of instruction, $3.

Reservations are necessary. Reservation deadline is February 8, 1984. Please call Emmet County Cooperative Extension Service at 347-2556 for enrollment forms.

Your phone service in 1984.

How to start it.

Hello, Michigan Bell?
I'm singin' in the rain, but I'd rather be talking on my new phone in my new house. How 'bout some service, fast?

How to change it.

Hello, Michigan Bell?
Sure, I like your service, but now I need more of it, like another line and Touch-Tone® service, too.

How to stop it.

Hello, Michigan Bell?
Can you believe it? I'm asking you to disconnect me... 'cause I'm moving south next week. So goodbye, and thanks for everything.

New ways to handle your phone service.

On January 1, 1984, Michigan Bell's separated from MNT. As a result, there are some changes in how you go about starting, transferring, changing or disconnecting your phone service.

Services Michigan Bell provides:
Michigan Bell provides your basic local service, ranging from budget-minded service to flat rate service with unlimited local calling. We continue to offer a variety of long distance services, including payphone service, and custom calling services where available. We also offer long distance service within certain geographic areas called LATA. LATA stands for Local Access and Transport Area. In Michigan, there are nine LATAs that happen in most cases to closely approximate our area codes.

Services other companies provide:
Effective January 1, 1984, AT&T Information Systems, a subsidiary of AT&T, has taken over the long distance service for Michigan Bell. AT&T has been providing for a monthly fee. AT&T will continue to lease phones to you and will offer repair services for them. You also have the option of obtaining telephones from other telephone suppliers.

A number of companies provide long distance service between LATAs. You may wish to contact various companies for an explanation of their offerings.

Ordering new service:
Call a Michigan Bell Service Representative to arrange for new Michigan Bell service. You'll find a number to call listed in the Customer Guide pages in the front of your Michigan Bell Telephone Directory.

In order to use your Michigan Bell service, you need to have or buy your telephone, as mentioned earlier from the supplier of your choice.

You also may want to select a long distance carrier. Michigan Bell service provides access to MNT long distance service. You may contact one of the other companies that offer long distance service.

Transferring service:
Call your Michigan Bell Service Representative to have your service disconnected at your old address and started at your new Michigan Bell location.

Telephone sets that you may have been taken with you to your new address. If you are leasing phones from AT&T, please call AT&T Information Systems for instructions as to the disposition of those phones (1-800-555-8111).

Deleting other services:
Call a Michigan Bell Service Representative to arrange for deletion of other services, such as Touch-Tone service or Custom Calling service, etc. Your Service Representative's phone number is listed on your telephone bill.

If you want additional outlets for extensions, you have these options. Michigan Bell or other companies will install them for a charge or you may install them yourself, using conversion kits available through other service companies.

Disconnecting service:
To cancel your Michigan Bell service, simply call your Service Representative and ask that it be disconnected. If you are leasing phones from AT&T, you need to call AT&T Information Systems for instructions as to the disposition of those phones.

Michigan Bell intends to keep you informed as other changes take place in your phone company and your phone service. You expect the best - and that's our promise to you. After all.

IT'S AIN'T WE'VE SEPARATED FROM NOT YOU.

Senior KRISTY MATHEWS and junior TERESA NOIROT, Alma College students from Charlevoix, are among the 206 students named to the College's Dean's List for outstanding academic performance during the 1983 fall term ending December 16. Kristy is majoring in economics and Teresa is an education major.

MIKE ZEDNICEK of Charlevoix was named to the Dean's List for the fall term at the University of Michigan with a 3.75 grade point average.

Newly promoted Army 1st Lt. RICHARD A. HAYDEN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Hayden of Boyne City, has participated in Abuja Tara (Big Pine) II, an exercise involving U.S. and Latin American forces in Honduras.

According to Pentagon officials, the exercise tested plans and procedures for operations, command and control of joint operations with the armed forces of nations in the Caribbean basin and Central America. The exercise also demonstrated the deployment and sustainment capability of U.S. forces to unfamiliar terrain.

Big Pine II is the latest in a series of combined exercises that began in 1965. Hayden is a communications electronics officer with the 3rd Battalion, 319th Field Artillery at Fort Campbell, Ky. His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Gordon and Rose Spencer of Flint, Mich.

The lieutenant is a 1982 graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

The Board of Trustees of the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund has announced the reappointment of ARTHUR K. ROUSE of Boyne City to continue serving on the Charlevoix County Veterans Trust Fund Committee as the unaffiliated representative, for a term ending December 31, 1986. Last year, the Charlevoix county committee assisted 112 veterans, widows and dependents of veterans, for a total of $7,629.04.

Medusa files response to Atty. General's lawsuit

by DAVE KNIGHT

In documents filed in Circuit Court January 18, the Medusa Cement Company denies charges brought in a November, 1983 lawsuit by Attorney General Frank Kelley that excess dust emissions from the Charlevoix plant are polluting the air illegally.

In a motion for accelerated judgement and summary judgement, attorneys representing Medusa ask that the suit charging the cement manufacturer with violations of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Act (MAPCA) and the Michigan Environmental Protection Act (MEPA) be dismissed.

Dumais is also being sought of counts involving violation by Medusa of the public trust and creation of a public nuisance.

Circuit Court Judge Martin B. Breighner has waived oral arguments in the case and has given the plaintiffs until February 1 to submit any additional legal briefs on the matter. Listed as plaintiffs along with the Attorney General are the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and WATCH, Inc., a citizen group formed last year to confront Medusa about the alleged dust problem.

In denying violation of the Air Pollution Act, counsel for Medusa state in their motion that a lawsuit against the company is improper since the state has failed to exhaust all other "administrative remedies" dictated by the act.

"The legislature did not intend that the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission or others should initially bring legal action under the Act to enjoin suspected violations," states the motion.

The motion also claims that the air in the Charlevoix area has been in constant compliance with the Federal National Ambient Air Quality Standards and cites data from high volume air monitoring units that have been operated in Charlevoix since 1972 by the DNR as substantiating that position.

"There is simply no evidence of any particulate problem in Charlevoix Township emanating from the Medusa plant," according to the document.

"It is Medusa's position," states the motion, "that any emissions which allegedly exceeded the imposed limitations occurred during periods of startup, shutdown, malfunctions or other problems when neither the emission limitations in the MAPCA nor those in Medusa's permit (to operate) apply."

Special effort in '83 doubled arrests of drunk drivers

by DAVE KNIGHT

Arrests of drunk drivers in Charlevoix County more than doubled in 1983 according to a report released this week by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

In an effort to crack down on drunk driving violations last year,

Sheriff's deputies made a total of 92 arrests in 1983, up from 44 the preceding year.

Sheriff George T. Lasater pointed out in the report that the increase in drunk driving arrests was made possible largely by a federal grant administered by the Michigan office of highway safety.

"The grant was for a county-wide effort by area law enforcement agencies to make the highway safe for the motoring public," said Lasater.

Of the total drunk driving arrests made in 1983, 61 percent involved residents of Charlevoix County.

About nine out of ten offenders were male and the most frequent age category of the offenders was 40-49. The next most frequent age categories, in order, were 30-39, 35-39 and 20-29.

By township, Hayes had the highest total with 21 percent; 14 percent of the arrests were made in Charlevoix Township and 11 percent in Marion Township. Lasater explained that these townships saw most arrests because of the major highways located within their boundaries. Thirty-one percent of the arrests were made on U.S. 31 alone, it is noted.

Twenty-six of the 92 offenders had been arrested previously for drunk driving.

Lasater gave special emphasis to the fact that legally intoxicated drivers were involved in four of the five fatal traffic accidents recorded in Charlevoix County during 1983.

Social Services Dept. has broad reach

by PEG OHLE

Years ago, when unfortunate men and women who could not make ends meet sought help from the local welfare office, they were tagged as being "on relief."

Today, people who can't cope with the problems of daily living may go to the Department of Social Services which offers many programs, both financial and service. They "receive help."

The help may be in the form of one or several programs to meet their specific needs.

One of the better-known assistance programs is ADC, which furnishes funds for families with minor children at home. Another is General Assistance, a program for adults without enough money to cover their basic needs. Medicaid is a medical assistance program, and Food Stamps supplement available food money and sometimes cover all family food costs. Emergency Services is a short-term emergency program for those facing eviction, utility shut-off, a weekend without food, and similar catastrophes.

In the services area, Adult Home Help provides chore services and personal home care for senior citizens, invalids, and others who cannot take care of their personal needs. Adult Foster Care is private home care in a supervised setting for those who can't remain in their own homes. Such care is given in licensed, ordinary, every-day homes. The Department of Social Services administers Grandview Medical Care Facility which houses 97 medical care patients. A separate wing at Grandview can provide 24-hour supervised foster care for 28 people who need some services but not medical care.

The Adult Protective Services Program protects vulnerable adults from being abused, neglected, or exploited by others. The Day Care Program for children provides supervised care for children whose parents are employed, attending classes, or who for some other reason can't be with them during the day.

Children's Protective Services deals with cases of abuse and neglect. The Prevention Program is a long-term extension of Children's Protective Services to prevent child abuse. The Child Welfare Delinquency Program cares for delinquents and other juveniles from the juvenile court who have been arrested for breaking and entering, car theft, and other crimes. The Children's Foster Care Program provides care in foster homes for those who are abused, neglected, or perhaps incorrigible. The Shelter Home in East Jordan provides up to 21 days of foster care, 24 hours a day for seven days a week.

ADC - 344 families monthly.

General Assistance - 150 families or individuals monthly.

Medicaid - (October figure) 537 persons received services valued at $182,647.

Food Stamps - (November figure) 308 families received Food Stamps only. Another 414 received Food Stamps as well as other aid. Food Stamps valued at $89,824.

Emergency Services - (November figure) $4,117 dispensed.

Adult Home Help - 66 families.

Adult Foster Care - 51 persons in 16 different foster homes.

Adult Protective Services - one on-going case.

Children's Day Care Program - 16 (October) through State care program.

Children's Protective Services - 30 on-going cases and approximately 12 referrals a month.

Children's Prevention Program - long term cases: Schedule only two or three a year.

Children's Welfare, Delinquency Program - 35 cases.

Children's Foster Care Program - 88 cases (through Juvenile Court).

Shelter Home - Houses three persons at a time on a temporary basis.

In addition, Social Services provides other indirect services to those in need; it licenses Foster Care homes; it evaluates individuals to determine the type of medical care they need; it handles the waiting list for Grandview; it houses the Youth Diversionary and Youth Activities Programs; and it brings together people with jobs to offer and those of their clients who must work to pay off debts to Social Services.

Overseeing the above programs is the job of two supervisors at the Department of Social Services. Bonnie Warden and her staff are in charge of assistance payments, and Vasco Zucchiatti and his staff are in charge of general services. They determine the eligibility of applicants for the many programs, based on income and ownership of real and personal properties, and follow through to see that everyone receives what he or she is entitled to, but no more.

Asked if it is true that some people fare better on Social Services payments and services than they would with a job, Ms. Warden explained: "We can help those who are employed at low wages with food stamps; a medical card, fuel assistance, and similar services if they qualify. There is no excuse for not taking a job."

As with most agencies serving the public, the Department of Social Services relies on volunteers to help deliver the services. Doug McComb is in charge of the volunteers who assist Social Services.

He says there are about 45 people who donate 130 hours a week to do what has to be done. Take applications to patients, teach money management, provide transportation for State wards to counseling sessions, doctors

AN UNOCCUPIED HOUSE in an isolated area of Marion Township was severely damaged by fire of unknown origin Saturday according to Fire Chief John F. Martin.

The fire was reported by neighbors, the John Giddings, who sighted smoke from the 1 1/2 story frame building. By the time the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department arrived, the roof and one wall had caved in. It is believed it had been burning for some time before it was discovered. The fire is believed to have started in the bathroom area on the first floor of the structure Martin said.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Deputy, Michael Wheat, who was the first to arrive at the scene said there was no evidence that anyone had been at the house.

The residence was owned by J. Don Schell of Dearborn. It is located on the Lake 26 Road.

Over 700 Charlevoix County families received food stamps in the month of November, 1983.

Knight on the Town

Winter of '51 revisited

By Dave Knight

In his column last week, Bob Knight recalled the frightful winter of 1951 which he spent at the U.S. Army's Camp McCoy in west-central Wisconsin.

Bob claimed to have survived temperatures as low as 43 degrees below zero that winter, a range of coldness that defies imagination. I wondered if Bob may have been slightly exaggerating, so I checked with a couple I know who happened to be at Camp McCoy that very same winter.

He was a young Army medical officer from Beloit, Wisconsin who had served one hitch but was called back into the service in November, 1950 when the Korean conflict flared. Bob was a former lab technician who he had met during his residency at a Chicago hospital.

They were married in June of 1950 and he had just established a medical practice in southern Wisconsin when the orders arrived to report to Camp McCoy.

Bob's completely accurate in his description of the Camp McCoy region as climatically inhospitable. Scoured by the elements thousands of years ago, it comprises what is known as the Driftless Area of Wisconsin: a barren expanse of sandy plains and scrub oak forest. When winter's fury sweeps down upon this wasteland from the Dakotas, there is little mercy shown.

Thus on the day in January, 1951 when the young medical officer and his wife started out for Camp McCoy in their Chevy coupe, they were hardly prepared for the brutal weather that awaited.

The temperature that particular day was indeed hovering around 30 below, they remember. So Bob was telling the truth. The drive north was harrowing. The Chevy rebelled against the bitter cold and on light snows she had to help him turn the steering wheel.

As the medical officer progressed it made its way into the record books as being one of the most brutal in the history of the state. Bob claims life at Camp McCoy's facility built for winter "rescue" training was particularly miserable, and the couple I checked with agreed wholeheartedly. They recall that one unfortunate recruit even froze to death while on guard duty.

Ellsworth blood drive set

To the Editor:

Give the gift of life - give the gift that can give you a good start at the Red Cross Bloodmobile January 31st, at Ellsworth.

The human body is an amazing machine. Each of us carries around inside a precious natural resource that only the human body can produce: that is blood. Even the latest technology only people can supply blood for each other. Ellsworth's blood drive depends on you. The Red Cross Blood Services, Wolverine Region, supplies blood to patients in 37 hospitals in our region. This means collecting nearly 150 pints of blood every day of the year. Your donation makes a difference. Blood is a different people live. Blood is a living tissue which can be stored for only 35 days. It can only be obtained from people like you who are community-minded enough to recognize the need and are thoughtful enough to meet it, and keep it fresh.

In the past the success of the Bloodmobile in Ellsworth has been exciting. We have donors who come in regularly and have donated more than two gallons. These generous donors are: Mary Beth Wallick, Marjorie K. Christensen, Ron Richards, and Ron Sowers. Our special thanks go to Keith Vander Ark, Ellsworth's blood drive coordinator.

Jacob Veestra, Marilyn Ayer, Ron Conkle, Larry Essenberg, Helen Essenberg, Colville Gardner, John Hastings, Dave Heeres, Harold Jensen, Jim Rozema, and Kaye Sowers. These folks, along with all our donors, have a lot to be proud of. Recently we've been keeping a tally of the husband and wives who come in and donate blood. Their team totals are: Laura and Marvin Peters, 20 pints; Joyce and Bruce Cullis, 2 pints; Pat and Ron Conkle, 12 pints; Marilyn and Jerrold Drenth, 11 pints; Sue and Stan Gardner, 8 pints; Carla and Stan Geym, 8 pints; Donna and Dave Heeres, 13 pints; Annela and Joe Nachazel, 4 pints; Mary and Mike Peterson, 4 pints; Maxine and Art Juie, 12 pints; Kate and Ron Sowers, 24 pints; Sue and Tom Tillotson, 4 pints; and Lyndell and Keith Vander Ark, 18 pints. Great teamwork!

Why not join your neighbors in giving the gift of life - giving blood at the Red Cross Bloodmobile in Ellsworth on January 31. Donors may give if they haven't given blood in the last 56 days, are in good health, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are between the ages of 17 and 66. If you'd like more information, please call 588-7741. This is an Ellsworth-Lionsess Club Service Project.

Return of the family event

MRS. NANCY WOOD of Charlevoix says she believes more families are "doing things together" than they have in the recent past - and she thinks it's an indication of the importance of the family unit. Of course, Nancy has no facts and figures to buttress her contention. It's simply that she heard of more folks planning family outings, family parties, family dinners, and family trips. And the families include not just mom, pop and the kids but grandpa and grandpa as well.

If Nancy has spotted a trend - and we hope she has - it will be the best news we have heard in ages. Too many functions of the traditional family have been usurped over the years by other social institutions, including churches, schools and various benevolent branches of government. But the family remains the basic building block of our society and so long as families remain strong, the future is in good hands.

Perhaps one of our benevolent branches of government should declare a "Family Week" during which all governmental meetings, recreational activities and social events would be canceled unless they involved the entire family.

appointments, etc., work in the office, or provide monthly recreation activities for foster home occupants. Last year, volunteers worked 6,786 hours for the Department of Social Services, receiving only remuneration at the rate of 19¢ cents a mile for transporting State wards. Some volunteers have been helping for as long as eight years.

McComb's Special Services division maintains a clothes and food closet for immediate emergency cases, and just recently obtained a building in East Jordan where it will be able to store much-needed household items such as beds and other furniture. He is also in charge of public relations, research, contract preparation (with such agencies as counseling centers, and environs are on their way toward setting a whole raft of winter records, including total snowfall and below-zero temperature days.

Charlevoix's snowfall for the season is around the 100-inch mark - more than our total snowfall during more agreeable winters. However, spring is still a long way off and a 30-inch winter is well within range.

February sometimes is snowless; but this winter is so unpredictable no one is making any bets.

Warmer temperatures Monday were a welcome relief, after so many days of below-zero readings.

FOR OUR MONEY, city crews and downtown merchants are doing a first-rate job of keeping the streets and sidewalks open. However, outlying intersections still pose a visibility problem; as do driveways with high banks on both sides.

Years ago, some drivers solved the visibility problem by affixing little flags to their radio antennas. But today most antennas are buried in the windshields and there is no place to attach a flag. One of those plastic whips used by bicyclists might work, if you could find some place on your vehicle to mount it.

In the meantime, take it easy at intersections. The driver coming around the corner is as anxious to avoid hitting you as you are to avoid hitting him.

MESEC, East Jordan Senior Center), and special assignments, including distribution of surplus foods.

Of course, all these services for the underprivileged cost money. It comes from many sources, including Federal, State, and local taxes, but the cash money and food stamps received by Social Services clients is spent within the area. (Estimated over $185,000 monthly for ADC, General Assistance, and the State's share of Supplemental Security Income, plus over $30,000 in Food Stamps.)

In fact, one local food store adds extra help on the day of the month Food Stamps are issued.

Social Services' biggest needs right now are more volunteers and more foster homes, particularly for children. The telephone number is 547-4471.

Letters:

School tax for pool unwise

Dear Editor:

Recently I have read that those of us in the Charlevoix school district should expect to pay half of our school taxes early to save the school district the cost of borrowing funds because they have the need for the extra money that would be saved in interest rates. This is commendable and understandable, although I have not heard anyone mention that the school borrows money at a much lower interest rate than those of us who might have to borrow to pay the taxes early. What this does, in reality is transfer the low interest charges from the school budget directly to the budget of many of the local property tax payers (and at a higher interest rate).

This in itself, I could understand...do not agree with it...but can understand.

What I cannot understand is, after we have been told of the need for the school to cut all corners and squeeze the taxpayers for these early tax collections in the name of maintaining the educational standards, there is talk of the school evidently willing to accept the additional expense, at least in part, of a new indoor swimming pool.

With all the talk both in the state and nationally of the inadequate basic educational skills of the current students and locally of the need for the extra funds it is inconceivable to me that any project in the nature of an indoor swimming pool for this area could be seriously considered at this time.

Today, more than ever, it seems we should be concerned with our children learning and mastering the basic skills. It seems with all the local foreclosures on mortgages in the area and the high rate of unemployment we should be more concerned with cutting back on frills to help people in this area to get back on their feet.

I would suggest that those interested in an indoor pool do what those who wanted to play indoor tennis or have a health club did, by putting up your own money and offering an investor (other than the pool taxpayer) and start a private swim club. In this manner those that want to swim in the winter and use the facilities are the ones that should pay for it. Why should some retired couple that does not like to swim and lives twenty miles from the pool be forced, through property taxes, to subsidize others' hobbies?

Good job on downtown snow removal

Dear Dave:

On behalf of the Charlevoix City Council and the citizens of Charlevoix at large, I'd like to extend our thanks to the Downtown Bridge Street Merchants and owners for the superb job of sidewalk snow removal they have been doing this winter. Though we have had a few problems here or there, overall I think we have some of the most walkable sidewalks in northern Michigan. It must be a blessing to winter business.

I regret that the City has not been able to keep the sidewalk open on either side of the downtown, along US-31. The equipment we currently have is simply not made to do this type of job. However, we are hoping to "purchase" more appropriate equipment before next winter. The patience of our citizens is appreciated.

Our experience with sidewalks downtown just goes to show how much can be accomplished when everyone pitches in. Keep up the good work!

Both industry and health can be protected

To the Editor:

As a 17 year resident and part businessperson in this area, I applaud and support any effort to encourage, attract and retain industry, and business to Northwest Michigan. A sound and stable "year" round business climate would certainly alleviate many of the economic woes this area has long experienced. I wish Messrs. Doyle and Poquette much success in their endeavor, and back them completely.

By the same token, however, it is the obligation of all such companies to be conscientious and responsible not only to their customers and employees, but also, to the communities in which they are located. When they neglect, disregard or defy these principals, especially after repeated requests and warnings over many years, then it is the right, the obligation, of the people to seek adherence and compliance via proper governmental procedures, i.e., the DNR and State Attorney General. I also applaud those who undertake that mission. There is something to be said in favor of retaining and protecting the number two industry in Michigan and our health.

Respectfully yours,
Richard J. Aull

City employee Jim Martin retires after 31 years

James Martin

James A. Martin, long-time city employee, was honored at a retirement party held at the American Legion post home Saturday night.

In attendance were members of the official city family headed by Mayor Kenneth A. Staley and their spouses, city employees and members of Martin's family including his wife, the former Clara L. Cummings, and their children, Connie L. of Grand Rapids, James A. of Brimley, and Gregory G. of East Jordan.

At the brief program that followed, Mayor Staley presented Martin with a plaque "In recognition of his 31 years of service with the Charlevoix Street Department. He was also presented with numerous retirement gifts by fellow city employees."

"Music for dancing was by the Mountaineers of Boyne City."

Martin joined the City Street Department in June, 1952, and during the ensuing years has worked a part of the year at the department. The late Leo Allard was street department superintendent at the time.

In answer to a question relating to the changes in the department in the past 30 years, Martin said "We have more and better equipment to work with than we had then. And the city has grown so there are many more developed streets than there were at the time." The number of employees, however, has varied little during the years.

"What are your retirement plans?" he was asked. "I've worked for a long time so I'm just going to take it easy, just putter and do some, visiting." He also plans to spend some time during the winter at their winter place in Deland, Fla.

Sharpening saws has been a hobby of Martin for his several years. He raises bees as a hobby.

Born in Charlevoix, and during World War II Martin attended the U.S. Air Force in Europe.

State-paid prenatal care may be on horizon

by PEG ORILE

The State of Michigan may soon declare that "prenatal care is a basic right of all women in the State."

With that in mind, a statewide Planning Task Force, including three members of District No. 3 Health Department, has been formed.

Dr. Brian Youngs, Director of the District Health Department, is on the committee to determine what would be required to develop an organization to deliver those standards; and Gerald Chase, Administrator of the District Health Department, is on a committee to look at the legal and financial aspects of such a program: private insurance, encouraging companies to cover prenatal care as well as hospital care, etc.

Altogether, the Task Force is made up of 30 men and women - legislators, physicians, representatives of hospitals, and those from other service agencies.

Chase explains that the program would cover women caught in the void between those who can afford private insurance and those who qualify for Medicaid. The high unemployment rate has left many without insurance who would otherwise have it, resulting in giving birth without prenatal care, a higher infant mortality rate, and the need for more postnatal care.

"Five million dollars spent for these in need would save at least that much in other costs," Chase said.

The project was included in the State budget last year.

Her interests also extended to membership in the First Congregational Church and its Mary Brewster Circle, Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star, Charlevoix Women's Club, Charlevoix Area Garden Club and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority with which she became affiliated while Albion College.

She has one son, Donald A. of Arlington Heights, Ill., and Fort Pierce, Fla. She also has three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Cameron celebrates 100th birthday

Charlevoix's oldest resident, Mrs. Jeanette Cameron, celebrated her one-hundredth birthday anniversary Thursday, January 18.

The occasion was celebrated at a party arranged by her sister-in-law, Mrs. P.D. Campbell, in cooperation with the Petoskey Nursing Center where Mrs. Cameron has been patient in recent months. Until February, 1983, she lived alone at her home at 103 Petoskey Ave.

Mrs. Cameron, the former Jeanette Campbell, was born at Whitehall Jan. 19, 1884, the daughter of Peter Dougall and Louis (Allen) Campbell. She came to Charlevoix with her parents at the age of 13 years. Her father was a Great Lakes captain and operated vessels out of the local harbor during the early years of this century. She was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and later from Albion College with a major in music. Following her marriage to Arba H. Cameron at Charlevoix, she lived in Chicago, Minneapolis, again in Charlevoix and in Detroit where they were at the time of Mr. Cameron's retirement. At that time they decided to make Charlevoix their retirement home and returned here to live.

Following Mr. Cameron's death she continued to live alone at 103 Petoskey Ave. until failing health and later a stroke made confinement to a nursing home necessary. Until suffering a stroke last spring, she was an avid bridge player. Following her return to Charlevoix, she had played the piano at the Sunday School for the First Congregational Church for several years.

Movie series featuring radio minister to start at Church of God

Questionable new life styles, the "tyranny of the urgent," the shifting of the foundations - they're all a part of an emotional climate which makes many moderns feel that they are "losing their grip," according to minister Charles R. Swindoll, senior pastor of the First Evangelical Free Church in Fullerton, California. But Swindoll is offering an alternative to today's dizzying changes, confusion, and moral uncertainty.

"There are some fixed points, and you don't have to be washed away in this tide of confusion," Swindoll says in a new film series called, "Strengthening Your Grip." The series is to be screened at the Community Church of God, 202 W. Hurst Street, in Charlevoix, on Sunday evenings at 8:00 p.m., according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

The series, challenging what Swindoll calls "the 80's," affirms leisure as an important part of life, warning both the workaholic and the "churchholic" that "fatigue is not nest to godliness."

Swindoll also warns that "too much church" can insulate Christians from the real world, in the fourth film, "Godliness: The Perils of Hush House."

Christianity," which will be viewed on February 19.

"Film Five is on 'Attitudes: Choosing the Food You Serve Your Mind'; to be shown February 26. Here Swindoll urges a mental diet of something other than 'media clutter' for anyone wanting to improve their outlook on life.

In the final film, to be viewed on March 3, the author-minister, deals with the crisis of authority which he sees in the land. "Taking personal responsibility for quelling our natural rebelliousness offers the only hope for what he calls 'talk-back, fight-back world.'"

The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Rayders survive scare, win 66-64 at St. Ignace

Charlevoix stretched its undefeated conference record to 8-0 Friday night but not without a thorough scare from the St. Ignace Saints in the closing seconds.

It would seem, and it probably did seem to the Rayders, that a six-point lead with 30 seconds left in the game would be a sufficient enough advantage to go ahead and enter the game in the "win" column.

But the Saints didn't see it that way and, with a little help from the Rayders, they almost closed the gap before the final buzzer. Twelve points by St. Ignace's Rob Flinn in the third quarter helped the host team pull within three, 45-42, going into the last stanza.

Flinn's 28 total points led all individual scorers with 10 for Charlevoix. Cole had 22 points, John Pearl 18, Tim LaBlanc 12 and Sloan 10. Pearl's 14 rebounds led the team in that category.

The Rayders' 50-104 overall record puts them still atop the Michigan-Huron-Schools conference standings with Cheboygan and Rogers City, both 5-3, tied for second.

The Rayders handed the Saints even one more chance to tie up when Dan Ruday

Judy's tops Independent League following double-OT win

Judy's Restaurant topped the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League following play last week after chalking up two wins including a double overtime victory over Kit Carson's who had handed the Townhouse its first defeat of the season.

During the week's Carson's defeated the Townhouse 75-45 and Erber-McKown, Ford up-ended Air Force 58-45 on Monday; County State Bank edged First State Bank 60-44 and Judy's defeated Erber-McKown 69-47 on Wednesday and, on Thursday, Judy's defeated Kit Carson's in a double overtime 68-62 and Wojan's won over Air Force 43-39.

Erber-McKown bested the Air Force 17-4, 29-20 and 41-30 before coasting to a 13-point win. Mark Oostmeyer Carson's defeated the Townhouse 75-45 and Erber-McKown, Ford up-ended Air Force 58-45 on Monday; County State Bank edged First State Bank 60-44 and Judy's defeated Erber-

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman basketball team split during the week, defeating St. Ignace 48-44 on Friday and losing to Gaylord 45-39 earlier in the week.

In Friday's game, the young Rayders took a slim first period 9-7 lead, increased it to 14 points, 24-14 at halftime and as much as 10 points at the three-quarter mark, 33-23.

However, in the final period the Saints took control with a 20-15 run, increasing the lead to 15 for Charlevoix to trim the Rayders' winning margin to four points, 48-44, at the buzzer.

At Gaylord earlier in the week, the Rayders trailed throughout the game 11-6, 17-16 and 34-23 at the quarters before going down by a 45-39 score.

Mark Johnston with 16 points paced the game for the Blue Devils. Terry Bonar had eight for Charlevoix.

Boys City will be at Charlevoix at 5 p.m. Thursday and East Jordan will be here at 7 p.m. Monday.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

As a respite from the winter snows, we present this picture taken many years ago of two old timers swapping stories in front of a tackle shop on the shores of Round Lake in downtown Charlevoix. Perhaps they were regaling each other with memories of winter in the "olden days". (Photo courtesy of Tinker Kirby.)

Girls beat Gaylord in VB

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team won over Gaylord 3-2 Thursday while splitting with East Jordan earlier in the week. The team will host Kalkaska Wednesday and East Jordan on Monday in non-league meetings and travel to Grayling Feb. 8.

On Wednesday the teams played the best three of five with Charlevoix dropping the first two 15-10 and 15-12 before coming back strong to take the final three 15-3, 15-4, 15-4 over Gaylord. Meg Fowler was top server and setter with Rhonda Buchanan taking spiker honors.

In the JV meet, Charlevoix took all three games 15-7, 15-11, 15-12. Jennifer Sell was top server. Coach Brenda Bryan said both teams played well. In the meeting with East Jordan, the teams played two matches, 15-4, 15-3.

Any Sell was the top server and spiker and Fowler the setter. The JV's won 15-3, 15-4, 15-3.

Youngsters' ski meet winners named

The winners in the recent Mt. McAusba Race League ski races held recently have been announced by Eric Lundteigen who sponsors the league. In the girls' division, winners in the 5-7 year age group were Melissa Mosher, Lindsey Tallberg, and Colleen Haveman who placed 1, 2 and 3.

Winners in the 8-9 age group were Kim Keller, 1st; Maria Tallberg, 2nd; Jennifer Gregory, 3rd. Winners in the 10-11 year age group which attracted 12 entries were Cheryl Miller, 1st; Susan Kang, 2nd; and Carla Hoffman, 3rd.

In the boys' division, Cam Carr was the only entry in the 4-5 year age group and therefore the winner. In the 6-7 year age group, Ryan Holmes placed first; Chris Seymour, second and Hoffman placed third. There were also 10 entries in the 8-9 year age category which was won by Brian Coolman with Brandon Jess placing second and Don Hoadley, third.

Seek renewal of millage

School election is Tuesday

by FRANK MARTIN

The voters of the Charlevoix School District will go to the polls Tuesday, Feb. 14, to vote on the renewal of a 15.35 millage levy for two years. The funds are earmarked for operation of the Charlevoix

Public Schools.

The millage election is necessary at this time to allow 50 per cent of the school taxes to be collected in the summer following the decision by the Charlevoix Board of Education to have a summer tax collection. The decision for this followed a straw vote in June 1983 which indicated, by a vote of 3-1, that voters in the district preferred a summer tax collection. Public Act 233 of 1982, for the first time, gave school districts the option of collecting all school taxes in the summer, 50 per cent of the school taxes in the summer or collecting them all in December as had been done in the past. When offered the choice, the voters opted for 50 per cent of all school taxes in the summer.

The major reason for collecting taxes in the summer is to do away with borrowing monies at high interest rates to support the cost of operating the school until tax revenues become available in January. The move toward a summer tax collection is to eliminate the borrowing once the normal tax flow is established.

For example in 1981 the school district found it necessary to borrow $125 million which resulted in $104,613 being paid in interest, money that could have been used for the purpose for which it was raised—education.

When the decision relating to summer taxes was being discussed, Steven G. Smith, a trustee of the Board of Education, said "We are doing this to eliminate expenditure of large sums of money for interest. I think people will realize we are doing this to save money. It is the taxpayer's money we are saving."

The decision to renew the 15.35 mills for two years was to give the Board of Education a more solid base for budgeting purposes. "Having an idea of the amount of revenue you can expect, gives stability to planning," a board member said of the decision. The decision to limit the renewal to two years rather than three years was because of the unstable economic climate of the times. "No one can force the inflation rate three years down the road. The millage renewal for two years seems a better way to go" was the consensus of the Board of Education. It was also indicated that the increase in the State Equalized Valuation of the district would remain about the same as in 1983.

In addition, an approval of the 15.35 mill levy for two years will eliminate the cost of a millage election in 1985, another saving to the school district.

The polls at the Charlevoix Elementary School on Division Ave. will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Char-Em included in vote

The Charlevoix-Emmel Intermediate School District, which the Charlevoix School District is a member, will conduct an election, for a special education millage renewal of 1 mill for three years on Tuesday, Feb. 14.

If approved, this will bring the total millage to support special education to 1.8 mills. The 1.0 mill is charter millage.

The special education millage helps the 12 local districts within the Char-Em District, in cooperation with the Char-Em District, to meet the state school law requirements for providing special education to the nearly 1,000 handicapped youngsters in the Char-Em District from infancy to 21 years of age. During the past school year, 149 students from the Charlevoix School district received these special services.

Since 1971, all schools in the state have been mandated to provide special education programs and services.

The Charlevoix-Emmel Intermediate School District provides the following required services to the Charlevoix School District: diagnostic services of a psychologist; a diagnostic consultant in learning disabilities; speech therapy; homebound and hospitalised teacher; an occupational therapist; and special education classroom instruction for students who require different instructional materials and equipment but represent such a small number of students that for any single school district to provide the services would be extremely costly.

Examples of programs available to students needing special instruction are: in-home programs for infants; pre-school programs for handicapped youngsters under age six; programs for the severely and moderately mentally impaired; a classroom for the deaf and hard of hearing; homebound and hospitalised students; occupational therapy; social work counseling and speech and language therapy.

The current 1.0 mill charter millage plus the renewal of 1 of a mill to be voted on Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Conditions great for Winter Cup

An abundance of snow at Charlevoix has created a perfect setting for the annual Winter Cup Festival the weekend of Feb. 18 and 19.

Jackie Merz, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, has announced.

Bo Soos, who manages the skiing activities at Mt. McSaus, will be in charge of the events which will include cross country ski races for all age groups on Saturday and downhill ski and bump jumper races on Sunday.

With the construction of the beautiful new cross country trails the entire festival will be consolidated in one location for the first time.

Registrations for the five kilometer cross country ski event will be accepted at the ski lodge from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Saturday with the races scheduled to begin at 12 noon at the Mt. McSaus ski area. The races have been divided into seven age groups: nine years and under, 10-13, 14-17, 18-24, 25-44 and 45 and over.

On Sunday, registrations for the downhill ski events will begin at 12 noon at the lodge with the dual slalom races getting underway at 1 p.m. These categories will include the Bunny race for the young skiers, 7-9, 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18. At approximately 3 p.m. following the ski races, the bump jumper events will get underway.

The Chamber of Commerce will provide medals for the top winners in all classes and events.

In announcing plans for the event, Mrs. Merz said "I hope we have a good turnout. The Winter Cup really is an event planned for local and area skiers. It is an opportunity for those who ski at Mt. McSaus to demonstrate their skiing ability and for cross country skiers to enjoy the beautiful new cross country trails completed only last summer."

More information may be obtained by calling the Chamber of Commerce office at 547-2101.

Grand jury indictment charges Michael, four others, with mail fraud in operation of phony building firm

A federal grand jury indictment, set to go to trial March 5 in Cincinnati, charges Charlevoix attorney John R. Michael and four other persons with mail fraud and conspiracy in the alleged operation of a bogus steel building firm out of Charlevoix in 1981 and 1982.

The 21-count indictment charges that Lowell J. Bayers and his wife May L. Bayers, David C. Dietz, Duane J. French, and Michael, a former Charlevoix County assistant prosecutor, solicited deposits or down payments on steel buildings with the full knowledge that no such buildings would be delivered and none of the deposit or down payment money returned.

According to the indictment, the business run by the defendants was known as Detroit Steel Pre-engineered Bridge and Building Corporation, the mailing address for which was 228 Bridge St., Charlevoix.

Forty-eight persons, primarily from Michigan and Ohio, were allegedly defrauded in the scheme after answering advertisements placed by Detroit Steel in Michigan Farmer and Ohio Farmer magazines. None of those listed as victims of the operation were from the Charlevoix area.

The indictment claims that Bayers and French would telephone people who responded to the magazine ads and arrange to have Dietz call on them to make a sales presentation.

The defendants are alleged to have deposited a total of $254,000 in deposits and down payments in banks in Pontiac, Oxford and Dayton, Ohio while "Detroit Steel" was in operation from about January, 1981 until February, 1982 when its "owners" had absconded with the records and assets" of the firm.

According to the indictment, Michael "deposited into his client trust account in Charlevoix approximately $65,000 in checks drawn on 'Detroit Steel' accounts, well knowing that the money had been obtained by fraud."

Michael told the Peotowsky News Review last week that he had no knowledge when he allowed his clients to deposit money in his trust account that it had been obtained by any illegal means.

The indictment, which came down in December, 1983, was the result of a year-long investigation by the U.S.

Attorney General's office and the grand jury. Arrests in the case were made last October.

Planning and zoning is one area of Charlevoix's city government that has seen more than its share of turmoil in recent years. A plethora of "zoning" variance requests, a complicated and often frustrating application procedure and lack of overall direction have been cited as some of the symptoms of an out-of-tune system.

At a unique joint work session on January 27, however, the three governmental units involved in planning and zoning in the city came to some unanimous conclusions on how to approach the problems.

City Council, the City Planning Commission and the Board of Appeals all agreed, among other things, that the commission should have a list of some part-time professional help and more clerical staff, that the master plan should be updated regularly and that the procedures required of potential developers be made more user-friendly.

The initiative to overhaul planning and zoning procedures actually began last year with a resolve by city council to turn over more responsibility to the Planning Commission.

The situation took an unexpected twist when the city council learned they could no longer act as the Board of Appeals, the body which addresses all zoning disputes in the city. That revelation came the hard way when the city lost a court case involving a variance request on the grounds that the city charter forbade council members from serving in other official capacities such as the Board of Appeals.

As a result, a new board comprised of local citizens was quickly appointed. But the efforts to transfer more of the planning and zoning work load from council to the Planning Commission and new Board of Appeals have apparently had only limited success toward solving all

BISHOP ROBERT J. ROSE, named last year to head the Gaylord Catholic Diocese, made his first visit to Charlevoix Sunday in that capacity. Bishop Rose presided over the confirmation ceremony Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic Church at which about 80 were confirmed.

More staff, updated plan recommended to ease planning and zoning snafus in city the problems with the system. "We do not have one planning problem. We have a host of them and they are all inter-related," wrote City Manager Robert Hunt in an analysis provided to participants in the Jan. 27 joint work session. "We have been asking our codes, our procedures, our staff and our planning bodies to do things they were never set up to do."

Hunt suggested that to adequately improve planning procedures in the city, a complete "overhaul" would be necessary, including a fundamental change in emphasis from piecemeal review of private development projects to formulation of standards and procedures. He also advocated the further strengthening of the Planning Commission and Board of Appeals and the addition of more professional and staff support for those bodies.

One point made by commission member June Cross and council member Ray Wood, and with which most meeting participants agreed, was that too many variances are being granted to the city's zoning code.

Walter Hufford, chairman of the Planning Commission, emphasized the importance of regular updates of the city's master plan zoning. "The zoning code needs drastic changes depending on what we want to achieve. Once our goal is fairly clear, it will become much easier what we have to do to achieve it."

Knight on the Town

Snowmobiles in Charlevoix.

This year's ample snowcover has richly rewarded the snowmobilers of Northern Michigan who sat patiently through last season's poor excuse for a winter, watching their machines sit idle in garages and on trailers.

For those who persevered without selling their sleds in frustration, the amount of groomed trails and other snowmobiling facilities in the North have never been better.

Many neighboring communities have taken advantage of the boom in snowmobiling by providing access routes to and through business districts and even special events for snowmobilers.

Should Charlevoix be looking for some of this (season) action?

That question was first posed by Councilman Bob Timms at City Council a couple weeks ago. Monday night, a more serious discussion was held.

Personally, I feel that the city could indeed explore some ways to better accommodate the snowmobiling crowd. A good, and fairly easy, start would be to designate staging areas on either end of town, places from which snowmobilers living or staying in town could start out for the hinterlands.

I am sure local motel owners and restaurateurs would appreciate having such venues available locally.

Some machine owners ask why Charlevoix does not allow sleds access to the central business district as other cities - East Jordan for one - have done. I would have to agree with Police Chief Jack Mol that the traffic patterns of Charlevoix, bottle-necked as they are leading to the drawbridge, make such activity very unsafe, especially with the high snowbanks that can hide even a full-sized automobile at an intersection.

Also, snowmobiles on city streets could unnecessarily threaten the quiet atmosphere of the city's residential areas.

Any snowmobilers with ideas on how the city can better accommodate them are invited to contact the Chamber of Commerce.

Costly justice

by PEG OHLE

In quest of justice, Liquor Control Commissioner Ales G. Legius was in Charlevoix last Wednesday, along with Tom Giachino of the Attorney General's office and Ken Swatworth, an investigator for the Liquor Control Commission.

They were here for a scheduled hearing on alleged violations of State Liquor Control laws by Castle Farms Management Corporation, of which Arthur C. Reibel is chief officer.

The hearing was convened at 9:30 a.m. with Attorney Norma Farhat of Farmington Hills rising to say that he was representing Reibel, who he had been informed the evening before, was ill. Attorney Giachino moved that the hearing not continue because Reibel's presence was necessary to conduct the hearing properly. He said much of his evidence had to do with Reibel's personal involvement in the alleged violations.

Glanching then moved that the Castle Farms liquor license be suspended until such time as Reibel is able to appear personally at a hearing. After some objections by Farhat, Commissioner Legius accepted the motion and adjourned the hearing.

This is the second time in three months that State officials have left Lansing to hear the charges against Castle Farms. On October 27, they met in Traverse City. After two of ten allegations of Liquor Control Commission laws were dismissed by the Commission, Farhat announced that he was not prepared to continue further, so the hearing was postponed to a later date, which turned out to be February 1.

After suspending Castle Farms' liquor license last week, Commissioner Legius commented that the Liquor Control Commission had made it as easy as possible for Reibel by scheduling the hearing in Charlevoix, but that from now on the Commission would proceed with the case as it best saw fit, possibly delaying another hearing until next fall.

Expenses for the hearings, which are paid by the taxpayers, include time and travel and lodging for the above-mentioned State employees as well as a court reporter. Also present at last week's hearing were six members of the Sheriff's Department, including Sheriff George T. Lassiter, four witnesses, members of the Neighborhood Watch, and several residents of Ironton, who are particularly concerned with activities at Castle Farms because of their proximity to it.

The hearings grew out of complaints filed against Castle Farms by Sheriff Lassiter last fall. The complaints included three counts of hindering or obstructing a law enforcement officer in making an inspection or investigation, three counts of selling intoxicants to minors, two counts of allowing consumption of alcoholic liquor outside defined areas of Castle Farms (these two allegations were later dismissed), and two counts of permitting alcoholic liquors that were sold for consumption on the licensed premises, to be removed from the premises.

Although Castle Farms has been in trouble with the State Liquor Control Commission before, this is the first time charges have been brought against it following investigations by the Sheriff's Department. All charges were connected with music theater productions at Castle Farms last summer.

Following suspension of the liquor license last Wednesday, Investigator Swatworth was ordered to "pick up" the license from the licensee. He was refused the license, so charges are now being filed against Castle Farms for that violation of the law, according to Sheriff Lassiter.

Modern farming is big business

by Bob Clark

Overheard at Barnard Grange Saturday night:
"If someone would just leave me two million bucks, I'd farm until it was all gone."

The speaker was Clayton Smith and the sentiment is one being expressed quite frequently in farm journals and the farm community.

It is no secret that the cost of farming is higher, if anything, than the cost of farm products - which, as expensive as they are, are among today's best bargains.

Smith says he can remember when the "best farm in Marion Township" cost no more than $2,000 or $3,000. But, fairly "average" farms today run into hundreds of thousands of dollars, not to mention the high cost of equipment and buildings.

He says you can spend up to $30,000 for a tractor or $50,000 for a "blue silo."

In light of the high cost of farming, it is remarkable that food prices have remained relatively low. Sometimes you can find milk on sale for about what it cost 25 years ago.

The secret, of course, has been increased productivity. The average farmer today produces several hundred more food per manhour than his father and grandfather, although he sometimes has had to mortgage his soul to do it.

Some of us are nostalgic about the "good old days" down on the farm, when hens clucked in the barnyard, dobbin pulled the cultivator, bibeep turned the cream separator and no farmer kept more cows than he and the boys could comfortably milk by hand before breakfast.

But those days are gone. Today's farmer works several hundred acres, maintains more power equipment than many small industries and uses a computer to calculate his livestock rations. The innovations have cost him money, but he has been able to hold down the amount of money you spend for groceries every Saturday.

Fortunately, most farmers would rather farm than do just about anything else. Imagine how much you'd have to pay for a can of beans or a loaf of bread if they didn't!

IT IS PAST TIME for President Reagan to rethink America's commitment to Lebanon. Over the weekend, an already intolerable situation has taken a grave turn for the worse and 1,600 Marine peacekeepers are caught in the cross-fire.

Although Reagan understandably wants to "save face," it is nothing short of folly for the Marines to remain when there is no longer a peace to keep. I am sure the world would understand if Allied troops pulled out, and let the Lebanese solve their problems by themselves - even if it means the fall of Amin Gemayel's Christian government.

More than 200 Americans already have given their lives in that seething wasteland. There is absolutely no excuse to shed any more Yankee blood. Lebanon is in the throes of a full-blown civil war and the United States is powerless to influence the outcome without costly sacrifices in terms of men and material.

A speedy redeployment to Camp Lejeune seems to be in order.

Letters:

Preventing tragedy

To the Editor:

In almost every community there are emotionally disturbed children, most of them intelligent, gifted, highly sensitive young people who find it extremely difficult to cope with everyday living. Medical science is now searching for the causes of this affliction and for the medication and treatment which will avert the kind of tragedy which occurred in our area recently. After months of intensive home care, a Charlevoix boy, who had been admitted to the Engstrom Children's Hospital at Traverse City, died by his own hand.

The death of a young person on the threshold of life is always sad, but especially so when the psychic pain has become so great that it is unbearable. And the agony of the parents is also great for they are forever haunted by the question, "Could the tragedy have been prevented?"

Until the discovery of insulin as a control for diabetes, children who suffered from this malfunction of the pancreas died within a few months after they were stricken. But for those who are emotionally disturbed, medical and psychological help is slow in coming. There is too little known about the condition, there is no wonder drug to correct the problem and there is a lack of understanding for the victims and their families. However, there is now an organization which has begun to provide support and respite for those with too heavy a burden to bear alone.

Christa-Maria, the mother of the dead boy, is well known as an activist, deeply concerned about the hazards posed by the nuclear power industry. She has spent long hours pouring over technical data and the research she and her colleagues have done has been recognized by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission as being helpful in addressing the safety problems of the industry.

Like many other American women, she has been a working mother though most of her research has been done at home. Not only has she been unpaid for her work but the research has entailed much out-of-pocket expense and her activities have been fully supported by her husband, Jim Mills. Crusaders for unpopular causes are often considered self-seeking and self-serving and so it has been through the Ages. However, mothers give of their time and energy not for personal gain but because they have strong convictions and the courage to stand up for what they believe.

Now, Christa-Maria's heart goes out to those young people whose inner turmoil results in strange and aggressive behavior or in withdrawal and depression. Her heart goes out to their parents who spend watchful days and troubled nights never knowing what the next hour may bring. Christa has said her last goodbye to her son, Nick, but it is her hope that "other afflicted" young people will be spared his fate and that their families will be given understanding in the communities in which they live. She has asked not

Ignoring the signs

To the Editor:

Too many people ignore the most important information on pollution and the courage of economic conditions as indicated by statistics. The idea that nuclear power is a clean is false. A major cause of acid rain is the use of millions of tons of coal in electric power to process uranium ore. The heavy shielding and disposal of radio active waste has not been solved. There is a report that radio active scrap steel has been found in four states.

The big question is: can we trust the nuclear industry to protect the public? The super clean-up fund is a mystery to a lot of people. The Federal banking system can print unlimited amounts of paper notes which are an obligation of the taxpayer and consumer. This is putting a bile on public credibility for the benefit of investment owned utilities.

The money managers of private owned public utilities try to involve government investments to bolster up their over inflated values. This is a condition created by high interest rates and the exchange of values by private stock holders that buy and sell wherever the profits are greater, regardless of the needs of industrial capital.

It is everyone's business to make political economy work for all the people. Every time you get utility bills think "What am I paying for?" Where is the dividing line between our public money and the money powered ownerships of something for nothing capitalism greed?

Community dinner

To the Editor:

I am writing to propose the formation of a community fellowship dinner. This dinner would be put on by mostly volunteers, possibly weekly or monthly. The menu would include mainly nutritious, home-cooked foods at a nominal fee. The approximate price of $3 would allow a family of four or five to have an inexpensive family dinner away from home.

what seem to be reasonable projects. The zoning code sometimes frustrates the objectives of the master plan.

I have blamed much of the code's inadequacy on the fact that many parts of it may have been copied from other communities, rather than developed with the unique needs of Charlevoix in mind. This frequently happens, he said, when volunteer citizens attempt to develop codes without professional assistance.

At the suggestion of council member Shirley Roloff, Hunt said he would look into the possibility of hiring a part-time planning expert whose talents might also be shared with the Charlevoix County area townships that have recently expressed a desire for professional planning assistance.

Also to be studied is the possibility of supplying more clerical staff for the Planning Commission.

New prosecutor Lieberman has roots in Charlevoix

by PEG OHLE

This week the Courier introduces Kraag Lieberman, who returned to Charlevoix last fall to take over as Charlevoix County Prosecutor.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lieberman, my sister, Kira Schapperkott, and my brother, Karl, who is a senior in high school.

COURIER: Other members of your family are also in law enforcement, aren't they?

LIEBERMAN: Yes. My sister, Kira, is with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and my brother, Karl, is with the Petoskey police.

COURIER: When did you decide to enter the law enforcement field?

LIEBERMAN: I had been in the law enforcement field since I was 16. I was really interested in it because the opportunity presented itself. I went to Alma College and majored in political science and English.

COURIER: Why did you like to do that? I would like to teach English at the college level. Then I took the examination to be admitted to the Detroit College of Law, and passed. I decided to try law school and liked it.

COURIER: What did you do after you graduated from law school?

LIEBERMAN: I worked with Legal Aid in Battle Creek for 18 months then went to St. Joseph County to work in the Prosecutor's office as one of four assistant prosecutors.

COURIER: Why did you apply for the Prosecutor's job in Charlevoix County?

LIEBERMAN: I had my eye on this job for a long time. I wanted to come back to Charlevoix and wanted a job in prosecution. It came at just the right time.

COURIER: Why do you prefer a job as Prosecutor to a private law practice?

LIEBERMAN: I enjoy law, enforcement and working with the police. It's more exciting than private practice. I'm in the court room more often and participate in more trials. I enjoy that opportunity.

COURIER: What is the job of a County Prosecutor?

LIEBERMAN: My main job is to prosecute criminal cases for the County. I also represent the County in civil matters. I am advisor and instructor to local police departments and represent them in civil suits.

COURIER: What do you like to do when you're not working?

LIEBERMAN: I enjoy being with my family. I like to participate in sports, and I like oil painting.

COURIER: Have you ever studied art?

LIEBERMAN: Yes, I studied art in high school.

Screening in schools to highlight Dental Health Month

by PEG OHLE

February is Dental Health Month, which brings to light some distressing statistics. Fifty percent of the population has never been in a dentist's office.

Of the fifty percent who have visited a dentist, only 29 percent are regular.

Thirty-nine percent of school-age children have gum disease. By the time a young person is 17 years old, he or she has an average of 12 decayed or filled teeth.

In an effort to improve these statistics, the Charlevoix County Dental Health Committee is celebrating Dental Health Month with a series of educational programs aimed at school children of all ages and their parents.

Children in the elementary grades will also receive dental screenings by local dentists. On Wednesday, February 15, Dr. John Merrill, Dr. Jeffrey Porter, Dr. David Strawbridge, and Dr. Robert Tollas will examine the teeth of children in the Charlevoix Elementary School and St. Mary's School in Charlevoix.

The noted author and minister observes that Jesus of Nazareth was "the most responsible person who ever lived, but a man of whom it was never said, 'He was in a frenzy.'"

Swindoll also says that church members need to pace themselves as much as the person with a busy office schedule to avoid the compulsive busy-ness which is easy to substitute for authentic living.

Young children and their mothers are learning about good dental health through the WIC (Women's, Infant's, Children's) program in the District Health Department.

Several organizations are furnishing toothbrushes to be given away at the screenings. The Charlevoix Lions Club is furnishing brushes for the Charlevoix screenings on February 15.

Ms. Price will be at Health Department offices in Belleair on February 15 and 27 to talk to the WIC group.

For the past few weeks, and continuing through February, the Dental Health Committee has children in Charlevoix and northern Antrim Counties. This has never been done before. Mary Ann "Moon" Price, coordinator of the program, explained.

The Dental Health Committee is also coordinating all resource material on dental health and will provide teachers with lists of this material. Service clubs are being asked to contribute toward the purchase of materials for school use. "We are going to write an in-service program for teachers to use next year," Ms. Price said. "Lots of interesting things are going on in dentistry. Dental disease is wholly preventable. People can now have 'fun' things done, such as closing gaps, repairing dental injuries, and cosmetic dentistry. We can all have beautiful smiles. Teeth are made to last a lifetime."

The Charlevoix JV Rayder volleyball team posted dual wins last week, defeating Central Lake 2-1 and Kalkaska 3-0.

The Charlevoix JV team won both their matches 3-0.

In the meet with Bryan, everyone played. Meg Fowler was the top server and setter and Amy Sell the top spiker.

In the JV match, Charlevoix won 15-3, 15-4 and 15-4. Ann Boulton was the top server, Jeffiner Sell, setter and Amy Antaya, spiker.

Wednesday's game saw Charlevoix meeting the reserve players of the Kalkaska Varsity squad. They defeated the visitors 15-7, 15-3 and 15-1 with Lara Stargardt the top server, Fowler, the setter, and Sell the spiker.

The Charlevoix JV's also won 15-7, 15-13 and 15-2. Antaya was the top server, J. Sell the setter and Boulton the spiker.

Charlevoix will be at Grayling, Wednesday, and at Indian River Monday.

Meg Fowler sets the ball against Kalkaska.

Boys and girls ski teams both top four-team meet

The Charlevoix boys ski team with 78 and Bellaire with 124. The Charlevoix girls ski team with 34 points, Boyne City second with 60, followed by Boyne City.

Soo with 118. The Charlevoix teams will be at Schuss Mountain Friday with Bellaire, Petoskey and Grayling.

Cochran said his team did well. Mark Trimmer and Christie Pace did very well. They have skied well all season. "Right now," he added, "everything is geared for the Michigan-Huron Conference meet to be held at Boyne Mountain Monday."

In Wednesday's meet, Christie Pace came in first in the slalom and second in the giant slalom; Nonie Pace, 2nd in the slalom; Sue Miller, 5th in the slalom and 3rd in giant slalom; Beth Revor, 7th in slalom and 8th in giant slalom; and Kim Smith, 8th in each event.

In the boys division, Trimmer was first in the slalom and third in giant slalom; Jason Brindel, 5th in slalom and 1st in giant slalom; Matt Dunkleberg and Keith Lagnell, 4th in slalom and 2nd in giant slalom; Jim Morgridge, 5th; John Marsh, 6th; and Sam Supernaw, 8th in the slalom and Brian Wilcox, 14th in slalom.

Independent league saw action-packed week

There was plenty of action in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week with a total of six games played on three nights as the teams brought the schedule up to date.

On Monday, Judy's Restaurant won over Air Force 55-45 and Townhouse, swamped Wojan's 90-44. Wednesday saw Kit Carson win over Erber-McKeown 89-43 and Air Force post its first win of the season, 38-36 over County State Bank.

On Thursday, Carson downed County State Bank 70-38 and Townhouse defeated Erber-McKeown 80-49. Judy's Restaurant trailed Air Force 13-12 and 23-18 for the first two periods before going ahead 37-29 as the second half got underway to defeat the Airmen by 10 points, 55-45. Jim Alger led the scoring with 21 points.

The Air Force 38-36 and Air Force post its first win of the season, 38-36 over County State Bank. Bank highlighted the action Wednesday as the Airmen overcame deficits of 10-8 and 16-13 to go ahead 25-24 going into the final period when they outscored the bankers 13-12 to post their first win of the season, Chris Clayton with 12 points and Alan Stuart with 10 points led the scoring for the winners. Larry Skippings had 14 for the bankers.

In the second game, Kit Carson led Erber-McKeown 18-13, 42-20 and 58-28 by quarters before taking the lopsided win. Vince Lopez with 20 points, Butch Klooster with 12 and Barney Way with 12 points paced the win. Mike Schmidt had 14 and Van Sloan 13 points for the Ford dealers.

Kit Carson rolled over County State Bank on Thursday with a score of 70-38. Vince Lopez with 25 paced the scoring with Mike Schmidt and Dennis Dominick adding 18 points each for Erber-McKeown.

The Townhouse jumped to a 24-10 first period lead and increased it to 46-28 at the half and 64-49 over Erber-McKeown at the three quarter mark before coasting to an easy win of 80-49. Chris Putman had 22 points, Dan Smith 13, Ward 12 and Barney Way with 11 led the scoring for Carson's. Larry Skippings had 13 for County State Bank.

Northmen no match for Rayders

As fully expected, the Rayders didn't provide much of a match for Charlevoix Friday night as the Rayders surged closer to a third straight Michigan-Huron Shore conference championship with a 66-48 home court victory.

And the score could have easily been even more lopsided had a few easy layups not ringered the Rayders.

Rayder playmaker Tim LaBlance did not let three early fouls bother him as he scored 23 points, 17 in the second half, to lead the team in individual scoring.

Brent Cole, his backcourt cohort, was right behind with 22 and John Pearl had 13.

managing to keep up for about five minutes, occasionally even finding themselves a couple points ahead. But the Rayders gradually picked up momentum and by the end of the first quarter held a 16-12 lead, a lead they never relinquished again.

By halftime it was 23-19 and at the end of three periods Charlevoix was up 48-36.

Doug Sloan controlled the boards with a team-high 14 rebounds in the game; Pearl had 11.

This week, the Rayders host the Harbor Springs Rams, 46 in the Ski Valley Conference, for a non-conference game.

Tuesday night, Friday night Charlevoix travels to Gaylord for a M-HSC match with the 5-5 Blue Devils.

Area Health Department to integrate all clinical services

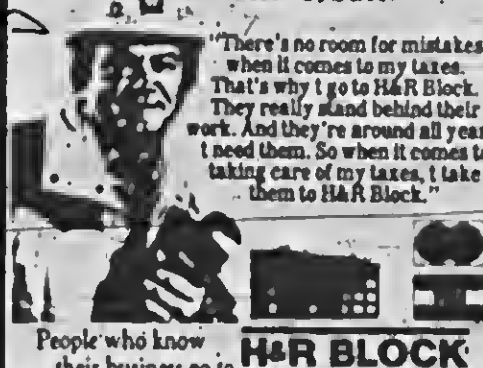

In an effort to provide better and more efficient service, District No. 3 Health Department has launched a program to integrate all its clinical services.

Immunizations, the WIC (Women's, Infant's, Children's) program, school nurses, health assessments, and Medicaid screening will be re-aligned so that all applicable services will be provided at the same time.

"Sometimes, a child may just receive immunizations and is scheduled to come back another time for a health assessment or Medicaid screening," Gerald Chase, Health Department administrator, explained. "Under the new plan, we will be able to give complete health care in one visit," he added.

The new plan has been approved by the State and will be in operation by the beginning of next year. As an indication of the number of children and their parents served by the Health Department, Chase said there were some 2,000 recipients of WIC help in the four counties (Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet, and Otsego) served by District No. 3 Health Department.

The 1984 royalty will receive their crowns at halftime during the Charlevoix-Grayling game on Friday, February 24, from the 1983 king and queen, Craig Klooster and Erin Campbell. Following the game will be a homecoming dance, semi-formal, at the Elementary School. Winter Homecoming festivities are sponsored by the Student Council.

Marion Township seeks county's help with gathering ordinance

by PBO OBLE

Marion Township, the home of Castle Farms Music Theater, has asked Charlevoix County to "adopt and enforce a county-wide public gathering ordinance." In a letter to the County Board, read at last week's meeting, Marion Township Supervisor Michael Bonar made the request with the explanation that Marion Township "has had problems with ordinance enforcement with Castle Farms and their rock concerts. What legal action taken was costly to us." Bonar further stated that "as a township officer, I hate to give up any ordinance and controls we have, but we feel the County could enforce a public gathering ordinance more effectively than the Township."

Relating to the Sheriff's Department's rule in handling that "The Sheriff's Department has a great expense with no recovery other than tax payers. With your enforcement, it may be possible to put a 'head tax' on the concert goers to cover the expense of the Sheriff's Department."

Bonar concluded his letter saying, "I know there would be favorable support from other townships, organizations, and individuals." The letter brought forth considerable discussion, especially on what to do about gatherings where no "head tax" could be collected, as in the case of the Polish Festival in Boyne Falls. "Any ordinance would have to apply equally to all townships and all gatherings," Commissioner Lee Moerland stated.

The County Board has asked the Charlevoix law firm of Poinier & Pajtas, P.C., to determine how other townships feel about a county-wide gathering ordinance.

Winter Cup still on

"If it doesn't rain hard we'll be in good shape for the Winter Cup this weekend," according to the latest report to Chamber of Commerce executive director Jacques Merta from Bo Boss, manager of the Mt. McSaba Winter Sports Park. "Unseasonably warm weather and some rain over the weekend have

Report on city's test well drilling is not encouraging

by DAVE KNIGHT

Prospects for development of a new municipal well system within or in close proximity to the City of Charlevoix are dwindling according to an update on the city's test well evaluation program presented to City Council Monday night.

Arthur Gosling of Gosling, Czabak Associates, the firm contracted by council last fall to study potential sites for a new well, reported that eleven locations identified as potential well sites in or near the city, six have been tested and ruled out, two appear doubtful based on other test data and three have yet to be tested.

According to Gosling, sites eliminated so far as unsuitable include the municipal golf course, the Charlevoix Airport (near the ball field), Depot Beach, Mt. McSaba, M-66 just south of the city and at the Chicago Club near the Round Lake shoreline.

Based on the findings of test wells at those sites, Gosling said he did not recommend drilling at either Ferry Beach or Michigan Beach.

Sites still considered by Gosling as possibilities include the south end of State St., the Belvedere Golf Club and the cemetery.

Council members agreed Monday night to continue the search with test well drilling at the sites yet to be evaluated.

According to City Manager Robert Hunt, the approximately $60,000 allocated last year for the well site evaluation project from an excess balance in the water tower fund has just about been exhausted. Gosling estimated that each new test well will cost about $15,000 and that to drill at all the remaining sites will cost up to $60,000.

The city is facing a deadline of May 1 set by the Michigan Department of Public Health to come up with a plan to deal with the contamination of the city water supply by the industrial chemical trichloroethylene (TCE), a suspected carcinogen. Hunt said Monday night that the most recent tests show TCE levels to be remaining within the 30 to 40 parts per billion range.

As further incentive to the city, the Pajtas to run for circuit court judge

Charlevoix Attorney Richard M. Pajtas announced last week that he is a candidate for 33rd Circuit Court Judge for Emmet and Charlevoix Counties.

Pajtas, a partner in the Charlevoix law firm of Poinier & Pajtas, P.C., is the second candidate to enter the race for circuit court judge, a position now held by Martin B. Breighner. Edward A. Meaney, 63, a Harbor Springs attorney, announced his candidacy earlier this year.

Candidates for the judgeship will face off in an August 6 primary leading up to the November 7 general election. Other prospective candidates still have four months to file nomination papers.

"Having been encouraged by several respected attorneys and friends in both counties, I have decided to become a candidate," said Pajtas. "I have been an active trial lawyer for the past 14 years which I believe gives me the experience necessary to qualify for the position."

Pajtas attended Illinois Benedictine College and Michigan State University. He received his Doctor of Law degree from the Detroit College of Law. From 1970 until December, 1975 he was a partner in the law firm of Shulaw & Pajtas in Owosso. He opened an office in Charlevoix in 1975 and in 1978 entered into partnership with Attorney Thomas Poinier.

Pajtas is a member of the State Bar of Michigan, the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, the American Bar Association and the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association.

He also serves as a member of the Representative Assembly, the policy making body of the State Bar of Michigan, as the elected representative of the 33rd Judicial Circuit. He is the Charlevoix County Public Administrator.

Richard M. Pajtas

Locally, Pajtas has served as president of the Charlevoix United Way and as president of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. He lives in Charlevoix with his wife Diana and two sons and is a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Weathervane, Leutheuser's both open under new management this spring

by DAVE KNIGHT

Two of downtown Charlevoix's most well known dining establishments will be opening this spring with new looks, new names and new management.

Joseph and Ricc Ricciardi, owners of Ricciardi's Restaurants in Eastport and Traverse City, have reached agreement to lease and operate the Weathervane Inn on the Pine River Channel, and Thomas and Julie Warth of Farmington Hills will be purchasing Leutheuser's Restaurant on Bridge St.

The Weathervane will be known as the Ricciardi's Inn of Charlevoix and Leutheuser's new name will be 218 Bridge Street.

Joseph Ricciardi said last week that extensive interior remodeling is now underway at the Weathervane and that the restaurant should be open for dining by about April 1. It is now open for cocktails and features hors d'oeuvres from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

No major structural changes are planned for the Weathervane. According to Ricciardi, the layout of the restaurant will be similar to what it has been in the past. There will be, however, new carpeting, extensive painting and cleaning, new furniture and a completely renovated kitchen. The exterior of the distinctive, 30-year old Earl Young designed building will undergo an extensive fix-up, said Ricciardi, but will not be altered in appearance.

The menu will feature the same Italian specialties as Ricciardi's restaurants in Eastport and Traverse City as well as an expanded selection of American dishes. The price range will be tailored to "family dining," said Ricciardi. Plans are to employ about 50 people and be open year round.

"Business-wise, the Weathervane has experienced some choppy waters in recent years. Last year, the previous owners, Balmer Rowe Enterprises, forfeited the property to the Charlevoix County State Bank following Chapter 7 bankruptcy proceedings. The bank assumed control of the restaurant in June and operated it as it continued the search for a buyer."

Developer Earl Young built the Weathervane in 1953-54 on the site of the former Argo Mill. In fact, the restaurant still rests on some of the beams from the old mill.

Ricc Ricciardi is leasing the property from the Charlevoix County State Bank but the option to buy rests with Lansing developer Joel Altman. Joseph Ricciardi said last week that he hopes to coordinate his efforts with Altman who plans to integrate the restaurant into a $6 million hotel-conference center on the former Finn Lumber and Fochman Oil Co. properties. Altman's master plan had included a renovated Weathervane as a vital

Medusa seeks permit for water discharge

The Surface Water Quality Division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is reviewing a permit application for the discharge of water from the Medusa Cement Company's quarry into the Lake Michigan shoreline. The permit is being sought by the company's superintendent, John K. Schmidt, for the discharge of water from the quarry into the Lake Michigan shoreline. The quarry is located about one mile south of the Township of Metcalf Creek and is a relatively small operation involving about six acres of the 30 acres bonded for mining. He said that approximately six to 30 feet of shale over the quarry is planned to be scraped off. Under the current schedule, mining could start at the site this summer, said Schmidt. Public comments or objections to the permit must be made by February 27, 1984 to the Permit Section, Surface Water Quality Division, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

Boy Scout Troop 11 celebrated the 74th Anniversary of Scouting at the annual Boy Scout banquet at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria recently. Attending the event were 30 members of the troop, Scoutmaster Bill Burns, Matthew Disson, David Salmonson and John Wiser, presented by Brian Granger, Northern District Scout Executive and the organization, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club. Highlights of the meeting were the naming of Robert Norman, Senior Patrol Leader, as Scout of the Year in recognition of his efforts in behalf of Scouting and the presentation of the Star Award to two members of the troop, Jim Smith, a candidate for Eagle Scout, presented the Scout of the Year award, Brian Phillips and Tim Salmonson received their Star Awards from their respective fathers, Robert Phillips and Tim Salmonson, who heads the Webelos Troop and Terry Salmonson, a member of the Scout Committee.

Other awards earned during the year and presented at the banquet were: First Class Rank presented to Harold Chase, Michael Smith, John Norman and Matthew Dixon by Gerald Chase of the Scout committee; Second Class Award, Louis Edwards who is beginning his twenty-sixth year as Scoutmaster of the troop, parents of the Scouts and members of the sponsoring organization, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club. Badges of Office were presented to patrol leaders, scribes, chaplain's aide and junior assistant scoutmaster by David Novotny, and the Scoutmaster.

The Scout Rank was presented to John Rathjens, Randy Wurst, Dan Terryberry, Steve Knist, Jerry Thayer, Edward Pitcher, Michael Ochs, Jarrod Vingling, Greg Seamon and Tom Berry by Gerry Chase of the Leadership Corps and Scoutmaster Edwards. Merit badges were presented to 28 scouts by Frank Schuch, John Ochs and Robert Rajewski of the Scout Committee; Skill awards were presented to 20 scouts by members of the Leadership Corps, Tim Salmonson, Gerry Chase, Jim Smith and Rich Thayer, which opened the program. The banquet closed with the Scoutmaster's Benediction led by Robert Norman. The Scouts are: Robert Norman, Senior Patrol Leader; Owl Patrol, Randy Wurst, Jason Wiser, patrol leader, Bill Burns, patrol leader, David Salmonson, James Gaskin, Webb Friedly, Edward Pitcher, Tom Gaskin, Brad Newton and F.L. Dammann.

Bergmann, John Ochs and Scoutmaster Louis Edwards. Boy Scout Troop 11 and those associated with it would like to express their gratitude to Oleson's Food Store and the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club for making the banquet possible and to the Charlevoix Public Schools for their continued use of its facilities.

Names In The News

Terry Salmonson of Aartvark Studios in Charlevoix is shown being congratulated for receiving the Best of Show award in the annual print competition of the Northern Michigan Professional Photographers Association. Larry Wyman, president of the Photographers Association, is holding Salmonson's print titled "Storm Watch." It is a color photograph of a October windstorm across the pier in Charlevoix. Salmonson, who had four entries in the contest, scored the highest number of cumulative points.

VFW Auxiliary to meet Thursday

The Auxiliary of the Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153 will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. Larry Finck, at 8 p.m. Thursday for a social meeting. At the recent business meeting held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Staley, the Auxiliary voted to sponsor four children at the Mt. McSaba Summer Day Camp, an activity of the Charlevoix Recreation Department, make a donation to the Political Action Committee to assist with veterans affairs in Washington, donate to the organization's cancer fund on a per capita basis and to the Statue of Liberty Restoration fund. They also voted to assist the post in the purchase of air fresheners for the post home and make a contribution toward the heating bill for the year. Numerous reports were presented: Mrs. Melvin Plum, 1.

Enclosed second deck will lengthen 'Star's' season

The Star of Charlevoix dinner cruises operated out of Charlevoix will be able to start earlier in the spring and go later in the fall following the enclosure of the entire upper deck of the boat. Workmen last week completely remodeled the pilot house and existing second deck, right in preparation for the refitting. The new design of the boat, shown below left, will accommodate about the same capacity of 250 but will provide heating and air conditioning on both decks along with a completely remodeled interior layout. The new pilot house, below, is currently being constructed in the rear of the Star of Charlevoix office. The "Star Line", started in Charlevoix three years ago by John McGoff, expects delivery this season of five more 160-foot dinner cruise vessels being built in Salisbury, Maryland. They are tentatively destined for ports in Detroit, Toledo, Washington, D.C., New Orleans and Chicago. Vessels are already operating in St. Petersburg and Sanford, Florida.

Overhaul puts ferry in the red

by PEG OILIE

Last year was both good and bad for the fronton ferry. It was a good year because the ferry provided $2,170 rides for automobiles and other vehicles; the largest number since 1976 and the second largest number in the history of the ferry. It was a bad year because the ferry operation ended up with a deficit of $47,265.76, the largest ever in the history of the ferry. However, a large part of the deficit was due to expenses associated with the extensive overhauling and repairing of the ferry carried out last year. Government regulations require that the ferry be thoroughly overhauled every five years, and 1983 was a scheduled year.

The fronton ferry operating statement for 1983 shows receipts from tickets were $50,182 and expenditures were $97,427. One of the larger expenditures was $27,281.32 to the Irish Boat Shop for inspection services. Another overhaul expenditure was $4,133.73 to rebuild the engine. The fronton ferry has been operated jointly by the Charlevoix County Road Commission and Charlevoix County, who share equally in the deficit. However, a County Transportation Authority has just been created, and when the ferry resumes operations this spring, it will be under Transportation Authority management. County Commissioner Lee Moerland, John Kojawski of the Road Commission, and Robert Sherman of East Jordan have been appointed to serve on the Transportation Authority Board. They will name a director to oversee operations. Because of the high deficit in ferry operations last year, Kojawski has suggested that the cost per ride be raised from $1.00 to $1.50, with a lower rate for users of ticket books. Kojawski and Robert Stone and Delbert Ingall, other members of the Road Commission, and Fred Welch, Road Commission engineer, appeared before the County Board last week to discuss the future of the ferry.

Davis rep sets hours

Congressman Bob Davis' district representative Bill Huber will be holding office hours in Charlevoix from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. in the law library of the Charlevoix County Courthouse on Wednesday, February 15. Anyone needing assistance involving the state or federal government is invited to meet with Huber. No appointment is necessary.

Knight on the Town

East Park under the microscope

Of the many natural jewels in Charlevoix's crown, East Park is surely one of the brightest. As a focal point for community functions, as an inviting haven for visiting boaters and motorists and as a pleasant place just to lie on the grass and watch the world go by, East Park is a mighty special piece of real estate.

When the idea of locating an ice skating rink in the park came up a few months ago in a joint meeting of the Recreation Commission and the City Council, many initial reactions to the concept were highly favorable.

The Downtown Development Association (DDA) was assured the task of studying the possibility. DDA chairman Dr. Jeffrey Porter, who as a city councilman fought constantly for careful use of the park, realized the impact something as substantial as a skating rink would have on the other functions of East Park.

The time is ripe, he decided, for a comprehensive evaluation of East Park - what about the park, if anything, can be improved and what should not be tampered with. The result was a workshop held Saturday morning at City Hall at which Porter and John Campbell of Site Planning Development led about 25 interested citizens through an idea-gathering process.

Nobody panic - nothing was decided at the session. It was just an informal opportunity for people to air their likes, dislikes and ideas for improvement of the park. Some of the opinions that appeared to enjoy somewhat of a consensus included the following:

- That the appearance of the fish pond could be improved by replacing the bright blue paint job with a more rustic, natural setting like boulders and shrubbery.

- That the shuffle board courts could be moved to another, less heavily used sector of the park such as near the dockmaster's office.

- That nothing interfere with the openness of the park.

- That rest rooms could be installed in the sewage pumping station near the Mesquite instead of anywhere in the park.

- That the band stage be repaired and possibly redesigned.

Though there was not a clear consensus on the issue of an ice rink, the point was made by more than one participant that not much level space is available for such a project. No firm proposal for the precise location of a rink came out of the session.

A follow-up on Saturday's workshop is planned for 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday, February 25 at City Hall. If you've read something here that disturbs you or if you have some ideas you'd like to contribute, be there.

POPULATION: THAWING OUT

Clockwise

Keep looking up

by Bob Clark

A word of caution: If the ice on your roof hasn't melted already, don't stand under the eaves. A cascading glacier could drive you into the ground like a tent stake.

and the walk was a meandering path between high snowbanks. Now you can actually walk from the house to the street on concrete without losing your way.

I heard about several close-calls over the weekend. One fellow said a chunk of ice poked a hole right through the planking on his deck.

Miss Frances Milner said she awoke Saturday night to what she thought was thunder. Sunday morning she discovered a gigantic slab of ice had fallen off the roof landed just outside her back door.

Kendall Stanley of Petoskey thought he'd fix barbecued chicken in his Weber cooker on the deck. Only a chunk of ice beat him to it, fattening the cooker and dislodging the deck railings. The cooker is now a Chinese wok.

THE JANUARY THAW is a month late, but it sure brought Charlevoixans outdoors in droves over the weekend. The air even smelled like spring as the mercury nudged 50 degrees.

City streets emerged from their winter sheathing of ice and snow and floods - major and minor - developed in low spots.

Judy and the kids spent a good deal of time chipping away at the packed-down snow and ice on the front walk. For some reason, it is more fun creating ruts, rumbles and waterfalls with a garden spade during a spring thaw than it is shoveling snow in the dead of winter.

Until the warm weather set in, our front steps had all but disappeared.

of course, winter is far from over. We could still have two or three full-blown blizzards before spring arrives for good. But this little taste of what's ahead surely has been welcome.

MRS. CONNIE FORD has done a first-rate job of mobilizing her high school drama students into a first-rate theatrical troupe. When "West Side Story" ended Saturday night there was hardly a dry eye in the audience - which must have numbered close to 1,000.

The students are hoping that proceeds from the home show will allow them to spend two nights at the state finals in Kalamazoo next weekend. Instead of one as originally planned. I hope so too, because they certainly deserve a holiday on the town after the long hours they have worked on "West Side Story."

Mrs. Ford, of course, credits not only the kids but also their parents for all the help she received, including Mr. and Mrs. Alva Nisbet, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buday, Mrs. Sheila McLelland, Mrs. Norman Carlson and Mrs. Vince Olach.

They were always there when needed during rehearsals and no task was too large or too small.

The results won't be posted until next weekend, but Mrs. Ford and her crew are already state champs in my book.

Letters: Cookies

To the Editor:

Charlevoix Girl Scouts recently took their annual cookie orders. The orders were early this year due to area spring breaks.

The cookies will be here for delivery Feb. 28-March 1. If you were missed with orders there will be extra cookies for sale at that time. You may contact Pat Dillworth, the Charlevoix Cookie Chairman at 547-4910 and she will give your name to a girl in your area.

The Charlevoix leaders and scouts would like to thank all of you that ordered cookies for supporting Girl Scouting.

This year each troop had a volunteer from the community to handle all the cookie paperwork. We would like to extend a big thank you to the following people: Vicki Sandow, Cindy Urban, Joan Carlson, Diane Crandall, Laurie Drury, Beth Balich, Jackie Thorp, Marlene Creswell, Dorin Parkas and Pat Dillworth.

Training session set for County Hospice

A training program for people interested in working with Charlevoix County Hospice will begin Monday, February 20 at 7 p.m. at the East Jordan Family Health Center.

The training program, open to 15 people, will be held each Monday and Wednesday evening from Feb. 20 through March 21 with the sessions alternating between the East Jordan Family Health Center and the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Charlevoix County Hospice began offering services to people with terminal illnesses last fall. A community-based hospice, the Charlevoix County organization relies on volunteers, both professionals and lay persons, who help the terminally ill and their families. Volunteers are the key to success for Charlevoix County Hospice, a not-for-profit organization.

According to Hospice Director Margaret Lasater, volunteers are needed in many areas. Some volunteers will work directly with patients and their families, performing "good neighbor" type services which may include writing letters, reading or just being a companion to the patient, or running errands or helping with the cooking and other chores for the family. Also needed are volunteers to assist with fund raising and administrative work.

The five-week training program will introduce volunteers to the hospice concept and will include sessions on death and dying, bereavement, patient care, how to be helpful, to hospice patients and their families, pain control, nutrition and discussions with physicians, dentists, counselors, nurses, lawyers and other professionals who have volunteered their time to hospice.

Anyone interested in learning more about hospice and this training program should call Charlevoix County Hospice at 536-7942.

combined to make the Winter Cup plans "rather tenuous." Until the weather warmed up late last week, snow conditions were ideal for cross country events planned for Saturday and the downhill ski and bump jump races scheduled for Sunday.

As of Monday afternoon, it was agreed to go ahead with all planned events, said Mrs. Merta.

Registration for the cross country event will be from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Registration for the downhill events following day will be at 12 noon with races to start at 1 p.m.

There will be five categories for the downhill ski events beginning with the bunny class, the small fry, and going through the 18 year-old age-group. Medals will be awarded to the top three winners in each class.

The bump jumper event is open to all comers with races for time and distance scheduled. These will follow the ski events at approximately 3 p.m.

In announcing the plans, Mrs. Merta extended an invitation to all area skiers to join in the Winter Cup. Further information can be obtained from the Chamber at 547-2101.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Brent D. England

Sonnenberg - England

Debra J. Sonnenberg and Brent D. England exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, February 4, at the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Gus) Sonnenberg of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom, who is stationed with the Air Force in Marquette, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne England of Rockford, Illinois.

The Reverend David Vingling officiated at the double-ring rites before approximately 100 guests. For the occasion, the altar was decorated with white gladioli, pink and white carnations, baby's breath and greenery. The bride wore a long dress of wine colored polyester with a white pinnaflore and carried a basket of wine and pink carnations and baby's breath. David Sonnenberg, a nephew, was ringbearer.

Craig England of Rockford served as best man. Dave Deibel, Scott Irwin, and Eric Wittner, all of Rockford, assisted as groomsmen. Fred Sonnenberg of Petoskey, the bride's brother, and Michael Engle of Edwardsburg were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Elizabeth Humphrey and vocalist Mae Charbeneau, who sang "Time for Joy," "Evergreen," and "Our Father."

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Petoskey Holiday Inn following the ceremony. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Country Star Restaurant. Following a trip through southern Michigan, the newlyweds are at home in Marquette, where the bridegroom continues to serve in the Air Force. The bride is a part time student at Northern Michigan University and is employed part time in a restaurant. Their address is 2225 Presque Isle, Apt. 10, where wine colored gowns of lustrous Marquette.

For Saints and Sinners

by Rev. Milton B. Walton

Groundhog Day has come and gone. Here, at least there was no sun, while a few hundred miles away in Punxsutawney, Pa., it was supposed to have seen its shadow harboring another six weeks of winter.

I, for one, am ready to see winter cash in its chips. While many revel in the winter sports, I guess I'm past that stage in life. I'll take the summer with all its heat. Meanwhile there is all this snow. What can we do about it?

We can bless it or we can curse it. Whether we do or not is beside the point, the snow will still be there.

My enjoyment is going to depend on my attitude concerning it. To those plowing it, it's a blessing; to those getting stuck, it's a curse. To those sliding down hills, it's a blessing; to those trying to drive up that same hill, it's a curse.

Life is a lot like that. To some it's not worth living - to others it's what makes them tick. To some everything seems to go wrong while others find it's what goes wrong that provides them a means a livelihood. It's all in your point of view.

St. Paul once said, "I have learned that whatever condition I am in, therein to be content." In other words, learn to live with your situation.

So, I'll look beyond the snow to those days when the crocus forces up its blossom, maybe even in spite of the snow. If we didn't have snow we wouldn't have the flowers. Now that makes it all worthwhile. You see, it's all in your point of view.

Fleet Reserve to hold essay contest

The Charlevoix Branch No. 152, Fleet Reserve Association, has announced plans for an Americanism Essay Contest open to all students in the seventh through the twelfth grades in all schools in the area from Wexford County north to the Straits of Mackinac and from the shore of Lake Michigan east to 175° according to Fred Parsons of Bay Shore, president of the recently organized branch.

The theme of the essay contest is "Why I Am Proud To Be An American".

Each entry will be on the above-mentioned theme and shall be limited to 300 words. All entries will be judged by grade. Each student is allowed one entry.

Each entry must be legibly written, printed or typewritten on one side of the paper only.

Entries must be accompanied by a sheet of paper containing the entrant's name, address including zip code, telephone number, school name and grade, Social Security number (if any), parent's or guardian's name (and Social Security number if student has none) and the name of the sponsor: Charlevoix Branch No. 152, Fleet Reserve Association.

Entries must be mailed to Fred Parsons at R-3 Box 363F, Burnett Rd., Charlevoix, MI 49723. Entries must be postmarked no later than March 23.

The essays judged as the best three in each grade level in the Branch competition will be forwarded for consideration to the 15 state regional level along with those from other branches in the North Central Region.

Regional winners in each grade level will be selected with the winners receiving $200, $100 and $75 Savings Bonds. A $500 Savings Bond will be awarded to the best overall regional winner.

The top three winners in each grade level on a regional level will be forwarded to the National Americanism Committee for judging.

The top three winners in each grade level will receive $100, $75, and $50 Savings Bond with the best overall winner receiving a $1,000 Savings Bond. The results of the contest will be at the annual convention of the Fleet Reserve Association to be held in Hawaii in September.

For additional information call Mr. Parsons at 616-547-3529 after 5 p.m.

SAM C. CAMPBELL

Funeral services for Sam C. Campbell, 70, retired Norwood Township dairy farmer, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Walter Hastings of the Community Church of God officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Campbell died unexpectedly Feb. 14 in Darlington, Tex., where he was spending the winter.

Born in Keota, Okla., June 5, 1913, Mr. Campbell lived in Oklahoma until coming to Norwood Township in 1944. He operated a dairy farm until retiring in 1973. He was married to the former Pauline Goddard in Oklahoma Oct. 9, 1931. She preceded him in death Nov. 9, 1979. On Feb. 4, 1983, he was married to the former Irene White at LaFeria, Tex. He was a member of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix, and the Michigan Farm Bureau and a former member of the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

Surviving are his wife, Irene, of Charlevoix and Madill, Okla.; one son, Howard L. of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a sister, Irene Lane of Chocoma, Cal.

The family suggests memorials to the Community Church of God.

Man faces 4 charges following party bust

CHARLEVOIX—William Bernard Grobbel Jr., 22, of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township, was released on $2,000 personal recognizance bond Saturday after he appeared in magistrate court on charges of possession of obscene material, contributing to the delinquency of minors, selling and furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors and a firearm violation.

Grobbel surrendered to sheriff's deputies voluntarily.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater said charges stem from a party at Grobbel's home in Charlevoix Township Jan. 28 involving 45 youths who were remained to the custody of their parents or guardians.

Grobbel will appear for arraignment in 90th District Court on the charges at 10 a.m. Tuesday, March 6.

Father Thomas Schmedel

Capuchin priest to preach at EJ services

Capuchin Father Thomas Schmedel will preach at the Masses at St. Joseph Catholic Church, 227 Nicholas, East Jordan, on Sunday February 26, to open a six day parish mission. He will conduct special mission services in the church each evening until the mission closes March 2. The evening services will begin at 7:00 p.m.

In announcing the mission, Father Joseph Lima, C.P.P.S., pastor of St. Joseph's, explained to the parishioners that his mission would be a week-long reminder to everyone to be a witness to Christ and His Gospel Message in their daily living. "This Capuchin missioner will help us review the basics of our Christian Faith so that we can more fully understand the implications of our commitment to live as Christians. He will help us look at how well we

This warmly-clad group of men, women, and children seem to be waiting for something to happen, probably a toboggan ride. While the location of the gathering is difficult to determine, it was probably top of the south hill on

Sr. citizens were served over 2,500 meals in January

by PEG OHLE

Senior citizens of Charlevoix County were served 2,575 meals during January by the County Commission on Aging (COA). Under its Nutrition Program, the COA serves noon-time meals at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria, East Jordan Senior Center, and Boyne City Senior Center. In Charlevoix, the meals are served at 12 noon five days of the week. On Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, in East Jordan and Boyne City, they are served at 12 noon five days of the week.

The meals are available to all senior citizens regardless of income and are designed to provide a social happening for those who might otherwise be eating a non-nutritious snack alone at home. A donation of 60 cents is asked from each participant. Transportation to and from the meal location is furnished by the Charlevoix County Transit system upon request.

For those who are home-bound, meals are delivered to their homes on the same days and at the same time as the other meals are served. The same donation is requested. Senior citizens needing this type of service should call the Commission on Aging at 547-7301.

During January, 345 meals were served in Charlevoix, 268 in East Jordan, and 692 in Boyne City. In addition, 117 meals were home-delivered in Charlevoix and 555 in East Jordan and Boyne City.

The staff of the Charlevoix High School cafeteria prepares the meals in Charlevoix, while the East Jordan and Boyne City meals are prepared in the kitchen of the East Jordan Senior Center and delivered to Boyne City by Transit System bus.

Money for the Nutrition Program comes from a United States Department of Agriculture grant, in-kind donations (surplus food, facility donations, volunteer labor, etc.), and donations by program participants.

The current annual budget for the Charlevoix County Nutrition Program is $83,706, broken down into $51,519 from the USDA, $7,478 in-kind, and $24,709 from project income.

The Charlevoix Board of Education charges the COA $1.50 for each meal it serves, while the East Jordan and Boyne City meals are charged on a cost basis. The average cost for each meal served in Charlevoix County during the fiscal year to date was $1.56, for which participants donated 71 cents a meal.

The cost per meal includes rental of the East Jordan Senior Center dining room, salaries of cooks and other kitchen employees, cost of raw food materials, maintenance of equipment, cost of supplies, and cost of meal delivery.

For Feb. 28 at the V.F.W. Post in Charlevoix has been cancelled according to William Knapp of Petoskey, director of Human

Irwin proposes tax incentives for privately held forestlands

Naming forestry one of his personal priorities for this legislative year, State Senator Mitch Irwin (Sault Ste. Marie) today introduced legislation to provide tax incentives for privately held forestlands which are managed properly.

"This legislation was initiated by the Michigan Forest Association," said Irwin, who explained that the bill was introduced last session but finds stronger support this year.

The measure would allow qualifying forestland owners an annual tax credit if they develop and follow a proper management plan for their timber stands," Irwin said. "The state will pay a percentage of the ad valorem taxes for forestland enrolled under the act," he continued, "and a higher percentage for land that is open to nonmotorized public recreation."

"In return, the landowner agrees to administer the land according to a plan approved by a registered forester and submitted to the DNR."

According to Irwin, the landowners also pay the state, a yield of 5 percent of the total stumpage value at harvest. "Governor Blanchard has also targeted forestry as one of our top growth industries in Michigan," said Irwin. "Any stimulus the state can provide for our renewable forestry land that is open to nonmotorized public recreation."

Knight on the Town

The man who hates spring

by Dave Knight

On one of those bright, lovely 50-degree days last week, we happened to run into Mr. Edmund L. Frobscher who bills himself as The Man Who Hates Spring. Naturally he was dependent about the weather but we got a few responses from him anyway.

Courier: The sun is out, the snow is melting, the Tigers are getting ready to head for Lakeland...for someone who hates spring, this must all be very depressing.

Frobscher: It is.

Courier: Most people look forward to spring.

Frobscher: I know.

Courier: The birds start singing...

Frobscher: I don't like birds.

Courier: The grass turns green...

Frobscher: I don't like the color green.

Courier: Surely there must be something you like about spring.

Frobscher: Nothing that I know of.

Courier: How have you developed this unusual attitude?

Frobscher: I think it's because of all the crazy things my wife makes me do in the spring.

Courier: Could you give us an example?

Frobscher: Well, for one thing, she makes me take out these big pieces of sort of a thin wire mesh stretched on wooden frames and has me put one on each of the windows of our house. It's a very hard job. Takes a long time. Dangerous, too, to climb up and put those wire things on the third floor windows.

Courier: Are you talking about screens?

Frobscher: Is that what you call them? Never could figure out what the heck they're good for.

Courier: They keep bugs out when the windows are open.

Frobscher: Really? That's a pretty good idea.

Courier: What else does your wife make you do in the spring that is so dreadful?

Frobscher: Well, she insists I wash the car.

Courier: That shouldn't be such a tough assignment.

Frobscher: Are you kidding? It usually takes me about two or three weeks and there's so much lifting.

Courier: Lifting?

Frobscher: Sure. Can't drive the car into the house, you know. So you have to unbolt every fender, every door, every quarter panel, hood, bumper, grill, windows, take 'em inside and wash 'em down, dry 'em, take 'em back out and put 'em back on the car. The roof is a real bugger to get on and off.

Courier: Why don't you just use a hose?

Frobscher: A hose?

Courier: Yes, and a bucket of soapy water.

Frobscher: Just a minute, let me write this down.

Courier: Then you can wash the car right in your driveway.

Frobscher: Gee, I never thought of that.

Courier: Maybe now you'll look at spring differently.

Frobscher: Oh, I don't think so.

Courier: Something still bothers you?

Frobscher: Well, cutting the grass isn't much to look forward to either.

Courier: We're afraid to ask why not.

Frobscher: I don't mind having to sharpen the scissors so often but my knees get very sore by about the second day...

Letters: Seeking relatives

To the Editor:
I am writing to ask your help in locating descendants of Samuel Washburn and Susanna Sager, as there will be a Reunion for them July 21, 1984. It will start at 8 a.m. at the Town Hall in Elk Rapids, MI. For more information they may write or call me - 913 E. Dill Dr., DeWitt, MI 49820, (517) 664-9726.
Samuel had five sons and three daughters who came from Canada to the Central Lake area around 1877-1882. They were William, Frederick, Samuel and Sanford (twins), George, Willet, Mary Ann who married Andrew Emans, Maria who married William Tyler and Sarah who married Philip Tyler. Some descendants of each have been found. They are scattered all over the state and probably in your area, but we do not have addresses, nor all the names yet.

There were two sons, Daniel and Lewis and two daughters, Louisa and Maloune. That we thought remained in Canada, but now we wonder if their descendants aren't in the U.S. somewhere?

I am a descendant of Willet and have been gathering Washburn "cousins" for 3 years and have about 1300 living descendants on record and know there are a lot more to be found. Especially new descendants of Lucy and Henry Blakeley, Annie and Dell Drake and Earl Drake, Steve Emans and Joe Emans.

If they are unable to attend the Reunion and have not been contacted by me for info on their family, I would urge them to please contact me.

Burning correctly...

Sweeps, the first chimney sweep business between Traverse City and the Upper Peninsula.

What began as a solo operation, now employs three other sweeps, covers a territory from Eastport at the top of Torch Lake, to Mackinac Island, and accounts for some 4,000 chimneys cleaned.

Many home owners, still intrigued by the idea of the top hatted fellow on their roof, receive unexpected lectures in their living rooms.

"Go outside and look at the smoke coming out of your chimney. If there's a lot of smoke, you are part of the pollution problem," Loding tells his customers.

The blame, he says, can be placed on the newer air-tight, wood stoves, their over zealous sales boosters, improper installation and home owners who don't burn wood efficiently.

"Loding talks of 'disasters'." "If there's a lot of smoke coming out of your chimney, you are contributing to air pollution, crocodile is building up in your chimney, you may have a chimney fire, and you are wasting a natural resource," he says.

The solution is in changing wood burning habits.

"What most people find is they must use less wood and let more air get to the fire. You will get the same heat as if you filled the stove with wood, but more air will produce better combustion."

"The manufacturers' and salesmen's rallying cry has been 'air tight stoves from Europe'."

"It may not be a conscious rip off," he argues, "but most wood stoves are overbuilt for the amount of wood most people burn."

"Traditionally, in a European home, someone is home during the day to add wood to the fire. They don't leave at 7 a.m. to be gone all day."

The problem is, according to Loding, a smoldering fire, left unattended, burns slowly. The combustion is incomplete. The smoke, which is wasted fuel, rises through the chimney, leaving gobs of soot behind, to become layered in impenetrable glazes.

"The smoke, with carbon monoxide and particulate matter contains a number of cancer causing agents."

The pollution problem is so serious in the west, legislation may limit wood stoves or require catalytic combustors. Wood stove manufacturers are redesigning stoves, while the catalytic combustors, similar to the catalytic converters in cars, enhance combustion by up to 30 percent.

Without the mountains and valleys to trap the wood stove smog, northern Michigan has escaped less of the problem despite the fact that over 75 percent of the homes use wood heat.

But Loding says, the smoke is there and people should be concerned.

"I can tell by the crocodile in the chimney how people are burning their wood. I have walked away from some jobs because the crocodile was so bad I couldn't remove it."

"When I first began I didn't walk away from jobs, but when my chimney catches fire the day after you clean it, you get the message," Loding laughs.

"Small - 3'S' - thin enough to fit inside a chimney, wearing top hat and tails, Loding looks like a character from Dickens. His seriousness is lightened by his delighted retelling of the predicaments his job brings.

Every sweep's nightmare came true his first year, when his vacuum cleaner bag burst while cleaning the bottom half of the chimney, from the living room of "no doubt the funniest person ever."

The room-filled, ceiling to floor, corner to corner, with ashes, dust, and accumulated chimney gunk.

"She was literally speechless," Loding shakes his head, now able to laugh at himself, four years and a new vacuum later.

"Bats are a real problem, too. And chimney swifts and racoons in summer cottage chimneys. But I guess by biggest problem was overcoming a fear of heights. I've fallen off some roofs. Broke three ribs once. But I'm more careful now," he laughs sardonically.

Reflecting on the mystique that traditionally surrounds chimney sweeps, Loding deadpans, "Unfortunately, only a small percentage of my customers ask for the traditional good luck kiss, but I am working on educating them."

Rehearsals to begin for Bach oratorio performance

Plans for the presentation of the Bach oratorio, "St. Matthew's Passion" during the Easter season have been made known by Ellen Adlington, director of the choir at the First Congregational Church.

The first rehearsal for the oratorio will be 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 6. All singers in the Charlevoix area are invited to join the choir and participate in the first rehearsal.

The oratorio will be the first of several Bach works to be presented during the anniversary year of the great composer.

For Saints and Sinners

by Pastor David W. Yingling United Methodist Church

Today, we use words in a rather casual way without thinking of their true meaning. I believe, erodes their meaning until their power to convey the concept is lost. One of these words is "friend."

Think about it. What comes to your mind (pictures - images) when someone asks you "What is a friend?"

The word "friend" used to conjure up a person we knew, liked, and trusted. It implied a deep bond between people, an intimacy not found among "acquaintances." Today we use the word "friend" so lightly that much of its power is obscured by the shallowness of the relationship it describes.

1. (Take a break - and read Ecclesiastes 4: we really need "friends")

2. What are some of the things that block our friendships? (List them)

In order to be a friend to someone else we need to first be a friend to ourselves; we need to like ourselves, know ourselves, and trust ourselves. That takes a lifetime of dialoguing with ourselves and sharing ourselves with other people (trial and error). It's not easy to check-in with yourself from time to time and find out "how you're doing," "how you're feeling about life," etc.

I believe God wants us to be in caring-nurturing relationships with other people. These are what I would call "spiritual friends." People we can grow, change, and stretch with. It's a relationship where we look toward God rather than ourselves. As the "family of God" cares and nurtures each other the Spirit has a fertile base to cultivate and grow.

3. (Take another break - what helps us to be our true selves? List the helps.)

Maria Livingston Roy has this to say about friends, "Friends are those persons whose unconditional love for us makes it possible for them to serve as a mirror in which we perceive our true selves - as we are and as intended to be."

4. (Who are some of the people who have been spiritual friends to us on our journey of faith? How have they helped us? List them and their contributions to our faith.)

Prayer: Thank you God for loving us and for being our friend. Help us to be friends with self and with others. Amen.

Computer age youngsters instruct Mom and Dad

by ANNE KELLY

We first realized that we were in big computer-age trouble when we couldn't understand the papers our third grader brought home from school.

Then came the recent issue of Sesame Street Magazine featuring Big Bird's computer on which little readers could practice their ABC's on the keyboard.

The older kids already had assimilated a rudimentary knowledge of computers having been exposed to introductory courses offered at the elementary and middle school levels.

We knew that if we didn't get with it pretty soon things could get pretty embarrassing at home.

But how could we invest in a computer when we didn't even have a garbage disposal? It boiled down to priorities. That and realizing that to get started, you don't have to purchase an expensive keyboard, computer monitor, disc drive and printer plus a raft of software to go with the hardware.

You can start cheap and develop expensive taste later. It can be a reward for learning.

The day that we realized that we were having trouble with input and output was the day that our priorities were confronted and put in order.

The garbage service called to inform us that we consistently had in excess of their maximum pick up load.

We had been reported. Imagine being turned in by your garbage man. How could 10 brown bags of groceries per week equal a 15 sack trash bag of garbage?

It was either a garbage disposal so no one would know what went on in our kitchen or a computer at this point.

We opted for the simple program. She's only been playing with the computer a month. Tricia is not unusual. All her little friends fight for a turn at the "typewriter". When she gets bored with her dolls she asks if she can "play computer."

We haven't gotten into a lot of software yet. We're enrolled in the adult education computer program offered at the high school which had to run two sessions a week to accommodate those who attend. It's a relaxed way to learn. Nobody embarrasses anyone else or laughs at you when your cursor turns into a "Q" when it's supposed to be erasing. And when you make a mistake and you screen reads "SYNTAX ERROR" instead of "Q" when it's supposed to be erasing. And when you make a mistake and you screen reads "SYNTAX ERROR" instead of "Q" when it's supposed to be erasing.

Computers don't have to be "scary" or "intimidating." They're getting smaller and less expensive every day. Looking - just may have logical progression to go back and deal with.

Our 4 year old can calculate simple math using a calculator. He's having a computer in his home or knowing how to operate one is no longer a luxury item or superfluous knowledge. Being computer literate is almost essential.

Senseless Vandalism

by Bob Cook

Vandalism: Senseless. Costly. Dangerous.

There are many suitable adjectives used to describe it. But none of them are adequate until it happens to you.

Saturday night it happened to the Clocks and we are as puzzled as we are hurt.

Judy and Dan were sitting in the living room watching the Olympics on TV. Allison had already gone upstairs to bed, but was sufficiently awake to hear voices outside on the street. I was napping, waiting Jennifer's call that she had arrived home from the state forensics finals at Kalamazoo.

Suddenly there was a crash outside the front window. Judy thought it was ice falling off the roof - although she knew the ice had all melted during our February thaw.

Then a second crash, this one in the dining room.

Judy and Dan raced in from the living room to find gaping holes in both the front window and the storm window. The floor and the dining room table were covered with glass shards. In a corner near the china cabinet lay the object that had done all the damage - a small stone.

Of course, we called the police. They were there within minutes, because when the call came in they were at a home only a block away answering a similar call: A rock through the window.

The following morning we discovered that the first rock - the one Judy thought was ice - had broken the storm window in the living room. But it hit the inside frame and dropped between the windows without doing further damage.

By Monday morning, the full story of the vandalism was in. Four windows at the Middle School and four more at the Star of Charlevoix building on the channel, in the residential damage.

Why? I have no idea and I doubt that I ever will. I do know that all of us will be out some money repairing the damage - unless we're content to let Charlevoix turn into another downtown Detroit where broken windows and boarded up windows are the hallmark of a city on the skids.

I feel particularly bad about the dining room window, which, as closely as I can tell, has looked out at the comings and goings on Dixon Avenue for 119 years. It probably came up Lake Michigan on a schooner and was shipped to the house in place long before Dixon was paved and sewer and water lines laid. Like all antique glass, it was rippled and imperfect by today's standards. But it character was in its distortions and I am sorry it had to come to such an ignominious end.

However, I am even sorer for the rock thrower. Can you imagine a life so empty, so devoid of satisfaction that it must resort to vandalism for thrills?

Organizations join together to form literacy consortium

In all of the current concerns over the improvement of education, many parents are asking where teachers stand on the issues. Because teachers often do not have an avenue or an opportunity to state their views, it sometimes appears that they do not have a view to state or that they support the positions being taken by legislators and the recommendations being reported in the press.

Out of the public limelight the executive officers of three teacher organizations concerned with literacy instruction in Michigan met at a conference in January. The conference was funded by the Michigan Council for the Humanities and co-sponsored by the State Board of Education. The groups involved in this effort are the Michigan Association of Speech Communication, the Michigan Council of Teachers of English, and the Michigan Reading Association.

These organizations have joined forces to form a literacy consortium consisting of the executive officers of each organization. The consortium is the first effort of these organizations to jointly address the literacy issues.

Drawing on their knowledge of the most reliable theories and research and the best of practical classroom application, the consortium members have been deliberating and attempting to unite their efforts on behalf of literacy instruction for Michigan students.

At a previous meeting the group developed a position statement on literacy, which was subsequently approved by the executive committees and boards of each organization. The position statement which defines literacy as including both oral and written competencies in language reads as follows:

"Traditionally, literacy has been viewed as only reading and writing, but that view fragments the wholeness of language learning. A contemporary view of literacy recognizes the interdependence of listening, speaking, reading and writing. The Michigan Association of Speech Communication, the Michigan Council of Teachers of English, and the Michigan Reading Association ascribe to a philosophy of integrated language learning which defines literacy as competence in listening, speaking, reading, and writing."

At its January conference, the group developed preliminary position statements related to five current topics of literacy: high school graduation requirements, K-12 and college literacy curricula, literacy testing and assessment, certification requirements for teachers, and professional growth and development.

The literacy consortium will meet again in March for further discussion concerning these position statements and to coordinate efforts on behalf of literacy instruction for Michigan schools. The outcome of the discussions is pending approval of each organization's boards.

These organizations are joining other public groups and individuals who are interested in literacy instruction to respond. Those interested in becoming involved in this effort to improve literacy instruction in Michigan should contact one of the following organization presidents:

It was half his fault, that wait;
He should be, but half so surly -
I was only five minutes late...
He was there five minutes early!

A total of 19 sturgeon have been speared from Black Lake in Cheboygan County and one from Burt Lake for a total of 20 with the largest coming from Burt Lake that was 13 pounds. The sturgeon spearing season will close on the 29th of February.

If the warm temperatures continues it is unlikely that any snowmobile or cross-country ski trails will be groomed this week. New snow and cold weather will have to return before trails will be groomed again.

The soft snow conditions have made conditions much more liveable for deer as they are able to move out of yards and back into the woods.

Beaver trapping activity has been generally slow so far, but should increase with the warmer weather and more open water. The season runs until March 15.

In general fish shanties should be checked for water above the floor before cold weather returns. Present 1963 fishing licenses are good until April 1.

Also, winter is expected to return.

Why Are These Men Smiling?

Meet Cecil Peterson. He's the smallish man with the newspaper. Cecil never misses a chance to check what's happening in his hometown.

Why? Just last week he found a bird cage for his pet gerbil in the Charlevoix Courier Classified section. The reason Cecil is reading while standing up in a crowd (he usually has better manners but he doesn't know any of these fellows anyway) is because he's reading a story about his nephew's basketball team.

Cecil never misses one single issue of his hometown newspaper because he knows that it's crammed full of stuff that the city dailies never touch. Stuff like local bargains at his favorite stores, those juicy classified ads, and what's happening at city hall.

There was even a story about Cecil the time he grew the largest squash he's ever seen. Or anyone else had ever seen for that matter. Cecil cut that picture out and put it in his scrapbook. He ate the squash.

Oh yes, why are those other fellows smiling?

Well, first they're on their way home and second they know their hometown newspaper will be waiting for them when they get there.

Dental Health Month continues

Local dentists are continuing to observe National Children's Dental Health Month with screenings and educational programs for school children in the area.

In addition to the schedule reported in last week's Courier, the following activities have been scheduled:

On February 23, Dr. John Merrill, who has offices in Charlevoix, will screen the teeth of third and fifth grade children in Pellston. On March 7, Dr. Merrill will talk to the ninth grade health class at Charlevoix High School about periodontal disease and show a film titled "Portrait of an Enemy".

On February 23, Dr. Jeffrey Parter of Jordan, Mich., second, will present an educational program to students at the elementary school in Ellsworth and another program to the 11th and 12th grade health class at Ellsworth high school.

On March 6, Kathy Kowalczyk, dental hygienist in Dr. Parter's office, will present an educational program at St. Mary's school in Charlevoix. On March 12, Dr. Parter will visit the Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery School to show a film and talk about tooth care. Later the students will visit Dr. Parter's office to learn what a dentist's office looks like.

Not mentioned previously was the poster contest for kindergarten children conducted by Dr. John Kempton of East Jordan, Mich., second, and third place prizes were awarded for the best poster in each of the three kindergarten classes. First place prizes were a McDonald's gift certificate, second place prizes were a package of toothbrushes, and third place prizes were a package of sugarless gum.

Beaux Arts costume ball includes drawing for Bronco Crooked Tree Arts Council announces plans for its second annual Beaux Arts costume ball on Saturday, March 3, 1984 at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

The highlight of the evening will be the drawing for a 1984 Ford 4WD Bronco II and the awarding of prizes for the best costumes in several categories. The lower level of the Center will again be transformed into a casino-type setting under the direction of David "Bossy" Chandler and the Petoskey Area Jaycees.

The Epsilon Jass Band will provide music for dancing and refreshments will be served.

Beaux Arts parties began in Paris in the early part of the century and are known for their festive atmosphere. Many artists and musicians attended in costume.

Over 300 colorfully costumed guests attended last year's party at the Arts Center. The event is one of the largest fundraisers of the year for the Center.

Crooked Tree Arts Council serves the residents of Emmet and Charlevoix counties by offering classes and workshops in music, art, drama and dance, a home for theatre groups, an artists' gallery with monthly consignment shop and exhibits.

Further information activity can be obtained regarding any Center at 347-4337.

Names In The News

Airman Shannon H. Bennett, above, son of Perry M. and Karen A. Bennett of East Jordan, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airmen will now receive specialized instruction in the medical services field. He is a 1981 graduate of East Jordan High School.

Navy Mess Management Specialist 3rd Class DAVID J. BEAUVAIS, son of Paul W. and Pat Beauvais of East Jordan, is currently deployed to the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans.

He is a crewmember aboard the dock landing ship USS Anchorage, homeported in San Diego. Since deploying, the ship has participated in various amphibious exercises and made port visits to Honolulu, Hawaii; Subic Bay, Republic of the Philippines; Fremantle, Australia; Singapore; Pattaya Beach, Thailand; Hong Kong; Okinawa and Yokosuka, Japan.

The Anchorage is 553 feet long, carries a crew of 397, and can accommodate and additional 376 combat ready troops.

Airman PETER C. HART, son of Louise M. Hart of East Jordan, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force law enforcement specialist course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. Graduates of the course studied general law enforcement duties, tactics, weapons training, physical apprehension and restraint and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force. Hart is scheduled to serve at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich., with the 410th Security Police Squadron. He is a 1979 graduate of East Jordan High School.

Two Charlevoix students, SUSAN SIMMERMAN and WENDI WRIGHT, were named to the dean's list for the 1983 fall semester at Grand Valley State College.

Included on the fall semester dean's list at Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo were, from Charlevoix, JACQUELINE MABEE and THOMAS McNAMARA.

GARY A. PETTIS, former Charlevoix resident, graduated recently from the Ferris State College School of Pharmacy. He has accepted a position in the Saginaw area. He is affiliated with the Phi Delta Chi pharmacy fraternity. A graduate of Charlevoix High School, Pettis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Waller.

Colleen Mol of Charlevoix, Ferris State College computer information systems accounting student, recently was selected as one of two recipients of the Electronic Data Processing Association's auditing scholarship. She receives her $250 award from Stuart J. Travis, Ferris department head of computer information systems. Also cited was Teresa Nelson (not pictured) of Marshall. The scholarship awards were based on scholastic achievement and financial need.

Bruce Bartlett, right, of Bartlett's Decorating Center in Charlevoix, recently attended a one-week seminar in Dealer Management conducted by Whirlpool Corporation at its John H. Platts Educational Center in Benton Harbor, Michigan. This seminar is conducted for selected Whirlpool dealers and dealers in attendance represent all regions of the United States. The continuing educational curriculum presented includes financial management, communications, advertising and promotion, personnel management, service department management and marketing techniques. Mary Raglan, Director, Marketing and Management Education, presented Bartlett a Certificate of Achievement upon successful completion of the Management Seminar.

Charlevoix resident RUTH HEILIG has joined the Boyne City office of H & R Block & Co. after working in Charlevoix for the same company for eight years.

ANAH H. POTTER, Charlevoix County Treasurer, recently attended the Winter Conference of the Michigan Association of County Treasurers at the Radisson Inn in Saginaw. Over fifty Michigan counties were represented at the conference, which began on Sunday, February 5 and continued until Wednesday Feb. 8.

ANGIE SPIELES of Charlevoix, Ferris State College sophomore majoring in pre-arts, recently performed in the Ferris Theatre production of "The Crucible." Spielles, daughter of Pete and Sandy Spielles of Charlevoix, played the role of Abigail Williams in the 22-member cast's presentation of Arthur Miller's historical drama about the purge of witchcraft in Salem, MA, in 1692.

A graduate of Charlevoix High School, Spielles previously played in "Play It Again Sam," and "What an Age for a Pretty Woman to be At" while attending Ferris State.

Two students from Beaver Island will be participating in the Lake Superior State College's Readers' Digest Theatre in Sault Ste. Marie February 18 and 19. ROBERT B. COLE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cole and DUANE A. MOONEY, son of Mr. and Mrs. LaDonna Mooney are part of the LSSC student production of "Four of a Kind," four well known stories by the popular short story author O. Henry. Cole, a 1983 graduate of the Beaver Island Community School, and Mooney, a 1980 graduate of the school, are both liberal arts majors at LSSC.

Old time square dance to be held

An Old-Time Square and Contra Dance will be held Friday, February 24 at 8:30 p.m. on the second floor above the Grain Train Food Co-op on Howard St. in Petoskey. There is a $2.00 admission charge for adults - children under 12 are free.

Jan Fowler, Eaton Rapids dance caller and teacher, will teach each dance, so no experience is necessary. Dances will include squares, contras, and circle dances as well as couple dances such as waltzes and polkas.

The stringband, Hootowl, will play for the dance. Old-time style musicians are invited to bring their instruments and play along.

The dance is sponsored by the Music Conservancy, a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving and promoting traditional American music, dance and other arts.

Wojan expansion is bright spot in an otherwise drab economic picture for area

by PEG OHLE

In these days of talk about business being "slow", it is good to hear of a local company that is doing well and is expanding its facilities so it can handle increased production.

Wojan Aluminum Products Corporation on Silver Road is building a 30,000 square foot addition to its plant. The addition, which is scheduled for completion in mid-June will double the company's production capacity, according to John Clark, Wojan's sales manager.

The company, a family-held corporation, was founded in 1953 by the late Walter Wojan, who, according to a written history, "surprised the window industry with the production of aluminum windows and doors."

Walter Wojan founded the company after leaving another company run by him and two brothers which manufactured redwood windows in a plant on the north side of Charlevoix.

Today, Wojan Aluminum Products is run by Walter's sons, Dennis and Kenneth, and their mother, Rose. Their products are a wide range of extruded aluminum framed, single, double, and triple-glazed windows and doors constructed with triple weather stripping and Wojan's special thermal barrier. They are sold in 17 states in the Union, from Denver to the East Coast to Florida.

Double-glazed windows became top sellers. Now, the company advertises its triple-glazed windows as "the most energy efficient windows available." Every Wojan window is an energy saver in every climate.

Besides its manufacturing plant in Charlevoix, Wojan maintains a sales office and warehouse in Marquette.

In addition to Clark, it maintains a sales force of three persons in the lower peninsula and three who work out of the Marquette office. Their customers are mostly retail sales outlets such as building materials companies, lumber yards, glass companies, and some aluminum products companies.

The Charlevoix plant is a retail outlet as well as the manufacturing unit. Builders, architects, and others find it a convenient source of windows and doors for their many projects in the area. One of the most recent larger projects utilizing Wojan products was the three-story addition to the Weatherlane Terrace Inn. Smaller jobs were the Eagles' Lodge in Boyne City, replacement of windows in the Charlevoix County Building, several condominiums, new homes, and replacement of windows in older homes, among others.

Wojan buys its extruded aluminum parts from the Wills Aluminum Company of Monette, Missouri and Reynolds Aluminum Company of Asheville, Ohio. Its glass comes from the Thermaglass Corporation of Saginaw. All materials are shipped by truck to the Charlevoix plant.

The new addition to the Wojan plant, which is being built by the Behling Construction Co. of Boyne City, is the third addition to the plant since the business started over 30 years ago with a "dozen" employees. Officials of the company believe it will meet their needs for quite a few years in the future.

This paper is a collector's item

by DAVE KNIGHT

This week's Courier may not look much different to our readers but the fact is that today's paper marks a rare occurrence in our publishing history.

As far as we can determine, there has been only one other Courier in the paper's history dated February 29. That was 56 years ago in the Leap Year of 1928.

The next time we'll print a February 29 edition, if we maintain our present publishing schedule, will be the year 2121.

According to research conducted by Courier staff member Ruth McKinney, although the Leap Year occurs every four years, the extra day falls on a Wednesday only every 28 years. February 29 did fall on a Wednesday in 1956 but at that time the Courier was published on Thursdays.

The Courier dates back to the late 19th century so why wasn't there a Wednesday, February 29 paper in 1900? Because of a decree by Pope Gregory XIII about 400 years ago. A full explanation of Leap Year is in order.

The solar year is actually just a bit less than 365.25 days in length. When Julius Caesar reformed the calendar, he structured it so that every year exactly divisible by four had the extra day, thus providing for the extra .25 of a day in each solar year.

But since the 365.25 days-per-year figure is actually a fraction less, by the 16th century Caesar's calendar had accumulated an error factor of ten more days than the solar calendar. In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII remedied the situation by eliminating ten days from the month of October that year.

He went on to declare that, while Leap Years should continue to occur in every year divisible by four, they shall not occur in years divisible by 100 unless those years are exactly divisible by 400.

Got that? This 1900 and 1900 were not Leap Years but 2000 and 2400 will be.

How "leap year" got to be called that remains somewhat of a mystery. The Encyclopedia Americana offers the possible explanation that "in a leap year any fixed date after February instead of falling one weekday later than in the preceding year, skips, or leaps a day and occurs two days later."

Thus in 1982, Christmas, December 26 was on a Saturday and in 1983 it was on a Sunday. However this year, a leap year, instead of falling on a Monday, Christmas will be on a Tuesday.

If anyone should be sitting up and taking notice this Wednesday it is the eligible bachelors of the community. Some unusual customs have grown up around leap year, the best known of which holds that, during leap year, any single woman may ask the man of her choice to marry her.

In fact, a law passed in Scotland in 1280 made it illegal for a man to refuse a woman's marriage proposal during a leap year unless he could prove that he was already betrothed to another woman. The penalty was a stiff fine.

The venerable Saint Patrick, whose memory we celebrate next month, is associated with a more offbeat explanation of how leap year came to be. The book Holidays of Legend recounts a legend that "goes far back to the time when priests and nuns could marry."

A native of Charlevoix, he was associated with a neighborhood grocery store since he was seven years old and later owned and operated the same store from 1950 until last fall. In this capacity he was a member of the Action Council for the National Federation of Independent Business.

He is married to the former Arlene Hayden, they have three daughters, Mrs. David (Donna) Heeres of Ellsworth, Marian of Grand Rapids and Martha, a student at Michigan Technological University. He also has three grandchildren.

Kenneth A. Staley

Staley has also served on the city planning and regional planning commissions and, under the city's new charter, the planning and compensation committees.

"During my 22 years of public service I feel I have gained a great deal of grass root knowledge that has given me an understanding of people and their problems. I would like to carry this knowledge and understanding to Lansing," said Staley.

Staley also says he has a special insight into the problems faced by small businesses. A native of Charlevoix, he was associated with a neighborhood grocery store since he was seven years old and later owned and operated the same store from 1950 until last fall. In this capacity he was a member of the Action Council for the National Federation of Independent Business.

Masons still closing in

The Masons continue to trim the Oddfellows lead in the annual cribbage tournament as the event goes into its final weeks Don Couse, tournament secretary, has announced.

The Oddfellows' lead, which was at one point more than 1,000 points, has been cut to 337 points with three nights of play remaining.

Gerald Johnson posted a perfect score of 968 for the Masons, A.D. Cunningham had 948 for the Oddfellows. There were seven tables in play with the Masons winning by 79 points.

Knight on the Town

A memorial with meaning

by Dave Knight

Made a quick trip to Washington D.C. last week and took a minute to pay a very special visit.

Just a stone's throw from the Lincoln Memorial is a jagged gash in the earth that looks as if some mammoth blade had slashed away a layer of topsoil to reveal a strata of jet black marble.

Closer inspection reveals the marble to be covered with names—tens of thousands of them—each neatly engraved in inch-high letters on numbered slabs.

This is the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial, the most recent addition to Washington's monumental row having been completed and dedicated just last year. The landscaping is still not quite complete.

Nearby, a determined group of Vietnam vets, unhappy with the abstract design chosen by the government for the memorial, have roped off a work site to build their own version of a Vietnam War memorial. They are eager to explain their mission to passersby from a ramshackle, tent-like type of bazaar.

One quickly learns that the vets' displeasure with the government extends far beyond the memorial's design.

The Vietnam Vets' Memorial represents a stark contrast to the other Washington edifices to war dead. It is black, angular and descends into the contour of the land making it completely invisible from one angle. Most of the other monuments are brilliant white affairs involving ornate sculpture and many pillars.

The poignant statement made by this radical addition to the Capitol mall is surprising in its bluntness. The memorial may be unusual in the context of the traditional monuments to America's war heroes and, to some it is obviously, even distasteful. It had a profound emotional impact on me, however, just as did the era in our history for which it stands.

Clockwise

What if...

Dr. Bob Clock

I SEE BY THE papers that Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini is rattling his sword again, threatening to close the Strait of Hormuz to oil shipments to the outside world if he encounters any interference in his long war with Iraq.

The United States and Britain, of course, say will do whatever is necessary to keep a supply of oil flowing.

All of which makes me wonder just how long that old tyrant can try our patience without getting his comeuppance.

Sometimes I wonder what the situation in the White House would be today if President Jimmy Carter were made of sterner stuff when Iranian students captured the American Embassy in Tehran and the Iranian government—on Khomeini's orders—held the embassy staff hostage for more than a year.

Let's pretend that instead of Carter we had a real firebrand in the White House, a guy who wouldn't stand for such nonsense. "Free the hostages now, this minute, or be prepared to lose control of your government and your oil for all time to come. Our planes will be there in six hours to pick them up."

WHAT WOULD KHOMEINI have done?

"No one knows for sure, but I predict he would have capitulated and the crisis would have ended then and there. The world—particularly the Mideast—would have gained a new respect for the United States. If Khomeini had balked, we would have had to go in with all of the firepower at our command. We might have lost a few hostages and a few men—but the American occupation of Iran would have had a stabilizing influence on the entire Mideast, which has been badly in need of a rudder ever since the British evacuated Suez.

Furthermore, no one—not even Russia—would have blamed us, since American citizens were being forcibly detained by a foreign power. World opinion was in our corner.

An active American presence in Iran could well have eliminated subsequent problems involving Israel, Lebanon, Syria, Iraq and the now-scattered Palestinian forces of Yasser Arafat.

If the United States had acted decisively at the time of the Embassy crisis in 1979, so many other events might have been forestalled, including the Israeli invasion of Lebanon in 1982 and our commitment of "peace-keeping troops" to Beirut—the withdrawal of whom has resulted in further erosion of American prestige abroad. When are we going to learn that the expression "peace-keeping troops" is a contradiction in terms?

But it is as futile to look backward as it is to look ahead when dealing with the convoluted political and religious strife of the Middle East. Our new policy is "wait and see," which I suppose is the wisest course, since any move will be the wrong move under the circumstances.

CHARLEVISION

"So, how's life in the fast lane?"

Hearing set for new sanitary code

Residents of Charlevoix County will have an opportunity on March 28 to express their views about the proposed new Sanitary Code for the County.

The County Board of Commissioners has scheduled the hearing for 8 o'clock that evening in the County Building Annex to hear the public's views on various aspects of the Code.

The proposed new Code differs from the Code now in force in several different ways, but it has been especially criticized because it would permit elevated absorption fields (mounds) for some on-site septic systems.

Several environmental groups, including the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association, Walloon Lake Association, Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, and others, have pleaded against the use of mounds because they believe mounds could lead to the pollution of lakes and streams.

The proposed new Sanitary Code was written by an ad hoc committee appointed by the Board of Commissioners. It has been reviewed by the County Planning Commission, which failed to give it support. Dorothy Custer, of Charlevoix, who is a member of the County Planning Commission, also served on the ad hoc committee. She has presented a minority committee report to the Board of Commissioners.

County Board Chairman Lee Moerland suggests that everyone who has an opinion about the proposed Code present it to the County Board in writing, addressed to the County Building, Charlevoix. Even those who plan to attend the meeting should do so, Moerland added.

Letters ...

Meduso dust

To the Editor:
Wm. D. Ruckelshaus, Administrator of the EPA, and a public servant of impeccable character and integrity, in a recent news conference held at Princeton University made the following enlightening and significant comments regarding environmental issues: quote

"The public's attitude toward risk is ambiguous, noting that people accept voluntary risks, such as driving, far more easily than they accept involuntary risks, such as breathing air laced with noxious auto exhaust emissions and other air pollutants." He then went on to state, quote "People tend to overestimate the probability of unfamiliar, catastrophic and well publicized events and underestimate the probability of unspectacular or familiar events that claim one victim at a time."

Charlevoix residents would be well served to "ponder" over the above very erudite statements the next time they either deny the existence of, or shrug off as harmless, the cement dust-emissions which periodically but persistently have fouled and polluted the air we breathe for the past 16 years.

What is particularly grievous and reprehensible about this nuisance and health hazard is that the indignities rather than address and solve their problem (now Charlevoix's too) they self pitiously complain that a bunch of "fudgies" are trying to close their plant down. What a bunch of nonsense!
Howard F. Neilson

Loose dogs

To the Editor:

It is that time of the year again when new licenses should be secured for dogs. Many dogs are running loose and a lot of them do not have a license tag.

Loose dogs have bitten some people and many run up to people and bark and snarl at them. From my observations it appears that less than half of the dogs are licensed. In some areas the county pays for an occasional census of dogs but it appears that no use of the census is made so the money paid must be wasted.

Why should I or my family pay for a dog license when so many dogs are ignored in this respect?

Some thousands of dollars more could be collected.
I See

Lot of class

To the Editor,
I am one of a group of adults that recently accompanied, as chaperones, the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Drama Group on their trip to Kalamazoo. I was very favorably impressed with the behavior of these young people (approximately 50 in number) on this over night trip. As a chaperone I felt they included us in their fun and yet were respectful and did what we asked of them.

When they sat in the theatre watching the competition perform, they looked very sharp, dressed in combinations of navy, blue and white. They applauded the other schools' performances.

Our group brought home the State Class C trophy, which is a great accomplishment and reward for their many hours of work.

The people of Charlevoix can be proud of the manner in which this group of young men and women represented Charlevoix High School.

Christine L. Howes of Ellsworth will become the bride of Thomas J. Wilhelm of Charlevoix on Saturday, April 7, at the Bell Tower Reformed Church in Ellsworth.

Parents of the intended bride are Mr. and Mrs. Roland Howes of Ellsworth and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schuelke of Brethren. Parents of the intended bridegroom are Mr. and

Kelly Mathews and Kenneth Johansen

Mathews-Johansen
Mr. and Mrs. Vernon L. Mathews, Jr. of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Kelly, to Kenneth O. Johansen of Charlevoix. He is the son of Miki Johansen of Nashua, New Hampshire and Mrs. Thomas Stapleton of Tempe, Arizona. The bride-to-be graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1981 and later attended the Petoskey Beauty Academy and South Eastern Academy in Kissimmee, Florida. She is a licensed cosmetologist as well as a certified travel agent. Presently she is employed by the Sheer Happiness beauty salon in Charlevoix. Her fiancé graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1981 and from Arizona Tech at Phoenix in 1983 as a computer programmer. He is employed by Charlevoix Data and also teaches computer programming in the Charlevoix High School adult enrichment program. The wedding will take place September 29 at the Charlevoix Community Church of God.

Two Chx. County 4-Hers will go to Washington, D.C. as part of new program

Charlevoix County 4-H Youth Programs is adding something new in 1984. Two local 4-H members, who will be chosen March 15 from county applications, will join 4-Hers from other counties throughout the United States who are now making plans to attend one of the Cooperative Extension Service's most successful programs offered—Citizenship Washington Focus. Over 5,600 15 to 18 year-olds are expected to attend this 25 year old program next summer in Washington, D.C. Their classroom will be the nation's capital. Michigan members will attend a one week session July 5-14. Many of these teenagers will have an opportunity to meet their senators and representatives to discuss problems and possible solutions to real-life concerns related to economics, agriculture, energy, conservation and more. Their home base for the week will be the National 4-H Center, a 12 acre campus located on the outskirts of Washington, at Cherry Chase, Maryland. Last summer participants learned about the election process by running their own political campaigns and elections. They also toured federal agencies and visited historical sites. But most of all, they met other 4-H members from all around the United States and shared ideas, concerns and friendships. This program is designed to become active, involved citizens in their communities when they return home. For more information about the program, contact Leah Green at the Charlevoix Extension Office, 582-6322, and request a copy of the new Citizenship Washington Focus brochure.

Nonie Pace

Pace will represent CHS at state

The Charlevoix Rayders ski teams placed fourth among 17 teams entered in the regional meet at Boyne Mountain Wednesday and qualified one skier, Nonie Pace, for participation in the state meet scheduled for Nub's Nob Monday.

A skier had to finish among the top three in each division to qualify for state competition and among the top 10 to qualify for a medal.

Traverse City placed first in the boys meet with 45 points followed by Harbor Springs with 84.

Petokey came in first with 85 points followed by Grayling with 97. Traverse City with 103 and Charlevoix with 125.

Results in the boys meet follow: Jason Brindel, 23rd in the slalom and 8th in the giant slalom; Matt Lignell, 7th in the slalom and 6th in the giant slalom; Jim Morgridge, 19th in the slalom and 32nd in the G.S.; John Marsh, 54th in the slalom and 28th in the G.S.; Brian Snitz, 47th in the slalom and 29th in the G.S.; Revor and Sam Supernaw, 71st in the slalom and 53rd in the G.S. Marsh is the only senior on the boys' team.

The results of the other members of the girls' team follow: Christine Pace, 8th in the slalom and 7th in the giant slalom; Sue Miller, 11th in the G.S.; Cheryl Aull, 29th in the slalom; Beth Revor, 37th in the slalom and 32nd in the G.S.; Kim Jordan, 10 a.m., with succeeding games to be played as matches are completed. Elk Rapids will play Kalkaska in the next series followed by Grayling vs. Charlevoix and Rogers City vs. Benzie Central.

Traverse City St. Francis will play East Jordan at 10 a.m.

The Charlevoix girls volleyball team will be among the eight teams entered in the Class C District Volleyball Tournament to be held at East Jordan Saturday, March 3, Dale Hurge, athletic director.

Rayders wrap it up

The Charlevoix Rayders, champions of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference for the 1983-84 season, bounced back heartily last week from a rare loss at Cheboygan the week before.

The Rayders squad dispatched a pesky Harbor Springs team 73-82 in non-conference action Tuesday night and swept past Grayling 83-62 for their 12th conference win against one loss. Overall, the Rayders are 17-2 for the season and were ranked seventh among Class C schools in the UPF state-wide basketball rankings last week.

In Tuesday night's game, the Rams put up a surprisingly strong effort throughout the first three quarters of the game, before slipping in the fourth.

Charlevoix led by only two at the end of the first period, 14-12 and by only three, 31-28, at halftime. In the third quarter, Harbor kept up with the pace and managed to cut Charlevoix's lead back to a pair, 51-49. It took a fourth quarter surge by the Rayders in which they outscored the Rams 22-13 to put the 73-82 victory in the bag.

Free-throw shooting was no small advantage for the Rayders, who made 21 shots from the line from 27 attempts. Brent Cole's 21 points led the team in individual scoring while Doug Sloan, Tim LaBlance and Will Syvertsen had 13, 12 and 11 respectively.

Coach Dave Smith credited Keith Potter and Tim LaBlance for strong play in the second half. Against the Vikings of Grayling at the annual Winter Homecoming game Friday night, a charged up Rayders squad played with intensity throughout and, as Coach Smith said, "worked well as a group."

Tim LaBlance looks for the open man as he drives toward the basket.

Winter Homecoming Queen Amy Sell dubs her court of honor at halftime of Friday night's game.

Names In The News

Former Charlevoix resident TOM KENNEY has been named to the Northern Michigan staff of U.S. Senator Carl Levin (D-Mich.). Kenney lives in Alpena and will work out of Sen. Levin's office there. He will travel extensively through the region working on community development projects and assisting local units of government.

Kenney has experience with the Cooperative Extension Service in Alpena and Potoskey and has also worked as an energy auditor. He is an honors graduate of Aquinas College and has been active in the Michigan Young Democrats organization.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenney of Charlevoix.

Airman Timothy L. Krueger, above, son of Richard L. and Kathleen R. Krueger of Charlevoix, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force Basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field. He is a 1982 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Central Michigan University's fall semester honors list includes, from Charlevoix: SHERYL L. COOK and LORIANE PAUL, both seniors, and from Wallonia Lake, CARRIE S. LAUTERBACH, a sophomore. Ms. Cook, an art and English major, and GERDA O'BRIEN of Charlevoix, a sociology major, were both among 142 CMU students recently inducted into Phi Kappa Phi, a national honor society which recognizes superior scholarship.

Among students from Charlevoix who were awarded degrees at Central Michigan University at the end of the winter semester in December were STEPHEN L. BEATTY, who received a Bachelor of Science degree in Education with a specialization in physical education, PAMELA S. BEATTY, who received a Bachelor of Science degree in Education with a specialization in music and was a cum laude graduate, and CHRISTOPHER D. GREENE who received a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration with a specialization in accounting. ROXANN L. FRANK of East Jordan received a Bachelor of Science degree in Education with a specialization in the teaching of the emotionally impaired and was also a cum laude graduate.

Airman James A. Patterson, above, son of Robert K. and Margaret Patterson of Charlevoix, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force Basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the dental field. He is a 1982 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Percussionist and Berklee College of Music alumnus TIMOTHY KOTOWICH, a long-time resident of East Jordan, is appearing in concert halls throughout Italy as featured soloist with the Orchestra Regionale Toscana of Florence, directed by Luciano Berio.

A graduate of Interlochen Arts Academy, where he was a member of the Percussion Ensemble, Concert Band and Orchestra, Kotowich has served as principal percussionist with the Orquesta Sinfonica Municipal of Caracas, Venezuela. Kotowich, who has led his own jazz sextet, La Vela, in performance throughout Venezuela, has served as instructor of Percussion and Tympani for Venezuela's National Youth Orchestra and has been featured at the Vokalija Jazz Festival in Prague, Czechoslovakia. While enrolled at Berklee, Kotowich was a frequent participant in the College's extensive Concert Series, appearing in the Berklee Performance Center with the finest faculty and student musicians. Kotowich majored in Professional Music at Berklee.

Planners hear new salmon scheme

About 15 interested persons attended last week's meeting of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission to hear DNR district fisheries biologist Steve Swan tell about the DNR's latest site selection for planting chinook salmon.

The site is a man-made stream about 200 feet long flowing into Lake Michigan from Medusa-Cement Company property just east of the Medusa plant. Water in the stream comes from the plant via a settling pond.

Swan stressed that this stream is just one of the options the DNR is looking at. While Medusa and the DNR have had some preliminary discussions in the matter, no agreements have been reached, Swan said.

Last year, the DNR planted some 400,000 chinook smolt in the Jordan River to begin its program of developing a salmon sports fishery in Lake Michigan. Later on, the Jordan River Natural River Zoning Board voted not to allow the Sturgeon spearing fishermen have had generally good success this year with a total of 39 fish taken. Black Lake produced 36 fish while 1 came from Mullett Lake and 2 from Burt Lake; all the above lakes are located in Cheboygan County. The sturgeon spearing season closed on Feb. 29th.

In general, all types of fishing activity has been slow the past week because of water on the ice, also may reports of unsafe ice. Most all fish shanties have been removed.

Rabbit hunting has increased a little the past two weeks with fair to poor success. Rabbit population is not real good.

Successful turkey permits were expected to be mailed from Lansing the first week of March.

Fishermen are reminded that new passbooks and fishing licenses for 84-85 will be available at dealers the latter part of March. The new licenses will be needed on April 1, 1984.

Lousma to appear here

Astronaut Jack Lousma, candidate for U.S. Senate will be guest speaker at the Charlevoix County Republican Party Lincoln Day dinner, at the Greg Gables Inn in Charlevoix, Friday March 9th beginning at 6:00 p.m.

Lousma, born and raised in Michigan, and a Marine officer since 1959, served as Skylab III pilot and Flight Commander of the 3rd flight of the Columbia.

Lousma will be speaking on his candidacy for U.S. Senate in the Michigan Primary in August.

Organized Voters Assn. loses another

by PEG OHLE

The Organized Voters of America (OVA), for which Karl Waldner of Boyne City is local spokesman, lost another round in court last week.

Visiting Judge John Unger in Circuit Court denied the OVA's request for a rehearing on a Petition for Redress of Grievances. The first hearing on the Petition was held last November, at which time it was denied.

The Petition, in effect, was a lawsuit against the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, charging them with failure to call for a County-wide vote on a proposition to reduce the County property tax limitation from 15 to 13 mills. Last April 13, the OVA presented the County Board with petitions containing 790 signatures asking for such a vote and suggesting means by which the millage should be spent.

The petitioners were judged sufficient so far as signatures were concerned but were rejected on the basis that the County could not allocate 20 of a mill to libraries in the County as called for in the petitions because the County does not run libraries.

Last week, Waldner presented an addendum to his Motion for a Rehearing in which he offered to settle compromises. The first read:

"To the effect that the governmental Redress Court and the of Grievances in Charlevoix County accordance with commissioners behave as the Property Tax Limitation Act (PTLA) intended, and allow as the law demands - the County's Tax Allocation Board; so they may arrive at a counter property tax ballot proposal, and submit it as required by law, along with the OVA's proposal to the County voters."

If this compromise were accepted, Waldner noted, it would "satisfy the constitutional guarantee of citizen initiative; the intent, spirit, and letter of the PTLA." Charlevoix County's elected county commissioners, and their special friends; the Court; and its long range concerns; as well as the so far abused electoral rights of the voters. Thus nearly everybody is satisfied and benefited, not just the politically and economically privileged few."

The second compromise read:

"If the Court does not concur with compromise one, OVA herewith requests consideration of this alternate which asks that Judge Unger disqualify himself, void his decision and judgement, and further, that he serve written notice of this along with the reasons therefore which will include - in the interest of expedition - an official appeal by him to the Michigan Supreme Court to settle this urgent petition for the governmental Redress Court and the of Grievances in Charlevoix County accordance with existing general court rules. Explaining this compromise, Waldner wrote, "The Property Tax Limitation Act was meant to be a means for citizens to expand or lessen government costs, as citizens felt it necessary. It was never intended as a vehicle to be used as a political cudgel by elected county commissioners to thwart their constituents' wishes, only to provide a democratic way to resolve differences by an election."

Judge Unger, in refusing to accept either compromise and denying the request for a rehearing, said that the OVA had presented no new factual material. He also said that in no way could he be considered prejudicial toward the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners has been represented in this case by the Potoskey law firm of Fenner, Barney, Hoffman & Gano. Attorney John Felton of the firm was in the courtroom last week when Judge Unger rendered his decision.

The OVA must file an appeal by March 20 if it intends to carry the case further.

When is a church not a church? When it's a home, says city hall

by DAVE KNIGHT

A small church congregation that has been meeting regularly in a private Charlevoix home has been asked to find a different gathering place by City Hall.

The Church of Christ, established in Charlevoix last September, advertises Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m., and Bible Study at 10 a.m. Sundays and 7 p.m. Wednesdays in the Charlevoix Courier Church Directory. The address listed for the church in the directory is 105 Cherry St., a private home currently being rented by Aaron Martinez.

Martinez is a Church of Christ minister and was one of the organizers of the local congregation.

According to City Manager Robert Hunt, Martinez was advised in a recent letter, and later in a meeting, that use of the Cherry St. home as a church did not conform to city zoning requirements. Hunt said that, while the city zoning code permits churches in residentially zoned areas, 50-foot yard setbacks are required as is one parking space for every six seats or every six feet of pew space. Should the Church of Christ desire to continue meeting in the home, he said, variances from the zoning requirements would be necessary.

"And I don't think there is much of a chance those variances would be granted," said Hunt.

"We don't want to prevent anyone from studying the Bible in their homes but when you start certifying to the general public four sessions a week, then you must go through the planning processes of seeking site plan approval and the necessary variances."

According to Martinez, the congregation presently totals "17 people from three or four families." While there are Church of Christ congregations in both Potoskey and East Jordan, Martinez describes the church as "autonomous."

Martinez said that he understood Hunt's position and that a search is currently underway for a new meeting location. He said the congregation is looking for a "more permanent, long term rental agreement," not necessarily within the city.

Martinez founded the local Church of Christ congregation in Lyric Opera of Northern Michigan to present "Barber of Seville"

The Lyric Opera of Northern Michigan, Inc. is bringing comic opera at its very best, "The Barber of Seville" by Gioacchino Rossini to Potoskey on Friday, March 9. The opera will be performed in English with an 18-piece ensemble in the Senior High School auditorium in Potoskey. This is a change of location from the previously scheduled community arts center due to the need for more stage working area. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m.

Tickets for this performance are available at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center at 461 E. Mitchell Street. Tickets may also be ordered directly from the Lyric Opera, P.O. Box 96, Interlochen, Michigan 49643. Tickets are priced at $4.00 for a single admission. The cast features singers from throughout the state of Michigan.

The Potoskey cast will feature Bradley Creswell, baritone, as Figaro, the barber of Seville, and Mary Creswell, mezzo-soprano, as Rosina. The husband and wife team are both graduates of the University of Michigan now residing and teaching in the Muskegon area. Willis Patterson, bass, is chairman of the voice faculty and associate dean of the school of music at the University of Michigan. He will be heard as Dr. Bartolo, physician and guardian of Rosina. Just back in Austria, Edmund singers will be Robert Johnson, tenor, as Count Almaviva. Mr. Johnson is presently coordinator of the vocal department at the Interlochen Arts Academy after many years in New York City with the New York City Opera Company where he has previously performed the role of

Back to lake water

Four months ago a summit meeting was held in Lansing involving all the principles in the Charlevoix water contamination case. Represented were the City of Charlevoix, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Michigan Department of Public Health and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. At that meeting, DNR official James Cleland made a prediction which we suspected, at the time, was probably accurate. It now appears to have been borne out.

Though the DNR and DPH eventually agreed at the meeting to give Charlevoix five more months to come up with a solution to its TCE problem, Cleland said that no matter how much more time the city bought, it would most likely come up with the very same conclusions made in the first engineering analysis of the situation, the so-called Granger Report, submitted to the city by the Granger Engineering firm in November, 1982.

That report concluded, on the basis of several criteria such as water quality, water quantity, capital and operating costs, reliability and risk, that the best source of water for Charlevoix is Lake Michigan.

City voters, of course, saw differently at the time and balked at the cost of a lake water treatment plant by defeating a bond proposal for the plant. Council then embarked on the next most feasible alternative according to the Granger Report, a new well system. The search for new wells has now dragged on for over four months and cost $50,000. So many test wells have been sunk that the city is beginning to look like a piece of Swiss cheese. And after all this, we still are not close to providing from the ground either the quality or quantity of water we need.

This was all but predicted in the Granger Report. Even if a good aquifer is located tomorrow, the risk of groundwater contamination shall always be present and is a particularly hazardous risk since we still don't know where the TCE we have in our water now is coming from.

The well search should not be considered a total exercise in futility, however. This experience should be presented to the EPA as further proof that the best way, the Superfund can help Charlevoix is by helping fund a lake water intake and treatment facility.

Rather than wait months or years for the EPA to study more data and make up its own mind on Charlevoix's alternatives, the city should mount an energetic program immediately to sell the leads on the merits of a lake water plant.

Knight on the Town

That something extra

by Dave Knight

Whenever Charlevoix takes the floor in tournament play against a team with the exact same talent and the exact same size, do not let the Red Raiders have a slight advantage in their program's winning tradition? You bet they do. Last week we chatted with a man that had much to do with developing that tradition.

Ray Kipke coached basketball at Charlevoix High School from 1928 to 1990. Throughout his 23-year career, "Kip's" teams were perennial powers within the conference but they specialized particularly in post-season success. During that period, the Red Raiders racked up ten district championships, made it to the regional finals nine times and won seven regional crowns.

The farthest Charlevoix has ever advanced in the state basketball tournament was under Kipke in 1938 when the Raiders played in the Class C semi-finals but lost by a bucket.

Kipke, now 82 and full of great coaching memories, chuckles about the 1929 season when Harbor Springs won the state Class C title. During the regular season that year, Charlevoix beat the Rams twice.

Perhaps the most memorable Kipke team was the 1947-48 edition featuring the Carey twins, Bob and Bill, Ross Case, Pat Martin, Cliff Langman, Warren Shadko, Don Coney, Hub Shanahan, Dave Hardy, Dave Smith, Dick Donaldson and Don Burke.

That team went undefeated in 14 conference and two non-conference games averaging a 49-point per game average to their opponents' 22. Over the three years leading up to '48, the Raiders were 46-1 in regular season play. It was with well-justified high hopes for a state crown that the Raiders embarked on the tournament trail that March.

They cruised easily through districts and regionals and a 49-15 quarter final victory over Ontonagon put Charlevoix into the Class C semi-finals in East Lansing against Milan.

The Red Raiders lived up to their billing for most of the game and led by eight, with three and a half minutes to play. But Milan was a poised, talented team that had the emotional boost of playing for their coach who had been hospitalized days before the game for an emergency appendectomy.

I am not a card-carrying member of the Democratic party — or the Republican party, for that matter — but I was worried that the best man the Democrats could come up with was Fritz Mondale, who always looks as though he just awoke from a summer afternoon snooze and is angry with whoever alarmed the screen door.

But now Hart has knocked off Mondale in the New Hampshire primary and the Maine caucuses, chalking up handsome majorities. According to the latest polls, Massachusetts is ready fall in line.

Despite Hart's two victories, hard-line Democrats — particularly those in heavily unionized Michigan — still consider Mondale their standard-bearer, totally ignoring the increasingly obvious fact that Fritz doesn't stand a chance against Reagan, whereas Hart just might be able to pull off a win next November.

You must remember that Mondale is carrying Jimmy Carter on his shoulders, the same Carter who stood by wringing his hands: "The nation slipped into its worst financial crisis since the Great Depression. Remember double-digit inflation?"

Refused to take get tough with Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini when he held American Embassy employees hostage for more than 400 days. When he did try to effect a rescue, the mission turned into one of the most poorly executed military expeditions in American history. Blasted his own failings on a lack of moral fiber on the part of his fellow citizens, individually and collectively.

I do not believe Mondale has the time — or the energy — to erase his connections with the Carter administration, marked principally by timidity and ineptitude.

I think Mondale may have lost sight of the fact that we elected Carter over Jerry Ford because we were doing penance for the gross political corruption of the Nixon Administration. But that grievance is now behind us and there is no longer any reason to placate the world by putting a Sunday school teacher in the White House.

Hart, on the other hand, has no such albatross as Jimmy Carter to hold him down. Admittedly, he is still an unknown quantity to most American voters, but his initial impact has been favorable. He is blessed with the boyish good looks and enthusiasm of the late Jack Kennedy. They call it charisma. He appears to have the energy to do the job the way it should be done; and although his track record in the Senate is scarcely brilliant (he opposed the Chrysler bail-out, of all things), there are no great smudges on his political career.

Perhaps Hart's most favorable attribute is that he is not beholden to organized labor, as is Mondale. This alone makes him a worthy contender for Ronald Reagan. It would be nice to have a Democratic presidential candidate for a change who is not in the hip-pocket of special interests.

We should all send "thank you" cards to Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado for keeping the Democratic presidential campaign from dying of terminal boredom.

I am not a card-carrying member of the Democratic party — or the Republican party, for that matter — but I was worried that the best man the Democrats could come up with was Fritz Mondale, who always looks as though he just awoke from a summer afternoon snooze and is angry with whoever alarmed the screen door.

Letters: Medusa was off base

To the Editor,
When will Medusa stop trying to confuse and mislead the Charlevoix public? From the contents of their full page ad in the Feb. 29th issue of the Courier, they apparently believe that lawsuits are won by PR propaganda and intimidation rather than in the courts on the basis of valid evidence, supportable facts and relevant law which is documented by expert witnesses recognized by the court as technically competent in their particular field of expertise.

Medusa's recent $400 full page ad of "self serving hokum" attempts to persuade the reader that Medusa isn't polluting the Charlevoix air resource simply because the 5 year "Hi Vol" test results (as published) which measure Total Suspended Particulates (TSP) have never violated the federal NAAQS (National Ambient Air Quality Standards).

Now, before you as readers of that ad start blaming Charlevoix sea gulls for dumping all that cement dust on you, it might be wise to think about what Medusa's high priced propaganda ad very conveniently did not tell you. Here it is:

1. The State and WATCH are not suing Medusa for violation of FEDERAL air quality standards. We are suing Medusa amongst other complaints for violation of MICHIGAN air quality standards. Most states have far more strict air quality standards and standards than does the federal government, Michigan and California are but two examples.

2. The State does not recognize Hi Vol Sampling as used by Medusa as a valid and/or precise method of quantitatively measuring total suspended particulates (TSP) because heavy particles are not suspended in the air and usually fall within 1 to 2 miles from their point of origin landing either on the ground or on exposed objects on the ground (such as cars, boats, windows, screens and/or in your eyes, hair or in your lungs). It is this non-suspended particulate which is the problem.

WATCH is complaining about the dumping of this particulate in exactly what is happening in Charlevoix. Further — and very significantly these heavy particles are too heavy to be picked up and measured by the Hi Vol sampling device. It's no wonder that Medusa is so proud of their test results! The dust that Medusa is using is stacked. WATCH knows it and believes that the people of Charlevoix should know it.

WATCH believes the Charlevoix public is entitled to the facts. We no longer accept Medusa's arrogant attitude. But that grievance is now behind us and there is no longer any reason to placate the world by putting a Sunday school teacher in the White House.

Hart, on the other hand, has no such albatross as Jimmy Carter to hold him down. Admittedly, he is still an unknown quantity to most American voters, but his initial impact has been favorable. He is blessed with the boyish good looks and enthusiasm of the late Jack Kennedy. They call it charisma. He appears to have the energy to do the job the way it should be done; and although his track record in the Senate is scarcely brilliant (he opposed the Chrysler bail-out, of all things), there are no great smudges on his political career.

Perhaps Hart's most favorable attribute is that he is not beholden to organized labor, as is Mondale. This alone makes him a worthy contender for Ronald Reagan. It would be nice to have a Democratic presidential candidate for a change who is not in the hip-pocket of special interests.

That the Hi Vol Sampler used by Medusa in the Charlevoix area is a test used with some validity for determining total suspended particulates but it is not applicable to particulates which are not suspended. The Hi Vol Sampler discriminates against heavier particles which drop to the ground or to objects on the ground.

3. If particulates are being emitted from the Medusa plant and are carried in the air and deposited on automobiles and boats and other objects on the ground the Hi Vol Sampler will not read MOST of these heavier particles.

4. If the heavy particulates that fall out of the air and deposit on objects on the ground are the principle source of the pollution problem in the area of the Medusa Plant in Charlevoix, Michigan, THE HI VOL SAMPLER TEST IS NOT THE CORRECT TEST TO ASSESS THE PROBLEM.

So there you have it citizens of Charlevoix. In effect Medusa is cunningly trying to convince you that they are not polluting the air resources of Charlevoix by the tricky device of publishing a five year record of test results using a test procedure (Hi Vol) which has no relevance of scientific validity to the problem. Further the test numbers they have published relate to a federal standard which is not at issue, pertinent, or relevant rather than the Michigan standard which IS operative, IS relevant, and IS stricter in its requirements.

In closing we suggest to Medusa that in their next $400 self-serving propaganda ad, they address themselves as to what constructive steps they are taking to solve their problems rather than trying to mislead, confuse and intimidate the Charlevoix citizens. There has already been too much of that by Medusa in the past.

WATCH, Inc. is a sincerely concerned citizens group trying to protect the health and welfare of all Charlevoix residents. We cannot afford expensive PR campaigns to buy citizen's support. We already have that support because the Charlevoix public is fed up with 16 years of being dumped on by Medusa. We can however afford a 20 cent stamp to respond with the truth and pertinent, provable facts any time it becomes necessary.

To the Editor:
The Human Needs and World Security Bill H.R. 449 was introduced in the House on November 17, 1983. It now has 36 cosponsors. This bill would put a cap on foreign security aid for fiscal year 1985 and for an additional $220 million to selected development efforts and emergency food aid. Our government's "security aid" is given in grants or loans to foreign governments usually to help them buy U.S. made weapons. The word "security" means something very different in the view of Bread for the World (BFW) which initiated the above proposed legislation. By helping poor people meet basic needs a contribution is made to the real security of a nation. BFW is a Christian citizens movement of 44,000 Roman Catholic and Protestant members.

The selected development aid as described in the above bill is designed to bring health, clean drinking water, farm skills and other self help tools, and basic education to Third World countries. In 1980 the U.S. security aid (military) was almost equal to U.S. development aid. Since then security aid has been increased by 73 percent and development aid increased by only 10 percent. Third World countries import arms and in order to try to pay for them, they export more agricultural products thus lowering the amount of food available for their own people.

On January 5, 1984 I wrote to ask our U.S. member of the House, Robert Davis, to be a cosponsor of this bill. He responded by saying "I will certainly keep your views in mind in the event this measure reaches the full House for a vote."

Hunger and poverty are very real enemies in our world today. As citizens we have a responsibility to do something about them such as prodding our legislators to act in promoting real security.

Engagements

Gadilhe-Fowler

Barbara Ann Gadilhe of New Orleans will become the bride of Thomas David Fowler, also of New Orleans, on Saturday, April 28, at the First Presbyterian Church of Montgomery, Alabama.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Albert Gadilhe of Montgomery, and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Duane Fowler of Charlevoix.

Miss Gadilhe attended Trinity School in Montgomery and graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Newcomb College of Tulane University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is presently employed by Audubon Federal Savings and Loan in New Orleans as a savings counselor.

Mr. Fowler attended Charlevoix High School, from which he graduated as valedictorian. He later attended Michigan Technological University, where he received an engineering degree and was a member of Tau Beta Phi and Phi Tau Sigma honorary fraternities. He also studied at Von Karmen Institute in Brussels between his junior and senior year of college. He is currently working toward a master of science degree in engineering from Tulane University and is employed by Shell Offshore, Inc. in New Orleans.

Sports

Rayders advance

The Charlevoix Rayders bounced back from an unsteady first half Monday night to steamroll past Kalkaska 73-57 in the first round of the Class C district competition at Kalkaska.

Charlevoix's next opponent will be East Jordan, who drew a bye in the first round. That game is set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Against Kalkaska, the Rayders' intensity took the first half off as Kalkaska managed to pull within one, 16-15, at the end of the first quarter, and actually led by three 33-30 at halftime.

If not for Rayder sharpshooter Brent Cole, who scored 20 of his team's 30 points in the half, Charlevoix might have been blown out early in a major upset.

But, according to Coach Dave Smith, the Rayders came out on the attack after the intermission and quickly put the game back into its expected course with Charlevoix up 53-40 at the end of three quarters en route to the 73-57 rout.

Cole led all scorers in the game with 24 while Doug Sloan contributed 23 to the cause.

Friday night saw Cole explode for a career high 34 points against Rogers City as the Rayders completed an 18-2 regular season with a 76-63 win at Rogers City. The Rayders, 13-1 in the final conference standings, had wrapped up their second consecutive Michigan-Huron-Shores undisputed title the week before.

Charlevoix jumped to a 19-10 lead in the first quarter against the Hurons and led 42-24 and 58-41 at the other junctures.

Tim LaBlance had nine assists in the game and ten points. Sloan had 13 points.

8th graders repeat as champs

The Charlevoix eighth grade basketball team repeated as champions of the Cheboygan Invitational Junior High Tournament, defeating Petoskey in a close game Saturday by a score of 39-36 to successfully defend their title according to Coach Barry Pierce.

"They never gave up. They hung in there and fought back even when they were trailing," Coach Pierce said of their performance.

The Charlevoix five found themselves playing "catch up" basketball as they trailed 12-10 at the quarter and 25-23 at halftime.

When they returned to the floor, after the intermission, the Charlevoix offense started to click as they outscored Petoskey 11-7 to knot the score 32-32 at the three quarter mark. In the final period, the team capitalized on its trips to the free throw line to score on five of eight attempts while scoring only one bucket to take the game.

Trailing as the game went into the final minutes, a single basket by Owen Phillips put Charlevoix ahead 35-33.

Three points from the line then gave the team the three-point winning margin.

Both teams had 45 fouls. Petoskey scored on six of 13 attempts and had 13 personal fouls.

Dan Drury led the scoring with 20 points. Mack Hoffman had 13 points while collecting 10 personal fouls.

The team has a 23 win-loss record over the past 18 games.

Charlevoix advanced to the finals after defeating Cheboygan 45-35.

The Charlevoix Eighth Graders captured their second straight title at the annual Cheboygan-Middle School Invitational tournament by defeating Petoskey 39-36 Saturday night.

The team had a 23-1 record over a two year period.

Volleyball team ends season

The Charlevoix Girls Volleyball team bowed out of the Class C District tournament following its opening appearance in the tournament held at East Jordan Saturday, Coach Brenda Bryan reports.

Rogers City won the eight-team tournament with Kalkaska placing second. Other teams besides Charlevoix in the tournament were Grayling, East Jordan, Traverse City St. Francis, Elk Rapids, and Benzie Central.

Charlevoix got off to a start in the tournament, winning its first three games against a strong Grayling team that eventually advanced to the semi-finals.

However, the team dropped the next two games by scores of 15-8, 15-8 to bow-out of the competition.

In other games Elk Rapids eliminated Traverse City St. Francis, 15-3, 15-3; Kalkaska dumped Elk Rapids 15-4, 7-15, 15-4 and Rogers City won over Benzie Central 15-5, 15-9 in the first round of play.

In the next round, Kalkaska won over East Jordan 15-5, 12-15, 16-14 and Rogers City defeated Grayling 15-0, 15-11.

The finals saw the strong Rogers City eliminate Kalkaska by decisive scores of 15-7, 15-4 to advance to Buchanan, Amy Sell, 15-10 record.

Seniors seeing prep school action for the last time included Rhonda Taylor, who was a Buchanan, Amy Sell, 15-10 record.

Taylor named High School All American in CC

Charlevoix's Bill Taylor, the Rayders' top cross country runner, had still another honor bestowed upon him last week when he was named to the High School All-American Boys Cross Country magazine. He was among 50 runners across the nation to be honored according to "The Runner," an exclusive national Cross Country magazine. He was among four Michigan runners to be honored.

Taylor, who had been running since he was a freshman, was a member of the Rayder team that brought two Class C State Cross Country titles to Charlevoix. During the 1983 season he was undefeated and was the top runner in the Michigan-Huron-Shores Conference, Class C.

PARTICIPATING IN A COMPULSORY MEET at the Great Lakes Gymnastics Center in Lansing recently, four Charlevoix School of Gymnastics and Dance students were among the 72 youngsters on eleven teams competing. In back, left to right, are Carla Henry, 14, who took 5th place in the vault and tied for 5th in floor exercise, and Shelly Bascom, 13, who placed 1st in the vault, 1st on the bars, 4th on the beam, tied for 9th in floor and won 1st place all around. In front are Sara Plackner, 12, who placed 2nd on the beam and tied for 10th all around, and Kerl Vigneau, 9, who tied for 8th place on the beam in the Children's Division.

Independent BB league prepares for final week

The final games in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League will be played Wednesday night with the playoffs for the title scheduled to get underway Thursday according to Dwight Bossa, recreation director.

In games last week, Wayne Aluminum defeated the Air Force 14 for the Bankers.

First State Bank gave second place Judy's Restaurant a battle before going down to defeat at the quarter, tied the score 22-22 at halftime and took the lead at the second time, 33-30, going into the final period before losing by a four-point margin. Stan Martin with 17 points and Don Ward with 13, paced the win for the Jojo's, Chris Clayton and Rod Walker.

Drenth is on U.S. team in CC championship

While many people are focusing their attention on the upcoming Summer Olympics in Los Angeles, one Charlevoix native will be concentrating on the final of the five kilometer event and placed eighth in the world among college runners.

"My best experience in running so far, was being on the U.S. team in the World University Games. We had the same coaches that represent the U.S. Olympic Team," Drenth said.

Drenth is hoping to qualify for both the indoor and outdoor track finals again this spring. Ideally, however, he is striving to lower his 29:07 ten kilometer time to meet the 28:48 Olympic qualifying standard.

"I think I can make the finals of the 10,000 (meters) in the Olympic trials. The biggest thing is staying healthy, and keeping consistent," Drenth said.

Drenth said he prefers running the winding roads and hills of Charlevoix over running the flat farmlands of Mount Pleasant. He has won the 10 kilometer event at the Charlevoix Venetian Festival the past two years and posted a victory for five kilometers in 1981.

Drenth will graduate in December of 1984 with a degree in Biology. Eventually he hopes to teach and be a full-time running coach.

A PROPOSED PLAN for the city's newly acquired Hoffmann Park on Park Ave. was the topic of discussion at Saturday's Keep Charlevoix Beautiful meeting. The plan, shown above, along with a site evaluation was provided by landscape architect Pat Jackson who gathered the ideas for the park at a previous meeting. Jackson's original drawings will be on public display for one month at the Charlevoix County State Bank and one month at the First State Bank. Interested citizens are invited to submit their ideas.

Brabant enters Rep. race

Roscommon attorney Jerry Brabant announced his candidacy last week for the office of State Representative for the 103rd District which includes Charlevoix County.

Brabant is the first Democrat to announce for the position which is presently held by Republican Ralph Ostling, also of Roscommon. Charlevoix Mayor Kenneth Staley, a Republican, has also announced his intention to challenge Ostling for the seat.

Brabant, 36, lives in Lyon Township of Roscommon County with his wife Constance. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from Western Michigan

Talented pair lifts "Streetcar"

by DAVE KNIGHT

In the program, notes for the Little Traverse Civic Theatre's production of "A Streetcar Named Desire", theater goes to express its preferences as to what types of shows the LTCT should be planning for the future. My response to that question, based partially on the "Streetcar" performance, is that the theater can do anything it wants to, just as long as Kate Dekozier and Beth Strawbridge are in it. As acknowledged in the program, "Streetcar" represents somewhat more of a challenge than the average community theater group is willing or able to take on. One can certainly baggage and nothing is presented to the audience for which the ground has not been laid. This is what Kate and Beth do so very well. They met out tiny pieces of their characters to the audience bit by bit. Even no less a stage and screen veteran than about people revealing themselves, Kate, as succumbed to the high voltage of the script while filming the ABC television version of "Streetcar" shown Sunday night. But if director Bev Holden was ever nervous about finding a cast with the right stuff, she must have been mightily relieved after seeing Dekozier and Strawbridge in action. Part of good acting is being frugal. The good actor or actress does not waste a single movement, a single expression, a single moment. Every tiny part of the portrayal is done with purpose. There is no extra baggage and nothing is presented to the audience for which the ground has not been laid. This is what Kate and Beth do so very well. They met out tiny pieces of their characters to the audience bit by bit. Even no less a stage

State counters Medusa

The brief also points out that the high volume samplers, of which three were operated in Charlevoix over the past five years, measure only the average amount of dust in the air over a period of usually 24 hours. Readings from the samplers in Charlevoix were generally taken every six days.

Says the state in its response brief, "High volume samplers do not measure excessively high emissions from a particular source which may contribute to the average. Furthermore, the high volume sampling results do not establish that the particulate emissions from the Defendant's facility are not injurious to the health and welfare of area citizens."

Circuit Court Judge Martin R. Breighner is hearing the case which is expected to continue on into the summer.

Child abuse victims

time when on call. "I have been called out on Thanksgiving Day and New Year's Eve at 11:45."

Contrary to popular belief, most of the abuse-neglect referrals are not restricted to the low sector of society, Marsha observes. "I've had neglect and/or abuse referrals from almost every segment of society ranging from doctors, police officers, etc. I have made home calls in some of the cruelest places in Emmet County and also some of the most beautiful. Just because you have money it doesn't mean you are going to take good care of your kids."

A P.S. worker has to feel compassion for the perpetrators, as much as the child, to be proficient in their job. Mrs. Elliott goes on to say, "On any given day, if you have enough things go wrong, anyone of us could hurt our children. Most of the clients we work with, that is what has happened to them; they are a victim of circumstance."

If abuse or neglect is substantiated and is serious enough to warrant removal from the home, then the child is put into a shelter home for a short period of time until a suitable foster home is found or a court ruling is made. A Shelter Home is designed for this type of short term placement only, with the maximum length of stay being 21 days. The home is also on call 24 hours a day to receive any child. Social Services may place with them. If an opening is available, the Shelter Home accepts the child; any age, any time of the day or night. The child is out of school during the day and the home is responsible for providing 24 hour supervision for each child. That is a tall order for one family to fill.

Jan and Jim Hatbun, Shelter Home operators in Charlevoix County feel, "You have to have love for children. The little kids who know usually have love and who know what else. Most all of them wet the bed. They most likely have not eaten good meals so you have to show them how to eat right. You have to teach them manners and everything else." Jan believes rewards are there. "I would say one out of five kids you get a reward out of. You get satisfaction knowing you helped them. It doesn't come often. The Rathbuns strive to treat each child that passes through their home like family. Even though the children are at their home for a relatively short period of time, Jan feels a definite bonding. "When I go to a store and someone says, 'Are these kids all yours?' I say yes. I say yes, because if I don't, those kids' faces would just drop." Jan is frequently called Mom (whatever is comfortable for the child) although she notes, "Some kids don't want to be injected to family situation at all. Either they have too many bad memories or a lot of them will tell me they have had enough of family. They tell me, 'I will be your friend, but don't treat me like a mother.'"

The child, if made a ward of the State, then leaves the Shelter Home when the Child Welfare Worker assigned the case places the child in a foster home setting. Gary Aschum, Child Welfare Worker for Charlevoix County D.S.S. explains the Department's goals: "The State requires us to choose one of three goals for the child:

1. Eventually reuniting them with their family.
2. Terminating parental rights so they can be eligible for adoption.
3. And in rare circumstances, long-term foster care until they are 18 or 19 years of age."

Even though Charlevoix is staffed with six workers dealing specifically in child welfare who work full time providing services, they are delayed with high case loads and the necessary paper work that accompanies them.

To be continued next week.

City to buy lake frontage

by DAVE KNIGHT

The Charlevoix City Council, acting in executive session Monday night, agreed to purchase, for $215,000, 300 feet of frontage on Lake Charlevoix between the city's Ferry Beach and the north Irish Boat Shop marina.

The city will buy the land from the Charlevoix Development Corporation (CDC), headed by local developers Dick Georgi and Arch Wright, which had obtained the parcel following a bankruptcy proceeding. CDC is currently developing "the Marina Shores project at the site of the former Foster Boat Works."

be generated by a tax incremental financing plan for the Marina Shores project. Under tax incremental financing, the city's tax revenues from equalized valuation increases within the specified TIF district can be used for public improvement projects.

Hunt said that the city's new acquisition will be used as an extension of the Ferry Beach park. He added that CDC agreed not to profit financially from the transaction although the sales people involved were reimbursed for their commission.

Said Hunt, "We are grateful to the company that they have seen fit to help us protect the use of this piece of land as a public beach, which is the best use it can have."

Lousma campaign makes Chx. stop

by DAVE KNIGHT

Former astronaut Jack Lousma, candidate for the Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate, was in Charlevoix Friday to address the Charlevoix County Republican Party at their annual Lincoln Day dinner.

A crowded dining room at the Grey Gables Inn heard Lousma outline a platform based on a strong defense program and a return to what he termed the basic American values of patriotism and family life.

"I see America going in a new direction," said Lousma. "Our patriotism has been at low ebb but under the leadership of President Reagan, we are seeing a resurgence in a strong patriotic feeling for America. I want to be involved in seeing this happen in Michigan."

Lousma, 48, became a U.S. Marine Corps officer in 1959 and in 1966 joined NASA as an astronaut.

He was pilot of the Skylab III mission and commander of the third flight of the space shuttle Columbia. After a 16-year career with the space agency and a total of 1,500 hours logged in space, he retired from NASA in December, 1983.

Lousma referred to his experience as an astronaut as strongly influencing his political views saying, "I have had a chance to see the earth in a unique perspective. From up in space you can see

by SHERRY MATZ

This is the second in a series on how local agencies deal with the victims of child abuse through the Protective Services system and foster homes. Sherry Matz is a freelance writer who works at the Dept. of Social Services office in Charlevoix. The "Katie" referred to in the story is a state ward interviewed by the author; Katie is not her real name.

One of the dilemmas facing local child welfare programs of the Department of Social Services is the increasing number of cases that must be handled by a limited number of staff members available.

Gary Aschum, a Child Welfare Worker for the Department of Social Services, has seen his caseload expand much more rapidly than the time he has to devote to it.

Says Aschum, "With the ever increasing caseloads, it is more and more difficult to actually provide one-on-one services to a child—seems like anymore we end up being worse since." And they will tell you, "They told me that it was my parent's problem but yet I'm the one that is penalized. I'm the one that had to leave home, not them." A very high percentage of children in foster care will run home to that.

Bob Adams, Protective Services Supervisor with Grand Traverse County D.S.S., can sympathize with the Child Welfare Worker's dilemma, but feels that the initial P.S. worker must make a tough and careful decision in the removal of children from their home.

"Moving children out of the home is not a panacea. In fact, I would say that you substitute parental home abuse and home neglect for democratic abuse and neglect when you switch them from home to a foster home. Most kids in foster care will tell you, 'I didn't stop being a victim after Protective Services got involved. That is when victimization started.'"

It was bad in my home but has been worse since. And they will tell you, "They told me that it was my parent's problem but yet I'm the one that is penalized. I'm the one that had to leave home, not them." A very high percentage of children in foster care will run home to that.

Katie felt that victimization in some of the eight foster homes she lived in the last three years. When first placed at a Shelter Home, she was scared and uncomfortable. In a more permanent setting of a foster home she found she was not allowed to date boys, even though she had been married. She noted, "I was frequently sent to school on four to five hours of sleep. This was due to getting up with the foster parent's own children during the night for bottle feedings." Katie recalls that on one occasion, a foster father harshly disciplined her for what he felt was a wrong doing. "He grabbed my arm and I pulled away." Katie continues, "He threw me on the floor and started kicking me. I didn't say anything to anybody about it because I felt I must have deserved it."

With child abuse and neglect increasing each year, one would want to ask the question of how this atrocity could be alleviated all together. Bob Adams feels that two efforts are worthwhile. "One thing they found made a difference is family planning, just to break the cycle. The other is Parent Aides (volunteers) that become friends to clients. They have no motivation, that is financial, but are just to be the friend that they never had. We match them up and the aide is put through some training. It is one of those valuable things we can do, especially for the chronic neglect kind of situation that goes on and on. Parent Aides are suppose to be working with the parent, not the child. The child has enough people seeing how he is doing. No one is going to the parent and saying 'How are you doing?' and that is where the cure will come from, the parent."

Don Collier, Child Welfare Worker for Charlevoix County D.S.S., adds: "We need early detection of incestuous or abusive cases. We need to not have them go on until the child is 16 years old. It becomes very difficult to deal with the child at 16 and very easy at 16, so we need early detection."

The State of Michigan is doing its part by providing a $2.00 donation on the 1983 State income tax return for filing individuals. This $2.00 will go into the Children's Trust Fund, which is established to provide local community funds to programs for the prevention of child abuse and neglect.

Bob Adams of Grand Traverse County D.S.S. feels foster homes do all they can with the children they receive. "We have wonderful foster homes, although Michigan has chosen to pay the foster homes a rate that is less than most kennels for dogs." He coincidentally that the first recorded report of child abuse and neglect was handled by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (A.S.P.C.A.). Dating back in 1874 Henry Bergh, a member of the A.S.P.C.A., brought action to remove a New York child, Mary Ellen, from her parents who were afflicting abuse and maltreatment. This occurred after the report to the police and the District Attorney proved useless. In 1875, one year later, the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was organized. It is sad that the Society for Animals protected the first abused and neglected child on record.

Erber-McKeown sues Road Comm. over bid

by DAVE KNIGHT

The Erber-McKeown Road dealership of Charlevoix has filed suit against the Charlevoix County Road Commission charging that a recent bid accepted by the commission for two trucks was not only higher than a bid from Erber-McKeown for the same trucks but that it came from a Grand Rapids dealership as opposed to an in-county business.

The bid accepted for two Ford single axle dump trucks equipped by Hyde Equipment Co. of Petoskey was $47,495 and from Baglier-Ford Truck of Grand Rapids. According to Tom Erber, president of Erber-McKeown, his firm's bid was $47,304 for the same trucks and equipment, $145 below the Duthier bid. A total of six bids for the trucks were taken on January 9-1984 with the awarding announced on February 16.

Erber explained that a "substantial price concession" from the Ford Motor Company's fleet sales division made it possible for Erber-McKeown to bid more competitively than he normally could. He also said that the warranty offered by Erber-McKeown was identical to Duthier's and that his dealership had furnished the county road commission with trucks in the past, specifically five trucks in 1975 which are still in use.

While the suit seeks damages of $3,000, roughly the profit that Erber-McKeown would have realized from the sale, dealership partner Pat McKeown stressed that the main purpose of the action was not to recover the financial loss.

"We just don't think it is right for the Road Commission to, first of all, spend more of the taxpayers' money than is necessary, and, secondly, to go over 200 miles out of the area to do business when the same vehicles can be purchased locally," said McKeown.

Business mixer attracts over 200

The first Business Mixer sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday, March 6 at the Grey Gables Inn and attracted over 200 Chamber members and guests, according to executive director Jacques Merta.

One of the Chamber's current areas of emphasis is to get members together more often and make the Chamber a more visible part of the community, said Mrs. Merta, and last week's mixer was a means to that end.

On display at the event were displays on local businesses and industries. The mixer was coordinated by a committee including Jack Schmidt, Gary Gleason and Suzi Reis. There are plans to hold the mixers on a regular basis, according to Mrs. Merta. Anyone interested in becoming a Chamber member and taking part can contact her at 547-2101.

To present movie captioned for the deaf

Barnard Grange is sponsoring a number of activities to aid the deaf, according to Mrs. Darlene Dhaseler, deaf projects coordinator for the Grange.

One of them will be a showing of the captioned sound movie "Bugsy Malone" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 21, at the Grange hall on Barnard Road. The film is a musical comedy with an all child cast.

Dates for the April and May movies will be announced later. If there is sufficient interest, similar movies will be shown monthly throughout the year.

Local Granges, also are being asked to contribute toward the purchase of software for the computer purchased recently by the state Grange for the Residential School for the Deaf in Flint.

Hearing aid batteries also are being collected for recycling. Collection cans will be displayed in local stores.

The Grange also offers scholarships to students planning to major in deaf education, audiology, counseling, rehabilitation or interpreting. Scholarships are offered as well to deaf students entering the field of education.

"Lift Up Your Hands," the world's first sign-language songbook, was published by the Grange in 1974. The Grange also has prepared a public service TV spot commercial, "I Hear Your Hand," promoting better understanding of deafness.

For Saints and Sinners

by Pastor Jim Plachner
Bethany Lutheran Church

"They will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Who knows how many millions of times a day that (and other phrases of The Lord's Prayer) are said around the world.

What is God's will? God's will is that all should be saved, and come to the knowledge of the truth - and that we should follow Jesus in love and faith and obedience and life-style.

Even though we know that God's will is good for us, do you ever feel "roped in" by it - bound - restricted? One little boy described God as sitting in His heavens, keeping track of people and making sure that no one had any fun! Ever felt that way?

In a swimming pool there are ropes (with floats on them) which are used as lane markers to keep swimmers headed in the right direction, and to keep swimmers from bumping into each other. God's will serves the same purpose: To keep you from interfering wrongfully in the lives of others. And: to keep you going in the right direction - His direction.

Also in a swimming pool there may be a rope to separate the shallow water from the deeper water, and while this too may seem restrictive, you know why it's there: a warning that you may be getting into something which is over your head. God's will serves that purpose too.

Whenever it seems that God's will may be too restrictive, it is good for us to remember whose will it is - the will of the same God who loves you, forgives you and wants you to live. Note: wants you to live. His will is part of that wanting. As much as Jesus' death and resurrection for you.

Hands," the world's first sign-language songbook, was published by the Grange in 1974. The Grange also has prepared a public service TV spot commercial, "I Hear Your Hand," promoting better understanding of deafness.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) seminars for area businesses and industry have been launched at Charlevoix Area Hospital. The hour, one-day, seminars provide management and employees thorough training in the life-saving techniques of CPR and as well as how to help a choking victim. The seminars, which can be scheduled to fit the needs of businesses, began last Wednesday. Shown here, practicing their techniques are (l to r) Dick Kenney, Kit Carson Lumber Co., Marcell Harrod and Kathy Bradley from The Grey Gables. They are being coached by Charlevoix Area Hospital Laboratory Chief Ralph Corwin. For further information about these classes contact: Kathy Boss, R.N. or Michele Bonnevillie, R.N., 547-4024.

Winter Cup back on

The Winter Cup is on again! The Winter Cup, cancelled earlier this year when a February thaw stripped the Mt. McSaba ski run of snow, is scheduled for Saturday, said Jacques Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Sponsors made the announcement after being advised by Bob Boss, park manager, that the recent cold weather has made it possible to make enough snow for the races.

Only the downhill races will be held at McSaba this Saturday. Registration will be held at noon with ski races getting underway at 1 p.m.

There will be races for all age groups with medals awarded to the top three winners in each category.

Apple Festival planning to begin

The first meeting of the Charlevoix Apple Festival Committee will be held Wednesday, March 21 at 4 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Anyone interested in helping organize the fall festival is invited to attend.

Local classes teach fine points of job-seeking

by PEG OHLE

Eight unemployed men and women indicated interest in several fields of endeavor: Secretarial, communications, computers, sales, bookkeeping, medical assistant, electronics, electrical technician, maintenance, construction, restaurant, retail management, and computer data systems.

The classes in federal-funded Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA), which is trying to bring employers and job-seekers together in many ways.

Through the use of audio-visual and printed materials, Nancy Hubbell, a trained job counselor, took her students through the techniques of applying for jobs, writing resumes, filling out applications, participating in interviews, writing "thank you's" for interviews, and all the other phases of job-seeking.

The students reported

The eight students, on an earlier assignment of inquiring about employment possibilities over the phone. They commented on their contacts with secretaries. They told stories of both encouragement and discouragement.

The classes in Charlevoix will go on for 12 days during the month. The series is one of five similar series going on concurrently in northwest Michigan.

The students were previously screened to determine their financial eligibility on a maximum income basis, and they were paid $5 for attending each class session. However, people not meeting income guidelines are welcome to audit the classes without receiving the $5 per day.

The Job-Seeking classes are one part of the four-part Career Development Program. Others are On-the-Job Training, Vocational Training, and Educational Assistance.

The On-the-Job Training program puts eligible people to work in private industry and pays half of the worker's salary, while he or she is being trained. Among local companies participating in this program are Charlevoix Manufacturing, Petoskey Plastics, Nanny's Old Place, Karl's Bakery, and Small Engines Unlimited.

Vocational training is provided both through the Intermediate School District and North Central Michigan University. While all the above-mentioned programs are for persons of at least average ability, there is another one for those who might be considered illiterate, administered by the same agency.

Headquarters of the Career Development Program are in Traverse City. Further information may be obtained from Elaine Wood at 1-947-4780.

Charlevoix resident, Lee Mooreland, represents Charlevoix County on the Employment and Training Council and the Private Industry Council, which oversee the program after they leave the program.

Davis seeking senior citizen intern

Senior citizens interested in being nominated as this year's Congressional Senior Citizen Intern should contact their area senior centers, according to Congressman Bob Davis.

Davis says he is now seeking nominations for the intern program, which brings a senior citizen to Washington, D.C. for an expense-paid week in the nation's capital. Nominations must be submitted by senior citizens only. Each center can nominate one person, who must be at least 60 years of age, active in the senior community and in good health. This year's program is being held May 7-11.

The Congressional Senior Citizen Intern Program was begun in 1973 to allow one senior citizen from each Congressional District in the country to observe and participate in the workings of the government.

"In addition to spending time in activities at my Washington office," Davis said, "the intern gets the opportunity to attend briefings on issues important to the elderly."

The program is designed to give each senior intern first-hand experience in the workings of the government, which can be shared with senior citizens at home in the Congressional District.

Because he always receives a number of highly-qualified nominations from senior centers in the 11th Congressional District, Davis has made it a practice to pick the intern simply by drawing a name from a hat. Willard Smith of Newberry was last year's Senior Citizen Congressional Intern.

Senior centers wishing to make a nomination should send their candidates name, address, telephone number, date of birth and Social Security number to: Congressman Bob Davis, Congressional Senior Citizen Intern Program, 1124 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515. All nominations must be received in the office by March 30th.

Activities busy Pine River Pl.

The residents of Pine River Place have enjoyed a variety of entertainment in recent weeks, most of which has been arranged by Harold "Mac" McFarland.

The most recent has been the Merry Musical Beach Boys, a quartet of talented musicians, came to the mainland recently to play at the facility.

Mrs. Jenny Rose, who has traveled extensively, has taken the residents on a tour through Mount Rushmore and the Black Hills among other interesting spots in the country in a series of slide presentations.

To vary the entertainment, the First State Bank hosted a bingo party and supplied prizes. Jan McKay was in charge of this event at which the residents of the facility were treated to a series of lessons in bridge for those residents interested in games.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peters visited the facility monthly for a sing along with Mrs. Peters at the piano and Mr. Peters on the violin. In addition, Joyce Homer has completed this event at which the residents of the facility were treated to a series of lessons in bridge for those residents interested in games.

Knight on the Town

Spring training

by Dave Knight

The migration is on. Just the other day I saw about a dozen station wagons slowly circling around the parking lot at Glen's, their luggage racks piled high. Gradually they closed ranks into a vee-shaped convoy, behind an obviously dominant Vista Cruiser and, honking merrily, headed south on U.S. 31.

It's just about this time every year, after local interest in the basketball tournament subsides but before the golf clubs and garden tools emerge from the garage - that folks around Charlevoix come to the conclusion that there is really very little reason to stick around.

So they head for Florida. En masse.

This presents a crisis of major proportion to the local news gatherer. There is just something inescapably dull about a ghost town. No people, no news.

It's so bad that I heard they couldn't even get a quorum around the coffee table at Juliette's the other day. Had to send everybody back to work. Not a single problem got solved.

What goes on down there in Florida, anyway? I've never been there.

It must be like spring training. Charlevoix folks go down there every year to polish up their summer act.

They take a few different bathing suits, couple pairs of slides, handful of tee shirts, they mix 'em up and see which combo work the best on the beach. They figure whatever makes it in Florida - the big leagues - has got to blow the competition away later on at Perry Beach.

There is also a lot of physical conditioning to be done. Come July in the North, you'll find that the only ones who can handle a Frisbee with any flair are the ones who started working out in Florida in March. Anyone who plans on throwing some serious Frisbee around here this summer better hustle down to Ft. Lauderdale like right now. Would you expect Jack Morris to walk to the mound on opening day without the benefit of an exhibition season in Lakeland?

Tanning is another science that one should develop in the pre-season. The summer sun doesn't hang around for long up here so you have to be ready for it when it comes, and not waste any time fooling around.

You don't want to overdo it in training. It's been a long winter so initially just try a few basic moves on the towel, nothing too strenuous. Don't attempt to put lotion on your back without doing some stretching exercises first. Easy way to dislocate an elbow - a common injury to the novice tanner.

Let's face it. Summer is serious business in Charlevoix. Those who want to be good at summering must work at it and they are the ones on the way to Florida right now.

The rest of us will just have to schlep our way through, somehow.

Opinion

"Congratulations. You have a brand new, bouncing baby deduct...er, boy!"

Clockwise

A good idea

by Bob Clock

Everyone thinks it's a good idea, but no one does anything about it. I'm talking about a drop-box at the city hall, so you could pay your city bill when the treasurer's office is closed and still be sure you check in safe hands.

If you're like Clockwise, you write your checks Saturday morning and trot them down to the post office. The only problem with the city bill is that the city hall is located next door to the post office.

I always feel sort of silly slapping a 20-cent stamp on any piece of mail that has to travel less than 100 feet.

Lately, I have been omitting the stamp and delivering the check by hand to the treasurer's office. Only the office is closed Saturdays, and I end up winging an envelope with a check in it through the crack between the double doors. Sometimes it sails to the right over near the cash register counter, and I feel someone is bound to find it.

Other times it veers to the left and lands almost out of sight near what appears to be a cupboard, closet or filing cabinet.

So for someone apparently has always found my payment, but the day is going to come when my check goes out with the trash.

A number of city officials over the years have agreed that a drop-box would solve the problem, but no one has ever done anything about it. A thin slot in the door with some kind of receptacle on the inside would solve the problem once and for all.

CAN YOU REMEMBER such a long skein of subway days in March? I can't. Morning after morning the temperature has plunged well below zero, and daytime temperatures haven't been much warmer, despite a bright hot sun in a clear spring sky.

In fact, Charlevoix - with most of its snow gone - probably has more frost in the ground today than it had all winter.

Fortunately, relief is in sight, according to weather forecasters. If you can keep your pipes from freezing for a couple more days, you'll probably be home free.

The unseasonably cold weather has brought the manufacture of maple syrup to a standstill across the north, since prolific sap runs depend on cold nights and warm days. We've had the cold nights, but daytime temperatures have been disappointing.

However, iceboaters have been out in force, taking advantage of the vast expanses of super-smooth ice that formed in the wake of the last thaw.

Cheboygan students to address PWC meeting

by ANNE KELLY

"Drug and alcohol use by the high school students is an epidemic problem. Eighty percent of the students at Cheboygan High School admit to using drugs or alcohol in the last six months (from the writing of this information). The students, themselves feel that a more accurate estimate would be ninety to ninety-five percent."

"Students Against Drug and Alcohol Abuse, Cheboygan, Michigan."

Consisting of approximately 40 to 50 Cheboygan students representing the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th grades, the group known as "Students Against Drug and Alcohol Abuse" has made an impact on area observers mainly because the effort comes from the students themselves. The group was formed so that the students that do not use drugs and alcohol would have alternative activities. It has been sponsoring social gatherings and community projects since July of 1982. The only requirement for membership, (all high school students are welcome to join and participate) is a "personal commitment not to use drugs and alcohol."

Activities sponsored by the group, students along with their parents, range, anywhere from sailing and hayrides to raquetball and pizza parties.

On Thursday, March 15, at 7:00 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Charlevoix parents and their middle and/or high school aged children are invited to a presentation made by the two student-co-chairpersons of the Students Against Drug and Alcohol Abuse. High school students Tim Pletcher and Paul Oleschowski will explain why and how their group was formed in Cheboygan. The program is sponsored by Charlevoix's PWC (Parents Who Care) organization, which is presently in the organizational stage. Results of a student survey regarding student activities in the community will be discussed. It is hoped by PWC members that Charlevoix students will attend with or without their parents and that all those who concerned about the problem of drug and alcohol abuse in the community will attend.

Child welfare workers...

child ultimately has the final say as to whether they want to be adopted."

The main snag the child welfare worker runs into when receiving a child on their caseload is where to place them. Judy Aray expresses a great need for foster homes for teenagers within Emmet County. Upon having a child committed to her, Judy states that to place that child in foster care, she has zero options. "When I feel foster care is the best answer, I don't have any home that I can place that child in, in this county, for teenagers."

Don Collier, Charlevoix County worker, handles a caseload of fifty-plus and cannot express the need enough: "We are constantly using foster homes outside the county, which creates its own problems as far as putting a distance between the children and the parents, and also a distance between the local resources. The foster homes we do have, we end up putting four children in, which would be much better if we had enough homes that we could just place one child in each home."

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin L. Crandell

Smith-Grandell

Shiela Ann Smith and Kevin Lee Crandell were married on Saturday afternoon, March 3, in St. Matthew's Church in Boyne City.

Father Dennis Stillwell performed the double-ring rite before approximately 400 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlen R. Smith of Boyne City, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Crandell, also of Boyne City.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of sheer polyester lined in acetate taffeta. Chantilly-type lace and appliques of nylon pearl trim adorned the sheer sleeves, ending in ruffled cuffs. A satin ribbon belt topped a bouffant skirt with lace trim, creating a panel effect. An attached chapel-length train completed her costume. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, and spring violets. She was given in marriage by her father.

Darlene Kay Crandell served as maid of honor, and the bride's sister, Karen Smith-Norvick-Crandell, and Charlene Crandell Bush were bridesmaids. Peggy Rolfs served as junior bridesmaid.

The maid of honor wore a gown of wine colored polyester with a matching lace bodice, and the bridesmaids wore gowns of frost pink.

Heather Bingham was flower girl, and Jarrett Lee Brooks, the bridegroom's nephew, was ringbearer.

Bruce Brooks served as best man, and Barry Sydow, Michael Anderson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Eric Corpe and Chuck Swank, cousins of the bride, and Jack Smith, uncle of the bride, were groomsmen.

Ushers were John Still, uncle of the bride; John Still, cousin of the bride; and Les Crandell, Jr., brother of the bridegroom.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Bernice Klump and Laurie Peek.

A wedding reception at the Hudson Township Hall, hosted by the bride's parents, followed the wedding ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was held at St. Matthew's Church, hosted by the bridegroom's mother.

Both bride and bridegroom were members of the 1982 graduating class at Boyne City High School.

The bridegroom, who is a private first class in the Marine Corps, will leave this week for Guantanamo Bay in Cuba. (Photo by Ray Valentine, PPM-CP)

Engagements

Jacqueline Mabee and Thomas McNamara

Mabee-McNamara

The engagement has been announced of Jacqueline D. Mabee and Thomas E. McNamara, both of Charlevoix. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mabee, Maple Grove Rd., and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McNamara, 220 Prospect.

An August 25, 1984 wedding at Elm Point is being planned.

Both Jacqueline and Tom will graduate in June from Western Michigan University. She is working toward a bachelor's degree of Business Administration in accounting and he will receive a bachelor's degree of Business Administration in finance. (Photo by Aartvark Studio.)

St. Mary's to hold annual St. Pat's Day dinner

St. Mary's Parish will sponsor its annual St. Patrick's dinner at the school hall Sunday under the sponsorship of the Parish Club. The dinner will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Julie Supernaw, general chairperson, said that the dinner will again feature a choice of entrees including corned beef and cabbage or baked ham along with a full menu of potatoes, a choice of vegetables, salads, homemade breads, desserts and beverage. Tickets will be the same as last year: Family, $15; adults, $4.00; senior citizens, $3.50; children 12 years and under, $2.50 and children under five years, free.

Assisting will be the following chairpersons: Advertising, Sandy Allard; tickets, Nancy Dixon; clean-up, Mike Bartz and posters, Leigh Ann Lovell.

Area artists to hold Saturday workshops

Two of the artists who are affiliated with the McCune Arts Center as teachers and exhibitors in the Art Tree Gallery Shop announce a series of Saturday workshops.

On Saturday March 17, Cathy Siterlet of Harbor Springs will conduct a spinning workshop. Participants will learn about the use of the spinning wheel, and how to spin a number of fibers. Cathy will demonstrate how to work with such fibers as alpaca, linen, cotton and even dog hair.

To reserve a place in this spinning workshop, which will take place from 9 a.m. till 1 p.m., call the Arts Center at 347-4337. The cost is $12.

On April 7, Cathy will conduct a basketry workshop, during the same hours. Cost of this clinic will be $15, which includes the materials for one reed and seagrass basket which will be completed that day.

The following week on Saturday, April 14 from 9 a.m. till one, Betsy Elliot will hold a Batik Workshop. Betsy's colorful batik long sleeved cotton shirts can be seen in the Art Tree Shop and are especially popular with the young people. A shirt or pillowcase can be worked on that day. The instructor will provide a short, dyes and wax for the materials charge of $16. This also includes the cost of the workshop.

Please call the Arts Center at 347-4337 to reserve a place in any or all of the above three workshops. Teenagers as well as adults will enjoy them.

Rayders shocked 55-52 in district finals

A second straight district championship trophy slipped from the hands of the Charlevoix Red Rayders Saturday night as the underdog Traverse City St. Francis Gladiators nipped the Rayders in the district finals 55-52 in Kalkaska.

Charlevoix ended its season with a 20-3 overall record but the last of those three losses was the one that really hurt.

The Rayders landed in the finals following a pair of wins over Kalkaska and East Jordan in which Charlevoix showed ominous signs of intensity lapses in what should have been blowouts.

In the game against East Jordan Wednesday night, the Red Devils were only behind by one, 13-12, at the end of the first quarter and through a physical style of defense managed to pull ahead 27-25 at the half.

The Rayders began to hit stride in the third quarter, however, and led by nine going into the fourth. Charlevoix kept its momentum in the last stanza and went on to a 52-40 win. In that game, Brent Cole took scoring honors for the Rayders with 22 points while Tim LaBlance had 15 and Doug Sloan 12.

Charlevoix, which many thought would breeze through the districts, often found itself struggling to find the form with which it went undefeated in Michigan-Illion Shores conference play this season.

Said Coach Dave Smith of Saturday night's game, "We played not to lose but we played not to win, either." To Smith, a sluggish offense that little resembled the running, gunning style of the Rayders' regular season had a lot to do with the disappointing loss.

In fact, it was a most uncharacteristic mental error that sealed the Rayders' fate. With three seconds left in the game, LaBlance canned a jump shot that made the score 53-52. St. Francis' Mike Breithaupt to the line where he sank the two shots for the victory.

It was early in the contest, though, that the Rayders knew they had a ballgame on their hands. The two teams handed the lead back and forth in the first quarter which ended with a 12-12 tie.

In the second quarter, Charlevoix's superior rebounding strength began to assert itself as the Rayders opened a 30-24 lead, their biggest of the half, largely through the efforts of John Pearl, under the offensive boards. One basket by St. Francis just before halftime closed the gap to 30-26 at intermission.

It was in the third quarter that the momentum began to change as two of Charlevoix's inside stalwarts, Jim Martin and Doug Sloan, got into foul trouble while sharpshooter Brent Cole couldn't crack the light Gladiator defense.

Pressing the length of the court, Charlevoix showed flashes of brilliance as they climbed to a seven point lead, 39-32. But then the roof caved in as St. Francis came right back with eight straight to lead 40-39 at the end of the quarter.

The two teams were never separated by more than two or three points throughout the fourth quarter. But the fouls, as well as cold shooting, continued to plague the Rayders with both Sloan and Martin fouling out in the closing minutes.

Said Smith tactfully, "We never adjusted to the officiating." Senior Tim LaBlance in his last game as a Rayder led the team in individual scoring with 18. Junior John Pearl had 10 points and 13 rebounds. Cole and Sloan had nine apiece, way below their average. As a team the Rayders hit only 24 field goals in 61 attempts for an uncharacteristic 39 percent.

John Pearl has an unwanted shadow in Wednesday's game against East Jordan.

This defender is no match for Tim LaBlance's jump shot.

Emmet tops Charlevoix in pistol shoot

In a pistol shoot held last Thursday at the Emmet County Sportsman's Club, the host club beat the visiting team from Charlevoix, Gray 261, B. Blissett 227, For Charlevoix, 1251 score.

Individual scores were: D. Terryberry 225 and scores were R. Turcott, 282, J. Glaser 259, B. F. Zedniczek 260, T. Ball 250, J. Bodette 252, For Emmet County, and K. Glaser 240.

After losing a 104 first period lead, the Air Force trailed County State Bank 17-16 at the half and 28-22 going into the final period only to had led 16-7, 39-21 and 66-33 by quarters. Dave Somerville had 17 points, Ike Boss and Kevin Morrison 11 each for the Bankers.

For the third time this season, Townhouse defeated second place Judy's Restaurant, this time by a score of 81-56.

The final standings are as follows: Townhouse 16-1; Judy's Restaurant 13-4; Kit Carson 12-5; Erber-McKeown 9-4; First State Bank 7-10; Wojan Aluminum 5-12; County State Bank 3-14 and Air Force 2-15.

Carson, Townhouse are playoff winners

Kit Carson upset Judy's Restaurant by a score of 65-43 in an overtime game. Townhouse won over Erber-McKeown 86-44, 42-32, and 60-47 by quarters before winning by a 22 point margin. Chris Polman had 22 points, Steve Dunkleberg 21, Dan McKenzie 20, and Kraag Lieberman 12 for Townhouse. Dennis Dominic and Van Sloan contributed 18 points each and Jim Parrish 15 for Erber-McKeown.

Independent BB league sees regular season action draw to close

The play-offs for the Charlevoix Independent Basketball title is now underway with the top four teams in the league. Townhouse, Judy's Restaurant, Kit Carson and Erber-McKeown Ford engaged in the action.

As the regular season of 17 games for each team drew to a close on Wednesday, Air Force had racked up its second win of the season by defeating County State Bank 39-38 in an overtime game. Erber-McKeown downed Wojan Aluminum 88-45. Kit Carson won over First State Bank 86-45 and Townhouse held on to first place in the standings with an 81-56 win over Judy's Restaurant.

After losing a 104 first period lead, the Air Force trailed County State Bank 17-16 at the half and 28-22 going into the final period only to had led 16-7, 39-21 and 66-33 by quarters. Dave Somerville had 17 points, Ike Boss and Kevin Morrison 11 each for the Bankers.

For the third time this season, Townhouse defeated second place Judy's Restaurant, this time by a score of 81-56.

The final standings are as follows: Townhouse 16-1; Judy's Restaurant 13-4; Kit Carson 12-5; Erber-McKeown 9-4; First State Bank 7-10; Wojan Aluminum 5-12; County State Bank 3-14 and Air Force 2-15.

Lundteigen wins pair of top ski honors

Double honors have been won by Erik Lundteigen, a member of the General Motors team of the Metro Detroit Ski Council.

which boasts a membership of approximately 350 skiers of all age groups. Lundteigen, sking in the Elite class, was awarded the club's World Cup Trophy six-member ski team earning a total of 147 points during the race first place in a competition for the top prize, a trip to Colorado.

The following week, Lundteigen said: "The club is composed of skiers of all ages who ski in classes according to their ability. The majority of the skiers, both men and women, are former skiers on college teams or people who have been racing for some time."

During the season a skier accumulated points during the eight-race season. Most of the races are held at Thunder Mountain or Boyne Mountain, he said.

Lundteigen who skis with the General Motors team, is one of 30 skiers in the Elite or top class, among the five classes within the Council.

In the races that won him a trip to Colorado next month, his team was composed of three men and three women.

Lundteigen won state recognition as a skier while a member of Charlevoix High School.

Erik Lundteigen (far right) of Charlevoix, and his teammates on the GM Seville Ski Club of Detroit, receive their trophies as the first place finishers out of a field of 65 teams at the Grand Mariner Ski Club Challenge Midwest Regional Championship, Boyne Mt., Mar. 14, a head-to-head slalom competition. Making the presentation is Carolyn Kiser (fourth from left), of Carillon Importers, Ltd., exclusive U.S. importers of Grand Mariner.

Why Are These Men Smiling?

Meet Cecil Peterson. He's the smallish man with the newspaper. Cecil never misses a chance to check what's happening in his hometown.

Why? Just last week he found a bird cage for his pet gerbil in the Charlevoix Courier Classified section. The reason Cecil is reading while standing up in a crowd (he usually has better manners but he doesn't know any of these fellows anyway) is because he's reading a story about his nephew's basketball team.

Cecil never misses one single issue of his hometown newspaper because he knows that it's crammed full of stuff that the city dailies never touch. Stuff like local bargains at his favorite stores, those juicy classified ads, and what's happening at city hall.

There was even a story about Cecil the time he grew the largest squash he's ever seen. Or anyone else had ever seen for that matter. Cecil cut that picture out and put it in his scrapbook. He ate the squash.

Oh yes, why are those other fellows smiling?

Well, first they're on their way home and second they know their hometown newspaper will be waiting for them when they get there.

High school band plans spring concert Sunday

The Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band will present an early spring concert at the high school gymnasium at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 18, under the direction of Terry Isenbarger.

Featured in the concert will be the three selections played in the District II Michigan Band and Orchestra Festival which won the 70-piece band a straight rating and qualified the band for participation in the state competition to be held next month. The numbers are "Britany March" by Peter Sivanich, "Novena" by James Swearingen and "Short Prelude with Perspectives" by John Caruso. Instrumental soloists Mary Camilleri, Lara Stargardt, Michelle North, Dan Staublin and Andre Fiedler, who received first division ratings at the District Solo-Ensemble Festival, will perform portions of their solos. They will participate in the State Solo-Ensemble Festival at Big Rapids, March 24.

In addition, the high school jazz band will play several jazz selections. The band will have its first opportunity to use the portable bandshell purchased recently by the Band Boosters for use in the gymnasium, Mr. Isenbarger said.

Admission to the concert is free.

A 'Special Gym' for special students

by ANNE KELLY

In mainstreaming, the school-aged child with special needs is placed as much as possible with his/her peers in the regular school program. Tom Terry, highly individualized Program (HIP) director at Charlevoix Elementary School, has gone one step further in helping his special students do this through a perceptual-motor program called "Special Gym". The program was introduced to Tom last year by physical education teacher, Jim Glynn, who facilitated this technique in his physical education classes while teaching in Europe and in Romulus, Michigan.

The program offers evaluation and training in body management activity as well as perceptual-motor skills. When utilized in early education, the techniques may be utilized to reinforce basic skills and help children overcome difficulties in perception which affect their classroom learning.

In Tom's situation, "Special Gym" integrates the growth of perceptual, motor and social skills in the elementary school child, and function on the handicapped child's own level and proceed at their individual learning pace. Students learn to make decisions, take directions from adults and peers, develop self-control, initiate interactions, keep records of their progress, develop eye-hand coordination and other perceptual skills deemed necessary for successful academic performance.

Both handicappers and their tutors benefit from their interactions: the special education student's perceptual-motor abilities are advanced and they model their behavior after the older tutors. The tutors gain a better understanding of children with behavioral and/or learning deficit and acquire leadership skills as more of the program's operation is delegated to them while the teachers supervise from a distance. About a year ago, Tom presented a proposal, part of which has been quoted above, to the Program Committee of the Council for Exceptional Children (C.E.C.). It explained "Special Gym" and its purposes in order that Tom might present the program at their next annual spring conference. Tom will be taking his presentation and a slide program to accompany it to Washington, D.C. professionals and parents.

Official Notice

The following ordinance was adopted by the County Board of Commissioners of Charlevoix County, Michigan on March 5, 1984.

ORDINANCE NO. 436
THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDINANCES.
That Title II, Chapter 22, Section 252 entitled "Service Connection", shall be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 252 - Service Connection. Applications for water connections shall be made to the Department on forms prescribed and furnished by the Department. Water connections and water mains shall be installed in accordance with rules and regulations of the Department and upon payment of the required connection fee and installation fee. All meters and water connections shall be the property of the City. Connection fees shall not be less than the cost of materials, installations, and overhead attributable to such installations. Connection fees and meter installation fees shall be paid to the City at the time the application is filed, and shall be no less than the amount as the Council shall, from time to time, determine by resolution. The required connection fee and meter installation fee shall be charged to each property served.

This ordinance was adopted by the City Council of Charlevoix at a regular meeting held on March 5, 1984, by the following yeas and nays: Yeas: Councilmembers Block, Muma, Grever, Temms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Kenneth Staley, Mayor James Brinker, City Clerk/Treasurer

SEBASTIAN SERNA
Funeral services for Sebastian (Sam) Serna, 75, who died March 7 at his Charlevoix Township home, were held Saturday at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Born in Montreal, Wis., Dec. 10, 1908, Mr. Serna moved to Chicago at the age of one year with his parents. He lived there until coming to Charlevoix at the age of six. When he was 16 years old he returned to Chicago where he was employed and where he married the former Agnes Dressler in 1930. They returned to Charlevoix to live in 1964. He was employed at the former Freedman Aircraft Corp. until he retired in 1974. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Leo (Geraldine) Drews of Charlevoix; a son, Ronald, of Charlevoix; three grandchildren; one great-grandson; three half-brothers; Edward Gengle of Dearborn, William Gengle of Chicago and Anthony Gengle of Petoskey; and a half-sister, Mrs. George (Mary) Gengle of Grand Rapids.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Friday evening.

R. BENJAMIN EMMONS
News of the death of a former resident, R. Benjamin Emmons, 74, in an Ypsilanti nursing home January 30 has been received here.

Born in Grand Rapids April 17, 1905, Mr. Emmons had been a sales representative for a Grand Rapids firm until his retirement. He had lived in Charlevoix for the past 12 years until going to southern Michigan several weeks ago. He was a member of Christ Episcopal church here.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Lawton of Ypsilanti and a son, Ralph B. Emmons, Jr. of Mt. Pleasant.

National Surveyors Week is being observed locally

"We are moving into a new era of surveying. The future will be greatly enhanced by the use of computers, satellite positioning systems and other technological developments. All this technology will serve to improve both the quality and efficiency of the services which surveyors offer."

In other words, modern technology has opened up an entirely new concept of surveying," Mary Feindt, who heads the county's oldest surveying firm, Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co., said during the observance of National Surveyors Week, March 11-17.

The observance, being promoted by the American Congress on Surveying and Mapping, is designed to inform the public of the vital services of the surveying profession. The American Congress on Surveying and Mapping is a national organization of surveyors. It was founded in 1942 and Charlevoix County Surveyor since 1944, of the profession has been moving into a new era of surveying.

Survey records in Charlevoix County date back to the first government surveys of the 1830's before Michigan became a state. These records reveal that in the early years Joseph R. Dixon, D.C. Neillston, E.K. Robinson and E.A. Robinson, for whom streets in Charlevoix are named, were among the early surveyors. "Everytime we do a survey in the area, we retrace their footsteps though the footsteps were made more than a century ago. You learn their methods of doing their work. You come to feel as though you know them," Mrs. Feindt said of these men, who platted the city and a major part of the area.

"Surveying or the results of surveying and mapping are so much a part of everyone's life, whether we realize it or not, that I am happy to see attention given to the profession," Mrs. Feindt said of the proclamation that has established this week as National Surveyors Week.

University Women to meet

The March meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held on Tuesday, March 20, at 7:30, in Room 122 at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

The program will consist of a panel of speakers on the subject of "Politics of Women's Health Care".

Speakers will include Claire Heidke, M.D., Robin Jordan, R.N., Midwife, and Alice Maylton, Nurse Practitioner. Nyla Lumley will moderate the discussion.

Oddfellows win tourney

The Oddfellows and the Masons closed out play in the annual cribbage tournament Thursday with the Oddfellows successfully defending their title.

With seven tables in play the Oddfellows won by six points for a total point victory of 396 points after 10 weeks of play.

The Oddfellows will now be guests of the Masons at a dinner to be held at the Masonic Temple at 6 p.m. Thursday as their reward for winning the title for the season. Don Couss, tournament secretary, said.

Richard Bergmann had the highest score, 965, for the Oddfellows. Richard Wurst had 940 for the Masons.

Various awards won during the tournament will be presented at the dinner.

Charlevoix Floral sets open house

Charlevoix Floral, a complete new floral shop, will hold an open house in its new location in Olsson's Shopping Center this on Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Every visitor will receive a free carnation.

Charlevoix Floral is operated by Jeanne Michael and Mary Novotny, both of whom have had considerable experience in the business. They will be assisted on a part-time basis by Carole Novotny.

The shop features a complete line of fresh and silk flowers, green and flowering plants, arrangements for weddings, funerals, and other occasions, and an assortment of baskets and decorative pots.

They are members of Teleflora Wire Service, which makes it possible for customers to "send" flowers or plants anywhere in the country.

"We will appeal to the walk-in customer," Mrs. Michael explained. "It's nice that way because we can discuss the suitability of colors and styles and make the arrangements while the bride and/or her mother can sit and plan their wedding professional florist."

Jeanne Michael, Carole Novotny and Mary Novotny.

Student initiative worked in Chéboygan Pair claims that straight is great

by ANNE KELLY

"I have learned how to have a good time, without getting busted, without getting my car taken away, without getting drunk and getting in a fight with my girl friend," Tim Pletcher.

This was the candor with which Chéboygan high school seniors Pletcher and Paul Olechowski described the impact of their newfound "straight life".

The occasion was the recent Parents Who Care meeting held Thursday, March 15 at the American Legion Hall. Approximately 150 people, the majority of which were students, attended the meeting. They came ready to challenge the PWC's right to discuss such sensitive issues as curfew, and left with perhaps a new perspective on parental concern.

Both Chéboygan boys admitted to having been "partiers" and "stoners", kids who depend on alcohol and drugs for their kicks. In Chéboygan, after all, what else is there for a high school kid to do? Much, now, thanks to the efforts of these two boys, their organization, parents, had their supporters.

"What turned it for me," Paul confessed, "was that—in my sophomore year I got busted by the cops. I was at the point where I didn't care about anybody—myself or my parents."

"Paul arrived home the day of the bust to find police cars in the driveway and his dad out in the garage-workout-gym, breaking his hand on a punching bag in frustration and disappointment.

"My Dad's a big guy," Paul continued, "I realized that it could have been me he was beating up." There followed a confrontation with Paul's father, Paul's friend Tim Pletcher, teary-eyed mothers, a father who would have liked to kill his son—Tim, and a table loaded with incriminating evidence in the form of pot, smoking paraphernalia, and beer cans.

Tim attributes much in his change in attitude to Paul's father, who, rather than resorting to violence or self-incrimination for having failed, merely placed the responsibility for their actions back on the boys.

"What are YOU going to do about this?" Dr. Olechowski demanded of these boys, one of which was his son, both of which were friends, football players, stoners.

"It was then I realized that I was no different than the stoners on the street. I rebelled against being a goody-two-shoes... but the worst part of it (messing with drugs) is that it keeps growing and getting worse... what's it going to do for you in the long run? Get you a good job?!" Paul was ready to try some alternatives.

Tim Pletcher and Paul Olechowski

Tim explained that it wasn't easy winning the trust back that they had lost with their parents and with the community. For starters, they called everyone they knew, most of whom thought the boys were crazy or drunk when they called. They had to find a few kids who were mature enough not to have to be on drugs to have a good time. At the first "meeting" of such a group, there were only five: Tim, Paul, and three others. It wasn't much, but it was the start.

Re-figure flyover risks to Big Rock: NRC

by TOM DAMMANN

A detailed review of a 1980 U.S. Air Force (USAF) analysis of the chances of a B-52 bomber crashing into Consumer Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant has been ordered.

In directing the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) safety to make the review, an NRC Safety and Licensing Board Administrative Judges' panel pointed out that there are some "conceptual errors" in the "probability formulations" by the USAF. The order opens the whole question of the potential danger to the public in the event of an air crash at Big Rock.

The order was issued March 7 by a panel of three NRC judges who were expected to rule this month on whether or not Consumers should be granted permission to more than double the amount of waste nuclear fuel it can store in Big Rock's spent (waste) fuel pool.

The pool is an open deep concrete box in which spent, but still highly radioactive, fuel rod assemblies are hung in water, which must be constantly kept at below 150 degrees Fahrenheit.

The utility filed its request for permission to increase the number of spent fuel assemblies from 193 to 441 five years ago this summer.

Needed: more area foster care homes

by SHERRY MATZ

This is the conclusion of a three-part series on how local agencies deal with victims of child abuse.

For many child abuse victims in this area, foster care may be the best option available to Department of Social Services, child welfare workers.

But locating enough foster homes to handle the department's growing caseload is becoming increasingly difficult.

Mary Spanburg, Foster Home Licensing Worker for the Charlevoix

County D.S.S., welcomes any area residents who have ever considered providing foster care to contact her office.

"We really need them," she says, "We need foster parents who are willing to give any child a try in their home, no matter what their problems or what the age is."

Mary stresses that you can now be a foster parent even if you are a single parent, or if you are a single adult. "We find quite often that a one-parent family, whether they have children or their own or not, works real well with these kids because they get a lot of attention and it really helps. A lot of these kids that come from a one-parent family react to that. If they are not used to having other brothers and sisters to compete with, it is real hard for them to stand in line. As far as being considered eligible," Mary states, "anybody that cares about kids or has an interest in molding young adults."

Before considering taking abused-neglected children into your home, you have to give careful deliberation to the realities. A few of them may be:

"Foster parents have to tolerate the natural family of the child... Be aware of the drug culture in your area."

"Discuss the decision with your own children first, get their opinion and input."

"Making a commitment to provide foster care is something that Grant and Sandy Woolford of Emmet County have been doing for 12 years. Sandy feels a big part of providing care is constantly reassuring the child that he is not at fault. "They never look at home as bad, because that is Mom and Dad. It is all my fault, I did it. I'm the one that was bad, that's why. They run around with this guilt-trip and you have to keep reassuring them all the time it is not their fault." In explaining why they are in foster care, Sandy tells the child: "It is the grownups who decided that this is where you have to be for awhile. To give everybody a rest and see if they can't get their act together so when you do go home, everyone will be all right. Hopefully, the child believes you but nine times out of ten they don't. It is still my fault because I'm the one who was taken away." Grant and Sandy accept children from birth to age seven years, as two of their own children still at home are older. Sandy feels opening up their home to less fortunate children has had a positive effect on their own children. "It has helped our kids. It has really taught them to share. Not only the material things, but to share themselves."

Gary and Shariene Spencey in Charlevoix County have been providing foster care to teenagers for two years and are as excited about it now as the day they first began. Shariene, having raised five children with three still at home, knows plenty about the trials of having teens in the home but feels teens do not pose any problems, out of the ordinary. "They don't want me as their mother; they want their mother like me. It has to be a awful hard for those kids to distinguish the difference. That is why when we have to live and why can't my home be like this?" Even being a rookie in foster parenting, Shariene bubbles as she explains what she has learned: "The rewards you get are so overwhelming. When they come up to you and put their arms around you and say they love you, you could just melt right there. And they do."

Plans for Camp Chx. to be revealed

by DAVE KNIGHT

Development proposals for the former Camp Charlevoix property in Hayes Township, which may include an 18-hole golf course, a residential subdivision and a marina, will be described at a special meeting of the township's Planning Board Wednesday, March 28 at 7:30 p.m.

The 27-acre parcel on the Lake Charlevoix shoreline near Oyster Bay was operated as a boys camp for many years until its closing in 1971. Three Detroit-area men, William Fox, Randy Agley and Mike Timmis obtained the property earlier this winter.

According to Charlevoix architect Jack Begrow, who is working with the developers on plans for the property, a firm decision on what will be presented to the township planners March 28 will not be made until next week.

"We are still exploring three or four ideas on paper," said Begrow this week. "But we don't expect to make up our mind until next Monday."

The special meeting was originally scheduled for March 20 but was postponed when the developers indicated that their plans were still in formative stages and would not be ready by that time. The meeting will be strictly informative in nature, said Begrow, and is designed to give the planners and other interested citizens an idea of what the developers propose before the final planning steps are taken.

More than one development proposal for the Camp Charlevoix property over the past decade has been stymied by the problem of providing adequate sanitation facilities.

District Health Department sanitarian Larry Levegood said that, for a residential development of any size, septic tanks and drain fields are all but out of the question due to soil conditions and the proximity to the lake.

The two other primary options that developers have been studying with the Health Department and the Department of Natural Resources include a lagoon system and the construction of a sewer line to the City of Charlevoix.

Said Begrow, "Sanitation is the major limit to the density on the property and we will certainly be addressing this issue."

Emergency exercise set for county

by PEGGOHLE

The Charlevoix County Emergency Services Department and its counterpart in Emmet County will hold a day of exercises in May to test emergency preparedness in both counties.

Emergency Services has held three other preparedness exercises in recent years. All three were geared to a disaster at Consumer's Power Nuclear Plant at Big Rock Point, but the exercises this year will be different.

The possibility of a highway accident in Charlevoix or Emmet County involving hazardous materials is very real, Muma points out, because U.S. highways are located in both counties. The possibility of heavy storms in the area is great at any time of the year, a hazard analysis for Charlevoix

County Dems lean to Mondale

The Democratic caucus in Charlevoix County Saturday brought out 219 Democrats in a county well known as a Republican stronghold—in the state Ruth Crawford of East Jordan, Democratic party chairperson, said Saturday night.

Of that number, Mondale received 115; Hart, 93; Jackson, eight; McGovern, one, with two uncommitted.

A breakdown shows the Democrats voting in the Boyne City and East Jordan areas casting their ballots for Mondale while Charlevoix area voters favored Hart.

In the Boyne City area the results were 78 votes cast: Mondale received 44; Hart, 30; Jackson, two; McGovern, one, and one uncommitted.

The results in East Jordan were 54 votes cast: Mondale received 36; Hart, 15 and Jackson, two.

Charlevoix area voters, on the other hand, showed a preference for Hart who received 55 of the 87 votes cast while Mondale received 35, Jackson, three with one uncommitted.

There was no Democratic caucus in the two townships on Beaver Island.

Food pickup is next week

The distribution of cheese and possibly other foods to those persons who qualify according to the guidelines set down by the Department of Social Services will be made at the Charlevoix V.F.W. Post (Home on US 31 North on Wednesday, March 28 from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

All persons who qualify and are physically able are asked to pick up the cheese and other foods offered. Those physically unable to make up to you and put their arms around you and say they love you, you could just melt right there. And they do."

To qualify for the cheese and other foods, one person must have an income of no more than $6,075; a family of two, $8,475; a family of three, $10,775 and a family of four, $12,775.

These guidelines must be followed to qualify for the cheese and other foods that might be offered.

For those unable to pick up the food themselves, it is imperative that a note with the above information authorizing someone else to make the pick-up must be sent with the authorized person.

Grandvue Aux. meeting again

The Auxiliary of the Grandvue Medical Care Facility resumed meetings recently after suspending them during the inclement weather and immediately got down to the business of spring planning.

The first event discussed was the annual spring games party and bake sale scheduled for April 12. The event, to be held at 1 p.m., is open to the public. Anyone planning to attend is asked to fill a table. Members will be asked to fill a table for any kind of game desired, supply prizes and baked goods for the bake sale. They are also asked to furnish cookies for refreshments. Mrs. Donald Vinn, Auxiliary president, asked the cooperation of the entire membership and friends of Grandvue for this party which is one of the organization's chief fund-raisers.

The scholarship fund underwritten by the Auxiliary was also discussed at length. It was decided to underwrite the cost of registration fees for Grandvue personnel who might like to attend seminars and workshops relating to the operation of the facility. This, it was emphasized, would be on a trail basis.

At the program which followed the business meeting, Julie Bradford of Boyne City spoke on the subject "On Being Grandparents" in which she stressed the important role grandparents play in the life of a child and how important it was for Leva Cole hosted the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the same time and place as the games party, 1 p.m. April 12.

Construction costs of all jobs for which permits were issued were $225,000 addition to the Wojan Alumnium Corporation building in Charlevoix.

County Building Inspector Howard Carson told the Board of Commissioners last week that things "looked good" for the construction business in the next few months. "We have a lot of preliminary plans," he said, "and people are just waiting for the weather to break to start building."

Coulter enters St. Rep. race

Michael J. Coulter of Petoskey last week announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket for State Representative from the 103rd District.

Coulter, who is day manager of the Eagles Club in Petoskey, says his major qualifications for the job is his contact with people. "I hear their voices. I know how they feel about property taxes and business regulations," he told the Courier.

Asked if he had any ideas about solving these problems, he said he would prefer to finance schools with a sales tax. "It's a much better tax," he added.

As a business regulations, he believes the single business tax should be eliminated.

"They've merely opened the door to solving the business regulation problem," was his comment.

Coulter ran for State Representative in 1982, when Petoskey was in the 107th District. He lost in the primaries but announced he would run again in 1984. He is running, but in the 103rd District, after spending over $1,000 on his candidacy in the 107th District.

"I'm trying to present an image of the old Republican Party," he explained. "The Republican Party is a philosophy of life, not a status in society."

About Ralph Ostling, who presently represents the 103rd District in Lansing, Coulter says, "Ralph has done a fine job, but he is a 12-year veteran of politics. I have been in contact with people and can carry their message to Lansing. I have new thoughts and ideas."

Although Ostling has not announced his plans to run for re-election, it is assumed that he will, and Mayor Kenneth Staley of Charlevoix has announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket.

Coulter has a long list of credentials in Republican Party activities. He was a field worker for Reagan and Bush in 1980, and for John Anderson when he ran for the State Senate in 1982; he was a delegate to the Republican State Convention in 1983 and 1984, and chairman of the Emmet County Fair Republican Booth.

Other interests are the Petoskey Lions Club, of which he is a board member; Petoskey Eagles Club, of which he is chairman of the legislative committee; and Knights of Columbus.

In his resume, Coulter states, I started by working in our family business, pumping gas and renting motel rooms. I have farmed and logged with a team of horses; while a student in school I worked in a TV repair shop and cooked in restaurants. One summer, I managed a small restaurant."

Coulter's later work experiences include employment with the Petoskey Manufacturing Company as quality control manager and safety director, Perry Sales Company in Petoskey as new and used car salesman and used car manager, and Fisher Body Division of General Motors in production, quality control, and specifications. His military credentials include eight years in the United States Coast Guard Reserve. Coulter studied at Lansing Community College, General Motors Training Schools, and North Central Michigan College. He is the father of two children and step father of three others.

His wife, Kay, is employed by Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Breighner to run for Circuit Court re-election

Martin B. Breighner, efficiency and integrity," said Judge Charles and Emmet Breighner in an announcement of his candidacy.

A World War II veteran of the Navy, Breighner received both his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Michigan. Before moving to Northern Michigan in 1957, he was a corporate officer and counsel for Argus Cameras in Ann Arbor.

Among his community involvements are past presidencies of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce, and the Emmet County Bar Association. He is a Milliken. He was formerly director and campaign chairman of the Petoskey Regional Community Chest, a founder of the Petoskey Geriatric and Care Center and a former director of the State Bank and Trust Company of Petoskey.

Professionally, Breighner has authored articles in the Michigan Bar Journal and has lectured at such functions as Law Day, Legal Services regional meeting and an American Bar Association Court of Claims in Lansing. Breighner, who lives in Petoskey with his wife Nancy, has one son who practices law in Harbor Springs and two younger children in college.

Utilizing the experience gained through 22 years of law practice and 10 years on the bench, I want to continue to serve the people of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties as Judge of the Circuit Court," he said in his announcement.

Bill would ban road salt

Citing damage to autos as well as highways, State Senator Mitch Irwin (Sault Ste. Marie) has introduced Senate Bill 676 to prohibit the use of salt for snow removal on road surfaces.

"It's clear that the use of salt for snow removal harms cars as well as roads," said Irwin. "What most people don't realize is that salt use also jeopardizes our groundwater."

"If our priority is to prevent future groundwater contamination, we should begin now by banning this practice," he said.

Irwin said the use of salt as a deicing agent can cause groundwater pollution, an imbalance in lakes and streams, soil erosion, and the corrosion of highway structures and vehicles, among other concerns. Other deicing agents, such as sand, have been suggested as alternatives, said Irwin.

"Our goal is to maintain safe passage fresh water and quality on our highways while of life which we rate so preserving and highly here in protecting our quality of Michigan," Irwin said.

Knight on the Town

Land deal addendum

By Dave Knight

The story reported in the Courier last week about the City Council's decision to purchase the 300-foot lake frontage lot just north of Ferry Beach needs a bit more fleshing out.

We got the details of the plan just hours before press time and were not able to furnish some important background material on the deal.

As many of you know, the property in question was indeed owned by the city over thirty years ago. On June 18, 1953, it was sold to Robert Schlemmer's South Bend Tool & Die Company at the price of $10 a foot. Three days before that sale went through, Schlemmer obtained some property on the bluff overlooking Ferry Beach. The plan as described at the time was for the beach property to provide a right-of-way to the lake from the bluff where a factory was envisioned.

None of these plans materialized, however, and eventually the Ferry Beach property, which had been on the market recently for as much as $400,000, wound up in bankruptcy court. Charlevoix Development Company - Dick George and Arch Wright - negotiated a $215,000 sale price for the lot with the bankruptcy court. The arrangement was then worked out between CDC and the city to sell the frontage to the city for that same purchase price. The city now has, in effect, an option to buy the land from the bankruptcy court through CDC.

At least one council member justified the purchase saying, "We'll never have a chance like this again to obtain this valuable property."

It has since been learned that there may be matching federal funds available to help develop the parcel into an extension of the Ferry Beach park. Applications for such funding, due by the end of the month, were approved Monday night by council.

nucleus of a group which, now numbers about 55. They called themselves "Students Against Drugs and Alcohol Abuse". Their purpose is to provide an alternative to substance abuse for the students in their high school. Activities center around music, food, friends and fun. There have been dances, pizza parties, sailing, wind surfing and even a mud pit and four-wheel drives party. There have been lots of good times in two years without any drugs or alcohol.

"If you can find kids who are willing to have a good time without drugs, you can do what we did," Tim explained to the group of Charlevoix students and their parents. "You'll get lots of parent and community support and probably have a lot more freedom than you have right now."

"The other kids, many of whom used to be your party friends, but not like you for what you're doing, but they'll respect you," both boys told the audience. "There are always going to be kids who will harass but you have to decide that because they need love so bad. Most of them have never had discipline or love, either one. They have just pretty much raised themselves and been abused in the process."

...Foster care homes

There is no doubt, being a foster parent is difficult. You have to let go, even if you know the child you have been loving and caring for may return to the same home you have been helping him recover from. Gary Aschm, Child Welfare worker, feels there is a way to approach these emotions: "Look at it as you are opening up an emotional bank account for these foster kids that you bring in. Every day those kids are there, they are making a deposit into their emotional bank account. You may not see the results of that for a few years, but eventually those kids are going to reflect back on that."

That these people cared for me and there are decent people in the world. I had a good time there and that is how "normal" people should live. Eventually they will make withdrawals from that emotional bank account," Gary sums up.

"That is the most foster parents can hope for, that eventually these kids are going to look back on that as a positive experience and be able to use that in their life someday."

Opinion

CHARLEVISION

Spring comes to Charlevoix.

Clockwise

Behind schedule

By Bob Clock

Does it take you as long as it takes me to get chores completed around the house?

At the start of the new year, the family laid out an ambitious interior redecorating schedule for me to complete before mid-June when we are expecting company from out-of-town.

The living room was to be re-done in January, the dining room in February, the downstairs bathroom in March, and the spare bedroom in May.

March is now drawing to close and I'm still working on the living room. True, I'm making progress, but I'm still a long way from being finished. The old wallpaper has been peeled off and new wallpaper applied. The ceiling, wainscoting and woodwork have been repainted, and multiple coats of century-old varnish have been sanded from the maple floor.

But the new finish on the floor—three coats of polyurethane—won't be applied until March 27 at the earliest. That puts me almost two months behind.

"It's still still January!" the kids ask every time I emerge from my cloud of sawdust.

However the worst of the sanding is behind me, and the polyurethane should be a piece of cake once I start.

The problem, of course, will be moving all of the furniture out of the living room for three days. Meanwhile the new living room rug reposes still unopened in a long roll on the dining room floor. We haven't opened it yet—as an added incentive to get the room done in a hurry.

Will I finish by mid-June? I rather doubt it. But having a deadline to shoot for does help. At least it keeps my guilt reflexes functioning.

I HAVE A GROWING suspicion that the computer age is here to stay.

The other day, President Reagan called on an elementary school near the nation's capitol and watched kindergartners working on their computers. He was totally baffled—and admitted it.

Charlevoix, of course, has had classroom computers for many years and by the time a youngster completes high school he should be fairly familiar with their operation.

What is mind-boggling is the fact that we have only scratched the surface as far as the application of computer science is concerned.

Take libraries, for example. I predict that within the not too distant future you will be able to sit down at a video display terminal in your own home or at the local library, tie into a national computer center and call up virtually every scrap of human knowledge that has ever been written, mapped or charted—including all of the world's great literature.

Data probably will be arranged so that you can call up all of the information printed in various publications over the past 15 years on such exotic topics as South American killer bees, without scouring dozens of publications.

If you want a permanent record, punch a couple of keys and a line printer will tap out a copy—or make a photo print—in a matter of seconds.

Scholarly research today remains slow, painstaking and rather lonely work. But I believe those days may be rapidly drawing to a close.

Who is going to transcribe all of our written records onto computer disks? You are. And your kids. That is going to be one of the lasting growing areas of employment in the future.

The conference room in the Charlevoix County Sheriff's building will be converted into disaster headquarters, equipped with all necessary communications equipment, and manned by trained personnel.

Charlevoix County Board Chairman Lee Merriand and Emmet County Board Chairman Richard Bidstrup, as the counties' chief elected officials, will be in charge of the emergency preparedness exercises in May. As in the past, they will probably appoint Muma and Thelsen coordinators, and the chain of command goes from there.

For Spring Vacation, Crooked Tree Arts Council will present Walt Disney's "Peter Pan" on Wednesday, March 28 at the McCune Arts Center, Mitchell at Division Streets, Petoskey, at 1:00 p.m. Admission is $1.00 per person, and the film is 77 minutes long.

Letters: Central America

To the Editor:

Americans tend to think of themselves as open-minded and generous. If there are natural catastrophes anywhere in the world—earthquakes, floods, famines—our countrymen open their hearts and their pocketbooks to those in need. However, when our government takes military action, as in Granada, many of the same people tend to close their hearts and minds as to whether such action is morally right.

Being blind to one's own faults or to those of one's country seems to be a common human failing. The Roman Empire in its heyday ruled vast areas with an iron hand, using methods which included the crucifixion of those, such as Jesus of Nazareth, it considered a threat to its power. Apparently most Romans did not question such policies.

The territories of Great Britain at one time were so far flung that it was said that the sun never set on the British Empire. Its methods were also harsh and morally repugnant, because of a superior navy it was able to force China to keep its ports open for the sale of opium by profit-seeking English traders. Few people in Britain seemed to protest such policies.

Now the USA is a great world empire which arrogates to itself the right to topple governments which we do not like as we did in Guatemala and Chile and we are trying to do in Nicaragua. It assumes the responsibility for bolstering up corrupt and repressive regimes which we like because they claim to be anti-communist, while ignoring their widespread violation of human rights.

Such actions are taken, not because the American people actually want them but because we tend to close our eyes to what is being done in our name. "My country, right or wrong..." As a nation we have been sending hundreds of millions of dollars, tax dollars needed here at home, to El Salvador where death squads openly operate to quash political dissent.

Four years ago Archbishop Romero was gunned down during a church service because he dared to call attention to economic and social ills. According to Robert White, our own ambassador there at the time, a high ranking Salvadoran official "supervised the drawing of lots for the honor of carrying out the job."

His name was Assemblyman D'Aguission and he is now running for the presidency of the country.

Are we Americans going to sit idly by while our government continues to fund such a regime? Certain members of Congress, such as Senator Dodd and Cong. Markey are speaking out on the folly of more military aid. A number of church leaders are calling for a change of course in Latin America; among those from Michigan are Bishop Gumbleton of the Catholic Church, the Right Rev. Megehee, an Episcopal bishop, Bishop Heine of the Lutheran Church and Bishop Ammons of the United Methodist Church.

Today, people have a much better opportunity than did the citizens of Rome and Britain—to acquaint themselves with all sides of an issue. for the presidency of the country.

Are we Americans going to sit idly by while our government continues to fund such a regime? Certain members of Congress, such as Senator Dodd and Cong. Markey are speaking out on the folly of more military aid. A number of church leaders are calling for a change of course in Latin America; among those from Michigan are Bishop Gumbleton of the Catholic Church, the Right Rev. Megehee, an Episcopal bishop, Bishop Heine of the Lutheran Church and Bishop Ammons of the United Methodist Church.

Summer taxes

To the Editor:

Paying taxes twice a year in place of once is not a bad idea for economic reasons. What is the difference if you pay half in December and the rest in June?

So estimators claim they would lose interest on investments if they had to pay half their taxes in June. This kind of money makes very little difference of value to the taxpayer. If you pay all your taxes in December you have nothing left to invest.

In the meantime, we would gain by not paying interest for borrowed school money. The cost of collecting taxes twice could be eliminated by delaying tax statements one half in June and the rest in December or your choice to pay all in June with a two percent discount.

County shows. This year's preparedness exercises, which will be held during the fourth or fifth week of May, will be full-scale, although there will be no State participation. All fire departments, police and sheriff's departments, ambulance drivers, school bus drivers, school administrators, hospital personnel, and many others will be alerted and in position to carry out their specific duties.

The conference room in the Charlevoix County Sheriff's building will be converted into disaster headquarters, equipped with all necessary communications equipment, and manned by trained personnel.

Charlevoix County Board Chairman Lee Merriand and Emmet County Board Chairman Richard Bidstrup, as the counties' chief elected officials, will be in charge of the emergency preparedness exercises in May. As in the past, they will probably appoint Muma and Thelsen coordinators, and the chain of command goes from there.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bruce Bergmann of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Sherryl, to Thomas F. Dennin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dennin of South Bend.

The bride-elect graduated from Charlevoix High School and Butterworth Hospital School of Nursing in Grand Rapids. She is employed by Memorial Hospital in South Bend.

Her fiancé is a graduate of John Adams High School in South Bend and served with the U.S. Navy. He is employed by the St. Joseph County Sheriff's Department.

Flower arranging lesson highlights recent meeting of Chx. Area Garden Club

A lesson in flower arranging was presented by Douglas Kling of the Petoskey Floral Co. at a recent meeting of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club held at the Charlevoix Public Library.

During the demonstration, Mr. Kling gave many valuable tips to club members, among them several relating to the use of roses. He said the preparing roses for use in arrangements was most important to prolong their lasting qualities. Lower foliage and thorns must be removed to open the capillaries in the stems as well as cutting the base of the stem at an angle before silent auction and immediately placing it in water. This is club treasury.

The hostesses at the meeting were Joyce Hosmer and Maggie Wilson. The refreshment table was decorated in a St. Patrick's Day motif.

The trip to the Luchenbush Sugar Bush at Elk Rapids planned for March has been postponed until April 10 because of adverse weather conditions. Club members will meet at Captain's Corner at 1 p.m. for the trip to the sugar bush on April 10.

Wagner Chorale to appear

The world famous Roger Wagner Chorale will be coming to the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium on Friday evening, March 23 at 8 p.m. This concert is the third of the 1983-84 Community Concert Series, sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Since it began as a twelve-member madrigal group in 1946, the Roger Wagner Chorale has become the premier vocal ensemble of the United States and the possessor of an international reputation. The Chorale made its European debut at the 1953 Coronation festivities for Queen Elizabeth II, and then performed in Paris, Amsterdam and The Hague.

The Chorale has since toured every state in the U.S., made three tours of South America, four tours of Japan, a tour of the Middle East, and another tour of Europe during which they sang for the Pope at the Vatican, the only non-European group ever to do so.

The Roger Wagner Chorale has made over 60 recordings representing every genre of choral authority on the religious music of the Gregorian chant and Renaissance periods, and has been twice knighted for his contributions to sacred music.

Roger Wagner

In addition to directing his own Sinfonia Orchestra and the Los Angeles Master Chorale, he has served as guest conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic and other leading orchestras all over the world. In 1973, he shared the podium with Eugene Ormandy, conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Los Angeles Master Chorale for the Presidential Inaugural Concert at the Kennedy Center.

His expertise in the areas of composing, arranging and conducting a symphonic orchestra is a highly regarded. He is a highly regarded.

When Charlevoix Area Hospital purchased two $7,000 birthing bed-chairs last fall for its Obstetrical Department, they were among the equipment made possible by some $30,000 in unsolicited annual donations to the hospital. The addition of the birthing beds was betided by mothers and the nursing staff, alike, who appreciate that the beds are adjustable, that mothers do not have to move once labor begins, and that they make possible a more natural delivery. R.N. Mary Terryberry is pictured here discussing the bed with Nursing Services Director Mary Ann Cox, R.N.

Hospital donations keep rolling in Charlevoix Area Hospital has an unique relationship with the community and its supporters - a relationship that is crucial to the small area hospital's ability to keep pace with medical technology.

Without asking, every year, Charlevoix Area Hospital receives some $30,000 in donations, in unsolicited checks ranging from $5.00 to $1,000. These donations are on top of funds generated by drives such as the recent effort for new Intensive Coronary Care monitoring equipment.

Most of the annual $30,000 in unrequested donations comes in the form of cash, but some are in the form of equipment. For example, a new $15,000 blood cell counter in the lab, greatly expanding the lab's capabilities and eliminating the need to send many tests to commercial labs. A $25,000 Honeywell computerized energy records, the emergency management system in room, intensive Coronary Care, the department is expected to pay for itself by physical and eliminating non-essential energy use and radiology.

The addition of two $7,000 birthing chairs in obstetrics has meant a lot to both the nursing staff and mothers. The birthing chairs which provide a more comfortable and, to many, more natural way of delivering, are adjustable to positions ranging from near upright sitting to completely flat. An expectant mother begins labor in the birthing bed, which is wheeled into the delivery room for the birth. She does not have to be moved from the bed for the delivery. The physician and mother can select the best and most comfortable delivery position.

The generosity and loyalty of its friends is deeply felt at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Jackson and all the staff comment.

City tree policy reviewed

by DAVE KNIGHT

Concerns about the way the City of Charlevoix takes care of its trees were aired at a City Council work session March 12. The result may be a more careful approach by the city to the pruning and feeding of live shade trees and the removal of dead ones.

In a letter to the council from Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., MacArthur commended the city for the new trees it plants every year but questioned the mayor and council on city policies toward existing, mature trees.

Specific questions centered on the pruning and feeding of the trees.

At the March 12 session, City Manager Robert Hunt explained that all the city's work with trees was handled by the electric department and that the major criteria in pruning tree limbs was whether they endangered power lines.

Utility Superintendent Edward Whitley, who directly oversees the tree maintenance, also on hand to explain present policies. According to Whitley, only trees on city rights-of-way are pruned by the city and only the worst cases of limbs near power lines resulted in removal of the limbs. He added that the list of such cases to be taken care of is long.

Hunt told the council that the decisions of which trees are to be pruned or removed are generally made by Whitley unless "there is a radical job" in which case Hunt and Whitley discuss the situation.

On the matter of which trees are cut down by the city, Whitley said, "We try to leave every tree up as long as possible." He said that even if a tree is obviously dead but poses no serious hazard to anybody, it may sometimes be left standing for aesthetic purposes.

The city's current policy toward removal of downed trees, according to Hunt, is that if the property owner wants the wood for his own purposes - other than putting it up for sale - he can have it. Otherwise the city takes it for use as fuel at the Mt. McSaba ski lodge and day camp.

After a tree is removed, Hunt continued, the stump is eventually removed and the site placed on the tree replacement list.

Charlevoix resident and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful member John Gaskin told the council that, in his opinion, the city could do a much better job of prolonging the lives of city shade trees by improved pruning and feeding practices.

Gaskin suggested the development of a regular tree maintenance program with the assistance of experts in the field. Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension agent Rod Cortright was also on hand at the meeting to offer his office's technical expertise on a tree program.

The Charlevoix Middle School hosted a Middle School Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday with seven schools participating Coach Gray Bryan announced.

Team scores were recorded but Grayling made the strongest showing with some 300 points. The 170 pounders among the 170 pounders were Bryan said. He added that the Charlevoix team wrestled well and that the large number participating (25) helped his team to improve. "I was very impressed with the showing our team made," he said of their showing.

Other teams entered were Peteskey, St. Ignace, Glen Lake, Rogers City and Elk Rapids.

Grayling wrestled Mackinac, then

DENNIS SAKO

Funeral services for a former resident, Dennis Sako, 30, who was killed in a motorcycle accident at Merritt Island, Fla., March 16, will be held at Merritt Island Tuesday. Interment will also be at Merritt Island.

According to a family member, Sako was enroute home during a rainstorm when his motorcycle went out of control on the wet highway and struck a tree. He was killed instantly.

Born in Birmingham, he had served 10 years in the U.S. Air Force, and during the late 1970's was stationed at Bay Shore Air Force site with Detachment 6 1st. C.E.G. While in Charlevoix he was married to the former Marlene Dixon. He was discharged from the U.S. Air Force in Florida and was employed as a computer technician at Cape Kennedy at the time of his death.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, David and a daughter, Chrissy, both at home; his parents, Mrs. Frances Sako of Colorado Springs, Colo.; a brother, William and two sisters, Holly and Beth, all of Detroit.

The address at the family home is 1355, Demitasse, Merritt Island, Fla. 32952.

CHARLENE H. SMITH

A memorial service for Mrs. Swan (Charlene H.) Smith, 23, who died March 12 at Houston, Tex., will be held at the Ironton Congregational Church at 11 a.m. Sunday, March 25. The Rev. Russell E. Kruse will officiate.

Funeral services for Mrs. Smith were held March 15 at the Willard-Dalton Funeral Home in Lawton, Okla.

The former Charlene H. Hennessee was born in Lawton, Okla., August 7, 1960. She was married to Mr. Smith, a Charlevoix resident at Ironton where they lived briefly before going to Lawton, Okla. They moved from Lawton to Houston where they had lived for the past eight months.

She is survived by her husband; three children, daughters, Tiffany and Courtney, and a son, Jeremy, all at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hennessee of Lawton, Okla.; a sister, Mrs. Tracy H. Jones and a brother, Charles H. Hennessee, Jr., both of Lawton, Okla.

"Problem Solvers" to compete in Ann Arbor

by ANNE KELLY

"This experience helped me realize that you've got a lot of competition out there. We really learned to think," Chris Buge explained. A fifth grader, Chris is one of four team members who were chosen to participate in the 1984 Michigan Future Problem Solving State Bowl at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, April 7th and 8th.

Other team members include 5th grade students Angela Levensgood and Amy Shupert, and 4th grader Stacy Tilton. It is the second straight year that Charlevoix Elementary students, enrolled in the Program For the Academically Talented (P.A.T.), have qualified for this honor.

Placing in the top 20 percent of participants, a figure which represents a state-wide sampling of 3,000 students on 350 teams, is a major accomplishment according to Carol Elliott, P.A.T. instructor. Her students have spent hours reading about, researching, brainstorming, and putting team work into practice on problems which are mind-boggling even for adults.

According to the rules for competition of the Michigan Future Problem Solving Program (M.F.P.S.P.), scoring will on the three practice problems is essential. Over the course of the year, students prepare for each problem by research, note-taking, and guided discussion. At the appropriate time, as the deadline for each solution draws near, students must complete the worksheets for the problem in a 2-hour period of time, working together with team members in this basic progression:

1. Students brainstorm and come up with 20 specific problems related to the problem posed, which is a general "fuzzy situation".

2. Next, the most important of the 20 problems associated with the "fuzzy situation" is stated according to definite criteria.

3. 20 alternative solutions for this problem are then stated.

4. The solutions are evaluated so as to come up with the best solution. The entire process is critiqued and evaluated by judges who become increasingly more critical with each practice problem. The packets along with rating and comments are returned to the teams subsequently, and after the final problem, tension builds as to "how they did."

This year, Carol's class dividing into two teams, researched these three problems: Great Lakes Protection, Prisons and Lasers. The winning team's participation in the State Bowl was based on their work in arriving at a solution for this problem: "How might we distribute the knowledge of lasers to the world, in the year 1989, so that we can learn to live in peace?"

Remember, the problem itself was narrowed down from among 70 alternatives. The solution? This team decided that the creation of video games which would teach lasers and their uses would be an appropriate solution. The games would be available to all people, be free, and hopefully put mankind together in a common, peaceful direction.

The team is still effervescing about their good fortune, the produce of much hard work. They are anxious to share all the information they so painstakingly researched for all the problems. Amy Shupert was concerned about their findings on the conditions in our prisons. As Stacy Tilton put it, "Our solution of a self-supporting city for prisoners would maybe help prisoners see how society is supposed to be... that you can work to make life better."

Learning in depth about such current issues as the discussion about plans to divert the water from the Great Lakes for use out West, and the multi-magic of laser beams is more than child's play for these young people. They have learned to think, talk out ideas, and work with other people—all while adding to their store of knowledge.

Winning team members are anticipating the State Bowl with a mixture of enthusiasm—and pre-competition jitters. They will be heading to Ann Arbor with some of last year's winning team—members who qualified, as middle school students, this year in the junior division under Tom Sothard: Bill Crook, Matt Schnackenburg, Ryan Holmes and Scott Miller.

The problem for this year's State Bowl is the question of "Nuclear Waste Disposal". The elementary team has been researching the Dinner caps 54th annual cribbage tournament

The fifty-fourth annual cribbage tournament was concluded Thursday with 36 men attending the dinner at the Masonic Temple.

The dinner, hosted by the Masons, honored the Oddfellows who won by 396 points. Thurmond McKinney and Robert Heise headed the dinner committee.

Trophies were awarded to Robert Wise of the Masons and Ted Bergmann of the Oddfellows for having the largest number of points for the tournament which extended over 10 weeks. Russell Lewis, as the tail-gunner, also received a memento.

Following the informal program, those present enjoyed a few games of cribbage. Tentative plans were also made for the 1985 tournament scheduled for next year.

Thursday, Jan. 3, 1985. The tournament has been an ongoing event since it was started in 1931.

County business coordinator to start May 1 following block grant approval

by DAVE KNIGHT

A $25,000 block grant to help create an innovative "business coordinator" program for Charlevoix County was approved last week by the Michigan Department of Commerce's Office of Business and Community Development.

Application for the grant was made in January by the Charlevoix County Business and Industry Task Force, a group organized last year to explore new approaches to creating new jobs within the county as well as lending assistance to existing business and industry.

The grant will be combined with funds generated within the county to finance the new program.

Area funding has included $6,000 each from Charlevoix County and the Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation, $3,000 each from the Cities of Charlevoix and Boyne City and $1,500 from the City of East Jordan. Another $10,000 is expected to be raised among private industry within the county.

Having evolved from an initiative begun by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce in January, 1983, to create more jobs locally, the Business and Industry Task Force is comprised of 12 members including the city managers of the county's

Four arrested on drug charges

Four Charlevoix County men were arrested Saturday on charges of sale and delivery of a controlled substance. They are scheduled to appear for arraignment in 90th District Court sometime this week.

Arrested were Ronald Leroy Mosley, 23, Boyne City, Conrad Allen Evans, 29, Melrose Township, Frank Leo Rhodes, 40, and Robert George Sarasin, 21, both of Charlevoix.

The arrests were made Saturday by Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies and the County Prosecutor with the assistance of police officers from Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Taken in the raid were controlled substances with a street value of an estimated $1,700 and drug paraphernalia.

Magistrate Wayne L. Barnett set Mosley's bond at $15,000, or ten percent cash, and the others at $10,000 or ten percent cash.

Rhodes was released on bond at 8 p.m. Monday, the others were remanded to the county jail in lieu of bond to await their appearance in District Court.

All four were arrested on similar charges in the county-wide drug raid of August 20, 1981.

Sheriff's Dept. was 40 % busier in 1983

by PEG OHLE

General activity and complaints handled by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department Patrol and Investigation Division in 1983 increased by 40 percent over 1982.

The 1983 report of the Sheriff's Department indicates that in 1983, the Sheriff's Deputies handled 12,021 patrol, investigation, and general complaint assignments, compared with 8,500 in 1982.

The marked increase reflects a true increase in activity for the Department, along with a more accurate recording of complaints and activity," the report states.

Other divisions of the Sheriff's Department were also busy.

During 1983, the jail staff booked 627 persons into the jail, compared with 521 the previous year. In 1983, the number of female inmates jumped to 67 from 54 the previous year, but the number of juvenile offenders decreased to 11 from the previous year's 27.

The Sheriff's Department was again involved in crowd traffic control and other activities at the Castle Farms Rock Concerts site in Marion Township. Officers dealt with approximately 81,000 citizens and patrons during the 1983 concert season, handling out citations, making arrests, investigating accidents, and issuing warnings.

Transgressions at the four concerts included, among others, 488 cases of consuming alcoholic beverages on a public highway, 1,046 cases of trespassing on private property and 1,119 cases of urinating in public.

The Sheriff's Volunteer Mounted division, under the direction of Officer Michael Wheat, was also busy at the concerts, handling a total of 1,849 complaints for which they issued warnings.

Another busy division of the Sheriff's Department was Animal Control, under the supervision of Officer Karen Bennett, which handled 785 dog complaints during the year, an increase of 23 over 1982.

Besides issuing warnings and citations about nuisance and stray dogs, the Animal Control division handled 23 cases of dog bite, investigated 27 cruelty complaints, made seven kennel inspections, and disposed of 392 dogs.

When the Charlevoix County Building was constructed in 1981, it was considered modern and efficient.

Today, the building's usefulness is being questioned because some offices can be reached only by the use of stairways. It is not barrier-free so some handicapped persons do not have access to all offices.

The offices of District Court, Planning Department, and Equalization Department are all on the second floor of the County Building. Handicapped persons having transactions with these departments must ask someone on the first floor to contact the department with which they want to do business and ask that someone from that department meet with them on the first floor.

The same is true of the County Building Annex. While the first floor is accessible to handicapped persons by using a ramp, the basement area, which holds the Department of Building Inspection, requires the use of stairways.

In most cases, federal revenue sharing guidelines allow for services to be provided in "alternative, barrier-free locations."

Since the Charlevoix County Board learned of these new federal guidelines for receiving revenue-sharing funds, it has been studying the accessibility problem, with the thought that some remodeling may be necessary.

Races for the two vacancies on the Charlevoix Board of Education have developed though the deadline for filing nominating petitions is not until 4 p.m. Monday, April 9.

The terms of Kenneth J. Boss and Steven J. Smith will expire June 30. At this time, both have said they will be candidates for re-election in the June 11 school election.

Nominating petitions are available at the central office of the Charlevoix School District at 208 Clinton Street.

Two other candidates, Ronald Moore and James K. Tilton have filed nominating petitions and will oppose the incumbents in the June 11 election.

Also approved by the commission was a variance for parking spaces from the required 40 to 40 and the rezoning of the site from marine commercial to marine commercial scenic. The zoning pointed out Hisey, was basically a formality, however, since the site had previously been approved for multiple residential use.

As of Monday evening, no date had been set for further site plan review by the Board of Appeals or City Council.

Drenth is 41st in Worlds

Jeff Drenth in action at CMU last season.

Charlevoix's Jeff Drenth continued to make a name for himself in international long distance running circles by placing 41st out of 296 runners in the World Cross Country Championships held last weekend at the Meadowlands near New York City.

Drenth's time was the fifth best among members of Team USA. The Americans finished second in team competition to Ethiopia. Portugal finished third. There were a total of 37 countries represented in the competition.

Portuguese runner Carlo Lopes won the race and the top runner from the USA was Pat Porter who finished fourth. The female contingent of Team USA took 40th honors in the women's championships.

"I really felt good running today," said Drenth after the race, which was televised by a major network. "I ran even faster today than during the qualifying races. But I still think I could have run a bit faster."

Drenth is a recent graduate of Central Michigan University where he starred as a cross country runner for all four years. His participation in the World Cross Country Championships follows impressive finishes this past year in several national college-level races.

"This has been the best running experience of my career," said Drenth of Saturday's race. "I've had a lot of fun with the people in New York this past week."

Site plan okayed for new canvas firm

Fabricraft, Inc., a Traverse City-based firm that custom manufactures canvas and boat covers, will soon be opening a facility in Charlevoix following approval by the City Council March 19 of a site plan for an existing building at 209 Perry Avenue.

The new business will be located in the building next to the Wood Wright Show, which is owned by Robert Cook and which was most recently occupied by Michigan Fiberglass.

The City Planning Commission had previously recommended approval of the site plan. No construction or alteration of the building is proposed although the commission suggested and council concurred that a single access drive between Ferry

Ave. and the parking area be developed. Former Charlevoix resident Roger Putnam appeared before council to seek the site plan and will be managing the Fabricraft facility in Charlevoix.

In other business, the council: Approved a schedule of East Park events submitted by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Renewed the employment contract of golf course manager Bill Graves. Appointed a councilman and County Emergency Services Director Earl Muma as the city's Disaster Assistance Representative.

Granted a 5 percent pay increase to non-union city employees. Set reimbursement policies for members of city boards or commissions who attend meetings out of town.

Seminar to explain planning and zoning

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Planning Department and the Cooperative Extension Service are preparing a seminar for all persons in the county connected with planning and zoning boards and zoning boards of appeal, as well as those from the general public who would like to know more about planning and zoning procedures.

The seminar is set for Saturday, April 28, and a general outline of subjects to be considered has been written.

The seminar will be divided into two sections. The first will cover the duties and responsibilities of planning commissions, zoning boards, and zoning boards of appeal, to be followed by a question and answer period on these subjects.

Special areas of duties will be explored, such as making proper planning and zoning decisions, open meetings, rules of procedures, public notices, public hearings, quorums, findings of fact, site visits, discussions, duties and conclusions, motions, record-keeping, conditions of appeals, ordinance amendments, delegated responsibilities, and answers.

Further information about the seminar may be obtained from the County Planning Department, phone 547-4292.

coordination, and reviewed for making questions and answers subjects. As in the first section, rules of procedure will be explained, through specific procedures for making decisions on appeals, ordinance interpretation, requests, variances, substitutions of non-conforming uses, and court reviews, all to be followed by more case examples and questions and answers.

The second section will deal with the structure of the local zoning authority, relationship of planning to zoning, and legislative quorums, findings of fact, site visits, discussions, duties and conclusions, motions, record-keeping, conditions of appeals, ordinance amendments, delegated responsibilities, and answers.

Chamber hears proposal to plant salmon in Medusa stream

A Michigan Department of Natural Resources proposal to plant 400,000 chinook salmon in an artificial stream running into Lake Michigan from a Medusa Cement Company settling pond was explained to the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors at the board's recent March meeting.

Steve Swan of the DNR's fishery division told the board that the proposal to plant the salmon is currently being reviewed by Medusa corporate officials at the company's headquarters in Cleveland and that a decision is hoped for within a couple weeks.

The stream proposed for the plant was constructed by Medusa when their South Point plant was built and is located on the north end of Medusa property. It empties into Belles Bay from a holding pond that catches excess water from Medusa's main quarry.

"This location for the plant is ideal from our standpoint," said Swan, who said that there will be good fishing for the area without posing a threat to any other major resource.

The DNR had originally planned to conduct an annual, large scale salmon plant in the Jordan River and did release 100,000 chinook fingerlings at that location last spring.

Swan said that the proposed site for a salmon weir and dam project is located on the mouth, however, prompted the agency to explore other locations for the plant.

Swan said that the Medusa stream offers the added advantage of being easy to police. The fact that the stream is located completely on the company's private property will aid efforts to fence off areas to snagging and trespassing.

While shore fishing from Medusa's main quarry, Swan said that there will be good fishing for the area without posing a threat to any other major resource.

The DNR had already had success, said Swan, with large-scale plantings in a U.S. Steel stream flowing into Lake Huron at Rogers City.

Yet to be finalized is exactly how the salmon that make it into the Medusa stream will be harvested. Tempelich, a private firm, has been contracted by the DNR to harvest the fish and Swan said the harvest might have to be conducted manually until other adequate means are developed.

In other business, the Chamber board approved transferring the operation of the food concession stand for the Michigan Amateur golf tournament from the Chamber to the Kappa Sigma sorority.

Planning was also begun for the Chamber's annual spring dinner dance which will be held Saturday, May 12 at the Belvedere Club casino as in past years.

Chairmen Jack Schmidt and Gary Gleason of the March 6 Chamber mixer at Grey Gables reported that several offers to sponsor future mixers have been received and that possible dates are being studied.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater has announced that he will seek reelection to a third term as sheriff.

Lasater, a resident of Boyne City, was first elected to the post in 1976 and re-elected in 1980. Before becoming sheriff, Lasater served for six years as a probation officer in the 90th District Court, serving Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

He is a graduate of Arkansas State University and holds Associate and Masters degrees in criminal justice from Michigan State University.

Outdoor Report

from the DNR Gayfield District Office. Cross country skiing and snowmobiling conditions generally poor at this time due to the warmer weather and rain.

Fishing activity slow at present even with most areas reporting 8-10 inches of good ice on inland lakes. Caution should be exercised on any body of water.

Skiing runs should be underway about the 30th of April depending on the weather.

New passbooks and fishing licenses are now available at most dealers as well as trout stamps. New licenses are needed beginning April 1, 1984.

The beaver and otter season has been extended in area "B", "Northern Counties" to April 30. A new trapping license is needed after April 1st and other taken after April 1st will be part of the regular 83-84 season.

Once again we remind motorists to be on the lookout for deer along the road side as many car-deer accidents continue to be reported.

Fire permits will be needed to do any open burning as soon as the ground is no longer snow covered.

In general, outdoor activity such as hunting, fishing, snowmobiling and cross country skiing are on hold as most sportsmen wait for the first spring fish runs and people in general are waiting for warm weather and the spring breakup.

Program aimed at asthmatics and families

Asthmatics and their families will be able to learn about current trends and treatments for asthma, as well as explore the idea of forming a support group for asthmatics and their families. Thursday, April 5, at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Dr. F. James Stewart will present the program on asthma. Dr. Stewart, a physician specializing in Family Practice, treats both pediatric and adult asthmatics. He will discuss what asthma is, what triggers asthma, present methods of treatment, and methods of self-management. The Charlevoix Area Hospital Health Education Committee, doctors and other resource people to evening, will ask if people are interested in forming a support organization for asthmatics. Such an organization could meet periodically to discuss problems of mutual concern and invite doctors and other resource people to address issues of interest to asthmatics. The American Lung Association, working with Charlevoix Area Hospital, will assist such an organization. Asthma sufferers and their families have formed a similar group in Traverse City. The inclusion of other family members has been important because asthmatic student's problems and abilities. One of the goals is an understanding that leads to relaxation of tensions among people who deal with the breathing-robbing affliction. The Health Education Committee of the Charlevoix Area Hospital would assist any local organization of asthmatics in finding appropriate resources. Anyone interested is encouraged to attend next Thursday's (April 5) meeting at 7:00 p.m. at Charlevoix Area Hospital. No reservations are required and there is no charge.

Foreign oil

Kick the habit, scientist urges

America's growth as an electrically powered society is a prime opportunity to kick its dependence on foreign oil; says one of the nation's most celebrated scientists.

The switch to electricity from other, more expensive power sources is "one of the most striking changes in our pattern of energy use," says Dr. Alvin M. Weinberg. "Electricity today accounts for more than 32 percent of U.S. primary energy, almost double what it was just 15 years ago."

"We should push oil out of every sector of our society except transport, where it's genuinely needed," he says. "Only then can we truly be self-sufficient in energy."

Dr. Weinberg's comments on American energy appear in the current issue of Focus—Views on Energy, a magazine published by Consumers Power Company. Dr. Weinberg, often called the "grandfather of nuclear energy," is director of the Institute for Energy Analysis. He was director of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory for 18 years, and is past president of the American Nuclear Society.

Replacing oil-dependent energy with electricity, says Dr. Weinberg, is a smart move that America is already making. The price of electricity has gone up to be sure," he says, "but not nearly as steeply as the price of oil and gas. As a consequence, electricity, pushing into many areas where it hasn't been used previously. For example, 30 percent of the steel in the United States is being made electrically today. That's far more than ever before. It's happening in the automobile industry, too."

Where will all of this electricity come from? Coal and nuclear power, says Dr. Weinberg's answers.

"I think the use of nuclear power is going to expand in a major way during the next generation," he says. "I'm convinced that the present malaise we're suffering with respect to nuclear energy will pass and we'll get back on course again. Soon."

"The fact is nuclear energy is both cleaner and safer than most other forms of energy."

"Already," he says, "nuclear power is a fantastic success. Just think. It's less than 50 years since fusion was discovered and by 1990 it will be producing almost 10 percent of all the energy the world needs."

LL sign-ups, tryouts scheduled

A schedule for sign-ups and tryouts for the Charlevoix Little League program has been announced.

Those eligible for Little League baseball this season include youngsters who will be 8 years old prior to August 1, 1984 and who will be 15 until August 1.

Sign-ups will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, April 3 and 4, at the entrance to the Charlevoix High School Gym.

Those signing up are required to bring their birth certificates. Tryouts will be held April 7 at the following locations:

Year-olds: 10 a.m. at the Senior League field behind the Sheriffs Department.
9 year-olds: Tryout times and locations will be announced at a later date.

Chx.-Petoskey co-ed VB tourney is on

The annual Charlevoix-Petoskey Co-Ed Volleyball Tournament will be held at the Charlevoix Elementary School gym Tuesday and Wednesday, April 3 and 4, at the entrance to the Charlevoix High School Gym.

The top four teams of the Co-Ed league in the two communities will be in the tournament beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

At that time Wayler Sailors of Charlevoix will meet Petoskey's A-Team. Townhouse of Charlevoix will take on the Side Door Saloon of Petoskey at 7:45 p.m.

Ward & Eise of Petoskey will meet Paul Bunyan Lanes of Charlevoix at 8:30 p.m. and Sports first and second round brackets will play at 7 p.m. and those in the Charlevoix Electric Service in the nightcap semi-finals scheduled at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The winners in the with the finals at 9 p.m.

Locals win pistol shoot

The pistol team of the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club "outshot" the Westernbrook, 254; and Emmet County Pistol Bill Bissett, 215.

Riley Turcott was tops for the Emmet County Club, with 287. He was followed by Bob Ball, 278; Dennis Griffin, 269; Kurt Glaser, 252; and Errol Beckett, 214.

The Rod & Gun Club will bring home a traveling trophy back to Charlevoix. President Zednick attributes the Emmet County loss to their having "no rangers".

Middle School program solvers placed 10th out of 160 teams

by ANNE KELLY

Placing 10th in the qualifying round out of 160 teams in their division, middle school future problem solvers are ready for the State Bowl. Held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, April 7th and 8th, the Michigan Future Problem Solving Bowl is a state-wide competition for talented young thinkers in tackling major world problems. This year's general topic will be that of Nuclear Waste Disposal.

Team members Scott Miller, Matt Schnackenberg, Bill Crook and Ryan Holmes have spent many hours of their own time researching and working on practice problems. A minimum of class time has been provided. However, 3 of the team members have had the experience of qualifying previously. Scott Miller, Matt, Bill and Ryan attended last year's Bowl and placed 6th out of 30 teams in their division.

The boys approach the April competition with mixed emotions. "This year I wasn't sure how we'd do without our last year's team," explained Ryan Holmes. Classmate Tim Henne was placed on another team this year. But when we started working on the problem, I began to feel more confident."

"I don't think the experience is as scary as last time," added Bill Crook.

The team works for two hours on the problem in Ann Arbor, only allowed to leave the room one at a time to get a drink or use the bathroom.

"You can't take any time qualifier, says he's 'pretty scared'. Last year accompanying the competing team for moral support was a be on the line, along with his teammates. Bill said, hey, we can. Crook says they found out."

Scott Miller, a first be swimming while the solution to brought in and of tri, and a grand finale "Eye of the Tiger". All children will be dressed in red, white, and blue and will wear medals, because I want them all to be winners." she explained. The program will start with opening ceremonies in which all the children will march in representing a country. The

A Bay Shore couple will be interviewed about their fundraising success in a record-setting national Easter Seal collection campaign during Detroit television station WDIV's March 31-April 1 telethon for the charity.

LEE and BARBARA WATERS were among the five leading fundraisers for Easter Seals from the Detroit viewing area during a month-long drive by independent distributors of Amway products that ended February 3. The campaign in this viewing area collected $20,014 for Easter Seals.

Nationally, Amway distributors in 110 major television markets collected over $300,000 for Easter Seals setting a record for contributions by a company on the telethon for the first time. Easter Seals officials said the Amway effort topped the record set last year when PepsiCo contributed $750,000.

Charlevoix Cour

Should 3-yr. grad be valedictorian?

by FRAN-MARTIN

The question of whether a student who has completed high school in three years and has the highest grade point average should be valedictorian of the 1984 Charlevoix High School graduating class was a major topic before the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

A petition signed by the majority of the class which has been together since starting high school four years ago triggered a lively discussion on the issue. The board has yet to make its final decision.

According to the petition, it is the feeling of the class that, although three-year graduate Mark Hodgson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hodgson of Charlevoix, does have the highest grade point average, members of the class who have attended the school for four years should represent the class of '84 as valedictorian and salutatorian.

The letter added that the seniors thought Hodgson's academic achievements should be recognized.

and that he could possibly be named honorary valedictorian.

Hodgson, who was present at the meeting with his parents, told the board that making a speech as valedictorian was not that important to him but that it might be to a student in the future who winds up in the same position.

The board is expected to make a decision on the matter at its April 16 meeting.

Hayes Twp. development proposed

by DAVE KNIGHT

Members of the Hayes Township Planning and Zoning Board and about 25 other interested people got their first look last week at a proposed development plan for the 297-acre former Camp Charlevoix property on Lake Charlevoix's Oyster Bay.

William Fos, Randy Agley and Michael Timmis, all of the Detroit area, purchased the property this past winter from the Florida-based Summa Corporation. Fos was on hand for the special informational session at the Hayes Township Hall Wednesday and outlined a tentative development program featuring 220 condominium units, an 18-hole championship-quality golf course and 40 boat slips on Lake Charlevoix.

Fos explained that the development, for which Planning Unit Development (PUD) zoning will be sought, is planned in five major phases over the next eight years with completion possible by the early 1990s.

The plans presented by Fos and architect Jack Begrow at the meeting call for 15 buildings with 120 condominium units to be located along the Lake Charlevoix shoreline. Another 100 units would be located in clusters in the interior of the golf course.

Fos said that the shoreline units would all be over 100 feet from the lake with most units 125 to 145 feet inland. He added that the lakeshore condos would be designed to provide a view from the buildings to the lake but to be largely hidden from view from the lake.

"Our idea is to preserve as much of the natural character of the property as possible," said Fos.

In a question and answer session, Fos was asked how the developers planned to deal with sewage disposal on the property, a large percentage of which is covered by cedar bogs and lowland areas.

He said that while specific details are still being worked out, the developers are currently planning on "aerobic surface treatment," also called the lagoon system. In this process, the sewage is pumped into a series of isolated ponds, or lagoons, on the property to be broken down

Views on sanitary code mound system aired at special hearing

by PEG OHLE

Only 25 or 30 County residents appeared at the Public Hearing held last week to discuss adoption of a proposed new sanitary code.

Conducted by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, the hearing was arranged to give homeowners and others a chance to express their views on changes from the present sanitary code, especially those changes having to do with the use of elevated absorption fields (mounds).

The proposed new code is the result of several months of work by an ad hoc committee appointed by the County Board.

In addition to comments from those present at the public hearing, the hearing record will include some 36 pages of written comments sent to the County Board from property owners throughout the County.

Both verbal and written comments have concentrated on the use of mounds, with some people stating they are just as reliable as inground systems and others saying they could permit enough nutrients to enter lakes and streams to affect water quality.

In either case, increased inspections and tougher enforcement of regulations covering sewage disposal systems were urged, even if owners of septic systems had to be taxed to provide this service. Along similar lines, it was suggested that the design and installation of septic systems be the responsibility of registered engineers, that they should not be "do-it-yourself" projects.

Beaver Islanders to again own ferry boat company

by FRAN MARTIN

An Asset Purchase Agreement has been signed by the recently organized Beaver Island Boat Co. for the purchase of the assets of the Beaver Island Navigation Co. Edward B. Wojan, president of the new company, has announced.

Included in the assets are the 97' Motorship Beaver Island, the 61' Motorship South Shore, the dock and adjacent property located on Beaver Island, the assignment of the lease contract with the City of Charlevoix for the use of the municipally-owned dock and warehouse and the equipment and parts associated with the operation.

The purchase, Wojan explained, is contingent on the response to the sale of 5,000 shares of stock in the new corporation. The sale of the stock was approved March 27 by the Michigan Corporation and Securities Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce. It is also contingent on the transfer of lease contract with the City of Charlevoix to the new company headed.

Upon meeting the terms of the purchase agreement which requires $450,000 in cash, the Beaver Island Boat Co. will assume the operation of the ferry service between the mainland at Charlevoix to the harbor at St. James on Beaver Island, a distance of 32 miles.

The sale of the stock in the new company is already underway, Wojan said. However, it is limited to residents and property owners on the island, registered voters on the island, their children and grandchildren, to people who have spent a minimum of 14 days on the island during any two of the past five years and to a maximum of 35 residents of the Charlevoix-Petoskey area.

The sale is restricted, in part, by the Michigan Corporation and Securities Bureau and by the boat company which seeks to maintain island control of the firm.

The 1984 navigation season between the mainland and Beaver Island is expected to open at the usual time, mid-April, by arrangements with the present owner who will continue to operate the service until the purchase agreement is finalized, Wojan said. He added that the new corporation was hopeful of assuming possession

The original Chamber of Commerce Building in Charlevoix had an oriental flavor in its architecture. It was located on the same site as the present Chamber building, which is more accessible to the public because its entrance is at street level. The above picture was printed on a card with the message, "Season's Greetings from the Charlevoix Board of Commerce."

In gratitude for the Counseling Center staff members to be and family and also to intervene any way in the Center's Petoskey office," local artist Christa-Maria has donated one of her own works, a piece of wall art in the form of a wreath made of driftwood.

Although she has sold similar works, Christa-Maria says she is most happy when she is able to hand-pick a home for her artwork.

"If you have to stuck me in a box," she says, "Make it a round one so there are no corners to hide in."

In addition to hand-picking homes for her art, Christa-Maria also often matches a particular poem with each piece. Most of her work, she adds, is actually created with a poem in mind or, sometimes, the artwork and the poem are created simultaneously.

The wreath for Counseling Center is an example of the latter. Christa-Maria recalls collecting pieces of driftwood, feathers and shells that make up the wreath and remembers the feelings she had while walking on the beach.

She wrote down those feelings in the form of a poem. At the same time the pieces of the wreath were coming together.

She hopes the wreath, which is hung in the waiting room of the Center's Petoskey office located in the 200 Centre on Mitchell St., will help people relate the same pleasant feelings she had while creating it.

The poem, Christa-Maria wrote to accompany the wreath is as follows:

Beaches
Calling to mind
Sand, water, sun
Laziness and a well being
A centering into ourselves
Notice the Creator's Grand Scheme of blues in all hues pieces of wood with grains masterfully dressed and designed, stones all different and of wonder.
A desire to understand magnificence and miracle

A day-long workshop dealing with the special issues of parenting the handicapped child will be held in the cafeteria at North Central Michigan College from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, April 7.

Organized by Friends and Parents of the Handicapped, the workshop will offer suggestions and support for meeting the special demands of parenting children with physical, mental and emotional disabilities.

An award-winning film from the Footsteps parenting series, called I'll Dance at Your Wedding, is planned for the conference. Winner of the 1980 International Rehabilitation Film Festival, the movie deals with the pain parents feel when they discover their child is handicapped. It explains the sources of help for handicapped children and their families, and demonstrates how self-esteem is crucial to the special child's development.

MORNING SESSION speakers are James O'Brien, director of Northern Michigan Health Center, who will help parents face their own feelings and expectations; William Michael of Psychological Services, who will talk about affirming self-worth in handicapped children and their siblings; and Nancy Miller, who will tell how assertive discipline has been used effectively with her class of trainable mentally impaired students. Bonnie Williams, Information and Education Specialist for Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood, will discuss available sex education materials geared for physically and mentally disabled people of all ages.

Speakers at the afternoon workshop will include John and Ann Pfluecke, house parents at Charles House, a residence for developmentally disabled students; Donna Watson, program director/consultant for teaching-families for the emotionally impaired; and Gerald and Carolyn Mons, foster parents who currently are caring for three handicapped children in their Boyne Falls home.

A book table with current titles addressing handicapper issues is being prepared by Candy Eaton of Volume 1 Bookstore in Petoskey. Books will be available for sale during the luncheon break. From noon until 1 p.m. children are encouraged to join their parents for lunch in the college cafeteria. The registration fee of $5 per person covers the lunch.

SUPERVISED CHILD care for impaired children, under the direction of certified special education teacher Sandra Manning, is available during the conference. Youngsters will be cared for in the Women's Resource Center Child Learning Center, located downstairs from the cafeteria. A free will donation for each child will go to the Women's Resource Center.

Pre-registration by Wednesday, April 4, is so organizers can make adequate plans for meal and child care personnel. Call phone 536-3600 for Manning at 347-3995, Audrey Collins at 535-9991, or Sandra Winkler-Sumner at 347-0688 for information, or to register.

Friends and Parents of the Handicapped will hold a second workshop Saturday, May 12, at NCMC. The workshop, to be conducted by Michigan Protection and Advocacy, will deal with the what, where, why, when and how of obtaining proper special education services for physically, mentally, and emotionally impaired children.

John T. Walton, Manila, The Republic of the Philippines, is the Publicity Director of the Philippine Branch of the Summer Institute of Linguistics. He will be speaking at the Charlevoix First Baptist Church, Charlevoix, Michigan, on April 8. The Church is located on Highway M-66 at the Charlevoix city limits.

The Summer Institute of Linguistics is the overseas branch of the Summer Institute of Translators which majors in reducing unwritten native languages to writing and then teaching the people to read and write their own language. At the same time they translate the Bible into the native language so they can better understand its truths.

Walton has studied at Grand Rapids College of the Bible and Music, and received his B.A. degree from Judson College, Elgin, Ill. He has also done post graduate work in linguistics at Oklahoma State University, Norman, Okla. He holds a commercial Pilot's rating. He is married and has two children, Jennifer and Philip. He is the son of Rev. Milton Walton, Interim Pastor, Charlevoix First Baptist Church.

During his eight years with SIL, Walton has taught Bible and Aviation Theory at Faith Academy, in Manila, a K-12 school, and has been a Mission school for Missionary's children with a student body of more than 500. The last four yrs he has been appointed Publicity Director and in this capacity he is responsible for reporting to the Philippine Government on the progress of the linguistics work and also travels extensively throughout the more than 7,000 islands of the Philippines' aiding the missionaries in recording and constructing their work and in conducting instructional missionary workshops to audio-visual education.

He will be showing slides of their work on Sunday evening, April 15. An offering will be received for their work.

The Covenant Players, an international repertory drama group specializing in religious plays, will perform at the Christ Episcopal Church in Charlottesville Thursday, April 5 at 8 p.m.

The public is invited and a free will offering will be accepted.

The Covenant Players is a non-endowed, non-profit corporation not affiliated with any church or other organization. Since its establishment in the early 1960s, it has grown to include 150 members and units that have given over a half million performances in 38 countries on five continents and in six languages.

The repertory of more than 300 plays includes everything from light comedy to heavy drama, science fiction and biblical material. The group will present its message.

On Thursday, April 12, the movie "The Road to Rome" will be shown at the church.

The public is again invited and no offering will be made.

Classes are available in music, art, dance, and drama for all ages at convenient times. Tuition fees are very reasonable ($2 for a one-hour class) and students register for six weeks at a time. Private music lessons are taught by Julie Zinn, Charlotte Ross-Lee, Katy and Michael Greer, Rex Thurston, and Fran Tolla. Other classes. Dance includes Ballet for all ages, Modern Dance, Jazz, and Tap Dance. Drama is taught by Nancy Hall, and a new class in Theatre Minimals is taught by Janis Ley. Art Appreciation is taught by Jane Bowe.

Creative Arts
Experience is again offered for ages 5-8, with the addition of Arts

Monday, April 9 begins a new term of classes offered at the Virginia McCune Arts Center in Petoskey. This session, called the Spring II term, will run from April 9-May 19, for six weeks. The classes are sponsored by the Petoskey Arts Council and the Community School of the Arts.

A variety of instruction in art includes Pottery, Watercolor, Weaving, Drawing, Painting, Batik and Printing, and Images for ages 9-12. Both classes develop the student's instinct for creative instinct through weekly studies of music-art, music-dance, or dance-music. Art Images focuses on a single theme, such as "Peter and the Wolf" expressed in the students' own way through each discipline.

Registration for Spring II is now open and students should call for a class to sign up for a 347-3371. A complete list of classes is available from the Arts Center.

systems receiving a total of 117 new buses by the summer or early fall.

Nearly half of the new vehicles will be manufactured in Michigan by Champion Home Builders Co. of Troy. The remaining vehicles will be funded on an 80 percent federal and 20 percent state basis and the remaining 77 will be paid for by a bond issue recently sold by the State Transportation Commission.

Altogether, the buses will cost $5,113,787 or less.

The two townships on Beaver Island, Peaine and St. James, held their meetings Saturday.

Peaine Township approved a proposed budget of $49,250 with $10,000 of this amount to be set aside for funding for a new town hall, which is presently in the "talking stage." However, the township has $30,000 set-aside over a period of time and, hopefully, when it comes to the "building stage," there will be enough to construct the hall.

Revenue to meet the funds: $2,500 Federal Revenue Sharing Funds; $3,000 in interest; with the remainder coming from various other sources.

Major expenditures include $12,100 for salaries; $1,500 insurance; $4,000 for maintenance; $400 security lights; $300 audit and $3,000 for other expenses. The township is also contributing an extra $3,000 toward the cost of the fire station that will serve both Peaine and St. James townships.

The cement carrier, Medusa Challenger, berthed at Milwaukee during the winter months, made its first trip of the season last week.

The ship arrived at the South Point plant at approximately 7 p.m. March 28 after making its way through several miles of ice including windrows up to five feet thick.

The ship, which took on 5500 tons of cement, was delayed in loading by the malfunction of the loading crane. The ship departed at daybreak March 30 for Milwaukee.

The ship, skippered by Francis "Bud" Left of Charlevoix, will be operating regularly from now on. It refills company silos at five Great Lakes ports.

The ship made its final trip of the 1983 season of Dec. 29 and has opened its 1984 season at approximately the same date last year according to office manager, Terry Blaisett.

The company is projecting an upturn in sales over 1983 Blaisett says. The outlook for the 1984 season.

Almost 60 people attended the quickly-organized party.

What began as a simple idea by two Charlevoix High School students for something to do over spring break resulted in a unique party at the high school last week that may be the start of a new series of "alternative" events for teens.

Ken Gray, Jr. and Tom Ochs took a lead from a successful program started recently in Cheboygan and decided to organize a party for local high school students that would not include alcohol or drugs.

"The whole thing started Thursday, March 22 after a meeting in study-hall after school," said Gray. "Mrs. (Doris) Townsend over spring break was the logical start. That evening they called about 40 other high schoolers to see if enough people would attend such an event. They did not get a single negative response.

"The next day they contacted Vince Olisch, business manager for the school district to find out how much, it would cost to use the high school's cafeteria and gym for their party. It gave them a price of $50.

Undaunted, the two cracked that nut in a hurry by canvassing local business people for donations. In no time they had accumulated $60 in cash donations and all the pop and snack food they needed.

Contributors to the effort included Olisch's Food Store, Waterside Market, Seven-11, Made-Rite distributor, Artark Studio, Hayes & Beatty law firm, Coca-Cola distributor, Central Drugstore, The Clothing Company, Shop of the Guys, Pizza Hot, Dr. James Stewart, Puffs, and Wildwood.

According to its two organizers, the party, held last Tuesday night, was a hit. Almost 60 attended and spent about five hours playing volleyball, basketball, frisbee, dancing and eating.

With about $60 left in the kitty, Gray and Ochs have already started planning the next event.

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class WILLIAM H. DOUGHERTY, whose wife, Linda, is the daughter of Pat Bagliss of East Jordan, recently returned from a seven-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans.

He is a crewmember aboard the destroyer USS Fletcher, homeported in San Diego. During the deployment, as a part of the USS Hanger Battle Group, the ship operated in the water off the coast of Central America, the Western Pacific, the Indian Ocean, and the South China Sea. The group participated in exercises with allied and friendly navies.

While in the South China Sea, the Fletcher assisted in the rescue of 23 Vietnamese refugees. Crewmembers participated in community relation programs in which books, clothing, toys and staple foods were donated to schools and orphanages in the Republic of the Philippines.

Volunteers from the Fletcher also refurbished a school and donated money for a new roof for an orphanage on Olonapo City, Republic of the Philippines.

Port visits were made to Honolulu, Hawaii, Port Victoria, Seychelles, and Subic Bay, Republic of the Philippines.

Petty Officer Third Class Robert Plumm USN of Charlevoix, above, has recently returned from his third tour in the Atlantic. PO Plumm is stationed on board Patrol Squadron 24 and assigned to Combat Aircrew 12, which flies the P-3C Orion, a land-based four-engine turbo prop aircraft used for surveillance of Soviet submarines and surface activity.

Plumm was recently deployed to Iceland, Germany, England, Scotland, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Canary Islands, and Bermuda. The battles are home ported out of Jacksonville, Florida. He is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

KRISTY E. MATHEWS of Charlevoix is among the 249 candidates for bachelors degrees who will be eligible to participate in commencement ceremonies at Alma College on April 21. Kristy is an economics major seeking a Bachelor of Arts degree at Alma.

MRS. VICKI FLOWERS of Charlevoix, MRS. JUDY SMALLEY of East Jordan and MRS. MARTY MCCLOUGH of Boyne City have been named as local chairmen for the 1984 "Cyclin for CF" bike-a-thons to be held throughout Michigan during the months of April, May and June. The bike-a-thons are held annually to raise money for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

MICHAEL STEELE of Charlevoix has been named to the Dean's List for the winter term at the Leelanau School in Glen Arbor where he is a senior.

Richard A. Muma, above, a former Charlevoix resident, has been named general agent for American United Life Insurance Company, serving the Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo-Mich. area. His office, Muma & Associates, is located in Wyoming, Mich.

Muma has been in the insurance business since 1966, during which time he has earned the National Quality Award. He is a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters (NALU) and the General Agents & Managers Association (GAMA) and is active in church affairs. Muma graduated from Northern Michigan University with a B.S. degree in education. He and his wife, Dagmar, have three children. He is the son of Forrest Muma of Charlevoix.

Salmonson, who was third among the top ten, received two blue ribbons out of the 43 awarded at the convention. A total of 380 entries were involved in the competition.

Cellist Karmazyn to appear

Dennis Karmazyn, cellist, will perform at the Petoskey Middle School on Tuesday, April 10 at 8 p.m. in the final concert of the 83-84 series of the Community Center this season for Concert Association.

Karmazyn made his professional debut with the Los Angeles Philharmonic at the age of 16, which led to numerous engagements with major orchestras in the United States and Europe.

Following his New York recital debut at Alice Tully Hall in Lincoln Center, The New York Times exclaimed: "He played in a way that held the listener's attention, with brilliant and sparkling, subtle tonal command, intensity, and breadth."

On January 15 of this year, he was invited to perform with legendary violinist Yehudi Menuhin on the Great Performers Series in Avery Fisher Hall at Lincoln Center. Among other works, the young cellist participated in a performance of the great Schubert C Major Quintet with Menuhin. This appearance was one of two at Lincoln Center this season for Karmazyn. He will also give another recital in Alice Tully Hall on April 3. This concert, featuring the works of Beethoven, Brahms and Prokofiev, will be preceded by his recital debuts in London, Paris and Vienna.

Karmazyn received a full scholarship from the University of Southern California to participate in the Master Class of the legendary Gregor Piatigorsky, and for the following four years, was one of the select few cellists in the world who studied privately with the Master. He also studied with such notable cellists as Gabor Rejto, Edgar from the French government, and lighter music by nationally and by the Crooked Tree Conservatory of Music. To be discussed Saturday

Four proposals for East Park

Following an initial public workshop discussion on East Park improvements held February 11 by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), comments and suggestions from participants were collected by landscape architect John Campbell. Campbell then incorporated that input into three alternative proposals, shown below as Schemes I, II and III. At its March 14 meeting, the DDA took bids and pieces from the three schemes to arrive at a consensus proposal, shown below as Scheme IV.

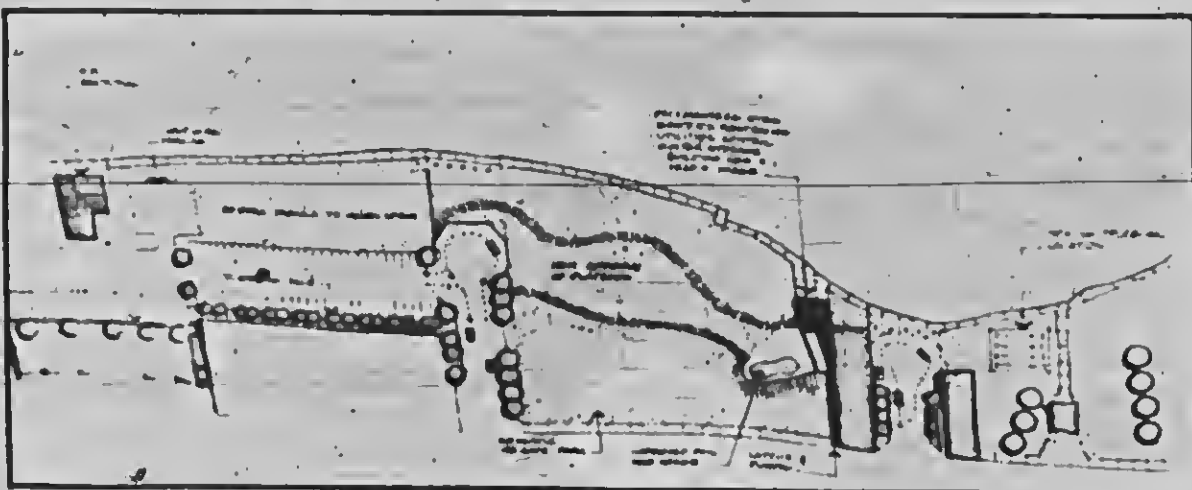

This Saturday, another public workshop will be held at 9 a.m. at City Hall to allow any interested people a chance to voice their thoughts on the alternative improvement schemes. Those unable to attend may also contact a member of the DDA board. Board members include Dr. Jeffrey Porter, president, Robert Lieberman, James Mabce, Hugh Mason, Mayor Kenneth Staley, Eugene Steele, Gordon Wellman and Hans Wiemes.

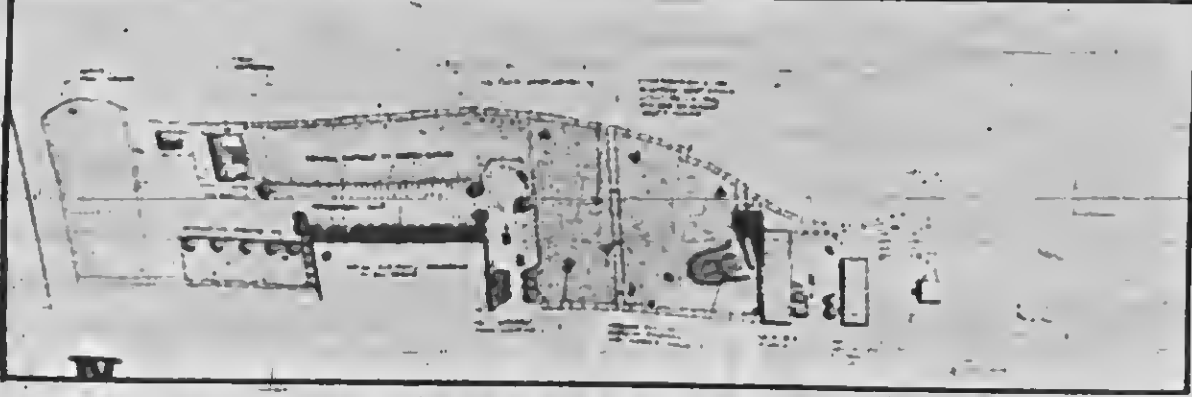

SCHEME I involves the least change with some repair to existing facilities. The shuffleboard courts would be flooded during the winter months to form an ice rink. Additional restrooms would be located behind the restrooms.

SCHEME II involves a bit more change and would convert the fish pond into a shallower pool with a fountain, change the lighting fixtures, and add some grass to the foot of Clinton Street. Dressing up the Wharfside Wall is also envisioned.

SCHEME III involves the most change and would regrade the park into more fluid contours. The area immediately around the stage would form a type of plaza. The shuffleboard courts would be relocated to an area closer to the existing dockmaster's office. "Streetscaping" would be added to both Mason and Clinton Streets. Asphalt next to the Coast Guard mooring area would be replaced with grass. Eventually a parking structure would be installed next to Burnsides with the surface planned to form a new "mini-park" at the Bridge Street grade level.

SCHEME IV picks and chooses among the other three schemes. There would be little or no regrading of the park. However, the fish pond would be made shallower with a fountain. More restrooms would be added behind the bandshell. Modified "streetscaping" of Mason and Clinton Streets would occur which emphasizes retention of existing parking. The area next to the Coast Guard mooring would be planted in grass. The combination park and parking structure next to Burnsides would be included in the plan. Scheme IV takes no position with respect to the location of an ice rink in East Park during the winter months.

For Saints and Sinners

"THE ECHO PRINCIPLE" by Pastor Phil Schurbaum, First Congregational Church

One of the most remarkable mysteries of nature is the bat. These strange creatures fly miles underground, swooping through dark caverns, yet they never strike the walls. Until recently, we do not know how they did it. Scientists captured a group of bats to conduct some experiments with them. The scientists stretched wire across a long room and sent the bats through it. They never struck a wire. The scientists blindfolded the bats, thinking that maybe they were able to see in the dark. When the blindfolded bats were sent through the room, they again flew with perfect precision, never touching the sides of the room or wires stretched across them. When the mouths and ears of the bats were taped shut, different results were seen. With their eyes wide open, the bats crashed into both wires and wall. Further investigation revealed that the bats sounded a high, shrill note when they started to fly. The sound created vibrations which echoed back from any object in their path. The highly sensitive ears of the bat were receivers for the echoed sound. What they sent out came back to them. The echo principle became the tool for the flight of the bats.

The Bible repeatedly declares that the echo principle is a basic fact of life. The writer of Ecclesiastes said, "Cast your bread on the surface of the waters, for you will find it after many days." (Ecc. 11:1, NASB). Jesus told his disciples, "By your standard of measure it shall be measured to you" (Mark 4:24). Paul declared to the Galatians, "Do not be deceived. God is not mocked; for whatever a man sows, this he will also reap" (Gal. 6:7).

Our lives are lived every day by the echo principle, whatever we send out comes back to us in one way or another - it comes back to haunt us, or it comes back to bless us.

KCB to meet

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. will hold its April meeting this Saturday, April 7 at 9:30 a.m. at the Mt. McIsaac ski lodge.

A special guest at the meeting will be Terry DeBruyn of the Soil Conservation Service who will give a slide presentation on the planting of dune grass on the beach area.

There will also be a report from the Nature Trails Committee.

City to seek grant for park improvement

by DAVE KNIGHT

Up to $75,000 is being sought by the City of Charlevoix from the Land and Water Conservation Fund to pay for improvements to the city's Ferry Beach park which is soon to be enlarged.

At a March 28 special meeting, City Council followed a recommendation by the Recreation Commission to seek the federal grant which would require $250,000 matching fund participation from the city.

According to City Manager Robert Hunt and Recreation Commission Chairman John Hess, the $250,000 the city recently agreed to spend for 300 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage to be added to the existing park will be submitted on the application as the city's match to the grant funds.

Should the land purchase not be considered acceptable as a matching fund for the grant, wrote Hunt in a memo to council, the city would then be responsible for matching the grant with other cash or in-kind services.

The development project proposed by the Recreation Commission includes the both the upgrading of the park into a usable beach area as well as improvements to the existing park.

Hess listed the following proposed improvements along with the estimated costs of each picnic tables, $1,500; dock, $2,000; charcoal stoves, $1,200; a 22' by 60' shelter, $2,000; a "Tee-Lo" playground equipment, $4,000; dredge and fill, $25,000; grade and fill, $5,000; underground sprinkler system which would service the entire park, $6,000; 92' feet of bike path, $3,300; a parking lot for 20 cars, $10,000 and a contingency fund of $4,000.

The grant application was due March 31. In other action, council:

Approved the transfer of a liquor license from the current owners of Lehigh's Restaurant to new owners Thomas and Jane Warth who plan to reopen the restaurant as "218 Bridge Street" after remodeling. An entertainment permit was also approved.

Discussed a new purchase of a computer system for the city that will perform such tasks as utility billing, budget preparation and general ledger, financial reporting, purchasing and encumbrance accounting, accounts payable, payroll, tax assessment, tax rate collection, cash receipts, accounts receivable, tax cost discussion, pending accounting, fixed assets, litigation involving the inventory, vehicle Chicago Club tax accounting, word appeal.

THE CALLING SERVICE THAT'S BEST FOR YOU? JUST PUT YOUR FINGER ON IT.

That's right. You can still put your finger on the calling service you need or want just as easily as before—even though many changes have taken place in the communications industry. Michigan Bell continues to make a wide range of calling services and plans available to you.

A glance at the service options listed below will help you determine if you now have the service and calling plans that best fit your individual needs and budget. As always, reliable Michigan Bell telephone service comes with whatever option you select.

Local Service Options:

Measured Service—allows up to 50 local calls per month for a small monthly charge. Calls above that limit would be billed on a per call basis. If you place few local calls per day, Measured Service could be the most economical choice for you.

Flat Rate Service—gives you unlimited local calls for a single monthly charge. Frequent telephone users may benefit from this service.

*Not available in all areas.

Long Distance Options:

Circle Calling—gives you a 30% discount on direct-dialed long distance calls placed within a 50-mile radius within your LMA except calls placed from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

Budget Toll Dialing—provides a 30% discount on long distance calls anywhere within your LMA between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. Sunday evening through Friday morning and from 5 p.m. Friday through 5 p.m. Sunday. Like Circle Calling, the Budget Toll Dialing discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

LMA is a new term that describes a Michigan Bell trading service area. It stands for Local Access and Transport Area.

Custom Calling Services:

Call Waiting—when you're on the phone, the Call Waiting signal alerts you someone else is calling. You can alternate conversation between both parties.

Call Forwarding—lets you program your phone so that incoming calls are automatically forwarded to any other telephone you desire.

Speed Calling—allows you to program your phone to dial up to eight or 30 frequently called numbers with simple one- or two-digit entries.

Three-Way Calling—lets you add a third party to a two-party conversation, instead of making separate calls.

(Custom Calling Services are not currently available in all calling areas.)

Dialing Options:

Through Michigan Bell, you have a choice of Rotary Service or Touch-Tone Service.

Rotary Service is pulse dialing. With this service, you need a pulse dialing phone with either a rotary dial or a push-button dial.

Touch-Tone Service is tone dialing.

It is the most modern form of dialing. With Touch-Tone Service, you can use either tone dialing or pulse dialing telephones. However, to get the benefits of Touch-Tone Service (such as fast, accurate dialing), be sure to use a push-button phone made for tone dialing, which you can also use to access certain long distance and at-home banking services.

(Touch-Tone Service is not available in all areas.)

Disabled Customer Services:

Special Services and Equipment for disabled customers are available through the Michigan Bell Telecommunications Center for Disabled Customers. Voice customers call 1-800-482-8251. Telecommunications Devices for the Deaf (TDD) customers call 1-800-482-3111. Customers are welcome to visit the Center at 26200 Greenfield, Room 45, Oak Park, Michigan 48237.

We hope this information is useful to you and that you will make the most of whatever Michigan Bell services are right for you.

Bequest for East Park is well timed

by DAVE KNIGHT

With improvements to East Park currently being discussed by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), the timing appeared to be perfect for the announcement last week of a $10,000 bequest from the Robert Bridge Trust designated for the enhancement of the park.

Bridge, a former Charlevoix mayor and president of the Charlevoix County State Bank, was largely responsible for the establishment of East Park in the 1930s by seeing to it that the city obtained Round Lake frontage downtown as it became available.

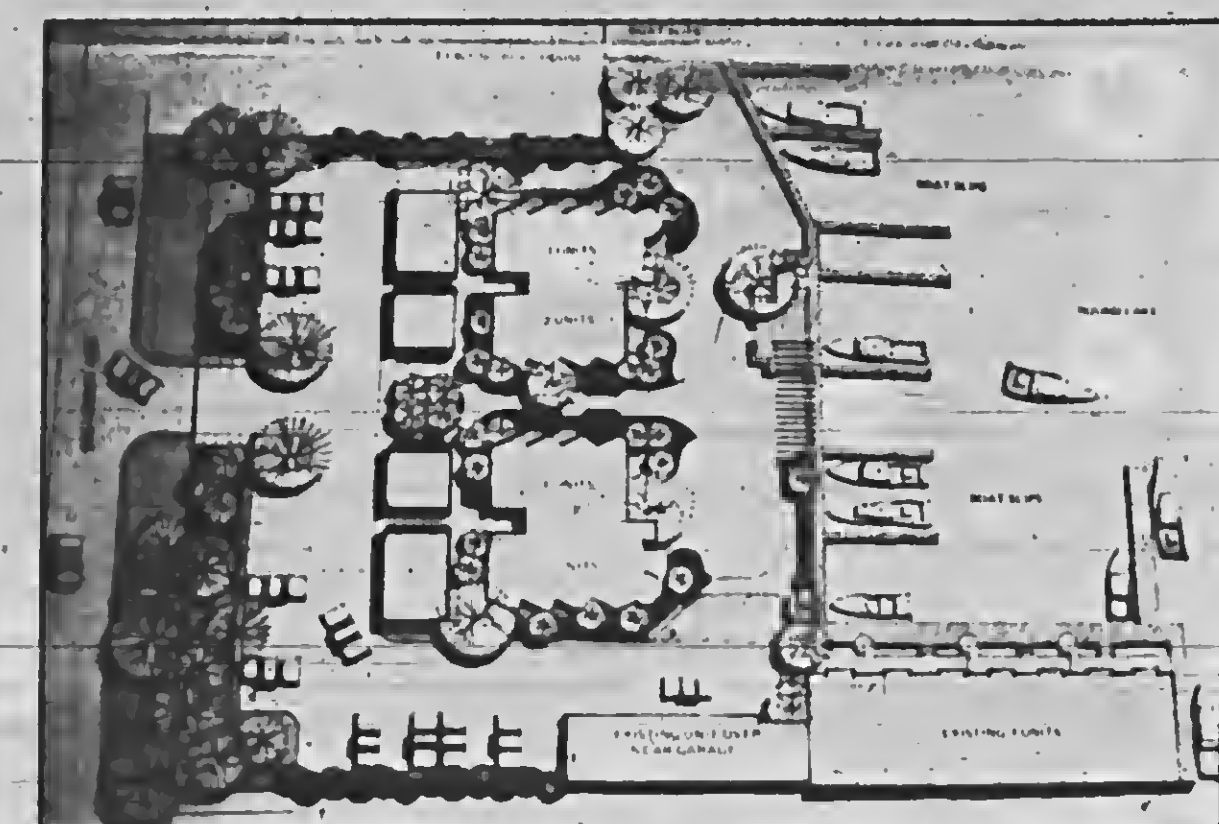

Although he died in 1965, it was not until the death of his widow, Mrs. Marian M. Bridge, on December 4, 1983 that the bequest was freed. Notification of the gift was made to Mayor Kenneth Staley by Thomas L. Swets, assistant vice president and trust officer for the National Bank of Detroit.

According to the trust, which was formally accepted by the City Council April 2, the $10,000 is to be used "solely for the acquisition of real estate lying along or near Round Lake east of Bridge Street, north of Belvedere Avenue and south of the bridge across the Pine River, or for improvement of the land so purchased or other land within said area owned by the city, for park and recreational purposes for the benefit of the general public." Improvements to East Park were the topic of a discussion held at City Hall Saturday by the DDA. The

Rezoning and variances to accommodate the site plan for a ten-unit condominium project at the Harbour Club on Round Lake will be taken up Monday, April 16 by the Board of Appeals and the Charlevoix

City Council. Following a lengthy meeting March 26, the City Planning Commission voted to recommend the rezoning of the property from Marine-Commercial (M-C) to Marine-Commercial-Scenic (M-S-C) and approved a list of variances sought by the developer, Jon A. Hisey. Despite opposition voiced by several residents of the Belvedere Avenue area, the commission endorsed the site plan for the project which features a pair of two-story

DNR reaches agreement with Medusa on salmon plant

by DAVE KNIGHT

A plant of between 350,000 and 400,000 chinook salmon fingerlings into a quarry outfall emptying into Bells Bay at the Medusa Cement Company will start in a matter of weeks according to officials of both Medusa and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

In a joint announcement made Friday, DNR fisheries biologist Steve Swan and Medusa plant supervisor Jack Schmidt confirmed that an agreement has been reviewed and signed by both parties under which large scale chinook plants will start this spring and will be made at the Medusa site each spring for at least the next five years.

According to Swan, the salmon plant marks the start of a DNR effort to revive the sport fishery along the Northwest Michigan coastline, one he described as once being among the best in the country.

The chinook program was originally proposed for the Jordan River and 300,000 fingerlings were planted there last spring. The DNR failed, however, to get site approval for a permanent harvesting weir and blocking dam. In seeking alternative locations for the plant, the stream from the Medusa quarry was proposed by the DNR and, following about a month of study by the company's corporate officials, the agreement was reached.

About one percent of the salmon planted this spring in the stream, which has been named Medusa Creek by the company, will return next year with an average size of

Air Force tells NRC that Bayshore site is closing

By TOM DAMMAN

There will be no more simulated B52 bombings of this area after September 30.

The radar tracking scoring station, which records the results of the simulated bombings, at Bay Shore, between here and Petoskey, must be closed and evacuated by January 1, 1985.

This information has been revealed in a letter from U.S. Air Force Col. Dennis K. Bush, Deputy Chief, Strategic Division of the Strategic Air Force Command (SAC) to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC).

The letter was in answer to inquiries by the NRC staff which last month was ordered to review the 1980 Air Force study of a B52 bomber crashing into Conus er's Power Company's Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant, three miles east of Charlevoix.

According to Lt. Col. Robert Rajewski, Commander of the Bay Shore Station, most of the manpower of his unit, part of SAC's First Combat Evaluation Group, will be moved to Powell, Wyoming. Rajewski told the Charlevoix Courier that the move is part of Air Force economy measures as well as a new policy to concentrate these training exercises in the northern plains region of the country.

The First Combat Evaluation Group operates 11 such sites in the U.S., three in Europe and five mobile stations on the North American Continent.

The Bay Shore site went into operation in July, 1963, and was used by British Royal Air Force Vulcan Bombers flying from Europe as well as USAF B52's and FB11 fighter bombers from bases all over the U.S.

The simulated target was a quadrant in Lake Michigan. The practicing aircraft came in low over the target and continued on over the Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant at an altitude less than 1,000 feet.

After the 1971 crash of a B52 in the lake with nine men aboard, and 11 seconds flying time from Big Rock, the route was changed. Pilots were ordered to avoid the plant by three miles on either side. A few years ago, the route was again changed so that the planes now follow a course from the Upper Peninsula which takes them down Lake Michigan between Charlevoix and Beaver Island.

Last month, the NRC Atomic Safety Licensing Board's panel of judges, which has been hearing the case, directed the staff to review the USAF calculations on the probability of such a crash because there were some "conceptual errors in the probability formulations" used by the Air Force.

The question of the chances of a bomber crashing into the nuclear power plant was raised by intervenors who are opposing Consumer's request for NRC permission granting the utility to more than double the number of spent fuel bundles it is presently allowed to store in Big Rock's spent fuel pool.

The intervenors, the Concerned Citizens of the Charlevoix Area, and John O'Neill of Glenn Lake, argued that Big Rock's three-quarter inch stainless steel dome, shielding the nuclear reactor and spent fuel pool could not withstand such a crash.

The judges are expected to hand down their decision on the utility's request some time later this year, culminating more than five years of litigation including two public hearings in the area.

Vandalism spree goes on

A rash of vandalism in the community, the breaking of windows with what the Charlevoix police suspect to be some type of sling shot and marbles, continues.

Two windows in the Charlevoix Yacht Club between Chicago Avenue and Cherry Street were damaged between March 23 and 25.

The others were damaged between April 3 and 4 and again the following night. In some instances, marbles were found at the scene. In others, the damage was similar to that where the evidence was found though no marbles were located.

Plate glass windows at Bartlett Decorator Center, W. Huribut Avenue and Midwest International on Sleyer Road and two thermopane windows at the Fireball Arcade at State and Antrim streets were among the larger windows. Two school buses parked at the school bus garage on May Street and windows in vehicles belonging to William Macy, 418 Prospect Avenue, Ben Gill, 269 Burns Street, David Godwin, 230 Antrim Street, a vehicle belonging to Lillian Swinton parked at 401 Sherman Street, and Clifford Ostling, 1025 May Street were also damaged.

Monitoring equipment installed

Hemodynamic monitoring equipment, using delicate sensors fed directly into a critically ill patient's pulmonary artery can detect minute changes in heart function. Such extremely fine monitoring can be crucial to patients with severe heart problems, enabling physicians and nurses to modify medications and observe the patient's heart's reaction. Charlevoix Area Hospital has installed this highly specialized equipment for the most seriously ill patients in its Intensive-Coronary Care Unit (ICCU).

The hemodynamic monitoring, in which a tiny sensor is fed into the patient's pulmonary artery, provides information on not just the electrical activity of the heart but reflects in detail how the heart is functioning. A bedside computer, tied into this

While not every patient will need hemodynamic monitoring, where there are serious problems of heart failure, severe respiratory failure or seriously low blood pressure this will be a tremendous help. Tax abatement granted by city for Wojan Aluminum

by DAVE KNIGHT

Wojan Aluminum Company, which is in the process of constructing a 30,000 square foot addition to its manufacturing plant on Slover Rd. in Charlevoix, has received the tax abatement it sought for both the addition and for improvements in the existing plant.

Final approval of the certificates granting the tax exemption came from City Council at its regular meeting April 3.

Following the establishment by council on March 5 of the required Industrial Development and Plant Rehabilitation Districts, the matter of the actual tax exemption certificates was tabled for further study.

Also approved was a site plan proposed by Mike Westernbroek for the expansion of his business, Small Engines Unlimited, at 1300 Bridge St. Westernbroek's proposal, which was recommended for approval by the City Planning Commission, is to fill in the space between his existing building and a small building in the rear of the property. Although the River Channel has been several variances were proposed by the necessary, the Downtown approval by the

The five-meter satellite dish, proposed by Lake Charlevoix Cable TV Co., is to be located on a 20-foot square parcel about 55 feet off the road with the city receiving $250 a month for rent.

In other business, the council appointed Mrs. Cathy Silberhorn, elementary teachers, to succeed Jack Uhrick whose term expired.

School Board sets June 11 election date

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at their regular meeting April 12, adopted a resolution setting June 11 as the date of the annual school election.

The election will be held to elect two board members and for any other issues that might be on the ballot.

In other action, the board voted to offer contracts for the 1984-85 school year to three probationary teachers provided their enrollment warrants their order in advance and they meet their certification return to school under certain restrictions.

teachers are Cynthia Haynes, part-time French teacher, and Erik Lundquist and Cathy Silberhorn, elementary teachers.

The board adjourned to executive session to discuss the expulsion of a juvenile student involved in the breaking and entering of the high school and turning on the natural gas jets in the biology department.

In the executive session, it was decided to hold the expulsion order in abeyance and allow the student to return to school under certain restrictions.

Girls softball team prepares for Saturday opener at Central Lake

The Charlevoix High School girls' softball team will open its 1984 season at Central Lake Saturday according to Coach Mary Lieberman who is returning for her sixth year as Rayder Mentor.

The Charlevoix team will be one of eight teams entered in the tournament which will utilize the services of pitching machines and whose prime purpose is to sharpen hitting and field skills of the game according to tournament manager, Gary Johnson, coach of the host team. Other teams in the tournament will be Traverse City, Kalkaska, Leland, Gaylord St. Mary, Glen Lake and Boyne Falls. Charlevoix is scheduled to meet Traverse City High School in the opening game at 8:30 a.m.

Charlevoix has seven seasoned players returning according to Coach Lieberman. Among them are Rhonda Buchanan, veteran pitcher and Amy Sell, first base. Sell, Lori Rozema, Kim Hand, Heidi Boiduc, Shannon Harrod, Cyndi Neg Fowler, outfielder, all freshmen; Jill Gagnon, third base, Benoit, sophomores and outfield, and Lara Miraki Kimura, a sophomore.

Michelle Gagnon and Amy Kroll are also trying out for pitching positions Coach Lieberman said.

Coach Lieberman said the team has been working out in the gym for some time and were able to be outside last week for the first time. She went on to say that the team is young.

Among the 21 candidates, 11 are freshmen. However, despite their youthfulness, they show potential she said. She went on to say that there is the promise of a strong outfield and at the present time the team is concentrating on their batting. "I think with a little experience behind them, they'll come around and have a pretty good season" she said of the squad.

They will make their first appearance on the diamond Saturday in the tournament in which each team is assured a minimum of six games. The team's next game will be at Harbor Springs the following Wednesday.

Boys track squad will run at T.C. Thursday in first action of season

The Charlevoix boys' track team will open its season at Traverse City Thursday after less than two weeks of work behind them according to Coach Hal Evans.

With better than 40 candidates for the team reporting for practice Coach Evans is looking forward to a good season. "We have some excellent athletes but we lack depth. We'll be depending on seniors, a few juniors and sophomores and a host of young freshmen up from last year's middle school team," he said of the team.

Among the veterans returning are Bill Taylor, John Tunison and Lee Altard; middle distance runners, Matt Landon, Alec Sheets and Dave Hendrickson; Tim Mitchell in the sprints. LaBlance in the high jump; Pat Mitchell in the pole vault; Shawn Center and Jim Smith, Hartnell, middle distance; Mike Plischner, shot and discus, all seniors.

Sophomores are Sean Fergusson, Patrick LaBlance, Tim Salsomson and Tim Plagge.

The Rayders will open their league season at Gaylord April 24 and then enter the Chip Relays at Mt. Pleasant the following weekend.

Girls tracksters' opener at T.C.

The Charlevoix girls' track team will travel to Traverse City Thursday for what Coach Dennis VanGulder refers to as a scrimmage meet while preparing for the opening meet of the league season at Gaylord with the Soo Graying April 25.

Twenty-two girls have been reporting regularly for practice. "They are working hard. I think we will be vastly improved over last year. We'll be depending on freshmen up from last season's middle school team who should give us depth," Coach VanGulder said.

Returning from last season include Dianna Loder, a sophomore who is a versatile performer in both track and field events, senior Carrie Richardson, sprinter; Moille Boiduc, a middle school 400 relay team; others are Kathy Dohm, Michelle North and Leslie Miller, distance runners; sophomore, Reth Simpson, a transfer who does the sprints and middle distances; Michelle Boss, Stephanie Martin and Amber Spencer, Louise, middle members of last year's middle school 400 relay team; others are Kathy Dohm, Kris Austin, Kathy Shepherd, Amy Pachner, and Sharon Martin.

"If the girls work as hard as they are now we should make a good showing," Coach VanGulder said of his team.

Lundteigen to compete with stars

Erik Lundteigen of Charlevoix and a member of the GM members will be matched against a Detroit, not only will be competing for the 1984 Grand Mariner Ski Club Challenge National Championship at Keystone, Colorado, April 14, but will have the chance to pit his skills against some of Hollywood's top stars in the first Grand Mariner Celebrity Ski Challenge, April 14.

Lundteigen and other amateur ski club members will be matched against a celebrity team which includes Mary Hart, co host of Entertainment Tonight; Charlie Haid, both the Hill Street Blues; television personality Grant Goodie, recently of Dynasty; soap opera star Roberta Loughton, and Nancy Stallord of St. Elsewhere, among others.

In addition, skiing greats Bill Kidd and Hank Kaskawa will serve as instructors for both the amateur and celebrity skiers.

The GM Seville Ski Club finished first in the Grand Mariner Midwest Championship, earning an all-expense paid trip to compete against the nation's top 13 ski clubs for the national championship at Keystone.

Also slated for Keystone is the Grand Mariner Race of Champions, April 14, matching last year's national champions, the Mount Mansfield Ski Club of Stowe, Vt., against the 1984 national champions, as determined by this year's competition.

The Grand Mariner Ski Club Challenge is a fundraising program for the U.S. Ski Team and is an industry support program of SKIING Magazine, administered by Action Sports Marketing, Inc.

The Grand Mariner Celebrity Ski Challenge will benefit the National Handicapped Sports & Recreation Association which sponsors teaching clinics and competitive sporting events for over 15,000 disabled individuals each year and is recognized by the U.S. Ski Association as a leading organization for handicapped skiers.

Outdoor report

From the DNR Gaylord District Office: Many back roads and trails are in very poor condition because of melting snow and frost going out of the ground causing muddy areas and large water holes.

Steelhead runs are increasing on several streams as warmer temperatures will increase this activity. Streams open to the early spring season are listed in the new Fish Law Digest. The regular state wide trout season will open the last Saturday in April.

Lake fishing activity generally slow at present except for a few brown trout taken from Little Traverse Bay at Petoskey. Ice conditions are rapidly becoming unsafe at this time and extreme caution should be used. If present warm weather continues the next few days a light to moderate smelt run is expected to be underway at Bellaire. Runs of Lake Huron and Lake Michigan are expected by April 20th.

Firewood permits are available by contacting the Forestry Division at a DNR office.

Two forest fires burned three acres and people are reminded to obtain a permit before any open burning is done.

Beaver and other trappers are reminded that all animals have to be sealed within 48 hours after the close of the season.

In general, trout fishing should be very good at such locations as the Boyne River, Jordan River and the Bear River for the next two weeks or longer, and don't forget the spring flowers and the mushrooms that will soon be appearing.

For Saints and Sinners

Dr. Elton Trueblood says "The greatest problems of our time are not technological, for these are handled fairly well. They are not even political or economic, because the difficulties in these areas, glaring as they may be, are largely derivative. The greatest problems are moral and spiritual, and unless we can make some progress in these realms, we may not even survive. This is how advanced cultures have declined in the past." We need to cultivate the life of the spirit.
In Matthew 4:4 Jesus quotes the teaching from the Old Testament when he says "It is written, 'Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God.'"
The real issue here is what dominates, the physical or the spiritual? What is our greatest need? What's more important than a good time? Jesus is making clear that as a man, as a human being, he needs more than bread alone, more than life on just a physical or materialistic level. For us that means that our dreams, our cravings for spiritual realities and truths are not mere froth. Our hunger for truth is not an aesthetic attachment but a basic need. For this reason Jesus says we are to live "By every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God."

I believe that God's word comes to us most clearly in the Bible, in the person of Jesus, through the Holy Spirit within us, and through other persons of faith.
Are you living a fragmented life? Are you denying your full potential to love and think and worship? Someone had written "When you love truth and duty more than comfort and ease, you have entered the Kingdom of God."
Don't settle for the dead and depressing experiences of a bread alone existence. Bread yes — But not bread alone.
Stretch yourself. Take Jesus seriously when he says you are to live "By every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God."

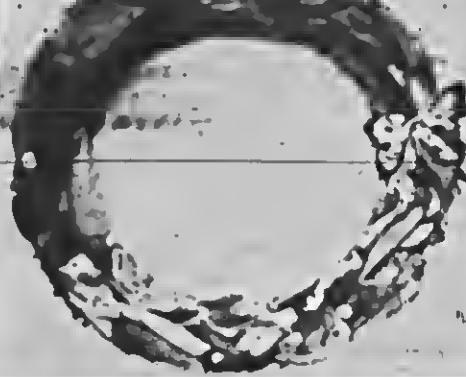

Paul V. LaFreniere, 36, of Charlevoix, above, has announced his candidacy for the office of Sheriff in Charlevoix County. LaFreniere said he would be a candidate on the Democratic ballot.
LaFreniere, newcomer to the political scene, was born on Beaver Island, attended the Beaver Island Community School and is a veteran of two years in the U.S. Army, 1967-68. He has been employed on Great Lakes ferries. He presently resides in Charlevoix.

Decorating eggs is year 'round business for Mrs. Leedy

by PEG ORLE

Eggs are a symbol of Easter and eggs of all kinds, from chocolate cream to polished pewter are shown at Easter Time.

There are other eggs, however - unique eggs that are works of art given as gifts the year around to special friends and loved ones.

Julia Bowman Leedy of Charlevoix creates such eggs. She learned the art about 25 years ago, starting with the familiar picture-through-the-hole variety and "graduating" to elegant jewelry boxes, ginger jars, and handbells made from egg shells and decorated with decals, velvet, jewels, ribbon, minnie figurines, and whatever else the theme might call for.

Mrs. Leedy and her two daughters, Julia Baer of Charlevoix and Barbara Cassidy of San Diego, started an "egg business" four years ago which they call "The Aloo Ouf".

In her Charlevoix home, where she does all her creating, Mrs. Leedy has on display some truly beautiful works of art (or of egg). There is a ginger jar made from a rhes egg resting on a hand-carved base. The cover of the jar, which raises and lowers on small hinges, is made from a large goose egg. The body of the jar is the natural color and finish of the rhes egg, which Mrs. Leedy says cannot be improved upon by paint or polish.

There is another, smaller, ginger jar made from a quail egg, with a dove egg cover. There is a goose egg jewel box, daintily decorated with decals and velvet. There is a handbell made from a swan egg with a hand-carved wooden handle and a music box rather than a clapper, which Mrs. Leedy explains would not be practical in an eggshell bell. (She also explains that the swan egg was a gift to her from a DNR officer who had found it in an abandoned nest. Swans are protected by law.)

There is a gold necklace, with a pendant made of a mottled brown and white quail egg brought from South America. Mr. Leedy's prize possession, however, is a tiny quail egg, bisected, painted silver blue with a wine carnation, hinged and lined with blue silk, then topped with a blue bead finial and mounted on a tiny half-inch gold base. The entire miniature jewel box stands less than two inches high. It was made by daughter Barbara to hold Mrs. Leedy's 50-year Golden Carnation pin from the Pi Phi sorority.

Unlike the materials needed for many artworks, Mrs. Leedy cannot just go out and buy what she needs. Large goose eggs, for which she pays from $6 up, come from a farm in South Dakota. However, just recently some local farm children delivered a few goose eggs to her.

The rhes eggs are brought from a farm in Indiana. They cost $12.50 to $18.50 each.

Although quails and their eggs are protected in their natural settings, many are grown on farms. That is where the Aloo Ouf quail eggs come from.

One of Julia Leedy's ornately decorated eggs.

Then, of course, there are the ordinary chicken eggs which come from the supermarket.

Fittings come from many sources, but because of tiny sizes needed for many decorations, they are not always easy to find. Mrs. Leedy buys most of her fittings from another eggner (that's what they artists call themselves) in San Diego. Husband Hollis makes the wooden handles for bells and all the wooden bases.

"If you don't have elegant fittings, the finished product won't be elegant," Mrs. Leedy explains.

Since all of the decorated eggs are hollow, the centers must be blown out. "We've eaten an awful lot of omelettes through the years," Mr. Leedy laughed, and Mrs. Leedy remembered that once they made an omelette from 20 quail eggs, just to see what they tasted like.

Rezoning, okayed for Harbour Club condos

by DAVE KNIGHT

Rezoning and preliminary site plan approval for ten condominium units at the Harbour Club on Round Lake's south shoreline were approved by City Council Monday night but not without some bizarre procedural twists which had the proponents of the project wishing at one point that one more council member would have been present to vote against them.

Proposed by developer Jon A. Hisey are two buildings housing five condominium units each on the Belvedere Ave. property that presently includes eight condominium units in a former boathouse standing over Round Lake.

Hisey sought from council the rezoning of the property from Marine-Commercial (M-C) to Marine-Commercial-Scenic (M-C-S), which allows multiple family housing, even though he contended that previous council approval for condominiums on the site in 1980 made the rezoning unnecessary. Hisey also requested approval from council of the project's preliminary site plan. Both the rezoning and the site plan, with some changes including roof design, had been recommended by the City Planning Commission.

Several hilltop residents of Belvedere Avenue's south side, whose view of the lake would be affected have opposed the added units. Some were on hand at Monday's meeting to voice their objections.

Leonard E. Zehnder, 124 Belvedere, pointed out that although a site plan for eight townhouse units on the property was approved by council in 1980, such approval lapses after 18 months if no construction is begun. He also said that the property had never actually been rezoned to accommodate the condominium use.

"If the rezoning is granted, it would remove one third of our view of the lake and damage us (him and his wife) personally," said Zehnder. He also said the project would "impact negatively the entire south shore of Round Lake."

The major objections of Robert Gorkiewicz, 202 Belvedere, surrounded the height and density of the proposed project.

"I am not saying that nothing

Hospital to honor Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall

Retired Charlevoix physician Gilbert B. Saltonstall, M.D., is to be honored April 26 when Charlevoix Area Hospital formally announces the naming of the recently completed new wing of the hospital - The Gilbert B. Saltonstall Surgical Wing.

The announcement will be made at an open reception, for Dr. Saltonstall, at Charlevoix's Grey Gables Inn, April 26, from 5 to 7 p.m., to which all his friends, colleagues and former patients are invited.

Dr. Saltonstall, a tall familiar figure around Charlevoix Area Hospital began his practice in Charlevoix in 1934, after graduation from the University of Michigan Medical School.

A Charlevoix High School graduate, Dr. Saltonstall returned to his home town with surgical instruments in hand in 1934. Hospitals, then, relied on physicians to provide their own instruments. He opened his office in downtown Charlevoix and began caring for patients in the old Charlevoix Hospital, a two story frame building on Harbor Street.

House calls and payment in the form of everything from cash to chickens and eggs were common, as Dr. Saltonstall served patients around town and throughout the surrounding farm country.

As surgeon and general practitioner he introduced many new techniques to Charlevoix including direct transfusions, new surgical techniques, and the use of antibiotics in the late 1930's.

Dr. Saltonstall played a major role in the modernization and building of the new Charlevoix Area Hospital in the 1960's. He helped recruit the many specialists that now serve on the hospital's excellent medical staff. Dr. Saltonstall also played a major role in seeing that Charlevoix Area Hospital maintain its reputation for personalized and friendly medical care even as it acquired all the important new medical technological innovations developed since the 1960's.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors and Medical Staff unanimously passed the following resolution in April:

Whereas, Dr. Gilbert B. Saltonstall was a leader in the establishment of a modern hospital in the City of Charlevoix, and

Whereas, he has given freely of his skill, time and resources to insure the success of this hospital, and

Whereas, he has continually maintained a high standard of practice in medicine and surgery and has served as an inspiration to those who have followed,

Now, therefore, be it resolved that the modernization program of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, now nearing completion, be dedicated to Dr. Saltonstall, in his retirement, in recognition of his long years of faithful and selfless service.

The hospital hopes anyone who wishes to add their words of gratitude to Dr. Saltonstall, will attend the reception Thursday, April 26th, at the Grey Gables, from 5 to 7 p.m.

Deaths of Gilbert, Hoffmann mark passing of generous community benefactors

Julius W. Gilbert

Dr. Walter F. Hoffmann

See page 10 for full obituaries.

Two men who loved Charlevoix - and whose eagerness to show it developed this past year into a friendly rivalry - died within an hour of each other Tuesday, April 10 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Julius W. Gilbert, 61, and Dr. Walter F. Hoffmann, 74, were not only both longtime residents but also business associates in the Lodge Motel.

Hoffmann, along with Clayton Scott, donated a number of trees to the city last fall, including the "living community Christmas tree" in East Park.

A few months later, Gilbert gave to the Charlevoix Area Hospital his most-cherished 1963 Jaguar Mark X which was raffled off in a project that raised over $10,000 for the hospital.

Reputedly not to be outdone, Hoffmann then announced that he was donating to the city his Park Avenue property, overlooking the Pine River channel, for use as a park. Plans for the park are still being developed by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc.

Both Gilbert and Hoffmann died following long illnesses.

Valedictorian issue settled

CHARLEVOIX - A student who preferred high school in three years instead of the usual four has been designated valedictorian of the Class of 1984.

On a 4-2 vote Monday, with Ardet Weiland and Robert Drenth objecting, the board of education named Mark Hodgson-valedictorian and Amy Sell and Dan Buday co-salutatorians.

The vote settled a debate which began just after spring break when counselors determined the ranking of the graduating class.

Hodgson, who was allowed to graduate early by the school board, accumulated enough credits to become a senior last fall by taking correspondence and college courses. Without the courses he would have been entering his junior year.

Approximately eight Charlevoix High School students have graduated early since the board adopted a policy on the issue in 1974. The highest ranking an early graduating student had obtained however was third in the class, according to High School Principal Vane Smith.

Parents of seniors first brought the issue before the board. Then a petition signed by a majority of the Class of 1984 was presented earlier this month indicating that students preferred that classmates who had attended school four years be named valedictorian and salutatorian. The petition also suggested naming Hodgson honorary valedictorian.

Smith said he had discussed with the top 10 students the possibility of naming Hodgson summa cum laude valedictorian and Miss Sell valedictorian and Buday salutatorian. However, the school board did not concur with that suggestion.

"In any case, when you rank the students in the class there is only one No. 1," Smith said.

Several parents and students objected Monday to Hodgson being named valedictorian because he had not attended school four years. They argued that if someone elected to graduate early they were ineffect removing themselves from belonging to a class.

One parent suggested that not all students have enough money to be able to afford to take correspondence and college courses and graduate early - another unfair advantage.

Others argued that Hodgson's grade point average was not figured

For Saints and Sinners

by Walter G. Hastings Community Church of God

A very rare and very old Spanish coin, minted in the fifteenth century, was imprinted with a drawing of the narrow strait between Europe and Africa near Gibraltar, called the Pillars of Hercules. Inscribed at the bottom were the Latin words, "Ne Plus Ultra", meaning "No More Beyond". To the Spanish people of the time, that was it—there was nothing else out there. Then along came Columbus, and when he proved that a new world lay beyond, they had to remove the "Ne" from all the coins. From that time forward the coins read "Plus Ultra"—"More Beyond".

That is what the resurrection of Jesus Christ did for mankind—it enabled us to see that there is "More Beyond". This life is only a beginning—a little bit of the whole. We now know that there is much more to come, thanks to the resurrection. And this is what we celebrate at Easter.

In the Old Testament, a man named Job asked the question, "If a man dies, will he live again?" Science says, "He may live again." Philosophy says, "He hopes to live again." Ethics says, "He ought to live again." Atheism says, "He will never live again." But through His resurrection, Jesus Christ declares, "Yes, he shall live again!"

William Jennings Bryan described securing a few grains of wheat when in Cairo that had slumbered thirty centuries in an Egyptian tomb. Upon thinking of the unbroken chain of life of the grain we sow and harvest today, he wrote, "If this invisible germ of life in the grain of wheat can pass unimpaired through three thousand resurrections, I shall not doubt that my soul has power to clothe itself with a new body suited to its new existence when this earthly frame has crumbled to dust."

This Easter let us celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ, because it teaches us that there is "More Beyond"—and one day we, too, shall rise because of our faith in the risen Christ!

Legion Auxiliary plans luncheon

Plans for the annual Spring Luncheon will be held at the post home made at a recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The event will be held at the post home Wednesday, May 2. Mrs. William Farkas was named chairperson of the kitchen committee. Mrs. Ray Wood will be in charge of the dining room. Mrs. George Lochner is appointed a calling committee. She also asked that all donated food for the luncheon be at the kitchen no later than 10 a.m.

The luncheon will be held from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Tickets will be $2.75 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens. Mrs. Clarence Goldstick and Mrs. Wood will be in charge of publicity.

Mrs. Jack Curtis, chairperson, reported that the 1984 Poppy Days would be May 17-19 and that she would be asking for volunteer salespersons at the May 17 meeting of the auxiliary.

Members are advised that due to increased costs to the district, 1984 dues paid after July 10 will be increased to $10. Dues may be paid to Mrs. Goldstick or any other auxiliary officer.

It was announced that the auxiliary will march in the Memorial Day Parade and also in the Venetian Street Parade in July.

All members as well as post members and their respective families were urged to attend the monthly potluck scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 1. Business meetings for each group will follow.

Knight on the Town

New twists to old story

The Battle of the Harbour Club Tea, another skirmish in Charlevoix's Great Condo Wars, was everything it was cracked up to be Monday night at City Council.

It had been a long time since city hall staged a good condo fight and surely some veteran councilmembers were anxious for another lively fray.

They were not disappointed. This one had all the ingredients. Lake frontage property, obstructed views, enough architectural drawings to literally paper one wall of the council chamber, one could not have scripted a more typical scenario.

In one corner is the developer who needs some units on the property in a price range that will sell to offset the exclusive units built over the water which are in a price range that is not selling.

In the other corner are the property owners overlooking Round Lake from the south hill on Belvedere Ave. whose views of the lake will be diminished in varying degrees by the proposed ten additional units.

In the middle is the mayor and council who always seem to have as much trouble grappling with the rules of combat as the city charter as they do managing the combatants themselves.

Mrs. Leedy's eggs

But the artful decorating of eggs is an expensive and tedious business. All egg shells must be scrubbed in vinegar then dipped in an alkaline solution. Twenty-four hours must be allowed between the next step: applying the decal, painting (right to left), drying, sanding, glazing, baking, cutting, decorating, putting on bases, and adding the final.

It is no wonder, therefore, that Mrs. Leedy asks for a three-month delivery time on orders, which may be anything from a quail's egg thimble case to a lighted winter scene encased in a large goose egg. She also decorates eggs with wedding invitation details for wedding or anniversary gifts.

An enthusiast about her hobby-turned-business, Mrs. Leedy often takes to service clubs, church organizations, and other groups about "eggery."

Her "egg money" is a far cry from that of the farm wife.

Valedictorian dispute

on the same number of credits. Board policy awards credits to students who take college and correspondence courses but it does not figure the grades earned in those classes into the accumulated average. Hodgeson's grade point was based on 18 credits while the four-year students' averages were based on 18 credits completed by the end of the first semester of the senior year. A total of 20 credits is required for graduation which Hodgeson will have completed by June. Some parents urged the board to maintain the same standard for determining valedictorian and salutatorian, which traditionally has been awarded to the top two members of the graduating class based on grade point average. They argued that by changing the rules, the board was opening the door to more debate next year when a parent might claim his or her child had taken harder courses and therefore deserved to be valedictorian or salutatorian.

'should be built on the property," said Gorkiewicz. "Just that whatever is built should impact the area minimally."

Hisey explained that the number of units proposed for the property which would not exceed density requirements under multiple family zoning, was established to provide a less expensive price per square foot and thus a more saleable product.

After a lengthy public hearing and discussion, a motion to approve an ordinance for the rezoning to M-C-S as made by council member Robert Tumms. In the subsequent vote, Tumms was joined by James Block and Michael Greeley in voting for the rezoning while council members Ray Wood and Shirley Roloff voted "no."

But council member Earl Muma was absent and that fact threw the meeting into some what of a parliamentary quandary. According to the city charter, approval of any ordinance requires a majority vote of the entire council, or, four votes.

The 3-2 vote in favor, ruled city attorney Jeffrey VanTress, was not sufficient to pass the motion. VanTress did, however, suggest that if Mayor Kenneth Staley was in favor of the rezoning, he should cast an "advisory vote" for it and let VanTress study the legality at greater length the next day.

What made the situation particularly vexing to supporters of the project is that, had Muma been present, not only would have his "yes" vote passed the motion, but a "no" vote would have resulted in a 3-3 tie thus giving Staley clear authority to cast the fourth vote in favor.

Just when it appeared that the matter was destined for a prolonged legal tangle, Mrs. Roloff proposed a re-vote on the motion and changed her vote to authorize the rezoning.

Approval of the preliminary site plan, which required only a majority of council members present, passed by a 3-2 margin with Block, Greeley and Tumms in favor and Wood and Roloff against.

Final site plan approval must still be granted by council and the Board of Appeals was scheduled to hear requests at its meeting Tuesday evening for a list of zoning code variances sought by the developer.

In other business, council: Denied a plan proposed by Thomas Warth, new owner of the former Leuthausers Restaurant, to construct stucco "fins" projecting over the Bridge Street sidewalk. Objections were raised by other neighboring businesses on the grounds that the proposed construction would block their signs.

Field a public hearing on the $75,000 grant being sought for improvements to the Ferry Beach Park expansion.

Approved new employment agreements for both the city attorney and recreation director Dwight Bess.

Clockwise

Skunkless spring

Have you noticed the absence of skunks in Charlevoix this spring?

Usually our odoriferous little friends are out in force during the first mild days of March, grubbing for food after their long winter snooze and rearing up for the mating season.

They are regular visitors throughout town, both in residential neighborhoods and downtown. Hundreds of them come to untimely ends under the wheels of vehicles and their carcasses literally litter the highways.

But this year I haven't seen a single skunk — anywhere. I can't say I exactly miss them; but their absence is strange considering how many there have been in recent years.

Reg Sharkey of Petoskey, a retired employee of the Department of Natural Resources, says the skunk population, like that of other small creatures, is cyclical and we probably are at the bottom of a population cycle. He says he noticed their numbers dropping off last fall.

Although skunks are reputed to be carriers of rabies, Sharkey says he hasn't heard of any particular disease that would account for their reduced numbers.

Travelers to other parts of the state tell me that skunk populations elsewhere appear to be normal, so it could be that only northwestern Michigan is in for a relatively skunk-free summer. It's a small blessing, but one worth counting. The Chamber of Commerce should make the most of it.

Come to think of it, the highway death toll for all small animals seems to be down this spring. A few rabbits, yes; but hardly any porcupines, raccoons or opossums. Perhaps it's going to be an off-year for all such critters.

I SEE BY THE papers that the Public Service Commission (PSC) is going to conduct a thorough audit of Consumers Power Co. — apparently not in connection with a pending rate increase, but because someone is interested in how Consumers is continuing to pay its bills, in light of escalating costs associated with the Midland nuclear plant.

All of which makes me wince, because it smacks of nosy neighborism.

It is no secret that Consumers is having financial problems; it isn't that it wouldn't have whacked 40 percent off the quarterly dividend last week. But I can't see what interest the PSC has in the financial affairs of the corporation, so long as the PSC has been supplied with all the data it needs to make a reasonable decision on rates.

You can be assured that any new information derived from the audit will be used by Consumers' foes to press for abandonment of the Midland plant.

By the way, whatever happened to my scheme to have that part of utility costs used for plant expansion translated into shares of common stock for long-suffering ratepayers? I thought it was a good idea, one whose time has come.

'Say your bill for the month was $40. If only $35 of that figure actually was used to purchase power and the remaining $5 was used for plant expansion, the ratepayer should be credited with $5 worth of common stock, which, in turn would begin earning dividends.

Such a scheme would remove the onus once and for all from any use of rate increases for capital expansion, a morally reprehensible move under present conditions.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis J. Boehmer

Szudzik-Boehmer

Shelley A. Szudzik became the bride of Curtis J. Boehmer on Saturday morning, April 7, at the United Methodist Church in Harbor Beach.

The bride is the daughter of Raymond Szudzik of Ada and Mrs. Diane Rosendahl of Charlevoix. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Boehmer of Otter Lake.

The Reverend Brent Webster officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with lilies, miniature white roses, and miniature carnations. Approximately 150 guests witnessed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given marriage by her father, wore a white gown with a V neckline defined with lace appliques on chiffonette. It featured a semi-cathedral train, modish princess bodice adorned with Venise lace and pearls, long gathered sleeves, draped skirt, and beeline edged with Venise lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of lilies with white roses and miniature carnations.

Martin Linn served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a rose-colored gown with bell cap sleeves and carried a cascade bouquet of lilies and miniature carnations. Megan Clor was flower girl, wearing a long white dress with a rose print. Eric Roe, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Charles Boehmer, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Chad Roe, nephew of the bride, and Ken McHenry, were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Mary Webster, who played the Wedding March from Lohengrin, "Evergreen," and "Trumpet Voluntary."

A luncheon reception at the Uby Heights Country Club followed the wedding. The bride and groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at the home of the bride the evening before the wedding.

Following a wedding trip to Toronto, the newlyweds are at home at 1433 Lakeside Drive, Harbor Beach, where the bride teaches first grade. The bridegroom is a speech therapist with the Huron Intermediate School District in Bad Axe.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilhelm

Howes-Wilhelm

Christine Howes and Thomas J. Wilhelm exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, April 7, at the Bell Tower Reformed Church in Ellsworth.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schuelke of Brethren and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Howes of Ellsworth. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Wilhelm of Charlevoix.

The Reverend David Willett of Means conducted the service in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. Approximately 165 guests were seated in front of the altar which was decorated with arrangements of lilies and white daisies.

The bride wore her mother's bridal gown of lace over tulle, fashioned with a rounded neckline and chapel-length veil. She carried a bouquet of silk carnations, roses, and baby's breath in shades of lilac, pink, and white, made by Chris Wilhelm, sister of the bridegroom.

Lucy Bradshaw of Oscoda served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Chris and Colleen Wilhelm, sisters of the bridegroom; Dawn Wilhelm, sister-in-law of the bride; and Melanie Howes, sister of the bride. They wore matching lilac gowns with standup collars and illusion front and back yokes.

Jeff Wilhelm served his brother as best man. Groomsman were Terry and Tim Wilhelm, brothers of the bridegroom; and Brian and Steve Howes, brothers of the bride. Ushers were Jeff Vollmer and Brian Howes.

Artie Parlost supplied organ music during the ceremony.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix following the ceremony. Kim and Glenda Wilhelm, sisters-in-law of the bridegroom, served the wedding cake and Emily and Jackie Lagerquist, cousins of the bride, were in charge of the guest book.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Brownwood.

Following a wedding trip to southern Michigan, the newlyweds are at home on Little Torch Lake in Ellsworth. The bridegroom is employed by the Wilhelm Construction Company, and the bride is employed by the Charlevoix County State Bank.

Engagements

Miller-Krueger

Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Miller of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Valerie Sue, to Timothy L. Krueger. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Krueger, also of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1983. She is presently attending North Central Michigan College and working at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Her fiancé graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1982 and attended North Central Michigan College. He is now serving with the United Air Force at Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, Texas.

The wedding will take place June 9 at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

Softball team just misses playoffs

The Charlevoix girls' softball team collected six points in the Central Lake Invitational Tournament Saturday and missed a chance at the playoffs by one point.

In the opening game, Charlevoix defeated Traverse City 6-0 and had the distinction of being the only team in the eight-team tournament to defeat Traverse City.

Charlevoix won the next three games by scores of 3-2 over Gaylord St. Mary 6-5 and Kalkaska won over Central Lake 6-1 before going into the finals when Traverse City took the tournament title by a score of 6-5 in a game that went nine innings. The tournament was played with a pitching machine on the mound through the first series of games with nine balls to the machines instead of throwing them.

For the tournament, Amy Antaya has a batting average of .545 and Lara Stargardt and Rhonda Buchanan averages of .400 each.

The Charlevoix team will open its regular schedule at Harbor Springs at 4 p.m. Wednesday according to Coach Mary Lieberman.

Carwash to boost Drenth's Olympic hopes

Jeff Drenth, Central Michigan University distance runner, running in the Dogwood Relays at Knoxville, Tenn., Friday and will be trying to qualify for the 3,000 M. race while participating in the Drake Relays in Iowa April 27-28.

The State Class C Cross Country championship team and coach, Pete Spies, have planned the car wash as a fund-raiser for Drenth.

Drenth qualified for the 10,000 Meter run at the Olympic Trials in Los Angeles June 16-24.

However, before reaching Los Angeles, Drenth hopes to qualify for the 3,000 M. race at the Drake Relays in Iowa last weekend of April and to run in the NCAA meet at Eugene, Ore., May 30-June 2 and the T.A.C. (The Athletic Congress) at San Jose, Calif., between the NCAA and the Olympic Trials.

Last month, Drenth finished 41st among 296 runners from 37 countries participating in the World Cross Country Championships run at the Meadowlands in New Jersey.

Donations to the fund will be accepted at the Drenth account has car wash Saturday.

The above individuals are known members of the sixth and seventh grade honors classes at the Charlevoix Middle School. Consider them smart. Although they were last seen at the Middle School, they are known to be planning a trip to Chicago for a class trip. To raise money for the trip, they have been seen selling new subscriptions and renewals for the Charlevoix Courier. Approach them with caution...and a checkbook.

CHS batsmen to open Thursday

The Charlevoix boys' baseball team will open its season at Elk Rapids on Thursday, April 19, according to coach Pete Spies.

In commenting on the league and the season, Spies said the league should be well balanced this year. Sauli Ste Marie is expected to be strong in the pitching department. Most of the other teams in the league, with the exception of Gaylord, were hit hard by graduation and will be faced with re-building squads.

At Charlevoix Coach Spies has eight returning lettermen from his 1983 team that finished the season with an 18 win-13 loss-2 tie record.

In the pitching department, Brent Cole and Chris Havens, both juniors, and Jody Putman, a sophomore, are among the six candidates for the position.

Spies said there are some strong arms with Cole and Havens expected to be the team's one-two punch with the others.

Mike Herriman and John Pearl, juniors, both seniors, and Kent Ketchman, a junior, seeing plenty of action.

Thad Morgan and Kyle Smith, both juniors, will be returning to the outfield. They are strong both offensively and defensively.

Putman will be the third man in the outfield. He led the team in batting as a freshman with a .391 average. The outfield boasts excellent speed in left and center with Morgan and Smith.

Havens will be behind the plate when not pitching and should be strong defensively.

Other candidates are Marc Himebauch, a sophomore, who must improve offensively, and a freshman, Mike Thompson.

Returning to the infield will be Jeff Kelly and Jeff Novotny, both seniors, and Kent Ketchman, a junior, with two juniors, Jim Young and Mike Herriman, also waiting for a call.

Spies said that Kelly and Novotny are looking good at short and second with third base up for grabs with Young, Herriman and Ketchman working at the position. First base will be a pivotal position with the pitchers, Cole, Putman and possibly Ketchman playing the position.

Other prospects are juniors Jeff Smith, OF, Richard Wurst, IF, OF, Brian Wilmet, a sophomore, IF, Joey Tilton and Steve Burrows, both freshmen, IF and John Gray and Coy Groves, OF, all freshmen.

Hospital to offer services of occupational therapist

Occupational Therapist, Susan Roache, is now offering occupational therapy to disabled people of all ages, through the Physical Therapy Department of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Ms. Roache, a registered Occupational Therapist, who also works under contract with the Petoskey Nursing Center, the Emmet County Care Facility, and District Health Department No. 3, will see patients at Charlevoix Area Hospital, through physician referrals.

Explaining that her work will be with "infants to adults with disabilities," Ms. Roache said she will be involved in "evaluating and determining if appropriate therapy so that the patient can live and work in the least restrictive environment."

Infants, she said, come to her attention, if they have been hospitalized for a long time and normal development has been delayed. Working with older children might involve teaching skills such as eating or writing with the opposite hand while a fracture heals.

For adults, her work could involve getting ready to go back to work. For an older patient who has suffered a stroke, Ms. Roache may even make home visits to analyze what the patient needs in order to best care for him or herself.

Occupational Therapy, she said, takes the matrons and exercises learned through Physical Therapy and puts them

Obituaries

WALTER F. HOFFMANN
Funeral services for Dr. Walter F. Hoffmann, 74, well known local dentist, who died April 10 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held Thursday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Philip Simmonds of the East Jordan United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born Dec. 20, 1909, in Sheboygan, Wis., Dr. Hoffmann was graduated from the Sheboygan High School and from the Marquette University School of Dentistry in 1932 with a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree. He practiced dentistry in Francis Creek, Wis., and Wauwatosa, Wis.

From 1940 until 1946, he served in the European Theater during World War II. During the summer of 1946 he served with the Michigan Department of Public Health. After receiving a Master of Public Health (MPH) degree from the University of Michigan in 1947, Dr. Hoffmann served with the U.S. Public Health Service until 1952 when he came to Charlevoix to open a practice of dentistry.

Dr. Hoffmann served as a member of the Charlevoix City Council. He was a member of the Leslie F. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion and Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He married the former Elizabeth M. Brooks on Aug. 20, 1936, in Traverse City. He is survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. Elva Kewley of St. Petersburg, Fla.

The family suggested memorials to the Charlevoix County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

JULIUS W. GILBERT
Julius W. Gilbert, 81, died April 10 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A private memorial service will be held at a later date.

Born in Kalamazoo July 23, 1902, Mr. Gilbert was graduated from the Detroit University School in Grosse Pointe. He joined the D.W.G. Club and served on the Board of Directors until his retirement.

During World War I he was appointed as a Dolores Year-Man to the U.S. Treasury Department and promoted the sale of war bonds for the State of Michigan.

With several associates, he built The Lodge of Charlevoix in 1962. In 1979 he sold The Lodge to his longtime friend and manager, Jack Uhrich.

Mr. Gilbert was a member of the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Area Hospital for nine years, 1963-74 and had been active in all the fund-raising campaigns for the hospital for many years.

He was an avid golfer in his youth and won the Northern State Championship in 1921 and also played in an exhibition golf match for the Petoskey Bay View Country Club.

His interest in speedboat racing won him numerous trophies, including the Harbor Springs First Annual Water Carnival Trophy in 1927 with a Hacker-designed speedboat which was the fastest boat on the Great Lakes at the time.

Among his hobbies, he enjoyed hunting and fishing.

When he moved to Charlevoix permanently, after being a summer resident since 1910, he built a studio in his home where he enjoyed carving wooden animals out of mahogany, ebony and walnut. His work was exhibited at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair and recently at the Virginia McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

Surviving are his wife, the former Edith Weisinger, whom he married at Santa Monica, Cal., April 9, 1940; a daughter, Patricia Grove of New Haven, Conn.; a son, Jay of Rochester, N.Y.; six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The family suggests memorials to the Julius Gilbert Medical Scholarship Fund at the Charlevoix Area Hospital or the Crooked Tree Arts Council in Petoskey.

HELEN JANSEN

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN
ORDINANCE NO. 15

An ordinance to provide for connection to a public sanitary sewer system and to define hardship and provide for the payment of connection fees and to allow for deferred payment of fees in case of hardship.

WHEREAS, pursuant to Act No. 368 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1978, as amended ("Act 368") the legislature of the State of Michigan has determined that public sanitary sewer systems are essential to the health, safety, and welfare of the people of the State and that the connection to available public sanitary sewer systems at the earliest, reasonable date is a matter of public health, safety, and welfare; and

WHEREAS, in cases where hardship is determined by the Township Board of the Township of Charlevoix (the "Township") may defer partial or total payment required of the taxpayer;

NOW, THEREFORE, THE TOWNSHIP OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 101. When used in this Ordinance the following definitions shall apply:

(a) Available Public Sewer means a public sanitary sewer system located in a right-of-way, easement, highway or public way, which crosses, adjoins, abuts or is contiguous to the real estate involved and passes not more than 200 feet at the nearest point from a structure in which sanitary sewage originates.

(b) Township shall mean the Township of Charlevoix, Township Board and Board shall mean the Township Board of the Township of Charlevoix.

(c) Owner shall mean the person or persons having legal title to real estate involved according to the Township's tax records and shall include in the case of a land contract sale the land contract vendee or vendee, provided that the Township has been furnished with a copy of the land contract or any assignment thereof.

(d) Shall and may — "shall" is mandatory; "may" is permissive.

Section 102. Structures in which sanitary sewage originates lying within the limits of the Township shall be connected to an available public sanitary sewer in the Township.

Section 103. The connection to an available public sanitary sewer shall be completed promptly but not later than 18 months after the date of occurrence of the last of the following events:

(a) Publication of a notice by the Township of availability of the public sanitary sewer system in a newspaper of general circulation in the Township.

(b) Modification of a structure so as to become a structure in which sanitary sewage originates.

(c) Failure to Connect to the System.

Section 104. (a) When the structure in which sanitary sewage originates is not connected to an available public sanitary sewer system within the time specified in Section 103, the connection shall be made immediately by the owner of the property and by posting on the property.

(b) The notice shall give the approximate location of the public sanitary sewer system which is available for connection of the structure involved and shall advise the owner of the requirements and enforcement provisions of sections 12752 to 12758 of Act 368 of Michigan Public Acts of 1978, as amended, and this ordinance.

(c) Where a structure in which sanitary sewage originates is not available public sanitary sewer system within 90 days after the date of mailing or posting of the written notice, the Township may bring an action for a mandatory injunction or order in the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix in which the structure is situated to compel the owner to connect to the available sanitary sewer system immediately. The Township may also pursue its remedy of attaching and selling within the Township in the action to compel such owner to connect to an available sanitary sewer system immediately.

Section 105. The sections of this ordinance shall not limit the right of the owner of a structure in which sanitary sewage originates voluntarily to connect the structure to a public sanitary sewer system where the operator of the system agrees to the connection.

Section 106. (a) For each direct connection to lines of the system there shall be charged a fee per single family residence equivalent as determined by the Interagency Agreement between the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township.

(b) Other direct connections. The direct connection fee for other than a single-family residence shall be based upon the number of units assigned to any particular structure as determined by the Township Board, and its decision shall be final.

(c) Payment of connection charge. Connection charges as set forth above shall be due and payable in cash upon application for connection to the system.

Hardship, deferred payment of fees

Section 107. (a) Hardship is defined as family income below the level of poverty, considering all of the persons in the household and the income of each person in the household, and if there are no other resources available to pay the tax in fee. The level of poverty shall be considered to be as established by the Federal Government.

(b) An owner of property may request deferment of the tax in fee for connection by filing an application with the Township assessing office. The application shall be on a form provided by the Township.

(c) Prior to granting the deferment of payment of the tax in fee the owner of the property shall execute a note to the Township secured by a mortgage on the real estate involved for the outstanding balance of the tax in fee which note and mortgage may be payable any time but shall be paid in full on the date of the ownership of the property or upon the sale or transfer of property.

(d) The mortgage shall bear interest not to exceed 7% per annum.

(e) The mortgage shall be recorded with the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds. Upon payment in full of the tax in fee and any accrued interest, the Township shall cancel the note and execute a discharge of mortgage and by adoption of this Ordinance the Township hereby authorizes and directs the Township Supervisor to cancel the note and execute the discharge of mortgage.

Section 108. All ordinances, resolutions or orders or parts thereof insofar as the same may be in conflict herewith are hereby declared repealed or rescinded as may be necessary.

Section 109. The Township specifically reserves the right to amend this Ordinance in whole or in part at any time hereafter or to repeal the same, and by such amendment or repeal to increase, decrease or otherwise modify any of the fees or charges presently specified herein.

Section 110. The invalidity of any section, clause, sentence, or provision of this ordinance shall not affect the validity of any other part of this ordinance which can be given effect without such invalid part or parts.

Section 111. This ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its adoption.

Charlevoix Courier

Vol. 100 No. 18 12 Pages Serving Charlevoix County (Mich.) Since 1883 Wednesday, April 25, 1984

Triplets are a first

It's a first for the Charlevoix Area Hospital! Triplets were born early Easter Sunday morning at the hospital to Richard and Carol Johnston of Bellaire. The three little girls were born by Caesarean section at 4:10, 4:12 and 4:13 a.m. and weighed in at 5 lbs., 1 oz.; 3 lbs. 14 oz. and 5 lbs. 10 oz. respectively.

Attending the birth were Drs. F. James Stewart, William Mosher and Dennis Joy.

The girls join four other sisters and one brother at home, ranging in age from 3 to 10 years old.

Mrs. Johnston was admitted to the hospital five weeks ago when it was first determined that triplets were on the way. Said Mr. Johnston, "We decided we wanted to go to a smaller hospital because you get a lot more attention."

And attention they have gotten.

In addition to much extra help from the Charlevoix Area Hospital staff, the Hospital Guild has begun coordinating aid for the Johnstons coming from many sources, both in and out of the community. Mr. Johnston, a former mechanic and construction worker, has been unemployed since being laid off from his job with Chain O' Lakes Construction Co. two and a half years ago.

Already, the Procter and Gamble Co. has donated three cases of disposal diapers and the Gerber Co. has chipped in a case of baby food. Those wishing to help the family are asked to contact the Guild through the hospital.

According to retired physician Gilbert Saltonstall, although triplets have never been born at the Charlevoix hospital, one set was born on a farm between Charlevoix and East Jordan in the 1930s and later brought into the hospital for observation.

As of Monday, the Johnston triplets had not yet received names but the family was busy thinking up more names that start with "J" since all five of the older children have "J" names.

Board of Appeals turns down variances for Harbour Club

The Charlevoix Board of Appeals, meeting Tuesday, April 17, denied a list of variances sought by developer Jon A. Hisey for the proposed addition of ten condominium units at the Harbour Club on the south shore of Round Lake.

The night before the Board of Appeals meeting, the Charlevoix City Council had narrowly approved rezoning the property involved from marine-commercial to marine-commercial-residential, which would allow the condominium development. Council also approved Hisey's site plan which featured two buildings containing five units each.

Variances sought included a 17.5 foot west sideyard setback, a 20-foot courtyard variance, a lot coverage variance that was either four or 11 percent depending on how the boathouse units extending over the water were computed, a variance on the location of the garages in the front yard, a ten foot front yard setback and ten foot sideyard setback for the garages and an east sideyard variance of 30 feet.

A motion was made by Board Chairman Barry Wood to deny all the variance requests on the grounds that the project could be built without them. The motion passed unanimously with three members present, Wood, Chuck Scherping and Don Seelye.

Study was continuing this week, however, as to whether the motion to deny the variances required more than a simple majority of the board.

EPA to propose water alternative May 1

by DAVE KNIGHT

Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials said last week that a "focus feasibility study" recommending an alternative water supply for Charlevoix will be announced Tuesday, May 1.

EPA Region V spokesman John L. Perreone said that the agency had, in essence, adopted the two-track approach suggested by the city in which work toward determining an alternative water source could be initiated while the investigation continues on how the industrial chemical trichloroethylene (TCE) is contaminating city water.

While the source of the contamination has still not been pinpointed, preliminary results from a series of monitoring wells drilled by the EPA in December have shown the highest levels of TCE, from 200 to 400 parts per billion (ppb), in the block of the Middle School bordered by State, Clinton, Mason and Grant Streets.

These samples were taken from the groundwater at the site, not the tap water. Contaminant levels in the municipal well system continue to test at the 30 to 40 ppb range although a 49 ppb reading was taken earlier this month when one of the sensors installed in the city well to remove the contaminant temporarily malfunctioned.

According to Perreone, the two options most likely to be recommended by EPA are a lake water treatment plant and a new deep well system.

Following the May 1 release of the EPA recommendation, there will be an opportunity for public response, including a hearing, before the agency makes its final recommendation to EPA headquarters in Washington.

The City of Charlevoix faces a May 1 deadline set by the Michigan Department of Public Health (DPH) to state how it plans to eliminate the contamination. In a November, 1983 meeting, the DPH had agreed to extend that deadline to January 1, 1985 should the city have at least one new well on line by May 1.

An extensive exploration for a new well conducted earlier this year was fruitless, however.

The city has until January 1, 1987 to have a new water system on line.

Hearing held on LCC charges involving Castle Farms

by DAVE KNIGHT

A Michigan Liquor Control Commission (LCC) hearing on nine alleged violations of state liquor laws by Castle Farms Management Corp. took place last week at the Charlevoix City Hall.

The hearing, postponed from March 29, opened Thursday morning and continued through Friday evening.

Testimony was heard by Administrative Judge David L. Campbell on the charges by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, eight of which date back to two August, 1983 concerts at Castle Farms Music Theatre. The ninth charge was filed February 1, 1984 when Castle Farms' owner Arthur R. Reibel refused to surrender his firm's liquor license after it was suspended by hearing commissioner Alex G. Lagis.

Laggis suspended the license after Reibel did not appear at a March 29 hearing on the violations.

Assistant Attorney General Thomas Giachino presented the Sheriff's Department's charges while Castle Farms Management Corp. was represented by Attorney Norman Farhat.

Campbell indicated that his rulings on the charges would be made in about two weeks after reviewing the testimony.

Six of the alleged violations took place during the Men at Work concert held August 23, 1983 at Castle Farms.

Of those, two charge that alcoholic beverages were allowed to be removed from licensed areas (specifically from the tavern building on the concert grounds to the lawn seating area).

Farhat maintained that not only was there no proof that the beverages deputies saw people carrying between the two areas contained alcohol but that the license issued for consumption on the lawn area was "one and the same" as the tavern's license.

Two charges were also made that Sheriff's deputies moved to have Campbell disqualify himself on grounds that he had prejudged the case before hearing all the testimony.

Campbell refused the motion and ordered the hearing to continue.

The two other August 23 charges dealt with the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors.

Of the two allegations dating to the August 27 Def Leppard concert at Castle Farms, one charged that Sheriff's deputies were again refused access to the premises for a liquor law inspection and one was another charge of removing alcoholic beverages from a licensed area.

Reibel testified that the presence of armed, uniformed officers on concert grounds during previous concerts had caused crowd control problems and that he refused the inspections on the basis that more such problems might occur.

At one point during testimony by Undersheriff Dale Boehm about his attempt to conduct one of the inspections during the concert, Campbell remarked that he found the practice of the Sheriff's Department to be conducted "with utter disregard of common sense."

Giachino immediately moved to have Campbell disqualify himself on grounds that he had prejudged the case before hearing all the testimony.

Campbell refused the motion and ordered the hearing to continue.

Opinion

Knight on the Town

Taking our lumps

by Dave Knight

As fully expected - and predicted - the TCE contamination of Charlevoix's water system has finally blown up in our faces as a public relations nightmare for the community.

The only surprise to anyone should be that it took as long as it did. Irony is considered by newspaper editors as one of the best angles on which to hang a story. Thus, when the Detroit Free Press decided to investigate the problem of groundwater pollution in Michigan, it was a natural decision to lead off the four-part series with a case study of a city that has boasted of its natural purity for over a century, a place with the chutzpah to call itself Charlevoix the Beautiful, but which now faces the sordid fact that its drinking water is polluted.

It is little consolation to Charlevoixians that their problem is shared by at least two dozen other municipalities in the state. Chances are that many, if not most, readers of the Sunday Free Press (circulation: 728,000) on April 15 did not understand that Charlevoix's story was being used as an illustration of a widespread problem.

One local resident who traveled downstate for Easter paid three social visits to family and friends over the weekend. At each household, he told me, the first remark made by the hosts was something to the effect of "Wow, that's really something about your water!"

The Free Press story was only the beginning.

On Monday, April 16, a UPI wire story, adapted from the Free Press, appeared in the Chicago Sun Times (circulation: 650,000) under the 36-point headline: "WATER TAINTED, TOWN FACES BAN."

The lead sentence in the story, dated: Charlevoix, read: "This city's water supply is contaminated by a suspected cancer-causing chemical and could be the first in Michigan to be condemned."

In the story that followed, a valiant effort was made to cover two and a half years of events in 12 paragraphs. So there was no mistake, a map of Michigan pinpointing Charlevoix accompanied the story. What was intended as a nifty "Trouble in Paradise" angle to punch up an otherwise mundane environmental report has become, not a story about a widespread problem, but a story about Charlevoix's problem.

And the fallout has already begun. Kjell Johannsen, manager of the WeatherVane Terrace, told me last Thursday that a tour group from Coldwater, Mich., having seen the Free Press story, called to cancel their motel booking for this summer. If one was to plan the release of the Charlevoix-TCE stories in the metro papers for maximum negative impact to the city's summer tourism industry, the timing could not have been better. No doubt there will now be some second thoughts about visiting Charlevoix on the part of many who are in the process of planning summer vacations.

Some time ago, I took the position that, while the health hazard posed by the levels of TCE in Charlevoix's water appeared to be minimal, the public relations hazard did indeed pose a clear and present danger to the local economy.

Just how dangerous we'll soon find out.

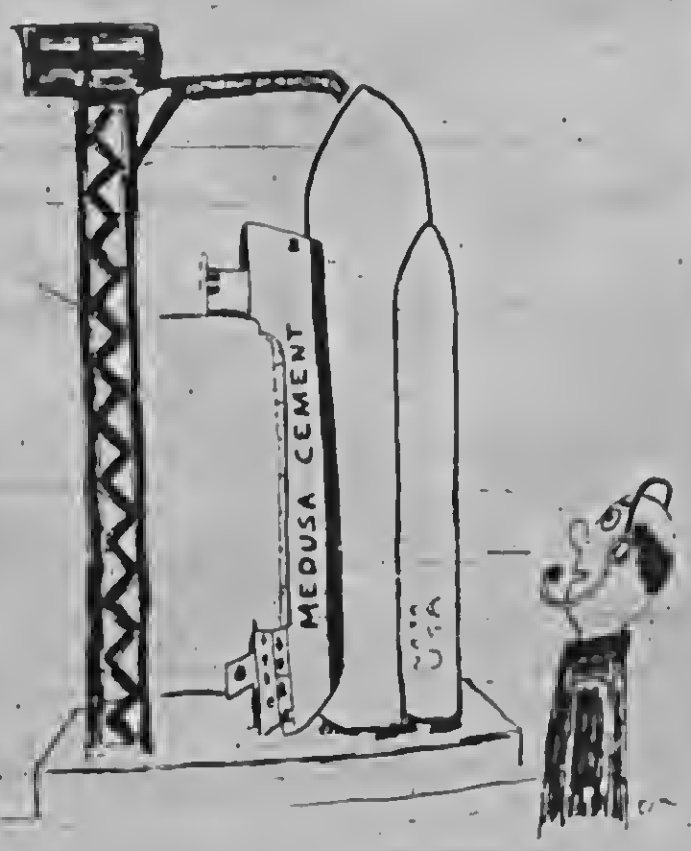

Most frustrating is the fact that, since the voters rejected bonding for an expensive new water plant, Charlevoix's fate has been lifted from its own hands. Until the plodding Environmental Protection Agency pronounces its intentions, we must sit tight and take the media heat.

We have a problem, it makes good copy and there's not much we can do about it.

The EPA says it will produce a recommendation for an alternative water supply. May 1. But this is the same agency that said it would announce test results for early January and finally produced some of them, involuntarily, last week.

About all we can hope at this bleak point is that whenever the final chapter of this painful saga is written, it is told to the world with as much vigor as that with which our misfortunes have been chronicled.

Letters: The freeze

To the Editor:
In November, 1982, 11 million Americans went to the polls and voted "yes" to a joint U.S.-Soviet freeze on nuclear weapons.

This was an astonishing victory - especially when you consider that the freeze movement became known barely two years ago.

The majority of us - by a margin of three to one - see the freeze as a timely and pragmatic first step toward genuine arms control and lasting world peace.

But we still don't have the freeze. Our next step is to convert our grassroots support into political power at the ballot box.

We need to elect a Congress and president in 1984 who understands that a bilateral freeze is the first and most critical step we can take toward reducing the risk of nuclear war. We need to defeat those who oppose such a freeze.

We said "yes"

Dear Friends at the Charlevoix Courier,

Our family has said "Yes, to Michigan." After cruising the harbors of Michigan for the past 15 years aboard our yacht "Wild Goose" we decided to pull up our roots and transplant them in Michigan.

We have purchased the Northport Bay Boat Yard on Grand Traverse Bay so I guess we'll practically be next door neighbors. We want you to know the welcome we always receive from our "friends" in Charlevoix helped us to decide on Michigan.

Clockwise

A different wind

by Bob Clock

Charlevoix just isn't equipped to handle an East Wind.

That's probably because prevailing winds are out of the northwest and every living thing in town - plant and animal - tilts a few degrees in that direction to compensate for the continuous pressure. However, when the wind shifts to the east, it catches us all off balance.

That's my theory as to what happened to Charlevoix's new Community Christmas Tree in East Park, which stood soldier-straight through howling nor'westers all winter. Then suddenly on Easter Sunday, the wind shifted out of the east and down she came, taking guy ropes and stakes along with her.

Of course, the tree was only planted last summer, a gift from Clayton Scott and the late Dr. Walter Hofmann and it really hadn't had a chance to get established. Furthermore, some evergreens have rather shallow root systems and need the company of other trees in order to keep their footing in a high wind.

Whether the tree can survive its latest ordeal is a matter of conjecture. If it could be righted and watered copiously it might make it. If not, it was a handsome addition to East Park while it lasted.

SMELT REPORTEDLY are running in Charlevoix area streams. But before you sail forth with smelt net and waders, stop at one of our local sporting goods outlets and buy a Michigan fishing license.

We heard of one fellow who got nabbed by the game warden the other night on the banks of a smelt stream, and he wasn't even holding a net. But he was holding a flashlight, which made him an accessory to the crime. His buddy had the net.

WHAT WILL BECOME of our annual smelt runs, after Chinook salmon are planted in Medusa Creek? The big salmon are hearty eaters, I am told, and what is tastier than a young smelt? Twelve-dollar-a-pound shrimp can hardly compare.

So enjoy this year's smelt bonanza. It could be one of the last.

AND WHO DECIDED that smelt "run" in the first place? They're pretty good swimmers - but runners? Maybe they were thinking about mud-puppies, which actually can travel short distances on their stumpy little legs.

New Extension Home Economist named for Charlevoix and Antrim Counties

by PEG OHLE

Janet Rathke is the new Extension Home Economist for Charlevoix and Antrim Counties.

Janet, who assumed her duties April 1, comes to the job with a broad educational and career background. She received her bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University with a major in home economics and family living and later received her master's degree from Eastern with a major in guidance and counseling. She taught home economics in the high school at Erie, worked as a secretary in a brokerage office, and spent some time as a waitress in a Mexican restaurant.

"I have a strong background in family living and child development," says Janet, who was a single parent for several years, "but I have a lot of brushing up to do on food preparation and preservation. However, I attended a home economics conference in Grand Rapids last week and feel better about that field now," she added.

Within the next few weeks, Janet will spend her time becoming acquainted with homemakers' groups in both counties and planning future events. She will conduct an empathy training workshop for the "Listening Ear" project in Bellaire; get ready for College Week on June 4 and 5; Judge 4-H Achievements at the Charlevoix High School on May 12; plan for the Emmet County and Antrim County Fairs (this will be the first year the new Antrim County Fair in Bellaire is recognized by the State Fair Board); she will prepare her Tuesday morning broadcasts for Radio Station WCLX in Boyne City; Her son, Steve, is U. Both husband and son are supportive of her work, Janet says, and understand the competition for her time.

"I enjoy working with people and will never be bored with this job," she says of her work.

How does one lay a foundation for a career as Extension Home Economist? Janet explains that she grew up in Jackson learning how to cook and sew, but those talents are only part of the job, which now requires knowledge of chemistry, biology, psychology, and other arts and sciences.

The Extension Home Economist is available for help. "If you have problems or need information that we don't have at our fingertips, we can always get it from MSU," she explains. Her Boyne City number is 522-5222 and her Bellaire number is 533-8607.

KCs collect over $800 in candy drive

The Pere Charlevoix Council No. 7172, Knights of Columbus, collected a total of $815.77 during the recent two-day Tootsie Roll drive to assist the mentally retarded Jack Gebott, Grand Knight of the Council, has announced.

The 71,000 Knights of Columbus to state organizations for the generosity of so many people. Through the gifts of the contributors, many mentally retarded persons will have service and equipment available to make their lives more rewarding." Gebott said in recognizing those who made the fund campaign a success.

A commitment and desire for a leaner physique.

Bulldogs, was known for his hard-nosed defensive play and hustle, coming off the Ferris bench. He was recognized at the recent FSC basketball and cheerleader awards banquet, sponsored by the Big Rapids Rotary Club.

Charlevoix's Bill Taylor, whose stellar high school cross country career climaxed this year with All-American honors, will join one of the top college track programs in the nation this fall.

According to Taylor, it was both the Badgers' high-powered track program and the lake-surrounded Madison campus that were the most influential factors in his decision. He estimated that he had been contacted over the past year by at least 60 colleges and universities from all over the country.

Taylor, who led the Charlevoix CC team to a pair of Class C state championships, has been granted an athletic scholarship at Wisconsin.

The Charlevoix Rayder baseball team is scheduled to host Gaylord at 4 p.m. Tuesday after defeating Central Lake 16-4 in their season opener recently.

With Brent Cole on the mound, Central Lake had only five hits while Holladay allowed—10. Cole had 12 strike-outs.

Jeff Novotny had two hits including a home run, Kyle Smith a home run, Judy Putman, three hits including a homer and Thad Morgan, Kent Ketchman, Jeff Kelly and Chris Havens, one single each.

For Central Lake, Hoogerhyde, Carpenter and Lundy had one single each and Graves and Hall, one home run each.

Charlevoix will host Grayling Thursday at 4 p.m., travel to Onaway for a game at 10 a.m. Saturday, host Petoskey Tuesday and play at Grayling May 3.

Bill Taylor signs his letter of intent to attend the University of Wisconsin as his parents, Doug and Louise Bergmann, and his high school coach, Pete Snieles, look on. ---

		Resolution proclaims
		"Dr. Saltonstall Week"
		A resolution and, Whereas Dr. Gilbert B. Saltonstall has shown great leadership in the establishment of a modern Charlevois Area Hospital and the extremely significant role he has played in the Charlevois community. The resolution signed by Mayor Kenneth Staley reads as follows: Whereas Gilbert B. Saltonstall has been a neighbor, student, active citizen and contributor to Charlevois since 1912, and Whereas Dr. Gilbert B. Saltonstall, through his continual, high standard of practice in medicine and surgery, has served as an inspiration to those who have followed, and Therefore, in recognition of his many years of service to the Charlevois area, I proclaim the week of April 23, 1984 Dr. Gilbert B. Saltonstall week and extend a hearty congratulations to the Charlevois community. A reception for Dr. Saltonstall, honoring his 50 years of practice, is planned Thursday, April 26, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Grey Gables.
		Local pair advance in math contest
		Middle-school students Scott Miller and Tom Thinnin are among the top 25 math scholars in northern Michigan. Scott, a sixth grader, and Tom, an eighth grader, recently competed in a 65 minute test for Regions 2 and 7, sponsored by the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Charlevois sent twelve students from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades to the competition which was held in Cadillac. Over 300 students participated. The next stage is the competition that will take place on May 19 at Central Michigan University.

NATHALIE B. MOSES
Word has been received of the death on April 18 of Nathalie B. Moses, 84, in Chicago. Mrs. Moses was a long-time summer resident of Charlevoix's Michigan Avenue. She is survived by two sons, Hamilton Moses, Jr. and James H. Moses, six grandchildren, and ten great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband, Hamilton Moses. Services and burial were private.

MADELINE L. SLATTERY
Funeral services for Mrs. Madeline L. Slattery, 74, who died April 18 at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals, were held April 20 at the Manchester Funeral Home. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon of St. Mary's Church officiated. Graveside services were held at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Detroit, April 21. Born in Detroit Sept. 17, 1909, the daughter of William and Lillian (Sullivan) Morrow, she always made her home in Detroit. Mrs. Slattery preceded her husband, R. Dale Slattery, who died March 9, 1980. Mrs. Slattery moved to Charlevoix in 1978 to make her home. She was a member of St. Mary's Church and its Rosary Altar Society and the Senior Citizens Club. She is survived by two sons, Jack of Hayes Township, Charlevoix, and James of Farmington, Minn., and three grandchildren, Sean, Brian and Colleen. The family suggests memorials to the American Heart Association.

REHEARSING for the Sunday, April 29 performance of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" are these young members of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. The performance will be presented as part of the morning worship.

Peg Ohle looks back at a decade of reporting for the Courier

(This week the Courier interviews Peg Ohle, who is observing her tenth anniversary as a Courier reporter.)

COURIER: How come a nice little grandmother like you is still snooping around Charlevoix for news?

PEG: Well, it's more fun than cleaning the oven and washing clothes.

COURIER: Then who does those jobs for you?

PEG: Oh, I do. You see, I work only three days a week. There's plenty of time to do what has to be done in our little house in Horton Bay.

COURIER: Don't you miss being able to travel around, go places?

PEG: But we do go places. Last week, Bill and I went to the International Curling matches in Duluth.

COURIER: You mean you went north for a spring break instead of south like everyone else did? And what on earth is curling?

PEG: Sure. The weather was bright and sunny just like it was here. Curling is a game played on ice with rocks and brooms. I won't bore you any further.

COURIER: What is it you do here at the Courier?

PEG: I write about almost anything that comes along - County government, local politics, interesting and important people, weddings, engagements, obituaries, lots of different things.

COURIER: How did you get the job?

PEG: When Ken Winter became editor of the Courier in 1974, he asked me if I wanted to work part time with him. He knew I was a journalism school graduate and I guess he just wanted a stable person around and figured that at my age I had to be stable.

COURIER: The newspaper business being what it is, not many of us remain on one job very long. What's with you?

PEG: As I said, I like the job and I like the people I work with. You see, I had a vacation of about 32 years between this job and the last one, so I have some catching up to do.

COURIER: What is it you like so much about the job? The money?

PEG: You know better than that. I like the job because I like people and I've been able to make a awful lot of friends in the last ten years.

COURIER: Haven't you made any enemies?

PEG: I hope not. Every once in a while I bring to light something that someone objects to - expense accounts of public servants, the exorbitant cost of operating the county bus system, the moral breakdown of an elected official, things like that - but I try to be fair and most people think I am.

COURIER: Why do you think it's important to write about such things?

PEG: I think it's the newspaper's job to let the public know how their tax dollars are being spent or mis-spent. This means federal and state tax dollars as well as local tax dollars from property taxes. All too often local public servants pay no attention to how money from Washington or Lansing is spent locally, even though they sign the papers that bring those funds to Charlevoix County.

COURIER: You don't have to get up on a soapbox.

PEG: Well, that's the way I feel. And another thing, I'm sad about the loss of public spirit among the general public. We have all kinds of commissions and boards that people are appointed to. There was a time when appointees were willing to serve on these commissions and boards without remuneration, except, perhaps, a little money for pay for their gasoline. Now they are paid per diem ranging from $32.50 to $60 a meeting that sometimes may last only two or three hours. They won't leave the meeting without signing a voucher for the meeting and full mileage even though two or three of them may go to the meeting in the same car.

COURIER: There's not much you can do about that, is there?

PEG: Probably not, but some of those people who don't need the money are getting almost as much per diem as the total income of some of the people they are supposedly helping.

COURIER: Hey, let's end this interview on a happier note.

PEG: I'm with you. I have spring fever. I can't wait for our tourists and summer residents to arrive. I like the bustle of the streets and stores and restaurants. I don't even mind having to park my car several blocks from the office. I like the drive from Horton Bay to Charlevoix when everything is green and growing and surging with life.

COURIER: You sound young at heart, anyway.

PEG: I am, but one of these winters it will be too difficult to fight the ice and snow along the highway and even for Bill to chauffeur me to work in our old Bronco. Then I'll have to trade in my leather spectator pumps for my Horton Bay tennis shoes. That won't be the end of everything, though, because I've been promised my 1981 Smith-Corona typewriter as a going-away present.

COURIER: Happy anniversary.

Reporter Peg Ohle is still churning out Courier scoops on her trusty 1981 Smith-Corona after ten years.

Names In The News

Four Exceptional Service Awards for 1983 have been announced by Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater. The awards were granted for exceptional service as a deputy sheriff or volunteer auxiliary member of the Sheriff's Department over the year 1983.

Recipients were Deputy Sheriff DONALD SPROUL, and posse members ROGER KNUSTON, JOHN GASCO and PAT AVERY.

Said Lasater, "These volunteers and deputy sheriffs have worked hard in making this county a safer place in which to live. Without the dedication and professionalism of each of these people our efforts in the Sheriff's Department would be less than they are today."

Charles Elzinga, above, 710 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, local agent for Farm Bureau Insurance Group, has been named one of the company's top agents of 1983, based on his excellent record of sales and service for the year.

As one of the year's top agents, Elzinga received Farm Bureau Insurance Group's "All American" award during the company's recent annual sales convention in Dearborn. He also earned membership in the Executives Club, an honor reserved for the company's top 27 agents and agency managers for their superior insurance sales and service.

A member of the company's Leaders for Life Club for top life insurance producers, Elzinga sold nearly $15 million in life insurance protection in 1983, one of the highest totals in the company. He also earned the Seal of Excellence in claims authority, which entitles him to special claims payment privileges to expedite service to his clients.

John K. LaBarge, above, has been named "Sailor of the Quarter" ending March 1984, by his shipmates aboard the U.S.-Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite homeported at Charlevoix.

Selection of "Sailor of the Quarter" is based on the crewman's military bearing, etiquette, uniform appearance, work habits, professionalism and leadership.

Privileges for "Sailor of the Quarter" are: 96 hour pass, his name engraved on the ship's plaque, parking space privileges for the next quarter and head of the chow live privileges for the quarter.

LaBarge entered the U.S. Coast Guard September 1980 and after receiving his basic training at Cape May, N.J., served aboard the U.S.C.G. Barque Eagle at the U.S.C.G. Station Cape May prior to being assigned to the U.S.C.G. Mesquite in May 1982.

He is married to the former Georgia Hawkins of Boyne City and presently resides in Boyne City.

Airman TIMOTHY L. KRUEGER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krueger of Charlevoix, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft maintenance course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

During the course, students were taught aircraft maintenance fundamentals to repair and service one and two engine jet aircraft. Maintenance management and documentation was also taught to assess aircraft readiness capability.

Graduates of the course earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Krueger is scheduled to serve with the 47th Organizational Maintenance Squadron at Laughlin Air Force Base, Texas.

He is a 1982 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

PAT B. RHINE, son of James and Catherine Novotny of Charlevoix, has made the Dean's List for the 3rd semester at the Phoenix Institute of Technology in Phoenix, Arizona. He is majoring in Architectural Drafting.

TOM HANNA of Charlevoix, manager of the Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company, was recently elected to the office of 2nd vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association. The association's election of officers took place at its annual meeting in Lansing, April 23.

Airman GERALD K. THOMPSON, son of Curtis W. and Louise K. Thompson of Charlevoix, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force munitions maintenance course at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

During the course, students were taught to inspect, assemble and dispose of explosive munitions. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Former resident Leedy promoted to brigadier general

E.B. Leedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Leedy of Charlevoix, and a longtime resident of Walloon Lake, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general in the U.S. Army.

With friends, co-workers and family looking on, Leedy, III Corps and Fort Hood G-4 Logistics Officer, proudly received his brigadier general stars during ceremonies March 25 at the Fort Hood Officers Club at Fort Hood, Texas.

Assisting with pinning on the new stars were Leedy's wife, Nancy, and the III Corps and Fort Hood commander, Lt. Gen. Walter F. Ulmer, Jr.

Leedy was drafted into the Army as a private in 1959 and served as an enlisted Artilleryman for one year with the 3rd Infantry Division in Germany. In July 1960, he received a Direct Presidential appointment as a 2nd Lieutenant and spent the following two years in infantry assignments. In 1962 he transferred to the Quartermaster Corps, the branch he is still a member of today.

When asked how it felt going from private to general officer, Leedy explained, "Nothing will change whatsoever. I loved the Army, the people and my job right from the beginning and those relationships just continued to grow."

From Fort Hood, Leedy will leave in mid-April for what he describes as "another tremendous challenge and the opportunity to working very hard to find all the means, which will permit us to sustain ourselves in a prolonged combat environment," he summarized. Leedy stated that considerable progress in this area is being made through boat nation support, where German Army reserve logistics personnel will actually augment the Corps Support Command with many of the technical service requirements.

The newly promoted brigadier general also gave high marks to everyone at Fort Hood who helped make the recent Property Accountability Test (PAT) a success. "What a plus this will be for the entire Army," Leedy said. "This new system takes the properly abated off the neck of company commanders and gives them sensible tools to use in accounting for all their property," Leedy said.

The Great End of Winter Escape

By ANNE KELLY
The great "End-of-the-Winter-Escape" over spring break among Charlevoixans is as traditional as finding them "at home" during the summer season. A quest for getting away from it all and out into the sun is prime motivation. Heading south is the answer to a winter-worn soul's prayer. Unless it's a matter of extending the ski season by searching out the sun on the slopes of Aspen, luggage tags around town are apt to read "Florida", "Mexico", "Hawaii" or simply, "Take Me Where It's Warm".

For two Charlevoix families, breaking away led to re-exploring the delights of the Caribbean island of St. Vincent in the West Indies. Karen and Bob Reid and Don and Carol Seelye along with their families, spent two weeks on St. Vincent, investigating parts of the island "that even the natives didn't know were there." "You have to be adventurous to do what we do," Karen Reid explained. Their vacation included climbing to a volcano's crater lake, jumping into the pool at the base of the 75 foot Falls of Baleine, and snorkeling off of Young Island. It is 17 miles long and one mile wide, but traveling from the northernmost to the southernmost points could be a trek of at least 35 miles, the rugged volcanic terrain taken into account.

The la Soufriere mountain range rises to 4,000 feet above the sea level regions of the coast so that the variation in elevation makes for steep slopes and craggy peaks. These are two rough going but spectacular cal hot spot, and is home to an active volcano which has erupted significantly as recently as 1979, on Good Friday, April 13th of that year. So why choose St. Vincent for a vacation? For the Reids, it's a visit "home" to people they have lived and worked with over the years in a missionary capacity. Bob and Karen made St. Vincent their home. See Great page 6

TRAVEL

TORONTO

Topnotch Toronto

Toronto is terrific!

by Meg Brown
Bayside Travel

A Mini Vacation to Toronto is just the thing to enhance your life this summer season. Toronto by Via Rail out of Sarnia, Ontario makes the trip relaxing and provides the opportunity to view the beautiful scenery from the comfort of a railway car everyone is free of the driving responsibility.

The hotels and restaurants in this cosmopolitan city are so varied that a traveler's individual preference can be catered to and met.

Here are a few highlights of this marvelous city:

CN Tower gives you a view of the city that is superb, but you may find it preferable to go up the tower elevator independently, and have a cool drink and an appetizer rather than go in a tour group which costs about the same as a cool drink in the lounge.

Casa Loma is an opulent old castle/mansion which is fun to tour and appreciate how the wealthy once enjoyed life.

Eaton Centre is an inter city mall that abounds in great shops and is within walking distance of most city hotels.

Art Gallery of Ontario is a contemporary gallery building which offers a full spectrum of art — from the old masters to contemporary Canadian artists. And nearby is the great China Town of Toronto — second in population only to San Francisco's China Town. It's wise to note that most of the shops are closed tight on Sunday, in all of Toronto — except for China Town — which is alive and fun on a Sunday afternoon.

The Bloor-Yorkville shopping and dining area in midtown Toronto is a must to visit. Bloor Street is known for its high fashion stores, movie theatres, trendy restaurants and a major museum. Yorkville is a favorite place to stroll with its gaslights and fine old restored buildings. It is a focal point for antique and art dealers, designer clothing and chic nightlife.

You'll be pleased to discover how easily you can get across town by mass transit. Thanks to people-minded planning, Metro Toronto mixes the historic and the modern in a distinctive architectural blend.

All this can be most affordable too. There are some great package rates with hotel and train transportation included. Your autumn will be more fun and memorable when it includes a trip to terrific Toronto!

PROFESSIONAL SECRETARIES WEEK

APRIL 22-28, 1984

The old image of the 9 to 5 secretary is fast disappearing into the sunrise of high technology. Beyond typing and shorthand, all the way to micro-computers and sophisticated equipment, she remains, as always the mainstay of the office staff.

Expected to have information at her fingertips, a pleasant front-office personality and polished telephone finesse, she is also required to be organized for everyone, to type, copy, report, file, to keep books, appointments and schedules, and to open mail so that the letters are still intact for her employer.

It's a frequently-taken-for-granted job well attended to by secretaries throughout the area. Hats off and flowers forward. It's National Secretaries' Week!

By SALLY SCHOOL. The Crooked Tree Arts Council announces its Third Annual Juried Craft Exhibition from May 5 to May 31. It will be held at the Gallery at the McCune Arts Center, Mitchell and Division Streets, Petoskey.

Entries should be presented at the Arts Center between April 24th and May 1st from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Works to be included can be in ceramics, fibers, glass, metals and wood.

A maximum of three entries may be submitted by each artist and a non-refundable entrance fee of $8.00 per artist is required. Cash prizes will be given from funds awarded to Crooked Tree Arts Council from the Michigan Foundation for the Arts. The Best of Show will carry a $300 award, First Place, $125, and Second Place, $75. Honorable Mention ribbons will be awarded at the discretion of the juror. The Exhibition is open to all artists in the Western Lower Peninsula and to all members of the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Juror for the show is Larry Oughton, a dynamic and varied ceramist. He has works in many permanent collections including the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Henry Ford Museum, and Museums in Japan and China. He received his education at the Kansas City Art Institute and the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield, Michigan. Mr. Oughton has taught at the ceramics department at Delta College, University Center, since 1973. He has traveled to China, Japan, Taiwan and the Philippines representing the United Nations through the International Porcelain Arts Society, meeting with Chinese Artists in China.

"Cinderella", the newly staged, live musical performed by the award-winning Prince Street Players, national touring company of the Detroit Institute of Arts' Theatre, will be presented to the public by Crooked Tree Arts Council on Tuesday, May 8. Showtime will be 7 p.m. at the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium, across from the Post Office on Howard Street in Petoskey. The performance will delight all ages, from preschool on up.

For one magical hour, two silly step-sisters, a handsome Prince Charming, a loving fairy godmother and the pretty heroine Cinderella, will spring to life in an original adaptation of this story book classic. Fantasy sets and costumes, and LIVE music showcase the 12 member professional company. This Prince Street production follows a last season's rave review national tour of "Mother Goose Jamboree" and "Sleeping Beauty". Foremost among producers of family theatre in America, Prince Street holds a special Emmy award for outstanding children's programming in television, and are heralded throughout the nation for standards of excellence.

Tickets to the Tuesday, May 8 performance are priced at $2.00 for both children and adults, and will be on sale at the door the evening of the show beginning at 6:15 p.m.

The Crooked Tree Arts Council brings the Prince Street Players to the area each year, and over 3,000 Charlevoix and Emmet County school children in grades one through five will see Cinderella this year at no charge. The performances will be held on Tuesday, May 8 and Wednesday, May 9 at the Petoskey Middle School and on Thursday, May 10 in East Jordan. The Burns Clinic Medical Center is sponsoring two of the five free performances, and the East Jordan Rotary Club is assisting with one of the East Jordan shows. Other sponsors will be welcomed, and are needed so the Arts Council can continue to offer this first quality live entertainment to all the school children.

A recent study by the National Endowment for the Arts shows that adults who enjoy the arts were most often introduced to them at an early age. And the Arts Council is interested in providing opportunities for all children, not just a select few. Call Art Center Director, Sean Ley at 347-4337 to see how you or your group can become a Prince Street sponsor.

Great End.

ironically enough, the year that La Soufriere erupted. Undaunted, they continue to vacation there and introduce friends to the intrigue of island life.

For the Seelye's, with their two youngsters, it was a second trip to St. Vincent, the first was a memorable and exciting family experience; never a dull minute, yet time to relax poolside. Don, whose avocation is photography, was sorting through some 800 slides the day I talked about St. Vincent with his family. The show will be complete with an original sound track of "Joseph and the Bamboo Band", taped live from a local night spot.

The highlights for both families were: climbing to the volcanic ridge of La Soufriere, the joy of leaping some ten to 15 feet into the clear pool beneath the cascading Falls of Baine, and snorkeling in the azure waters on the southern side of St. Vincent.

Not a vacation for everyone, St. Vincent, perhaps, appeals to the more adventuresome, the sailor or the photographer. But for the Seelyes and the Seelyes, it wouldn't take much persuasion to convince them to hop on that plane again next year.

Vol. 100 No. 19 14 Pages Serving Charlevoix County, Michigan Since 1904

Still no word from EPA on solution to TCE problem

Indications are that release by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) of its recommended alternative for the replacement of Charlevoix's tainted water supply will not take place for another ten to 14 days.

The EPA had originally set May 1 as the date for announcement of its intentions. The EPA has been conducting a "remedial investigation and feasibility study" of the Charlevoix situation and has still not been able to pinpoint the source of trichloroethylene (TCE) contamination in the city's water.

Spokesmen from the agency said, however, that the decision had been made to proceed with the process of studying an alternative water supply without waiting for a definite identification of the contamination source. The first step toward a replacement water system was to have been the May 1 release of the EPA's recommendations.

Officials of the agency were unavailable this week to explain the delay.

Also unclear is the city's status with the State of Michigan, which, through the Department of Public Health, set a May 1 deadline for the city to decide on a course of action. A meeting involving DPH, Department of Natural Resources, EPA and city officials is scheduled to be held in Lansing May 10.

Pond resigns

Stephen K. Pond, 35, resigned his office of Charlevoix County Register of Deeds Tuesday, April 24, after being sentenced to one year in the county jail for two counts of fourth degree criminal sexual conduct.

Pond pleaded guilty to the charges April 2 before Judge Robert C. Livo, Circuit Judge of Cheboygan County. The case was transferred to Cheboygan after both Charlevoix County Prosecutor Kragg Lieberman and Circuit Judge Maria Breighner disqualified themselves.

Four months of Pond's sentence was held in abeyance thus leaving eight months he will serve in the jail. He was also placed on five years probation, required to take part in a sexual assault counseling group, forbidden any contact with the victim without permission from the probate judge and probation officer and ordered to pay $300 in court costs.

A new Register of Deeds is to be appointed by a committee comprised of the county clerk, prosecutor and probate court judge. As of this week, the committee had not yet made its appointment and the Register of Deeds office was being managed by deputy register Charlene Gaskin, an announced candidate for the position in the upcoming general election.

County Board renews discussion on operation of Transit System

by PEG OHLE

The manager of the Charlevoix County Transit System appeared before the County Board last week to answer 22 questions about Transit operations posed seven months ago by a special committee appointed by the County Board.

Art Saworski turned five of the questions back to the County Commissioners, saying it was their "function", then proceeded to answer others.

He defended the system's accounting procedures, financial reports, and budget preparations. He stated that a long-term lease on a headquarters building was not feasible; that there was no need for a full-time mechanic; that promotion of the system was being undertaken through radio advertising, posters, pamphlets, and

CHS band returns to form; receives all 1's at state competition

The Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band, directed by Terry Isenberger, received straight 1 ratings in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival held Saturday at the Lar Ilkstad Auditorium in Traverse City.

It marks the first time a Charlevoix band has received a perfect rating, three 1's in concert and a 1 in sight reading since 1973 under the direction of C.A. Odmark.

Isenberger said "The kids did a good job. They worked hard. I was pleased that they received straight 1's. It's been a long time."

The Charlevoix band of 70 members was among the 20 bands and five orchestras from throughout the state that played for adjudication before Judges, George Wilson of Interlochen Academy and Music Camp, Raymond Roth of the University of Michigan, Iserad. Continued on page 4

At 52-9, Rhonda Buchanan is Rayders' ace

by DAVE KNIGHT

When she first took the mound as the starting pitcher for the Charlevoix High School girls softball team on a spring day in 1981, Rhonda Buchanan did not present the most imposing figure to the opposition.

She wasn't very big and her long, blond hair, tied into a ponytail with a bright ribbon made her look...well, like a freshman.

Which is what she was. But that petite image was shattered the first time she wound up and threw the ball.

Buchanan's blazing underhand fastball, which springs from her hand like a clay pigeon off a skeet launcher, has served her well in four years of varsity competition.

Although records are not officially kept among the group of schools with which Charlevoix competes in girls' softball (it is not a conference sport), Rhonda Buchanan is easily the winningest pitcher in the league's history and perhaps one of the best ever in Northern Michigan.

In her first three years of varsity play, Buchanan logged season records of 19-1 (as a freshman), 17-3 and 16-5. That's a 52-9 overall record going into her senior year. Figuring her average of six strikeouts per game, she has racked up an estimated 312 "Ks" in three years.

Buchanan has also distinguished herself in independent fastpitch softball league play against much stiffer competition. Last summer, for instance, she pitched the LaBlance Insurance team to third place in the State Class C tournament and was later picked up by the Outfitters team of Petoskey for the Class A tournament.

And softball, though her favorite, is not her only sport. Buchanan will have received ten varsity letters when she graduates this spring, an amazing accomplishment for any high school athlete. She has also played basketball and volleyball consistently on the varsity level.

Perhaps even more amazing is that Buchanan has also found time to participate in the CHS Student Council, the National Honor Society and the French Club over her high school career.

And to top it off, she is ranked sixth in her class academically.

Buchanan's first exposure to the softball diamond was in fifth grade when she signed up for the Ponytail League operated in the summer by the Charlevoix Recreation Department.

"Right away, I like being pitcher more than any other position," she said. "I felt like I had more control over the game."

She attributes the quick development of her pitching talent primarily to her sports-minded father, LeRoy Buchanan.

"He's the one I play catch with," she says smiling. "He taught me almost everything I know."

Rhonda Buchanan, above, shows the form, right, that has earned her 52 victories in her first three years of high school competition.

Knight on the Town

By Dave Knight

Since last week's mention here of the widening coverage of Charlevoix's problem with TCE contamination, more news clippings have filtered in from around the country that are, nothing less than, appalling.

Charlevoix has been seriously wronged by careless editing and poor news judgement of the United Press International wire service.

The whole episode is a sad reflection on the news business and does little to quiet those already suspicious of its credibility.

To back-track, on Sunday, April 15, the Detroit Free Press began a four-part series by reporter David Everett on groundwater contamination in Michigan with a page one account of Charlevoix's experience with TCE.

It was duly noted in the story, and accompanying stories, that Charlevoix was only one of at least a couple dozen municipalities in the state with groundwater contamination problems. Over the course of the series, several Michigan cities with similar and even greater such problems were cited.

Said Everett in a telephone interview last week: "My editors and I made the decision that the series would investigate a statewide problem and that no one place would be the focus."

But, through no fault of Everett, that is what happened.

From April 1, can determine, the piece in Charlevoix caught the eye of a UPI staff member on duty that Sunday morning.

The UPI bureau in the Free Press building, and sometimes stories lifted from the Free Press get onto the national wire before they even hit the streets in Detroit.

Whoever lifted the story, however, ignored completely the fact that it was a story about a Michigan problem. It was reported by UPI as a Charlevoix problem.

The result: headlines such as appeared Monday, April 16 in the Chicago Sun Times, "Water Tainted, Town Faces Ban" and the Miami Herald, "City's water supply may be condemned."

Until my phone call, UPI Detroit Bureau Chief James Campbell was even in town Thursday interviewing people about the "scop."

The lead paragraphs in both Sun Times and the Miami Herald were essentially identical: "Charlevoix's water supply has become contaminated by suspected cancer-causing chemical and could become the first in the state to be condemned."

Not only was this statement completely off base in that Charlevoix's problem is hardly unique—it says things that are factually unsound.

Since when has the state threatened to condemn the Charlevoix water supply? It has threatened to put sanctions on extending water mains, require signs in restaurants and other such actions. But the word "condemn" has never been officially uttered.

Both District Health Department sanitarian Larry Levenson and City Manager Robert Hign, who checked with the state Department of Public Health, confirmed that condemnation has never been a real possibility.

UPI cannot be blamed on this one. Everett used the word after talking with DPH official James Cleland. Everett asked Cleland if "condemn" would be an accurate general description of the complex range of the state's options if Charlevoix doesn't meet the DPH deadlines in finding new water.

Maybe we are tangled up in semantics here but it seems funny that the first time Charlevoix should learn that its water supply may be "condemned" is in a Detroit newspaper.

Regardless, even if the system were condemned, it would certainly not be the "first in the state" as reported by UPI. Perhaps the first in the state condemned for toxic water contamination as Everett reported, but UPI omitted that point entirely.

To all those who read the UPI version across the country, no city water system in the State of Michigan has ever been condemned but Charlevoix may enjoy this dubious distinction.

Everett was as surprised and disappointed as anyone with the handling by UPI of his story.

"Over the years I've had several problems with the wire service," he said. "I have tried to monitor stories of mine that they pick up and have actually called them when I spot errors. I would guess that at least 12 times in the past three years I have found substantial errors of fact."

Because long stories must be severely edited for the wire, the most frequent errors are sins of omission. That was surely the case in this instance. Had it been mentioned that Charlevoix's problem was typical of not only a nationwide problem, it would not have been so misleading. Of course, then it really would not have been such a catchy news story either.

"Invariably they (the wire service) pick out only choice facts and leave out important background," said Everett.

Until my phone call, UPI Detroit Bureau Chief James Campbell was unaware of any problem with the story.

I really don't remember who was on duty that Sunday morning but whoever it was was probably responsible for picking up the story," he said. Campbell asked for copies of the clippings and collected and said he would check into the matter.

Everett was very concerned about what may result from the inaccurate distribution of his story and said he would like to follow up. He is currently discussing some ideas with his editors.

We will never know, of course, what damage, if any, has actually been inflicted. There is no way to determine how many less people will visit here because of the bad press.

For a town that is trying its hardest to revive its heritage as an attractive vacation spot, however, the potential for less must be considered serious indeed.

What is unique about Rhonda's approach to softball is that she takes it very seriously ("I like to win") but has fun at the same time.

How seriously she takes the game is obvious in several ways.

Training for softball begins seriously in February with weight training on the high school's Nautilus equipment. Then, as gym time becomes available, she starts throwing. By the time the actual season rolls around in late April, Buchanan is well prepared.

The dedication continues throughout the spring schedule.

Says Mary Lieberman, who has coached Buchanan three of her four years in high school, "Rhonda is always the first one on the field throwing at practice and puts in a lot of hours between practices as well. She is a very dedicated ballplayer."

And a very versatile one.

"Rhonda can play almost any position on the field well," said Lieberman. At the plate, Buchanan has maintained averages always in the high .300s or low .400s.

It is her pitching, however, that has distinguished her most. Over the past four years, she has basically been Charlevoix's only pitcher. Except for a few exceptions, she has started almost every game for the team. She will even pitch both games of a doubleheader if she doesn't get too tired.

Buchanan plans to attend Hope College where she'll study social work. She also figures to play some ball. She said that she got letters from a few other schools interested in her but decided on Hope where she will probably be able to play right away.

For Buchanan, who has never really experienced sitting on the bench, that is a major consideration.

Opinion

Letters: Question Beach acquisition

To the Editor:

Many Charlevoix taxpayers have no firm opinion on the proposed purchase by the city of 300 feet of beach frontage. After reading the following it may be understandable why I am opposed to the proposition.

As you now know the city may acquire the 300 foot strip for a mere sum of $215,000. It would enlarge the present Ferry Avenue swimming beach.

Is an interesting story.

Once upon a time our City Fathers (Party of the First Part) sold in good faith to Party of the Second Part two city owned parcels of land. One was very large and the other very small. The largest territory laid adjacent to the aluminum factory on Storer Road. It ran in a northerly direction for almost 800 feet, but also a large arm of it goes East to the railroad tracks. This seven acres of land was given to the Second Party for $578, and also, tax free for the next twelve years. Presumably after that time there was a tax deduction on the IRS reports. This large tract of real estate totaled 308,247 square feet or seven acres plus. Enough space to build a General Motors factory, and also a few others. This particular plot of ground underwent four changes of title, but always remaining in control of the original Second Party. Recently this $578 piece of property was sold for a sum of money far exceeding $150,000.

On the same day and date that the above described property was acquired, the First Party (the City) also sold to the Second Party the 300 foot by 225 foot strip on Lake Charlevoix. It too was to be used for manufacturing purposes.

Charlevoix at that time lacked places of employment. Unfortunately, the city never enforced the articles of the deed. No building was ever erected or any improvements made. On the contrary it has remained in a very unimproved condition. Adding nothing at all to the beauty of Charlevoix in the meantime however, many of our local citizens have been deprived the use of a good beach area. The buyer paid $3,000 for the 300 feet.

The taxpayers have never received any benefits from either of the two transactions. In fact the city has sustained a loss as this land has been unproductive for years, except to the Second Party. The present council should not embarrass the town by offering further unconscionable profit.

In this instance the property should be secured by condemnation processes. An impartial judge should set a fair and reasonable price, especially after considering the circumstances of its sale by a previous council.

A questionable at this time too, is the peculiar insistence of the council to pay such a high price for this 300 feet, $215,000. The fair market price for this parcel is less than $100,000, especially for such a narrow depth of the site.

Secondly the Bankruptcy Court lists a value of $150,000. This is the amount suggested by the Second Party, and not an estimate by a qualified licensed land appraiser.

The greatest beneficiaries of this whole deal are the prime secured creditors. The whole controversial matter seems to take on the appearance of a concerted conspiracy by three or more parties. But all is not lost. The taxpayer could profit from it if the council should prevail and buy the 300 feet for $215,000. It would be a bench mark occasion for setting the highest price every paid for shore line footage on Lake Charlevoix. It certainly would have a ripple effect.

Unfortunately the local assessing authority would be, by custom, obliged to raise the assessments of the Belvedere Association, the Chicago Club and various other lake front owners.

So maybe it would not be so bad after all.

members by Saworski indicate that the cost of operating the transit system for the four year period from January 1, 1981 through December 31, 1984 will be approximately $1,036,300. Most of this has come from Federal and State tax sources, although $1,844 of local millage is budgeted for 1984. Fares have ranged from $37,600 to $46,967 annually, and are estimated at $50,000 for 1984.

Except by Senior Citizens and handicapped persons, the Transit System has never been fully accepted. During the six-month period from October 1, 1983 through March 30, 1984, only 785 separate individuals (including Senior Citizens and handicapped persons) used the Transit System although its services were presumably available to the entire County population of about 20,000. This translates to a ridership of less than four percent of the County population.

In fact, one of Saworski's charts indicate a five percent decrease in ridership last year from the previous year.

This low ridership makes the cost of each ride furnished very high.

Saworski agreed that this could be done under present funding arrangements instead of starting its runs at 6 a.m. to handle a few factory worker commuters, buses would not have to start until 9 a.m. (except for the Bergmann Center bus), and could handle all the Senior Citizen meal site passengers, as well as those requiring rides to doctors, dentists, supermarkets, hairdressers, and other needed services.

Despite the high cost of operation, the Transit system is not labor intensive. At the present time, there are 12 persons on its payroll, including Saworski, a secretary, a supervisor, a dispatcher, and the bus drivers.

Following Saworski's report, County Board Chairman Lee Moerland indicated that the Board will act on the report within 30 days.

Clockwise

Skunk redux

By Bob Clock

I guess I spoke a little too quickly a couple of weeks ago about the absence of skunks in Charlevoix this spring.

The first callers reported the skunk population is about normal in Charlevoix Township — and the little beasts have now put in an appearance in town. Not many, but a few.

I still haven't seen any porcupines or raccoons, but rabbits apparently have had a good winter. They're everywhere.

SONGBIRDS ALSO have returned in unprecedented numbers, and I shudder to think how we almost lost them before the ban on DDT.

One little woodpecker on Nichols street near Dixon has found a cache of edibles near the top of a utility pole. In the early morning hours when everything is still he makes that old pole reverberate like a hammer dulcimer. It's hard to imagine how one small bird can make so much racket.

Robins are not only plentiful but uniformly fat. Some look more like pigeons or quail. It's a bad year to be a worm.

DID YOU CATCH Mark Russell on PBS last week — live from Buffalo?

After several minutes of biting monologue on Edwin Meese, President Reagan's nominee for attorney general, Russell decided to conduct his own presidential preference poll. Democrat Gary Hart, Walter Mondale and Jesse Jackson received only a smattering of applause when Russell mentioned their names.

When he came to Ronald Reagan, the hand-clappers brought down the house.

"You didn't hear a word I said," Russell complained. But then as an aside he added: "I'm going to vote for him myself. I need the money."

Russell's poll, of course, had no scientific basis. But I suspect it's a pretty good indication of which way the wind is blowing. You can argue all you want about Reagan's abominable policy in Nicaragua, his failure to secure a modicum of peace in the Middle East, his alienation of many Europeans over deployment of missiles and his inability to put the trade deficit and put all Americans back to work.

Despite his shortcomings, however, Reagan has been able to hold the line on inflation and this apparently is an issue of overriding importance to most of us.

Unless something happens in the next six months to upset Reagan's economic record, he appears to be a shoo-in in November.

If he would only clean up his act in Nicaragua, take a few positive steps toward peace in the Middle East, back off on his mad-dog stance against Russia and conjure up a few more jobs at home, he might even be a great president.

The Charlevoix band played "The Diamond Jim March" by Maxwell "Novena", Szwedziński, and "Matris", L. Schrone, in addition to the music played in the sight reading division.

Charlevoix area concert-goers will have an opportunity to hear the blue ribbon band in the annual spring concert to be presented at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 17.

Appearing in the concert with the symphonic band will be the seventh and eighth grade bands. Isenbarger said.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Victor

Gibbs - Victor

Shari Dee Gibbs and Thomas Alan Victor exchanged marriage vows before Father McKeefry on Saturday, April 14, at All Hallows Church in Sacramento, California.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Gibbs of Charlevoix and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Victor of Sacramento.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of sheer polyester lined in taffeta and fashioned with lace trim, stand-up neckline, Schiffl embroidered yoke, Chantilly lace trimmed bodice and Juliet sleeves. Both the train and headpiece were chapel-length, with the headpiece consisting of nylon netting trimmed in Chantilly lace and pearls.

The bride carried a cascade arrangement of silk roses, Easter lilies, and white and mauve gypsophylla with green hostwood and asparagus ferns. The arrangement was made by Sue Smith of Charlevoix, a friend of the bride.

Tammy Hronek served the bride as matron of honor, and Tracy Whitfield, Debbie Green, Gina Lombardo, and Karl Lindstrom, all from the Sacramento area, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were mauve colored lustrous polyester knit fashioned with stand-up necklines and lace yokes of sheer nylon. Cynthia Victor, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Wayne Gorath, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer.

Rod Thompson served as best man, and Jim Gibbs, brother of the bride; Steve Victor, brother of the bridegroom; Paul Cannon; and Jerry Thompson were groomsmen.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Tricia Martin, who played traditional wedding music, and Jan Gibbs, mother of the bride, who sang, "There Is Love."

The only way to cut the high cost of operating the Transit system presented at the meeting was suggested by Commission Don Smith, who indicated that the System should return as a service to only Senior Citizens and handicapped persons. In this way, only four buses, instead of the present eight, would be needed to handle passengers — one each in Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Boyne City, and one to transport Bergmann Center clients.

Saworski agreed that this could be done under present funding arrangements instead of starting its runs at 6 a.m. to handle a few factory worker commuters, buses would not have to start until 9 a.m. (except for the Bergmann Center bus), and could handle all the Senior Citizen meal site passengers, as well as those requiring rides to doctors, dentists, supermarkets, hairdressers, and other needed services.

CHS performing arts students to host annual dinner theater

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Group under the direction of Connie Ford, will climax its 1984 activities with its annual dinner theater to be held at the high school cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, May 19.

"Musical Gimmicks" will be the feature of the dinner theatre with the 70 students involved in the program presenting a variety of songs, dances and recitations including some from "West Side Story," which won the troupe top honors in the Class C-D division in the state.

The menu will feature roast beef as the entree along with baked potato, vegetables, salad, rolls, dessert and beverage. The dinner will be served by the students at tables of six or eight.

Tickets are now on sale and limited to 170 persons. Mrs. Ford said.

Psychotherapist to speak at Community Church of God

Dr. Frans Brandt, a good mental health, understanding human emotions, building self-esteem, how to make sound decisions, problem solving through self-analysis, and learning self-enhancing behavior.

Dr. Brandt says, "For many decades we have had a variety of programs aimed at helping us to overcome our unhappiness, physical, mental, and emotional problems. However, in spite of these programs, and the spending of millions of dollars, we are not getting happier or healthier. In fact, it seems that frustration, sadness, loneliness, and despair are increasing. Helpful scientific discoveries, improved social legislation, authorized several books, and increased literacy rates, and may other positive events have not been able to remove our emotional burdens."

Dr. Brandt teaches how to achieve happiness and fulfillment by applying scriptural principles to one's life. Dr. Brandt holds three graduate degrees in Counseling, including a doctoral-degree with honors from George Peabody College of Vanderbilt University. He is a college lecturer, author of several books, and is an honorary member of the British National Council of Psychotherapists.

All persons are invited to attend this seminar. An offering will be received to help with Dr. Brandt's expenses.

It's Michigan Nurse Week

April 29 to May 5, 1984, is Michigan Nurse Week. District Health Department Number 3's nurses work with many programs to help people in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties.

District Health Department Number 3's nurses supplied over 20,000 services through public health programs during 1983. These services were supplied through such programs as Medicaid Screening, Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Food Program, School Enteric's Health Assessment, Home Health and Clinics in the Family Planning, Blood Pressure Screening and Immunization.

In the community, the public health nurse uses the problem solving approach of assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation in determining the needs and problems of the total community; the family however, is emphasized as the unit of service.

Anyone that would like more information about the many services provided by public health nurses are encouraged to call the nearest office of District Health Department Number Three in Charlevoix 547-4523.

Litzenburger enters Circuit Judges race

Seberon (Boo) Litzenburger, 47, a lifelong resident of northern Michigan, has announced his candidacy for judge of the 3rd judicial circuit.

Litzenburger, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Litzenburger, grew up in Boyne City and graduated from Boyne City High School in 1955. He did his undergraduate college work at the University of Michigan and later received a juris doctor degree from the Detroit College of Law.

Litzenburger was admitted to the bar in Charlevoix by Judge Charles Brown. The same year he joined the late A. T. Washburn in the practice of law in Petoskey. Since 1963, he has been a partner in the Petoskey law firm of Seberon and Smith. The candidate has also been engaged in several community activities. He has been a trustee of Lockwood Hospital and later Northern Michigan Hospitals since 1967, serving as chairman of the board of trustees from 1981 to 1983. Currently, Litzenburger is a trustee and member of the executive and financial committees of Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Also, he is a member and past president of the Emmet County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, a member and past president of the Little Traverse Regional Historical Society, and a member of the Little Traverse Conservancy, which he helped found.

Professional memberships include the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association, of which he is past president, and the Michigan and American Bar Associations.

In announcing his candidacy, Litzenburger said he believed it would "bring respect, integrity, and new directions" to the administration of local water conditions.

Litzenburger, who lives in Harbor Springs, is the father of a son, Charlevoix-Emmet Gow, who is 19, and a County circuit bench in daughter, Liesel, who is accordance with the 17.

How the Distiller Works

Tap water comes to a boil in the metering valve and circulates inside the condenser assembly. When the water reaches the top of the condenser assembly it has been heated to 212° F. By the hot steam rising through the center tube of the assembly.

The heated water flows out of the condenser assembly onto an aeration disk where volatile gases are released and the purification process begins. It then goes into a spiral wound heat exchanger collector basin where solids are precipitated. The water drops down the spiral tube into the boiling chamber where it is heated to 212° F. Vaporized it rises to steam up the "fractional tower" which is packed with stainless steel mesh. This acts as a rectifier or kinetic energy absorber—forcing substances of heavier molecular weight to fall back into the boiling chamber while allowing the lighter hydrogen and oxygen molecules to pass into the condensing assembly entrance tube free of contamination.

A memorial service was held April 24 at the Toole Brothers Wilson Chapel in Sarasota.

Health assessment for prospective students offered from the District Health Dept. No. 3

Entering school is a major milestone in a child's life. It is important that each child is prepared physically for school.

The Board of Health for District Health Department No. 3 has approved funding for the continuation of the School Entering's Health Assessment Program. This is a locally initiated program which was developed to insure that all children entering kindergarten have an opportunity for a comprehensive health assessment.

This year, District Health Department No. 3 is again offering a complete health assessment to all children entering kindergarten this fall. The health assessment will include a physical assessment by a specially trained registered nurse, lab tests including hematocrit and urinalysis, vision and hearing screening, a review of immunization status (with immunizations provided as needed) and a test to determine general developmental status.

State law requires that all children entering schools have completed their immunizations and have been screened for vision and hearing ability. District Health Department No. 3 has long provided a hearing and vision screening service for our school entrants as well as immunization clinics for general public use.

Local schools will be holding Kindergarten Round-up to prepare children for entering school this fall. During Kindergarten Round-up the District Health Department will have information about the School Entering's Health Assessment clinic or hearing and vision only clinics. Parents will be encouraged to make clinic appointments during the round-up.

This screening will be done on an appointment basis with one of the children's parents present. The screening will require about one hour to complete and will be held at various clinic sites throughout the District Health Department No. 3 area.

This service is offered on a voluntary basis without charge to all children in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet & Otsego counties, entering kindergarten this fall. Any donations will be appreciated so that the District Health Department may continue to provide this service to the community.

Parents that are unable to make an appointment during Kindergarten Round-up should call the nearest office of District Health Department Number Three for clinic time. Parents should be aware that if their child does not participate in the assessment program, it is mandatory that each child's vision and hearing be screened and immunizations be completed at school entry.

First of seven LTCT "Matchmaker" performances is Thursday

Little Traverse Civic Theatre will be presenting "The Matchmaker" at the area theatre-goers. The production, directed by Jan Smith and produced by Larry Willis, will open this Thursday at the Ross Stokes Theatre in Petoskey.

The main plot centers around Horace Vandergelder, a choleric, vain, shy and wealthy Vonkers merchant widower, played by Bill Zorhoff and Dolly Gallagher Levi, a New York City widow, played by Sue Fisher. Ostensibly, Ermengarde, played by Dolly Levi is attempting to arrange a marriage between the agreement between Horace Vandergelder and Irene Malloy, a New York City Millinery Shop Owner, played by Catherine Mini. Actually, by utilizing numerous devious methods, Dolly plans to marry Horace for herself. One of the subplots involves McClutchey as Barnaby Tucker; Nancy Vandergelder's niece, played by Jennifer Fay; Mike Williams as Rudolph; Matt Kempfer, an artist hoping to marry Carol Menzie as Flora

He is a crewmember aboard the frigate USS Koelsch, homeported in Mayport, Fla. While on deployment, the ship will participate in exercise "Complue 284". The exercise is designed to achieve maximum readiness levels for all participants in various mission areas including communications, seamanship, weapons, maneuvering, anti-submarine warfare, engineering drills and navigation. The Koelsch is 415 feet long and carries a crew of 247.

Senior KRISTY MATHEWS and Junior TERESA NOIROT of Charlevoix have been elected members of campus honor societies this spring at Alma College.

Kristy, the daughter of Vernon and Andrea Mathews of Charlevoix, has been elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society. To qualify for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, students must be juniors or seniors in the top third of their class and participate in a wide variety of campus activities.

Teresa, the daughter of Alva and Evelyn Noiro of Charlevoix, was elected to Gamma Delta Alpha, senior women's honor society. Gamma Delta Alpha recognizes junior year women who are outstanding in leadership and scholarship.

New members of various honor societies were introduced at Alma's 1984 Honors Convocation on April 11, then were invited to a reception in their honor the same evening. Kristy and Teresa are both graduates of Charlevoix High School. Kristy in 1980 and Teresa in 1981.

DR. SIDNEY EMERY, JR. has been appointed Director of Engineering of Bendix Air Transport Avionics Division. He has been with Bendix since 1978, when he retired from active duty with the United States Navy. Dr. Emery is married to the former Vicki Miller, daughter of Mrs. Edna Miller of Charlevoix. They live in Coral Springs, Florida with two of their four children.

Winner of a six-foot Easter bunny in a recent drawing at Barb's Hallmark was Colt McDowell, above, of Central Lake.

Among the 43 College seniors inducted into Phi Beta Kappa national honor society recently was JOHN GRDDTERS of Charlevoix. Another Charlevoix resident, NATHAN C. BOSS, was recipient of an academic achievement award for his work in the Chapel Choir.

KENNETH OTMANOWSKI of Charlevoix and TODD INGALLS of Ellsworth have both been included on the Lake Superior State College dean's list for the term recently ended.

Airman JAMES A. PATTERSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Patterson of Charlevoix, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force dental assistant course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

During the course, students were taught to assist dentists in all dental treatment procedures. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Patterson is scheduled to serve with the Air Force Clinic at Eielson Air Force Base, Alaska.

Army Pfc. DAVID A. SAYWARD, son of Richard W. and Pamela B. Sayward of Charlevoix has arrived for duty at Fort Benning, Ga.

Henderson, an administration specialist with the 410th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, was previously assigned in Brunsum, Netherlands.

Her husband, Wardell, is the son of Genevieve A. Davis and stepson of Emerson Davis of Niaml.

The sergeant is a 1978 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Airman ROBERT C. PARSONS, whose mother and stepfather are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Carpenter of East Jordan, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force refrigeration and air conditioning course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

During the course, students were taught fundamentals of refrigeration and air conditioning to repair and service systems components including compressors, condensers and evaporators. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Parsons is scheduled to serve with the 23rd Civil Engineering Squadron at England Air Force Base, La.

The airman's father, Ivan Parsons, resides in Central Lake.

Parsons is a 1983 graduate of East Jordan High School.

Airman FRANKLYN R. HERSHA, son of Hugh K. and Elaine J. Hersh of Ellsworth, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The airman, who is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field, studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Completion of this training earned the individual credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is a 1981 graduate of Ellsworth Community High School.

Persistence has certainly paid off for retired Ellsworth resident ALBERT J. CHAPMAN. Chapman, 62, plays Michigan State Lottery instant games weekly and won $10,000 a few years ago. Now he has won his second $10,000 in the lottery's Joker Plus instant game.

Michelle Gagnon is finalist in state teen pageant

Michelle Gagnon

Michelle Gagnon, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gagnon of Charlevoix, has been selected as a finalist in the Miss Michigan National Teenager Pageant to be held at the Lansing Hilton Inn, on May 11 and 12, 1984. There will be participants from all over the region competing for the title.

The winner of the pageant will receive a cash scholarship and other prizes, and an all-expense paid trip to compete in the Miss Michigan National Teenager Pageant, where she will be competing for cash scholarships and other awards. Winners of the Citizenship Award (one senior and one underclassman) will each receive a $4,000 tuition scholarship to Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Florida. The college will also award ten $10,000 regional tuition scholarships and two $20,000 expense scholarships to the national winners. Scholarships will be awarded by Millikin University, in Decatur, Illinois and Johnson & Wales College in Providence, Rhode Island.

Each contestant in the pageant participates in the Volunteer Service Program of the National Teenager Pageant. This program encourages teenagers to participate in school and civic affairs. A mini-modeling charm course is taught during the pageant. Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise, personality, and appearance. There is no swimsuit competition. Talent may be presented at the option of the participant or an are David Umor, valedictorian Mark Hodgson, co-salutatorians Amy Sell and Dan Buday, Bonnie Bergmann and Andre Fiedler.

Top 1984 CHS grads named

Twelve members of the Charlevoix High School Class of 1984 have been honored as the top students of their graduating class based on grade point average.

There are 12 students in the traditional "Top Ten" because two pairs of students tied in the rankings.

Mark Hodgson, who completed requirements for graduation in three years and whose grade point average of 3.967 is the highest among those slated for graduation in June, was named valedictorian of the class by the Charlevoix Board of Education following extensive debate as to whether he was actually a member of the class.

The board decided to designate as co-salutatorians Amy Sell and Daniel Buday, whose respective grade point averages of 3.900 and 3.872 were the highest among those of students who completed requirements in four years.

The "Top Ten" are listed below in order of class ranking. Each student's grade point average is included along with his or her honors and activities and plans for after graduation.

1. Mark Hodgson (3.967) is the son of Richard and Lois Hodgson, 433 Michigan Avenue, Charlevoix. He was involved in football and tennis and lettered on the tennis team but his athletic participation was cut short by an injury. He enrolled in American History and United States Government courses from Indiana University to meet requirements for early graduation. He also was a Charlevoix representative to the recent Student Forum held by the Char-Em Intermediate District. Hodgson plans to attend the University of Michigan and study business.

2. Amy Sell (3.900) is the daughter of Robert and Patricia Sell, Carson Avenue, Charlevoix. She lettered in basketball, volleyball, and softball and served as president of the Junior class, vice-president of the student council and president of the National Honor Society. Amy has won a $500-a-year honor scholarship from Grand Valley State College. She plans to enroll at Grand Valley State next fall but is undecided on a major.

3. Daniel Buday (3.872) is the son of Edward and Joan Buday, 104 Robinson, Charlevoix. He has participated in several forensics activities including debate, drama and individual events. Athletically, he lettered for two years on the football and basketball teams and was co-captain of the 1983 football squad. He was also on the track team. Buday has served as president of the Student Council, vice-president of the National Honor Society and president of the Computer Club. He has also participated in the French Club and was a student representative for the Charlevoix Pool Project. He plans to attend either Kalamazoo College or Northwestern University to initially take up a liberal arts program.

4. (tie) David Umor (3.871) is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Umor, Rt. 3, Charlevoix. Umor has served as vice-president of the Computer Club and as a member of the Student Council. He has also participated in the debate, drama, forensics and golf teams. Umor has been named a winner of a National Merit Scholarship and participated in the 1982 Summer Institute for Gifted Students. He plans to enroll at either

Combining of Register, Clerk is off

by PEG OHLE

Meeting as a committee of the whole last week, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners informally discussed combining the offices of Register of Deeds and County Clerk.

The main thought in pursuing the idea, according to some interested persons, was that such a combining of offices would not only be a savings to the taxpayer, but would provide better services to the taxpayer.

County Clerk Jane Brannon presented a position paper on the subject, in which she related both ideas by citing professional studies on the subject.

Probate Judge John Murphy recalled that Emmet County had once combined the offices but later separated them because "it was not working out."

Walter Hufford, chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican party, stated that the public could best be served by two elected officials.

This is the second time the subject of combining the two offices in Charlevoix County has been considered. The first time followed the resignation of Register of Deeds Grover Genelt, and now, following the resignation of the last Register of Deeds, Stephen Pond.

Concern was expressed that, regardless of other considerations, it is now too late to combine the offices for the next election ballot. Petitions are being circulated for the single offices of Clerk and Register of Deeds. They must be filed by June 5, as would petitions for the combined office.

At the end of the discussion,

County Board Chairman Lee Moerland stated the matter would no longer be considered. He had been a staunch supporter of combining the offices, as had Commissioner Orel Sutliff.

A committee consisting of County Clerk Jane Brannon, Probate Judge John Murphy, and Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman will meet soon to appoint a person to fill the office of Register of Deeds until January 1. The person elected to the office in November will take over on that date.

Council closer to beach purchase

by DAVE KNIGHT

The Charlevoix City Council took another step toward purchase of 300 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage just to the north of the Ferry Beach Park Monday night by approving a motion stating the city's "intent to purchase" the property under certain conditions.

The action came after a lengthy discussion on the proposed purchase during which former council member Ralph McTee and his attorney Michael Gibbons voiced strong opposition to the purchase price of the property.

According to City Manager Robert Hunt, the purchase price of $215,000 was negotiated between the Ohio bankruptcy court by whom the parcel is now held and Charlevoix Development Co., developers of the Marina Shores condominium at the former Foster Boat Works site. Hunt emphasized that the $215,000 figure was established between CDC and the court before the city ever became involved.

In a summary of total costs involved in the purchase, Hunt listed direct expenses of $5,000 to $55,000 in holding costs (interest) until closing and development costs of from $15,000 to $75,000 to turn the undeveloped lot into a useable park. The possibility of obtaining a Michigan Land Trust Fund Grant to fund 50 percent of the purchase was also raised by Hunt as were further indirect expenses such as new water and sewer service to the area. As a bottom line, he said, the city was looking at a potential local expense to taxpayers ranging from $185,000 to $420,000.

He pointed out that the beach purchase was part of a two-part improvement project for the area when coupled with the Marina Shores development and that "the end result would be very desirable to the city."

Gibbons claimed that the beach property purchase was part of a package deal between CDC and the court that included the Foster Boat Works site and a north side warehouse property also formerly owned by Robert Schieman. He questioned whether the package was fashioned to shift more of the allocated purchase amount onto the beach property which the city is considering.

Arch Wright, a partner in CDC with Richard Geopff, responded that although three parcels are being purchased together, the purchase

Board weighs $14,000 study

by PEG OHLE

Members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners are considering hiring a consulting and management firm to develop a new wage and salary schedule for elected officials, department heads, and general county employees. The study could cost up to $14,000.

Last week, the County Board called together the County's elected officials and department heads to tell them about this plan and to ask for input.

The input they received indicated most County employees would prefer that the County fully implement the wage and salary schedule prepared some five years ago.

Among those speaking to this idea were District Judge Harvey C. Varnum, County Planner Larry Sullivan, Probate Judge John Murphy, and Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman. In supporting full implementation of the present schedule, all four also stressed the

PETRONELLA M. W. HIEHLE-SHORT
Petronella Maria Wilhelmina Hiehle-SHORT, 45, died Saturday, May 5 at the McLaren Hospital in Flint following a long illness. She was a well-known business owner in Charlevoix and one of the first promoters of cross-country skiing in the area.

A native of the Netherlands, Mrs. Hiehle-SHORT graduated from high school in her home town of Alkmaar, Netherlands. She received a B.A. degree from the University of Michigan - Flint in 1969 and received an M.A. degree from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1973. She was employed as a teacher by Flint Community Schools from 1969 to 1978 and taught at the Pierce, Freeman and Garfield Schools during that time, specializing in instructional math.

She operated two businesses, one in Flint named Computerwise which she operated with her husband, and Silent Sports North in Charlevoix. She was a charter member of the first Flint gymnastics team, the Flint Acrolympians, in 1956. She was also a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Flint, Beta Sigma Phi and Delta Kappa Gamma sororities and the Lake Fenton Sailing Club.

DEATH FOR ALL AT AGE 80!

Nobel prize winner Dr. Francis Crick "has advocated legislation under which newborn babies would not be considered legally alive until they were two days old and had been certified as healthy by medical examiners. He also advocated compulsory death for all at age 80."

Many of us were shocked by these things and would not think of them ourselves. However, and unfortunately so, we do not think about these things and it leads to our own destruction as a nation. Every day there are thousands of human lives scraped out, burned out and sucked out by the abortionist's hands. What crime has been committed by these innocent children? What have they done to deserve to die?

We answer, "but ... " "But ... " "BUT!!!" and yet the truth still remains, one immoral act leads to another. One killing makes the next one easier. Killing the innocent unborn makes it easier to kill the weak, infirm or old. We are not far from that now! How close will we come before we do something about it?

Annual tax sale sees 37 county parcels change hands

by PEG OHLE

Some 30 people showed up last Tuesday for the annual tax sale conducted by the County Treasurer.

In slightly more than an hour, they had purchased tax liens on 37 parcels of County land on which taxes for 1981 or before had not been paid. The liens cost them $9,272, the amount of taxes due on the 37 parcels with an assessed valuation of $150,270.

County Treasurer Anah Potter said these figures are about the same as those in recent years, although the total number of parcels she had to offer, 321, was slightly higher. Parcels on Beaver Island created the most interest, she added.

The purpose of the tax sale is to enforce payment of back property taxes and eventually put that property back on the tax rolls. Under Michigan law, property becomes eligible for a tax sale when the owner is three years behind in payment of taxes. Last February, the State published four newspaper pages of Charlevoix County property descriptions which at that time were eligible for tax sale. By the time of the sale, on May 1, only the above-mentioned 321 parcels were eligible because the owners of the other parcels had paid up.

As noted above, persons at the tax sale purchased only tax liens, not the property itself. The buyers have no title to the property; they cannot cut wood on it, move into a house on it, or even park a camper on it.

What they do have is a charge or lien against the property in the amount they paid for it. The owner cannot sell the property until he has satisfied the lien plus the interest at the going rate of 18 percent annually.

If the owner of the property does not satisfy the tax lien by the end of one year, the person who purchased the lien is instructed to send it to the Bureau of Local Government Service in the State Department of the Treasury, which will in turn send the lien holder a tax deed.

From there on, Mrs. Potter suggests the lien holder (now tax deed holder) contact a lawyer to handle the legal work involved. This includes claiming title by serving a legal notice on the last owner of record. That owner has six months after being so notified to reclaim the property. If he does not do so, the next step is to obtain a notice of claiming title from the County Treasurer, which should be recorded with the Register of Deeds along with the tax deed.

Although the State picks up many pieces of property that are virtually worthless for one reason or another, some parcels have considerable value and are often deeded by the State to the city or township in which they are located for public use.

If the process seems complicated, it is. Most people seem to purchase tax liens solely as investments (18 percent a year), although there are others who are genuinely interested in owning certain pieces of

Sheriff's Dept. to hold boating safety course here

The Marine Safety Division of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is going to offer a boating safety course "Michigan Pleasure Boating". In Charlevoix, the course will be held at the Char. Em. Service Center on Mercer Blvd. on Saturday, May 12 from 9:30 to noon and on Saturday May 13 from 9:30 to noon. Students should expect to attend both sessions.

The course covers such topics as marine laws, navigation rules, rules of the road, safe boat handling, boating terminology, aids to navigation, first aid, etc. up to and including adults. Some boat insurance companies offer reduced rates to awarded a "Boating Safety Certificate" upon successful completion of the course that will allow them to legally operate a motor boat with a 6 h.p. motor or larger without adult supervision.

There is no charge for the course and anyone is welcome to attend.

Knight on the Town

We want her back, pronto!

by Dave K. Knight

All I want to say this week is that if they don't let Fran Martin out of that hospital pretty soon, I am going to go up there (Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Room 222, Petoskey, MI 49770) and tell those doctors what havoc they are raising with the way things run in Charlevoix.

Then I am going to have Mayor Ken Staley sign a paper claiming her as the city's eminent domain so the police can put her in her chair and legally transport her back to where she belongs.

And if all that doesn't work I am going to ask Governor Blanchard to send in the National Guard in some helicopters to land on the hospital's roof and fight off those nurses and orderlies to rescue her.

Well, maybe I'll wait until after her surgery Tuesday morning, but they won't be able to stall me too long after that.

In the meantime, friends, I know it'll be tough but let's try to keep the town running as best we can. If Fran doesn't get out of that hospital, everything up, we're really going to catch it when she gets back.

Drop box added

by Bob Clark

I HEAR BY the grapevine that city hall now has a drop box for utility bills and checks.

The box will allow bill-payers to drop their payments off at the city hall after business hours and weekends — rather than fitter away 20 cents making them from the post office next door.

The drop box certainly will be put to good use by those of us who can't make it downtown during business hours.

DID YOU NOTICE the Star of St. Petersburg in Round Lake last week?

If so, look again.

Painters have changed the name of the post dinner cruiser to the Star of Chicago, apparently in anticipation of its summer cruises out of the Windy City.

The Star of Chicago, meanwhile, has assumed sleek new lines with its newly enclosed second deck. The new dining and dancing area is not only heated but also air-conditioned, employees tell us.

Before the new cabin was added, second-deck diners sometimes had to bundle up against rain and wind, with only canvas tarps separating them from the elements.

The afterdeck has been shortened considerably, resulting in a larger enclosed area for passengers.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED to Gary Hart's ball-of-fire campaign?

After the New England primaries, I thought Hart would race Walter Mondale down to the wire for the Democratic nomination. But Hart's campaign appears to have run out of steam, while Mondale continues to poll delegates into his camp.

Mondale claimed Texas and Louisiana on Saturday, and forecasters see him winning this Tuesday's races in Ohio, Indiana, Maryland and North Carolina. If so, there isn't much left for Hart — unless he is interested in the vice presidency.

Pollsters, of course, say either Mondale or Hart will have a tough time beating Ronald Reagan in November — barring some kind of calamity of Watergate proportions.

I HAVE A GROWING impression that there are two Ronald Reagans in the White House. One is a hard-ass, a real deal, a man who has managed to bring a modicum of order out of the economic disorder he inherited from Jimmy Carter. The other is a paranoid neighborhood bully right out of the McCarthy era, a graduate of international relations.

The first Reagan I admire mightily; but the second Reagan gives me the willies.

prices were not in one package and that they had been established long before the city voiced any interest in the deal.

Conditions on the motion by the city of intent to purchase include that the city extend the city's option until December 31, 1984, that a further option be available to the city following that time to extend it until December 31, 1985, that the purchase assurance is conditional upon the successful completion of the Marina-Shores project and the successful implementation of a Tax Increment Financing plan to cover the city's share of the costs and that the city not have to pay any back taxes.

Although the developers asked for verbal assurance from the council that should the city not exercise its option, the property would be rezoned to accommodate condominiums, City Attorney Jeffrey VanTreese said that such assurance was not legal.

The motion to approve the intent to purchase the property passed on a 5-1 vote with James Block casting the lone "no" vote.

In other action, the council agreed to designate municipal dock Slip 32 as a commercial dock and lease it out to charter boat operations on a bid basis for one year as an experiment. Again, Councilman Block was the dissenter in a 5-1 vote in favor.

Letters: Our problem

To the Editor:

What is Charlevoix's water problem?

1. Definition of the problem (if it is a problem). The Federal Government, the State Health Department, the DNR and anyone else with an opinion cannot state positively what ratio per billion parts may or may not be detrimental to the health of human beings. However, we are all aware of what probably effect of prolonged consumption of certain amounts of TCE in a water supply will have on mice and rats...according to various questionable studies. Remember: 50 parts per billion equates to one ounce per 20 million ounces or a dilution of one ounce in 156,250 gallons. The question of definition is what do they really have scientific proof of as relates to the effects on human beings. Remember all the previous witch hunts which later were proven just that...who was forced to suffer and eventually pay the bill? Naturally, we the people.

2. Reactionism by concerned groups which have predicated their good intentions on probabilities and maybes hypothesized by government departments who maintain their jobs by inferences studies.

3. Positive action based upon solid qualified information is the direction which all citizens will support. However, hysterics, which try to force a quick solution to a probable problem will not serve the best interest of the people or the community. First, we must band together to force any governmental agency to provide positive proof of a confirmed scientific nature as to the reality of the problem. Then we as honest citizens will provide any means necessary to protect our families and our community in a logically planned manner which will then circumvent further panic and irrational action.

necessity of reviewing and updating the schedule annually.

Judge Varnum said the schedule definitely needed regular updating. "The study that was made five years ago was partly implemented and partly not. Why not take a look at the last study instead of making a new one? I think the money could be better spent," he told the County Board.

Sullivan asked if the County Board had any problems with the last study: why are they considering a new study, what is their rationale? He also said that if there is a new study, it should be undertaken by the County Board with the help of other County employees.

"The Board should take the responsibility of making the study," he stressed, "and not use consultants as whipping boys." He added that when he had to deny a zoning permit, he had to take the consequences of facing an unhappy citizen.

Indicating how employees duties change, Judge Murphy noted that his Register of Probate in Emmet County handled direct probate work (in which he was not involved) amounting to over $2 million last year.

Lieberman said he thought the County could better spend the money the study would cost. "We ought to be able to conduct our own survey," he stated. "We could contact counties of similar size and workload and make our survey, put it all together."

Further discussion brought answers to some of the above comments.

Commissioner Don Smith suggested that the County Board ask elected officials and department heads to list their problems and recommendations. He also noted that studies should be made concerning the hiring of handicapped persons and the effects of installing a computer system on County personnel.

Commissioner Lee Moerland explained, as did Judge Murphy, that there are indications of changes in job values. Treasurer Anah Potter backed up this statement by saying that lower grade employees are now doing work that once was done only by top grade employees.

Moerland also noted that he did not feel making a survey of salary schedules in counties of similar size and workload was the answer. "I and questionable hypotheses in order to continue the justification of their activities without 'positive proof have created a sad situation for a beautiful proud city. These actions have been picked up and expanded upon by all the reporting media, (especially a 15 minute TV program aired in Southern California) will have been responsible for the coming season which will affect the business people of the community and thus the community in general.

3. Positive action based upon solid qualified information is the direction which all citizens will support. However, hysterics, which try to force a quick solution to a probable problem will not serve the best interest of the people or the community. First, we must band together to force any governmental agency to provide positive proof of a confirmed scientific nature as to the reality of the problem. Then we as honest citizens will provide any means necessary to protect our families and our community in a logically planned manner which will then circumvent further panic and irrational action.

Rayder boys top Soo invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder boys track team outpointed eight other teams Saturday to take first place in the Kwanis Invitational track meet at Sault Ste. Marie.

Charlevoix recorded three individual firsts and two relay team firsts in the meet.

For the Rayders, Tim LaBlance cleared the bar at six feet to win the high jump. Mike Pischner won the shotput with a toss of 48'11" and Doug Sloan's 48'11" and Doug Sloan's 48'11" in the 440 dash was good for another first.

The 800-yard relay team of Pat Mitchell, Mike Louiselle, Kevin Shepard and Doug Sloan won its event with a time of 1:38.58. In the mile relay, Charlevoix's Alec Sheets, Matt Landon, John Tunison and Sloan took first place with a 3:37.6 clocking.

Other high finishes for Charlevoix included second place in the two-mile relay by the team of Sheets, Landon, Shepard and Doug Sloan and Lee Allard, a second by Sloan in the 220-yard dash, a second by Mitchell in the 100 yard dash, a second by Pischner in the shotput and a second in the mile by Tunison.

Allard placed third in the two-mile relay and Sheets was third in the 800.

Of other area schools participating in the meet, Boyne City placed third and Petoskey fourth.

Middle Schoolers sweep four-team track meet easily

Both the boys and girls track teams for the Charlevoix Middle School won top honors at a four-team junior high meet at Petoskey last week. The boys' 112 points, a 3-1-1 record, outdistanced second place Cheboygan's 62. Other team totals were Petoskey 40 and St. Ignace 30.

In girls' competition it was Charlevoix 96, Petoskey 70, Cheboygan 47 and St. Ignace 9.

For the boys, first places were recorded for Charlevoix by:

- Tom Merta in the 200-meter run.
- Dan Drury in the 400-meter run.
- Pat Rajewski in the 800.
- Roger Smith in the 1000.
- Jig Mabe in the 1000-yard dash and the long jump.

For the girls, first place finishers were:

- Lisa Smith in the shotput.
- Marc Wynkoop in the high jump.
- Michelle Mailloux in the 60 yard low hurdles.
- The 440 relay team of Marc Wynkoop, Heather Brown, Tina Waun and Jennifer Rull.

Tennis squad edges Boyne City 4-3

The Charlevoix High School tennis team defeated Boyne City Thursday by a 4-3 margin on the Rayders' home court.

The breakdown of individual matches was as follows:

- No. 1 singles: Mitch Krusel (B.C.) beat Jim Morgridge 6-0, 6-1.
- No. 2 singles: John Judkins (B.C.) beat Matt Lignell 6-3, 6-2.
- No. 3 singles: Julie Balmer (Chx.) beat Liz Sturm 6-2, 6-2.
- No. 4 singles: Mike Chew (Chx.) beat Battiste 6-0, 6-0.
- No. 1 doubles: Jeff Johnson and Steve Rickard (B.C.) beat Bill Tilden and Jason Brindel 6-0, 6-4.
- No. 2 doubles: Rusty Coolman and Ty Wagner (Chx.) beat John Hilderbrand and Mike Looze 6-2, 6-3.
- No. 3 doubles: Beth Revoir and Sue Miller (Chx.) beat John Tosen and Mike Mansfield 6-3, 6-2.

In exhibition play:

- Allen Thier (Chx.) beat Todd Buckmaster 6-3.
- Quint Walker and Shane Baer (Chx.) beat Jackie Buckmaster and Michelle Hennessy 6-0.
- Joe Simpson and Mike Cooper (Chx.) beat Mariah Smith and Cheryl Caddo 6-3.

Diamondmen split with Soo

In high school baseball action Saturday, Charlevoix split a doubleheader with Sault Ste. Marie, dropping the first game by a 9-2 margin and winning the second 6-5.

The Rayders starter Chris Smith, Jeff Kelly and Mike Herriman who each had two hits, one of Herriman being a double. Mark Himebauch added one hit, a home run, and Putman had a hit also in the game.

The nightcap saw Charlevoix pitcher Mike Thompson record the win with help from Jeff Morgan.

In the meantime, the Soo pounded 11 hits off Rayder starter Chris Smith, Jeff Kelly and Mike Herriman who each had two hits, one of Herriman being a double. Mark Himebauch added one hit, a home run, and Putman had a hit also in the game.

Bascom is 9th in state

In the United States Gymnastics Federation Class 111C state championships held April 29 at the Genesee Valley Gymnastics Club, Shelly Bascom, 13, of Bay Shore placed ninth all around after a fourth place in the vault and a tenth on the bars.

Shelly represented the Charlevoix Gymnastics and Dance Club and was coached by Jim Mitchell, Rusty Hart and Betty Eising.

Local netters advance

A Charlevoix team defeated a Traverse City team Saturday in the Nichelb Light Tennis League and went on to beat a Petoskey team Sunday to advance to the finals round of play June 2-3.

The team, sponsored by Charlevoix Properties, just got past Petoskey on the strength of the final match of the day won by Dave Strawbridge and Ron Agnello.

Team members include Elliot Blumberg and Bruce MacArthur in singles and Agnello, Strawbridge, Don DeMoore, Gunnar Lundberg, Bob Morgridge and Bill Dietrich in doubles.

Softball team crushes East Jordan twice

East Jordan was the hapless victim of an offensive barrage by the Charlevoix girls softball team Thursday as the Rayders swept a doubleheader from the Red Devils 29-0 in the first game and 23-0 in the second.

Rhonda Buchanan pitched a no-hitter in the opening about striking out 12 in the process.

Included in Charlevoix's which Charlevoix amassed 16 hits. Leading the offensive hits apiece from Lara Stargardt and Dawn Fowler with a double and two singles by Meg Racker and Cindy Boss and singles by Meg Fowler, Ann Kroll, Michelle Gagnon, Tammy Lambert and Jennifer Sell.

Kroll took the mound for the second game in the process.

To participate in model UN

The Beaver Island Community School will be one of 11 high schools from around the state and Illinois to participate in the 12th annual Grand Valley Model United Nations to be held on the campus of Grand Valley State College in Allendale.

The project is a simulation of the actual United Nations symposium held in New York City. The students will debate such issues as human rights, apartheid, the nuclear arms race, world peace and others.

A special Population Commission will meet to discuss world overpopulation and will be co-sponsored by the Population Action Institute, a private organization headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Each group of students participating is assigned to represent one of the countries belonging to the United Nations.

The Beaver Island school will represent Brazil in this year's session.

- Special Studies: Mineral, Rocks and Michigan Geology, two hours, begins July 23.

"Festival of Color" goes on display this week

by ANNE KELLY

Charlevoix Public Schools' annual art show opens this week and the title of this year's edition is "Festival of Color."

The show will feature representative works from all grade levels and include work in such media as charcoal, pastel, pencil, plastic, regular markers and various painted media.

On the Middle School level, three-dimensional works are plaster masks, foil reliefs, copper and aluminum piercing and poster board reliefs.

The high school art students have some new offerings, the most unique of which is a life-size, three-dimensional

This year, as an added attraction, as well as a money raiser, the art department will be silk screening T-shirts during the showing. Bring your own T-shirt and have it printed with the "Festival of Color" logo for 50 cents. All proceeds from this project and other donations to the art show are for the sole purpose of providing suitable display panels for future art shows.

The show will be held Thursday, May 10 from 7 to 9 p.m. and also May 11, 14 and 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

AFTER THE STORM...

a note of thanks to our customers.

This week's sudden windstorm whipped through Michigan with the force of a hurricane. Devastating 80 mph winds.

Consumers Power Company crews scrambled to repair millions of dollars worth of equipment and downed electric lines which left more than a third of a million customers without power. It has been a trying time for both our customers and our crews. And we appreciate your patience and understanding.

Company crewmen are especially grateful for your cooperation. Workers have been repairing lines around the clock and frankly, the widespread damages were more than our workers could handle. Additional crews had to be imported from Ohio to aid in the restoration.

Michigan, you've got a powerful future.

KRISTY MATHEWS of Charlevoix was graduated with honors from Alma College April 21. An economics major, Kristy received a Bachelor of Arts degree summa cum laude, an achievement requiring a 3.8 grade point average overall and a 3.60 in credits outside the division of the major.

She also received honors in her major department, economics. For those honors, a student must have a combination of high grade point average, scores on the Graduate Record Examination, and a senior thesis of honors caliber. Kristy wrote her senior thesis on "An Appraisal of the Social Security System."

In addition to her academic honors, Kristy was one of 21 students who, in early April, received Senior Leadership Awards sponsored by the Alumni-Student Association and Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership-honorary.

For the leadership awards, each campus organization may select an outstanding senior from among its members. Senior leaders are chosen on the basis of their contributions to campus life through their leadership. Kristy was selected by Gamma Delta Alpha, a women's honorary society which she served as president.

Kristy's campus activities also included writing for the "Almanac," Alma's student newspaper, and serving as secretary for the International Student Association for two years. She is also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Beta Kappa, America's most prestigious scholastic honorary society.

A 1980 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Kristy is the daughter of Vernon and Andrea Mathews of Charlevoix.

Lani Ochs, right, of Central Drug Store, presents Bonnie Bellows with a Times-Sunday 1000 computer won in a drawing held at the store.

Airman TIMOTHY I. MOYER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Moyer of Boyne City, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force pavement maintenance course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

During the course, students were taught maintenance procedures for aircraft runways, roads, parking areas and railroad tracks. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Moyer is scheduled to serve with the 354th Civil Engineering Squadron at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, S.C.

He is a 1983 graduate of Boyne City High School.

To accompany U of M band to Europe

John Hall, M.D., of Charlevoix, will leave May 20 for a month-long sabbatical from his position as urologist at the Burns Clinic and Northern Michigan Hospitals. Hall is to serve as official physician for the University of Michigan Symphony Band during its European tour.

Dr. Hall will be with the band while it presents a world premiere performance of Karlheinz Stockhausen's contemporary opera "Samstag aus Licht."

Five performances will be presented at Milan's La Scala Opera House. The band will then give a series of concerts in cities throughout Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and Belgium.

Responsibility as band physician means providing medical care to the 200 individuals who make up and accompany the band.

With the change in food, water and travel schedules, I can expect a large number of gastro-intestinal upsets," Dr. Hall said. "There may also be acute illnesses such as colds and flu. Minor injuries and flare-ups of some chronic illnesses are also possible. And with a group this large, it is likely that someone will have a relatively major problem, such as appendicitis during the course of the month."

Dr. Hall will travel with a large supply of medical equipment and medicines which will allow him to treat most illnesses and injuries. Any major illnesses, however, would be treated in local hospitals.

"Much of my role as band physician is to provide a liaison between the patient and any local physicians who may become involved with the case," Dr. Hall explains. "I can monitor their treatment to make sure it is appropriate. And if one of the band members becomes too ill to continue on the tour, I can remain with him until he is well enough to either rejoin the group or return home."

During the football season, Dr. Hall also serves as physician for the Michigan Marching Band of which he was a member while in college.

John A. Grooters, above, son of Rev. and Mrs. Larry D. Grooters of Charlevoix, is a May 1984 graduate from Hope College. He was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree in communications.

David Umlor, CHS senior, wins National Merit Scholarship

David A. Umlor, a junior from 18,000 Charlevoix High School seniors, has been awarded a Merit Scholarship to the University of Chicago, according to an announcement last week by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Umlor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Umlor of Charlevoix, is one of about 2,200 winners of college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships nationwide.

More than one million seniors. The 13,500 semifinalists then advanced to finalist standing in the competition by meeting additional rigorous requirements that included documenting high academic performance, substantiating their qualifying test scores on another test and receiving endorsement and recommendation of their high school principals.

Umlor is ranked fourth academically in his graduating class with a 3.857 grade point average. During his high school career, Umlor has served as Student Council Representative, Class Treasurer and Computer Club vice-president. He was also a member of the French Club and attended the Michigan Summer Institute for Gifted Students. Umlor participated on the golf team for three years, the performing arts team for three years and the cross country team. He qualified for state finals competition with the debate team, was a member of the drama team for two years and the forensics team for three years.

CELEBRATING NATIONAL HOSPITAL WEEK Charlevoix Area Hospital Cares about your good health

CLIP & SAVE

EMERGENCY FIRST-AID

In all medical emergencies remain calm, but act promptly. For serious injuries or suspected poisoning call your physician or the Emergency Department at Charlevoix Area Hospital, 547-4024.

SHOCK

It is very important to treat the severely injured for shock, whether symptoms appear or not. Shock is characterized by pale, cold skin, a rapid but weak pulse, nausea or severe thirst. In later stages, the victim becomes unresponsive and pupils are dilated.

Such an emergency situation requires prompt action. Lay the victim on his back and cover him with a light blanket. Check to ensure open airway and, if possible, turn him on his side. For victims of head injury, keep head higher than rest of body. Other shock victims benefit from having feet raised from 8 to 12 inches above the head. Call for ambulance immediately.

ASPHYXIATION

If the victim's asphyxiation is due to inhalation of fumes, gas, carbon monoxide, etc., move victim immediately to fresh air and begin CPR life support (see below). Send for medical help. CAUTION: If victim is involved in a fire, be cautious of a possible head injury - seek professional help.

BITES

Animal Bites: Wash wound well with soap and running water. Stop bleeding by direct pressure and cover with clean bandage. Call Humane Society or neighbor to restrain animal, and find out if the animal has rabies shots in the past year. Seek medical attention immediately.

BLEEDING

FIRST AID:
1. Head and neck.
Continuous, direct pressure over wound for five minutes or longer.

2. Nose.
Pinch nose for five minutes. Place ice or cool compress on nose, forehead and neck.

3. Elsewhere:
Direct pressure as above.
Large Wound: Cover with clean cloth, wrap with elastic bandage, elevate.
Tourniquet only as last resort and just tight enough to stop hemorrhage. Loosen periodically.

BURNS

TYPES:
1st degree: Just red and painful (sunburn).
2nd degree: Blisters form from hot water.
3rd degree: Charred, full control and few pain because nerve endings have been destroyed.

SEVERE BURNS:
Require hospitalization where:
1. 2nd degree over 30% of body, 3rd over 10% of body (Danger of shock and infection).
2. 2nd degree burns of face, head, feet, genitals. (Danger of loss of function due to scarring).
3. Associated fractures, soft tissue injuries.
4. Electrical burns.
5. Respiratory tract injuries, smoke inhalation.
6. Alcoholics, Diabetics, Neurologic Disorders (Danger of not healing properly or not being able to distinguish pain).

FIRST AID:
1. Remove jewelry, cold water compress. First aid spray or cream if first degree burn. (In all other cases, go to emergency room).
2. DO NOT: Apply butter or grease.
DO: Soak in cold water, but do not use ice.
3. Eyes: Irrigate profusely with water.
4. Tourniquet necessary if bleeding is not up to date.

CARDIAC/ RESPIRATORY ARREST

- CALL FOR HELP
Symptoms:
1. No spontaneous breathing (chest does not rise and fall as it usually does during breathing).
2. No heart beat or pulse (best felt at the angle of jaw or over left chest).
- FIRST AID:
1. Airway.
a. Place victim flat on back on hard surface.
b. If the victim is unconscious, established on airway by lifting up the chin and pushing forehead back (Illustration A). Clearing the mouth if necessary.
c. Observe for breathing, look, listen and feel.
2. If victim is not breathing, begin artificial breathing.
a. Pinch the nostrils.
b. Make a tight seal mouth to mouth.
c. Five quick breaths.
d. Check carotid pulse (Illustration B).
3. If pulse is absent, begin artificial circulation.
Depress sternum 1 1/2 to 2 inches (Illustration C). One rescuer: 15 compressions at a rate of 80 per minute, with two quick breaths every time 15 compressions are completed.
Two rescuers: five compressions at a rate of 80 per minute, with one breath every five compressions. DO NOT INTERRUPT THE RHYTHM OF COMPRESSIONS WHEN THE SECOND PERSON IS GIVING BREATH.

Continue until advanced life support is available.

CHOKING

- FIRST AID:
1. Tilt head back, pull jaw up. (Be careful of possible neck injury).
2. Sweep mouth clean with fingers. Have victim bend over then strike him briskly on the back.
3. An object may be held up and struck gently on the back.
4. The abdominal thrust maneuver: A person may be grasped from behind with your arms below his ribs. Sudden brisk compression may dislodge the object, relieving the obstruction. An unconscious person may be placed on the floor on his back and similar results obtained by sudden vigorous compression upon the abdominal area.
5. Call for help immediately!

4-H Achievement Day is this Saturday at high school

Charlevoix County 4-H Youth Programs will hold its annual Spring Achievement Day Saturday, May 12 at the Charlevoix High School. The yearly event allows 4-H members to display and be interviewed about the projects they have done since the fall of 1983, the beginning of the current project year, according to Leah Green, 4-H county staff.

Five-minute interviews with each child for each project will begin at 9:30 a.m. At 1 p.m., following the lunch break, during which first, second and third place ribbons will be placed on displays, the public is invited to view the projects and the results.

The public may also wish to stay along with families and relatives for the 2 p.m. Style Review and program. The last event of the day is the awarding of ten $15 and five $5 Trip Awards given to projects deserving special mention.

Charlevoix County 4-H Council. Trip awards are used to defray the cost of attending some 4-H event or workshop in the coming year. Gold ribbons will also be given to projects.

Charlevoix County 4-H Council. Focus and special interest events held throughout the state and region. Money for these awards is generated through fund raising efforts of the 4-H Council.

Charlevoix County has about 25 4-H clubs which use the volunteer services of more than 50 adult leaders. Currently, 4-H members number about 350 to 400, mostly young people between the ages of 5 and 19.

For Achievement Day 4-H calls on 10-15 people from the county to serve as evaluators for the expected 300 projects.

Advantages of buying a home over renting one extend from

By Charles F. Thernm of Char-Kay Realty Co.

To buy, or not to buy? That is a question for many. And for many, it is a great dilemma requiring serious thought. Nearly everyone desires to possess their own home — or their dream castle. Home ownership is an intrinsic part of the American dream. As a child we trust its stability and we felt safe at home; as young adults we painfully leave it; then as we marry or begin to establish ourselves, we develop that dream of home ownership, wishing to raise our family in that same security. Taking that step is extremely awesome for some, while others are so certain of themselves that they know they will buy their own residence.

For nearly all Americans, there is a keen sense of "pride-of-ownership". It's our statement of freedom and our basic precept of the free enterprise system. Home ownership is an assertion of our total self-individuality and of our free will. In no other country in the world can this desire or dream be fulfilled as easily as is afforded to us, the truly fortunate people of the world. We all would like our own home to return to after work each day, to raise our families in, and do with it what we'd like. For a feeling of great security does come with home-ownership. A keen sense of pride!

In prior surveys, less than one-fifth of homeowners report that they considered renting a home rather than buying one the last time they had to move (within the most recent five-year period). Nearly one half of all homeowners offer that the principal reason in making their decision to purchase, was the desire to own property as an investment. One-third for the more general reason that they wish to settle down in one place as opposed to moving often, which is the general case when renting. Or, to establish "roots" in a chosen community.

Statistics indicate that homes (well cared for) normally do appreciate in value annually, depending on other area and economic effects. In other words, a home valued at $35,000.00 could be worth $40,000 next year, or possibly $60,000 in five years. We've seen it! That's accumulating some attractive "home-equity" during your term of ownership. That's built-in security for later years.

In the coming years prices are destined to be higher than they would have been, say in 1962/1963. Just look at newspapers from around the country and note some prices there also. And check out new construction costs, which have skyrocketed. Thus, "previously lived-in" homes will prevail for most. More value per dollar cost. We would have to say, compared to projected rental, right now is probably the best time we'll see for a while to buy the home of your choice. It's possible we have the lowest prices and best terms available right now. We've passed the "bottomed-out" period. Homes that have been on the market for some time are now getting "Sold" signs placed in front again. America, we're on the move again!

Another important aspect in home ownership is the tax-saving advantage. When renting, not one-cent of that rent money (nor other home expenses) can be deducted by the renter/tenant at Income Tax time, even though the landlord had no doubt figured his taxes, insurance, and interest on his investment loan, already into your rent payment. He can enjoy the tax deductions, but all the renter/tenant has to show for are the many rent receipts.

Since most homes must be financed when purchased, Land Contracts and Mortgages are the tools available to the home-buyer. It's also a tool for the seller to attain his goal, market the property, in order that he may move on to his next home. Land Contracts and Mortgages have interest and principal payments due the seller or lender. The following example will show a possible advantage for the home buyer earning $25,000 annually, and $500

Home Owner/Buyer	Example Year Number One of Mortgage	Renter
$25,000.00	Gross (Annual) Income	$25,000
$47,500.00	Mortgage (Balance) Amount
$ 6,500.34	Principal & (13%) Interest
$ 750.00	Real Property Taxes
$ 300.00	Hazard (Fire/Wind/etc.) Insurance
$ 7,550.34	Total Yearly Mortgage Payment
	Yearly Home-Rental Cost (at $400/mo.)	$4,800
	Tax Deduction portions of the Mortgage/Land Contract payments:
	Interest	$ 6,166.95
	Property Taxes	$ 750.00
		$ 6,916.95
	Less Standard Deductions	(3,400.00)
		$ 3,516.95
	Total Extra Deductions

When John Deere builds an economy rider, only the price is stripped down.

Until now, if you wanted to buy an economy rider, you had to settle for economy features. But this year, John Deere introduces the R-70 and the electric-start R-72, two solid economy riders that are built to uphold the John Deere tradition for quality.

Each comes with several features you won't find on competitive riders. And each is built with so little to detail that it'll keep them running for years.

So if you want to save on a riding mower, but you don't want to sacrifice comfort, convenience, performance or reliability, take a look at the new R-Series riders at your nearby John Deere dealer.

the tax benefits available to the personal satisfaction

Thus, for the difference of but $1,300 you could own your own home, and be building equity or increasing investment (by inflation result). That along with our sense of security, belonging, and pride of home ownership, as well as the stable convenience of staying in one home or community for an elected period of time. Also the improvements which you may be adding to the home are not in vain. You shall ultimately receive something back from your caring efforts and money spent doing those added and neat things to your own home. Oddly enough, going back to the example above, the family with the same annual income, but with a smaller mortgage balance (near $24,000) will about break even for the given year, but will still enjoy the same built-in equity, pride of ownership, etc.

Based on Federal Income Tax Tables, if a homeowner with the annual income of $22,000 had a 10% interest rate on his mortgage, the real (adjusted) interest cost could be but about 7.2%. And one at 12.5% would be adjusted to near 9%. With an annual income of $40,000, the same 10% interest rate mortgage may be adjusted down to about 5.7%; and one at 12.5% down to approximately 7.12%. Really not bad when you consider the investment increase to be realized from the sale of this home years down the line, when maybe you'll be over the (55) age limitation allowing no capital gains penalty.

While the American dream is to own your own home "free and clear", for many it might be better to have mortgage interest to pay, (as it can be adjusted down to become the cheapest money you can borrow), rather than the higher monthly payments and interest charges of other goods and services such as charge cards and some automobile and appliance loans, which have little or no benefit at tax time.

In summary, I would say that if you can afford to obligate yourselves to monthly mortgage payments, and general home care expense then you should definitely buy your own home next time you find it necessary to make a move again, or, you may find just the right home to buy that would fulfill your wants and family needs and desires. Do not over-buy! But, then do not under-buy for merely a lower purchase price. You may be saddled with a home and its expense that just might corner you. You could very well be robbed of the ever important sense of that pride of home-ownership, or possibly a home which may not sell readily, and the absence of an increase in your investment. That would be sad.

This is where and why you should seek out and turn to a trained REALTOR®. One who cares for you and your family needs. One who will work for you and knows what to look out for to protect your best interest. We all know of many who have thought they had gotten a good deal on their own, later to learn that it wasn't. There are so many hidden and unknown facets to property purchases and ownership, most of which can be solved or taken care of simply at the proper time by those of us in real estate who are trained to do so.

There is nothing as satisfying as placing the right family in the right new home, with flawless closings and with a secure future home ownership.

Town and Country

Home Warranties are paid for by the seller on behalf of the buyer and purchased through Home Warranty Protection Companies, underwritten by insurance policies. They usually cover 12 to 24 months after a home is purchased. Normally, they have a small deductible charge.

While warranties will not cover pre-existing problems, they will cover mechanical failures such as electrical wiring, plumbing, heating, air conditioning, well pumps and tanks, as well as major appliances included in the sale. Most warranties include or provide limited coverage for roof, septic, well and foundation problems. During the listing period, most warranties provide free coverage for plumbing, electrical and central heating repair.

Advantages of home warranties include encouraging buyers to make better offers, decreasing the likelihood of buyer-initiated litigation after closing, thus making homes more attractive to potential purchasers. Warranties provide peace of mind for both seller and purchaser.

It must be noted that warranties are a selling tool no better than the company from which they are purchased. Thus, it is important to shop around for good coverage and a reputable firm backed by solid insurance.

For detailed information on home warranties, contact a REALTOR® who handles a good program. Whether buying or selling, you won't be sorry.

Some tips on how to show your home most successfully

By JOSEPH T. VOGELHEIM
Charlevoix Properties
The Real Estate Place

What are some tips for making your home most attractive to a potential buyer who is to be shown the home for the first time??

Selling your home quickly at the best possible price is what a seller wants. The number of days on the market and the price offered can be influenced by the condition of the property, much of which the seller can control. Good housekeeping, repair and pleasant aromas help bring fast sales. Dirt, lack of light and space, deferred maintenance and pet odors make negative impressions.

Many homeowners think their home looks just fine the way it is. Some negative things you've grown accustomed to will be quickly apparent to people looking at your home for the first time. You never get a second chance to make a good first impression! Most buyers form their first opinions from the overall appearance of the home's exterior. We call that "Drive-By-Appraisal."

No matter what price home buyers are seeking, they will see it as their castle. It matters not how they will maintain the home after the purchase, it must be their dream home when they make that buying decision. Sometimes the poorest housekeepers are the fussiest buyers. So, invest the time to make your home sparkle. Below is a checklist to a faster more profitable sale.

1. Painting and Repairs. This first category is the largest investment in time and money. Check for peeling or blistering paint. A fresh coat of paint may be in order. The front entry should be given special care, this is the buyer's first opportunity to make a close inspection.

2. Look at the Basics. Repair or replace torn screens and make sure all storms and screens are properly fitted, clean and in place. Repair doors, cracked drywall, organize cluttered closets (ample storage space is an important requirement for prospective buyers.) Improve showability of your home by arranging a spacious look. Open all drapes, turn on lights for a bright and cheerful look. Most buyers will not relax and closely inspect a home if the owners are present during a tour. So, if possible, arrange to turn your home over to the salesperson.

3. Important Reminders. Sniff out unpleasant odors. Have copies of the past 12 months utility bills available. Clean bathrooms thoroughly — they get dirty fast. It is best to remove pets from the home. Repair or replace broken electrical plugs and switches. Replace burned out light bulbs. Mow and trim lawn. Clean up grease and oil spots on the driveway.

This list can go a long way toward improving the salability of your home.

OUR HERITAGE IS YOURS TO ENJOY.

With no relief in sight from Congress, look for little change in interest rates through 1984

by G.R. Wellman,
President Charlevoix County
State Bank

Since the beginning of our great country it has been the dream of every young American couple to own a home which they can step back and say "we worked for this and it is ours." Over the years this dream was within the grasp of most Americans and pride of home ownership was a tradition of our country. Now we must come to the reality that this goal is becoming much more difficult to achieve and could become nearly impossible except for the very wealthy.

During the past 20 years the cost of building a home has increased from $12.00 per square foot to over $40.00 per square foot. In addition to basic cost, the price of heating fuel, taxes, insurance, and other home owner expenses has escalated dramatically. Current interest rates have caused monthly mortgage payments to increase to levels that are prohibitive to many young workers. Twenty years ago mortgage rates were about 7% and if a couple saved enough to purchase a $50,000 house by mortgaging $40,000.00 on the purchase price their monthly payment for 20 years to principal and interest was $310.12. At today's interest rates the monthly payment on the $40,000.00 mortgage would be $512.00 or $6,144.00 per year. The normal guideline for most lenders is that mortgage payments cannot exceed 25% of gross income. In the first example an individual (or working couple combined) would need an annual income of $14,886.00 to qualify for the mortgage. In the second example the same couple would require an annual income of $24,576.00 to qualify.

In our current market just the basic annual costs of home ownership could look something like as follows on a moderate house as outlined above:

Mortgage payments (per above) $6,144.00
Property Taxes 1,050.00
Insurance 300.00
Heat 1,400.00
Electric 600.00
$9,494.00

It can readily be seen that for a family with gross income of $15,000.00 to $20,000.00 (which relates to $15,000.00 to $17,000.00 take home) there isn't much left for such luxury items as food, clothing, telephone, recreation, and children's education. The only solutions to this situation are to (1) find a cheaper home, (2) find a job with higher income, or (3) live with relatives until they die and you inherit their house. Needless to say all of these situations may be either impossible or undesirable or both.

There is, of course, one other solution that would help dramatically and that is to get interest rates down to levels where the monthly payment is more affordable to the home buyer. In the example above the annual cost of the mortgage payment increased by over $2,400.00 per year just because of the interest rate increase. This additional cost could be the determining factor for a family to decide that either they cannot afford to purchase a house or they must cut back in other areas such as education for their children.

Many times each week I am asked what will happen to interest rates. This is like predicting whether one of our beautiful Lake Charlevoix Brown Trout will swim north or will swim south when frightened. There are so many factors in the market place that must be taken into consideration. The biggest and most important factor is our Federal Government composed of politicians that we, the voters, elected and, once there, decided they had a blank check from the very citizens that put them in office for unlimited spending.

This wanton and reckless spending is causing all kinds of grief in the way of higher taxes, inflation, and higher interest rates for the individuals and business that these legislators are supposed to be representing. They try to point their finger at business, unions, banks, and all other entities but the cause of problems in our economy rests squarely with them and they refuse to do anything because "it's an election year."

I have been asked to give my opinion as to what will happen to interest rates for the remainder of 1984 and the first part of 1985. Believe me these are my opinions and will be gauged for accuracy in mid 1985 when we look at hind sight.

1.) I believe the short term commercial business rates in Charlevoix currently at 14 1/2% to 15% are near their highs.

2.) I believe that political pressures will cause rates to be reduced slightly during the remainder of 1984 as the candidates gear up for the election, but I expected Charlevoix short term rates will not be reduced more than 1% to 1 1/4% from current levels.

3.) I believe that the first half of 1985 will see rates creeping upward but should not exceed today's rates by any substantial amount.

4.) I believe that unless there are substantial changes in our economy we will never see rates much below what we have seen in the past six months. One factor supporting this is the consumer saver who has grown to like the high rates being paid on deposits and will continue to shop the markets, thus bidding up the price of funds which is the cost to financial intermediaries which affects lending rates. 5.) I believe that long term rates, i.e. mortgage loans, in Charlevoix will remain well into double digit figures unless the government authorizes some form of program for tax incentive to encourage mortgage lenders.

It appears that rates will move slightly up and down over the next 12 months but in effect little change from the current market. The one thing that could change this dramatically would be some drastic action by the congress to reduce the deficit. However, I suspect we can look for little or no relief from our legislators as they will continue their "do nothing" position through 1984. After all "it's an election year."

Good title is an important consideration

By Northern Michigan Title Co.

It is important for instruments, i.e., deeds, land contracts, mortgages, to be recorded with the Register of Deeds office in the County where the property is located to show proper chain of title. If there are multiple grantors (sellers) and one of the grantors dies, it is important that a death certificate be recorded, reflecting this change in the status of the grantors.

When title insurance is provided defects are found, and you will be aware of them and how to correct them. The insurance will disclose any easements on the property which you are not aware of. It has the accurate legal description showing the property that is really yours. One encumbrance imposed on land that will show in title insurance could be a mortgage and, yes, you will want it to be discharged if you are buying the property. Some possible limitations may be the right of electric and telephone companies to cross the property with lines, and the possibility of underground cable or sewer lines. An ordinance or restriction may restrict land to residential use, or it may prohibit construction of a building closer than a specified number of feet from the street line. Be sure about these things!

MSHDA loan program delayed in legislature

By BILL CAREY Colwell & Co.

Michigan residents hoping to finance a new or existing home through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority "Single Family Loan Program" will have to wait awhile longer.

Though the Congress has passed bills to allow states to sell tax-exempt bonds for single family mortgages, differences remain in the House and Senate versions. Currently, a conference committee is attempting to work out these differences. Thereafter, state legislators must pass legislation to renew tax-free bond sales for Michigan. A MSHDA spokesman anticipates that it may be mid-summer before funds are available for this popular low-interest mortgage program.

Last year MSHDA sold $200 million in bonds to private investors in order to refinance mortgages for low and moderate income families. Presently, no funds remain from this largest ever bond issue. However, Gary Plane, area representative of the Lam-brecht Company, advises that mortgage companies are taking applications and pre-qualifying prospective 1984 buyers. It is felt that last year's interest rate of 10.35% will probably increase to around 11 percent. Also, it is assumed that the 1983 qualifying income limit of $23,000 (not to include up to $4,000 in overtime earnings) will remain in force. A year ago, MSHDA loans were available for both new and existing homes. Previously, only new homes qualifying under the program.

Further MSHDA qualifications have limited the total sales price of the house and land to a maximum of $36,000. As well, buyers must have acceptable credit, be able to repay the loan and personally occupy the property.

All in all, the MSHDA Single-Family Loan Program has been very successful during its entire 14 year history. Thousands of low and moderate income Michigan families have been able to purchase homes through this unique program. To many the waiting will be worth it!

Pinpoint potential home problems BEFORE you buy by Joyce Boydston of Ski and Shore of Charlevoix

Buying a house is probably the largest investment you will ever make, therefore, it stands to reason you should know as much about your investment as you can. Having a house inspected by an expert before purchasing is as prudent as having a used car checked by a mechanic before buying. In Charlevoix, for a fee of $25.00 the Building Inspector and Electrical Inspector will inspect a house for potential trouble spots. A trusted private contractor is another valuable resource person for this service.

Before calling in the expert, there are common problems that you can be looking for:

PAINT: Ask when the house was last painted. Paint should stand up 4-7 years. If blisters show on a recently painted house, the walls are probably wet — a reason to question how well the house is insulated. A whole wall of blistering paint is cause for concern; an occasional blister is not.

ROOF: If the seller doesn't brag about the new roof, question its condition. An asphalt shingle roof, the most common type, that is 15-20 years old is suspect. A shingle can be tested by bending the edge slightly. Did it bend or break off? Swollen, brittle shingles need replacing. A good shingle should give with pressure from your fingernail. While looking at the roof, check to see if there are vents. Vents are needed for cooling the house in the summer and removing moisture in the winter to prevent dry rot.

HEATING: If you wonder if the furnace is large enough to heat the house adequately there are many factors to consider. How well is the house built? How well is it insulated? How much glass is there? How much sun does the house get? However, one rule of thumb for determining the number of BTUs needed is 35,000 BTUs per bedroom, or 50 times the total floor area of the house. The hot water heater should hold at least 18 gallons per family member.

BASEMENT: Signs of a wet basement include loose tiles, rust on metal, rusty nails on the floor molding, water marks on the walls, floor or furnace, things stored on above ground shelves. If you see soft dark streaks in exposed timbers, the house probably has dry rot.

ELECTRICAL: Electrical wiring holds more mystery to the uninitiated than any other aspect of a house. It should. Respect it. You mainly want to know — does it meet code? Is it safe? Are there enough circuits? Are there 220 (230) volt receptacles for the stove, dryer, water heater and power tools? Local Charlevoix code requires 100 amps for new construction. Many older Charlevoix homes have only 60 amp service which was sufficient under an older Code.

Improvements that pay by Rober Kern of Century 21-Thomas & Associates

If you're thinking about making some home improvements, the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of REALTORS® wants you to know that some improvements are sure bets — like modernizing an outdated kitchen or updating an existing bathroom.

While adding a full bath can run into considerable expense, a three-bedroom house is harder to sell with fewer than two full baths. Recouping outdoor improvements, including patios and inground swimming pools, is riskier. Some projects may bring little or no cash return if you sell your house. In fact, you could outprice your home with too many costly improvements. For example, if the average price of a house in your neighborhood is $70,000 ... and your home is appraised at $85,000 ... you may recover most of an appropriate $5,000 remodeling project. On the other hand, a $30,000 improvement could price you out of the market in your neighborhood. Make sure improvements appeal to the largest number of potential homebuyers. If you have any doubt about neighborhood trends in home improvements or the wisdom of a particular project, the Antrim-Charlevoix Board suggests that you consult a REALTOR® who is familiar with your neighborhood.

EPA opts for lake water alternative

by DAVE KNIGHT

In a report released Monday, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recommends that a lake water intake and treatment facility is the most feasible means of replacing Charlevoix's municipal water supply, contaminated by the industrial chemical trichloroethylene (TCE).

According to EPA site supervisor Jack Kratzmeyer, under the standard operating procedure for the agency's Superfund, 90 percent of the $154 million estimated capital outlay for such a facility would be provided by Superfund with the other ten percent comprised of state and local funds.

The study estimates annual operating and maintenance costs of a lake-water plant to be $118,000, about twice what the city currently spends annually to operate its water system.

The "focused feasibility study" considered the use of Lake Michigan water as one of three serious alternatives. The other two were methods of treating the present water supply - air stripping and carbon absorption.

The conclusion was that relocation of the city's water source to a Lake Michigan intake was the best long term solution.

"On a five-year evaluation basis, the (three) alternatives are essentially equivalent in all criteria including cost," according to the study. "When evaluated over the expected time for natural cleanup of the aquifer, the lake water intake is the most viable alternative under all criteria."

Copies of the 102-page study are available for public inspection at the District No. 3 Health Department, City Hall and the Charlevoix Public Library.

A public hearing to discuss the report's recommendations is scheduled for 7 p.m., Tuesday, May 22 at City Hall.

Still at issue is which agency will be responsible for the design and construction of a lake water treatment plant.

The City of Charlevoix has filed for preauthorization to make a claim against the Superfund which would allow the city to assume the role of "lead agency." This request has been forwarded to EPA headquarters in Washington and, according to Kratzmeyer, a decision is due shortly.

In the meantime, said Kratzmeyer, he is proceeding on the assumption that EPA will enter into an agreement with the state making the project a "federal lead project." This would mean the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers would be responsible for design and construction of the plant.

Kratzmeyer said he has already received and is studying a set of plans for an intake structure that was developed for the City of Charlevoix when a bonding proposal for a lake water plant went before city voters, unsuccessfully, last year.

He said that if everything goes as planned, the first phase of the project, an intake structure, could be built yet this year and start introducing clean water into the Charlevoix system.

A STAR LINE FLEET REVIEW of sorts took place Friday as the dinner cruise vessel Star of Charlevoix, left, escorted her sister ship, the Star of Chicago out of the Charlevoix harbor. The Star of Chicago had been on layover in Charlevoix on its way to its summer quarters in Chicago from its winter base in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Planting day for Operation Petunia is on a Thursday evening this year

by DAVE KNIGHT

It's springtime in Charlevoix (we think), time to plant petunias.

For the third-year in a row, organizers are gearing up for the task of planting about four linear miles of multi-colored petunias in double rows along each side of U.S. 31 through the city.

The routine of Planting Day will see some significant changes this year but the emphasis is still on family participation, according to chairman for the event.

Most drastic among changes this year is the shift from an early Saturday morning planting time to a late Thursday afternoon. Planting is scheduled for 5 to 7 p.m., Thursday, May 24.

The annual Operation Petunia picnic in East Park will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. and the Charlevoix High School band will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. in the band shell.

Dale Boss, chairman of Operation Petunia, explained that the new planting time on a weekday afternoon was chosen because traffic on the highway is expected to be lighter than on a Saturday morning.

"At least Thursday evening traffic will be local traffic," said Boss. "And residents will be reminded as they drive past 900 flats of brightly colored petunias displayed on the curbs that it is time for the annual spring ritual of petunia planting."

The May 24 date was selected, said Boss, because an earlier date would have carried the threat of frost damage and the following weekend would be the Memorial Day holiday when many families leave town.

Boss and his crew plan to have petunias on the curbs by 5 p.m. As in past years, block captains will be assigned to supervise the planting.

At the present time, preparation for the planting is nearing completion. Petunia beds and grass shoulders of U.S. 31 have been cleared of road sand by the city street department and a Workfare crew from the Department of Social Services.

Before actual planting, the beds will have been tilled three times with applications of 600 pounds of 16-16-16 fertilizer, 4,000 pounds of liquid cow manure spread by local dairyman Tom Wieland and 70 cubic yards of old sawdust. Two varieties of weed control are to be applied by Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Agent Rod Cortright.

On planting day, those who participate won't have to worry about making it home for supper, say the chairmen of the annual Operation Petunia picnic in East Park.

Picnic co-chairmen Earl Perrault and Alvin and Pat Ranger plan a menu featuring hot dogs, potato chips, ice cream, cake and Tom's Mom's cookies. Local merchants supplying goodies for the picnic include Olesons Food Store, First State Bank, Seven-11 and Tom's Cafe.

New at the picnic this year will be t-shirt sales and a band concert. Colorful t-shirts silk screened with an Operation Petunia design by Hamilton-Hervey of Charlevoix will be on sale; the park with petunia planters receiving a substantial

Mrs. Wiesinger is dead at 94

Ethel Wiesinger, 94, one of Charlevoix's most well traveled and best known senior citizens, died Tuesday.

Mrs. Wiesinger was born in Austria and spent much of her young life in Shanghai, China. She later came to America with her family and operated a gift shop in the Beverly Hills Hotel for ten years. She moved to Charlevoix in 1967 where her daughter, Mrs. Edith Gilbert, and son-in-law, the late Julius Gilbert, ran the Lodge Motel. A prolific letter writer, Mrs. Wiesinger established a lively exchange of correspondence with the late Egyptian president Anwar Sadat during Sadat's peace negotiations with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Funeral arrangements were pending as of Tuesday morning. A complete obituary will follow in next week's Courier.

Hal Hill to run for mayor

Hal M. Hill, 65, announced last week that he will be a candidate for mayor of Charlevoix in the primary election to be held in August.

Hill, who lives at 210 Burns St. in Charlevoix, is the first to declare his candidacy for the position to be vacated by current Mayor Kenneth Staley. Staley is running for the Republican nomination for State Representative in the primary.

According to Hill, nominating petitions for his candidacy were filed with the City Clerk May 2. Candidates for city office have until Tuesday, June 5 to file nominations for the primary election.

Hill was manager of the D-M-E manufacturing plant in Charlevoix before his retirement this past December. He joined the firm, formerly known as American Mold, in 1959 after serving four years as Charlevoix city superintendent.

His educational background is in electrical engineering. He studied in that field at the University of Washington, with the U.S. Navy Seabees during World War II and at the University of Rhode Island. Hill is a native of Mount Pleasant, Tennessee.

He first came to Charlevoix in 1949 to work in the electrical and water departments for the city. He was employed in that capacity for three years and worked for Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative for three years before returning to take the city superintendent position in 1955.

Hill and his wife, the former Wanda Heston of Boyne City, have two children, Hal, Jr. of Grand Rapids and Julie (Mrs. Tom Warek) of Prudenville, and two grandchildren.

EDC was active in 1983 on several economic fronts

by PEG OHLE

While the Economic Development Corporation of the County of Charlevoix has not cured all the economic and unemployment ills of the county, it has played an important role in the economy of the county to date.

These words introduce the first annual report of the Economic Development Corporation (EDC), which was given to the County Board last week by Dennis Jason, chairman of the EDC.

The report proceeds with the statement that "During the course of 1983, the Economic Development Corporation was involved in a number of activities, many of which differed from the direct business financial assistance through the use of tax free bonds."

Some of the projects with which the EDC was involved were:

-The Washburn Terrace motel and condominium development.

Hearings and documents concerning this project began in 1982. The project was completed and the bonds placed with Leppink Development of Belding in 1983.

-The Federal Aviation Administration Flight Service Station. The EDC submitted a bid to the Federal Aviation Administration in an attempt to bring the planned Michigan-Flight Service Station to Charlevoix. A special county election was held to obtain authority from the voters to allow the county to market bonds as a means of funding the Flight Service Station. However, the bond issue was defeated by the voters and the City of Lansing was awarded the Flight Service Station. The report calls this effort "an invaluable educational experience, both to the members of the EDC and also to the general public regarding the value, importance, and necessity of economic development."

-W.A. Partnership Project. The

EDC was approached by Joel Altman of the W. A. Partnership about a proposed development that would include a 36-suite hotel on the former Finn Lumber Company property on Round Lake with a conference center and restaurant across Bridge Street to the west of the hotel location. An Inducement Resolution and Memorandum of Agreement were approved by the EDC. However, as a condition of development, the W. A. Partnership requested that various improvements be made to the downtown area, especially toward improving pedestrian access between the locations of the proposed facilities. The City of Charlevoix has made application to the federal government for Urban Development Action Grant funds to enable these improvements to be made. There has been very little recent activity on the project.

-Hoskins Manufacturing Company. The EDC passed an Inducement Resolution for Hoskins, which is in the process of examining improvements and expansion of its facility located in another area, as well as the Charlevoix plant, and is attempting to tie the financing of all improvements together. Greater activity on this project is expected during 1984.

-Charlevoix County Corporate Planner. During the year, the EDC developed and printed a brochure which contains the information about Charlevoix County that would be of interest to businesses and industrialists looking for an area in which to locate or expand their operations. It will be used as a tool to help improve the economy of the county.

-Wojan Aluminum Company. The EDC approved a Resolution of Inducement, Memorandum of Agreement, and other related documents before concluding that private placement of bonds for this Spring Concert is Thursday

The Charlevoix schools instrumental ensemble will present its annual seventh grade band Spring Concert on Thursday, May 17, at 8 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School gym.

The seventh grade band, led by Gerald Sebesky, as well as the high school symphonic band, will provide the concert.

Included in the offerings by the eighth grade concert band will be "March of the Warriors" by Ralph G. Ingery and "Brookpark Overture" by James Swearingen, which the band played at the State Junior High Band Festival earlier this month.

Among the numbers which the high school symphonic band will play for its portion of the concert will be two of the selections it played in winning a rating at the State High School Band and Orchestra Festival held in Traverse City at the end of March. These selections are "Diamond Jim March" by Everett Maxwell and "Matrix" by Mike Lockrose.

The John Phillip Sousa Award will be presented to the outstanding senior band member during the concert, and all graduating senior band members will be recognized.

There is no admission charge for the concert, but a collection will be taken at intermission to help support the band program. A Band Boosters meeting will be held prior to the concert at 7 p.m. in the High School study hall. Don Volin, president of the Band Boosters, urges all band parents and other persons interested in the school band program to attend this meeting and help to make plans for next school year.

For Saints And Sinners

Ephesians 3: "Our goal: 'to become mature people, reaching, to the very height of Christ's full stature.'"

Maturity accepts what is real. I am real; you are real. The God who enters our lives is real. He draws us together in a relationship of love.

When we accept our "realness" and God's "realness" there exists love, empathy and strength. We discover these qualities of faith; we mature in our faith.

As we mature in our faith we experience the divine; we grow, we are healed.

God, for many, is above and beyond. However, as we take steps toward wholeness we experience a God and surrender to Him who is with us. We know God within ourselves, the God in me and the God in you.

There are times when we miss out on the journey toward mature faith, wholeness. Why? because we forget that Almighty God normally acts normally. A God who once dwelt in a manger, hung upon a cross, and walks through life's ordinariness to ask of us (you and me) the love of our hearts, is One who acts normally!

We (God-you and me) are making great progress! We are "reaching to the very height of Christ's full stature." Only through His grace do we mature, but we mature.

Prayer: In the name of our Creator, His Son Jesus Christ, our Savior, and the Comforter who is always with us: grace and peace to you. Amen.

DSS presents annual report

by PEG OHLE

In the adult division: They investigated 10 Adult Protection Services referrals and substantiated five; they supervised 14 Adult Foster Care homes with 52 clients; they evaluated 68 Home Help Clients; they arranged for employment and training courses for 150 persons; and they provided Comprehensive Community Care Assessments for 172 adults.

This figure is included in the report of the County DSS presented to the Board of Commissioners last week by County DSS Director Richard Tilden.

The largest assistance program was Medical Assistance, which totaled $2,143,010. Others were Aid to Dependent Children, $1,431,716; General Assistance, $370,191; Emergency Needs (including heat), $68,346; Food Stamps, $90,749; Child Day Care, $11,806; Home Help - Chore Services, $137,344; Aid to Dependent Children Foster Care, $114,165; State Ward Board and Care, $155,641; and Volunteer Reimbursement for State Wards, $12,297.

Every Charlevoix County resident who receives State DSS help is processed by employees of the local office. In 1983, there were 28 full-time equivalent workers in the Charlevoix County Department of DSS. On the other hand, people logged into the office to see someone and 4,354 Assistance Payments applications were processed.

The Services staff was equally busy: They handled 70 children who were committed to them by Probate Court, for neglect or delinquency; they also handled 127 ongoing children's cases; they supervised 20 children's Foster Care Homes with room for 57 children; they took over 116 Children's Protective Services referrals, substantiated 84 of them, and carried an ongoing caseload of 27; they settled 48 children in an Emergency Shelter Home.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS were presented to two Charlevoix High School seniors last week by the First State Bank of Charlevoix, sponsor of an annual essay competition among CHS seniors. Bank President Louis J. Hollow is shown handing the first place award of $150 to Craig Glass, left, and the second place award of $100 to Janet Wimmer, right. Craig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dale Glass and Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Wimmer.

Craig's winning entry cited "...the growth of light industries...being encouraged and aided by the help of our local independent bank."

"Further," he added, "It seems clear that our local bank realizes that by helping people of the community it is also helping itself and a mutually beneficial system is developed. I believe we can take pride in our community and in the fact that our local independent bank plays a leadership role model in showing how well capitalism works within a democratic society."

Both winning entrants became eligible and were submitted for the national competition held by the Independent Bankers Association of America where over 1,000 participants competed in the Howard and Katherine Bell Scholarship Awards.

The local competition was coordinated by high school counselor Gayle Gennett.

HITLER WASN'T SO BAD!

The "Holocaust" that killed six million Jews wasn't wrong! The rapes, gas showers, medical experiments, robberies and murders, were neither right nor wrong. Adolph Hitler was a nice man. Do you believe this?

The "Humanists" by the interpretation of his own doctrine is forced to believe this. The "Humanist" believes that man is the "supreme being" and that right and wrong are determined by man alone. They believe in situation ethics. Right and wrong change as your situation changes. Truth is relative and not absolute. In other words, do your own thing, if it feels good to it! Because, after all, each man can determine what is right for himself.

Did you know that this is the doctrine that is being taught in the public schools? It is! Take the time to review the sex education films that are being shown to our children. You will see that they teach that there is nothing wrong with premarital sex, masturbation or homosexuality, these are merely choices that each makes.

God doesn't see it that way, 1 Corinthians 6:9-10. Let's not wait until it is too late to make our voices heard for the right.

Knight on the Town

Sister V. had a way

by Dave Knight

So many events are scheduled for the month of May and so many are ruined by the capricious weather of this unpredictable season.

At some point during May, winter relinquishes its grip on the north country and spring occurs. But the transition is never abrupt. It takes almost an entire month of fits and starts before we can count on dry, consistent trend toward warmth and sunshine.

Of course, this never bothered Sister Vianni.

Sr. Vianni was principal of Sacred Heart School some 23 years ago, the first institution of which your narrator could call himself an alumnus.

Every year, on a day in May; the children of Sacred Heart would honor the Blessed Virgin Mary with a procession around the school that would end before an outdoor altar surrounded by folding chairs.

Little girls wore fully dresses and, yes, black patent leather shoes. Little boys wore white shirts and clip-on ties.

As the procession wound around the school yard, the children would sing hymns to the Virgin Mary and the elderly Father Kiernan, leading the entourage, would swing the incense burner wildly back and forth, narrowly missing the dodging heads of altar boys whose primary jobs were to prop him up.

The aroma of the incense blended with lilac blossoms and floral arrangements grouped around the Virgin's blue and white statue made for a most-memorable combination of smells, all of which remind me of spring to this day.

What was most incredible, though, is that in eight years of these ceremonies, it never rained.

When I think of how many weddings, picnics, ballgames and other outdoor occasions regularly succumb to the funny weather of May, it seems even more amazing that Sr. Vianni could command a clear, warm, sunny day for each year's Queen of May procession.

Wherever she is now, I hope Sr. Vianni is exerting her extraordinary influence. For it is the warmth of spring that brings a true change of attitude for all of us and reminds us of the wondrous cycles of which we are all a part.

Letters: Are gifted students shorted?

To the Editor:

Did you know there is a group of children here in Charlevoix County who is not receiving "fair" treatment in our educational system. By "fair" I do not refer to the teachers involved with these children but with the state and federal funding appropriated for them. I am referring to those children who have been found to be gifted with special abilities, those children who are in need of enrichment over and above the normal classroom.

In our society, our educational system is geared to mainstreaming the learning disabled and/or handicapped child. Gifted children are a forgotten entity. Just as the below average child needs extra help - special classes for special needs - so does the "gifted" child. His needs are just as great, if not in a different area. However, for every $1,000 we spend on a learning disabled child, we allot a mere $2.40 for programming for a gifted child.

The common misunderstanding is that if this child is so smart why does he need more. Well, truthfully, he is already getting "more" - more papers, more work - but on a parallel level not on a vertical, upward level which is necessary for him to foster his special abilities. Actually what the gifted child needs is "different" - learning methods not more paperwork - just as the learning disabled needs "different".

In Charlevoix County the funding breaks down into a 1/2 hour of enrichment class per day for the gifted child. Some children in area schools are given enrichment classes during lunchtime - others are "withdrawn" from regular classroom activity but are expected to "makeup" what is missed.

In our local school our "gifted" teacher has double duty - she also teaches 3rd grade 1/2 day. So, unlike the disabled areas, our gifted program is seriously lacking. With appropriate funding these children could have the same opportunity to advance their special abilities. With appropriate funding, we could have our enrichment "gifted" teacher follow thru on a full time program.

These needs are real. Statistics show that if not given the special attention they require to move ahead at their own pace, approximately 40 percent of our gifted children will deteriorate to a level of "average" by the time they reach the 4th grade. If that isn't enough, the "gifted" children who do manage to struggle through our educational system - not because of mainstreaming, approximately 10 percent will drop out of the educational system - not because of inability - but because of boredom, lack of drive, lack of motivation, frustration. Imagine the future potential we, as parents, educators, taxpayers are letting dwindle away.

Right now, there are bills pending on both state and federal levels allocating more funds for gifted education awaiting grassroots support. Please, parent, friends - write your Congressmen and Representatives asking them to support Section 47 of the State Aid Act. Truly, in the minds of these special children lie the pathways to tomorrow.

Neva Himebauch

A big

"Thank You"

To the Editor:

Thanks to all of you who helped me out with my upcoming Olympic trail trip. Special thanks to Coach Spies, the High School Cross Country Team, and everyone else who helped out at the car wash. I didn't know how I was going to finance my trip, but through something would work out. Now I don't have to worry about it.

Hopefully, I'll be able to make the 10,000 meter final, then do my best in it. Between now and then I will be running in our conference meet, NCAA nationals, and TAC nationals. I'm sure I'll be busy. Thanks again, your support in every way is appreciated.

Met goal

To the Editor:

The Bloodmobile collected 128 pints of blood last Thursday, May 10, exceeding the goal set. Many people and organizations contributed to the success of this blood collection.

140 donors came in, 12 of whom were deferred. Six were first time donors, 31 volunteers made phone calls, 18 volunteers and many LEP's and RN's gave their time to supplement the American Red Cross staff. Members of the Lions Club came to unload and re-load Bloodmobile equipment. Kappa Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority staffed the canteen and served refreshments provided by Olsson's and First State Bank. The American Legion provided their very nice hall.

Volunteer nurses were recruited by Mrs. Thomas Suberland and workers were recruited by Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr. Coordinators for this Bloodmobile were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Izor, substituting for Mrs. David Foster.

Our special thanks goes to all who gave blood, or gave their time and substance. We appreciate those members of the Air Force and Coast Guard who came to donate. The community supported this blood collection in a steady stream all day, which resulted in a smooth, successful flow of donors and a very successful effort. Thank you to everyone.

The next scheduled visit to the Bloodmobile to Charlevoix is September 12. People may donate every eight weeks and we hope donors will mark their calendars.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Coen

Himebauch-Coen

Sharon Kay Himebauch and Timothy Jay Coen were married on Saturday, April 28, at the Barnard Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Himebauch of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Coen, also of Charlevoix.

The doubling ceremony was performed by the Reverend Glenn Britton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a long white gown featuring a beaded Schiffo yoke and collar, shirred sleeves, peplum-waistline, and attached chapel-length train. Her headpiece was a wreath of flowers with an attached tulle veil, and her bouquet was made up of pink miniature carnations, white stephanotis, and lavender baby's breath.

Dana Ward served the bride as maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink chiffon over tulle and carried three white carnations with lavender baby's breath. Randy Williams of Fairbanks, Alaska, served the bridegroom as best man. The ushers were Gordon Himebauch, brother of the bride, and David Coen, brother of the bridegroom.

Piano music for the ceremony was provided by Terry Vandersluis.

A reception at the Barnard Grange Hall was hosted by the bride's parents, who were assisted by other members of the family. The rehearsal dinner was held at Nanny's Old Place, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

The newlyweds will make their home in Fairbanks. The bridegroom graduated from Ferris State College in 1979 with a degree in refrigeration, air conditioning, and heating. He was formerly employed by Haggard's Plumbing and Heating of Charlevoix.

The bride, a registered nurse, graduated from North Central Michigan College in 1983 and has been employed by the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Gadilhe-Fowler

An altar arrangement of Easter lilies, pink carnations, snapdragons, yellow daisies, deep pink daisy mums, English dogwood and greenery, graced the altar of the First Presbyterian Church in Montgomery, Ala., for the April 28 wedding of Barbara Ann Gadilhe and Thomas David Fowler.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Albert Gadilhe of Montgomery, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. David Duane Fowler of Charlevoix.

Rev. Edward Johnson performed the double ring nuptials.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ecru silk with tucked bodice, antique lace insert and lace ruffle around the scooped neckline. The elbow length puffed sleeves with bell of Houlton antique lace were edged with a lace ruffle. The bride's skirt ended in a cathedral length train and her cathedral length veil fell from a halo of baby's breath. She carried a nosegay bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, lilies of the valley, white sweetheart roses and fern.

Mrs. William Goodner, organist, offered a program of traditional wedding music. John Calvin Wright was the soloist.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James Roger Pettit of Philadelphia, Pa. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Donald Williams of Montgomery, Ala., Mrs. James Brooks of Maryland, Va., Doris Regulski and Anne Tupper Barrett, both of New Orleans.

Susan Glair Fowler of Grosse Pointe Farms and Margaret Ellen Fowler of Charlevoix, both sisters of the groom, the attendants wore dresses of dusty rose silk shantung with collars of cotton voile and French lace insertion and edging. Their flowers were nosegays of yellow carnations, deep pink daisy chrysanthemums, blue daisies, white starburst chrysanthemums and baby's breath.

James Fowler, Charlevoix, attended the groom as best man and groomsmen were Peter Edward Shaly, New Orleans, La., Terry

Mrs. Thomas D. Fowler

Davenport, Dallas, Texas, Christopher Hanna, Farmington Hills, Aaron Patrick Kelly, Woodridge, Ill., and Brian James Williams, Houston, Texas.

A reception followed the ceremony at Chantilly Plantation, hosted by the bride's parents. Assisting were Lauren Holman, Holly Holman, Mrs. Thor John Wiggins and Mrs. Robert Stouffemire.

On April 27, the groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Jasmine Hill Cottage.

The newlyweds honeymooned at St. John, Virgin Islands and are now residing at 411 North Jackson, Covington, La.

Operation Petunia...

High school band director Terry Isenbarger will lead his Charlevoix first East Park concert of the year at 7:30 p.m.

Petunia planters are also invited to inspect the historic replica vessel Welcome with its builder Ted McCutcheon of Charlevoix. Normally berthed at Mackinaw City, the Welcome is layup over at the city docks in Charlevoix for some rigging adjustments.

To be recognized at the picnic will be the largest family group to turn out for planting and the most generations represented in any one family. Clean-up of the park will be handled by Charlevoix Boy Scouts under the supervision of Scoutmaster Louis Edwards.

Boss urged that parents of children under Middle School age be especially careful during planting. While the curb lanes will be closed, he said, intersections are still hazardous.

"It may be Bridge Street and Petunia Avenue to us," said Boss. "But it is still a major highway."

project would not be possible at this time. Wojan is carrying on its expansion project with funds from other sources.

-Business and Industry Task Force. The EDC pledged $3,000 toward support of a Task Force which would promote Charlevoix County by working toward industry retention and expansion, and coordinate and/or minimize governmental regulations affecting business and industry. The Task Force has received State funding and is now in the process of hiring a manager.

Other EDC activities in 1983, according to the report, included working with the Central Transport Company, which located in Bay Shore, encouraging the Wolverine Power Supply Cooperative to remain in Boyne city, and offering assistance to the Medusa Cement Company if it finds it necessary to make changes in its operations or equipment to meet particulate emission standards.

The Economic Development Corporation of Charlevoix County is managed by a Board of Directors appointed by the County Board of Commissioners. As noted above, Dennis Jason of East Jordan is president of the Board. Other officers and members are:

Casimir Toton, Boyne City, vice president; L. Lee Moerland, Charlevoix, secretary; Oscar Ward, Charlevoix, deputy secretary; Donald-Voisin, Charlevoix, treasurer; Ray Towne, Boyne City; Arthur House, Boyne City; Charles Sherk, South Arm Township; and Richard Sayward, Charlevoix Township.

White stuff in May?

by Bob Clark

A FEW FLAKES of snow fell Charlevoix over the weekend but it didn't stick. Petoskey and Boyne City weren't so fortunate. The ground in both communities reportedly was white from time to time.

In fact, mushroom pickers at the Boyne City-Festival would have been more comfortable in snow-boots than sneakers, according to reporters covering the event.

All of which underscores the fact that we do live north of the 45th parallel - closer to the North Pole than the Equator. June, July and August are about the only months we can count on to be snow-free.

The latest snow I remember in Charlevoix was one brisk Memorial Day weekend in the 1960s. I was taking pictures of Venetian Queen candidates at the Lodge Motel when I struck up a conversation with a young lady sunbathing on a chaise longue in the lee of the building.

"Don't you know it's supposed to snow today?" I kidded.

Actually, the weather wasn't all that bad and the sun was shining brightly.

She laughed and said it never snowed in May.

That afternoon - it snowed, and I went around feeling very smug about my ability to forecast the weather.

The earliest snow I remember was the night of Sept. 29 the same year. I was driving from Walloon Lake to Petoskey after a Charlevoix Township board meeting and encountered flurries. As I recall, that cold snap was followed by a balmy fall.

SPEAKING OF MUSHROOMS, the 1984 crop is fairly abundant, according to pickers. And while molds, which usually don't put in an appearance until late May, are already on the scene.

Although some Northern Michiganians take morels for granted, they are a bonafide delicacy in other parts of the country. I read over the weekend that the price of dried morels in some specialty shops in the East ranges between $8 and $9 a pound.

What a bonanza they would be - of only they could be grown commercially.

But then, half the fun is finding them.

Rayders take one from Cheboygan, two from Gaylord and split with Rogers City

Chris Havens welcomes a Gaylord runner to third base with open arms—but not the ball.

Cheboygan, Gaylord and Rogers City all fell to the Charlevoix High School boys baseball team last week before the Hurons managed to handoff the Rayders in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday.

The squad's week started well on Tuesday when pitcher Brent Cole two-hit the Cheboygan Chiefs on their home field and got plenty of offensive support en route to a 10-0 league shutout. Cole, a junior, struck out eight Cheboygan batters and walked four.

Brent Cole, far right, is congratulated by teammates following a home run against Gaylord.

Kyle Smith and Thad Morgan homered for Charlevoix and Novotny smacked three singles in the nine-hit Rayder attack. Also hitting safely were Cole, Jeff Kelly and Jim Young.

Charlevoix hosted Gaylord for a doubleheader Thursday and managed to pull out both games by one run each time. Jody Putman pitched and just his way to the first game 10-9 victory. Putman's Mike Thompson on the mound for the Rayders. Novotny's two hits of walls popped out of the park before the pitchers took control. Cole also homered for Charlevoix while Chris Havens and Young each contributed a pair of hits. Kelly, Morgan and Smith also had hits in the game.

The nightcap saw Mike Thompson on the mound for the Rayders. Novotny's two hits struck out six himself to preserve an 8-3 victory. Rayder runs were provided by Putman who homered, Novotny singled, Novotny with two singles and a two-bagger, and Kelly, Havens, Morgan, Young, Herriman, Cole and Smith who each added singles.

The second game proved to be an anticlimax for the Rayders, 11-4.

however, as they couldn't manage a single hit against the Hurons. Walks put Charlevoix runners on base three times but it was not enough as the Rayders were shut out 5-0.

Charlevoix's league record went to 3-4 over the week while their overall state stands at 11-4.

Boyne City, East Jordan are no match for MS tracksters

In a three-team meet last Wednesday, Charlevoix Middle School track team members completely dominated counterparts from Boyne City and East Jordan.

In the eighth grade boys' competition, it was Charlevoix on top with 101 points; Boyne City had 37 and East Jordan 15. The Charlevoix girls were even more overwhelming with 108 points to Boyne City's 36 and East Jordan's 9.

First place finishers for Charlevoix in the girls' competition were: Marcie Wynkoop in the high jump and the 200-yard dash; Allison Hall in the 800-yard dash; Betsy Hagard in the 100-yard dash; Michelle Maillois in the 60-yard low hurdles; The 800-yard relay team of Allison Hall, Kim Buckner, Ricki Geck and Kris Hand; Jeanne Hable in the 800-yard run; Elka Thomas in the 100-yard dash; Monica Havens in the 400-yard dash; The mile relay team of Allison Hall, Jennifer Bonar, Jeanne Hable and Monica Havens.

The 400-yard relay team of Marcie Wynkoop, Heather Brown, Susan Kallg and Jennifer Ritt.

In the seventh grade boys' competition, first place finishers for Charlevoix were: Jason Whitley in the pole vault and the 400-yard dash; Dave Miller in the long jump and the 100-yard dash; Shava Putman in the two-mile run; John O'Brien in the 60-yard high hurdles; The 800-yard relay team of Jon Terry, Eric Moore, Scott Ranney and Charlie Witthoft; Wes Cumberland in the mile; Dyl Stewart in the 75-yard dash; The mile relay team of Charlie Witthoft, David Crandell, Wes Cumberland and Dave Miller.

The 400-yard relay team of Mike Stargard, Dean Jones, David Loder and Shawn Putman.

Girls beat Petoskey, stymied by Gaylord, come back against RC

It was life on a sea-saw for the Charlevoix High School girls softball team last week. The Rayder girls started out with a 10-3 victory over Petoskey on Tuesday, on Thursday dropped both ends of a doubleheader to Gaylord 10-3 and 19-0, then on Saturday bounced back to sweep two from Rogers City, 3-0 and 6-2, on the Charlevoix home field.

Against Petoskey, the Rayders jumped to a 7-0 lead in three innings and never looked back. Rhonda Buchanan struck out seven for the pitching victory and Amy Antaya led the offensive attack with three singles. Meg Fowler had two hits and Buchanan, Jennifer Sell and Michelle Gagnon each added one.

The Charlevoix bats were somewhat quieter Thursday when the Gaylord team held the Rayders to only five hits in the opening game and no hits in the second, an exhibition contest.

Buchanan pitched the 10-3 loss for Charlevoix and attempted to aid her own cause with a double and a single. Also hitting safely were Dawn Benoit, Tammy Lambert and Sell. In the nightcap, Ann Krall was the losing pitcher for Charlevoix while Gaylord's Julie Hanson was credited with the no-hitter. The pitching duo of Buchanan and Krall was the top duo in the game with two singles and a double. Buchanan also added a pair of singles and Lambert had one hit for Charlevoix.

Krall also tossed a four-hitter in the second game and won it 6-2. Buchanan and Sell had doubles in the game with Fowler, Benoit and Lambert also hitting safely.

The Rayder girls took a 5-3 season record into Monday's pre-district game in Charlevoix against Roscommon.

The return of... Yachting Notes

by A. Nony Mouse

Ready for another year of this? Hope so. It's good to be back for another season of sail tales, water wonders and club dues.

Most of us are still sanding, painting, regatta, polishing or planning but the luck or better organized ones were out there Wednesday night, May 9th. The Hobbie, "Flying Machine" looked to be really flying in the fresh breeze. "Mini Julep", a pretty sight, reaching hard with the "chute" stretching out to new dimensions now that it's safely measured for the season. Do believe that "Tiger" was actually working up to windward of "Pygmalion" while both "Night Moves" and "Charlie Brown" showed their abilities to move. Rumor is that the yet-to-be named machine imported recently by Craig Talberg was under going secret preparations in Oyster Bay while the rest of us wished we were in the water. Hear that Bill K. has a new machine, too, and that the hard to spell harder to beat "Indorophilly" is officially gone. Same fate for "Camouflage" - two yachts we hate to see go.

Understand that, while I was dodging tornadoes in Alabama, our Commodore was already sailing in the moonlight on Lake Charlevoix. Cliff was also in good form at the combined Charlevoix Yacht Club Annual Meeting and Wine Tasting Party last Friday. A really nice affair, good company, interesting conversations and, surprisingly fine wines from this area. Sure was fun hearing the various stories of winter adventures... my favorite was Dave Irish's tales of the Southern Ocean Hacing Circuit, especially of the 200 mile spinner run before a screaming Northerly, from Tampa Bay down to the southwestern end of the Florida Keys.

This Wednesday is the last chance for a practice run before the Spring Series starting in earnest May 23. Unless you know that you've just the rest of us beat cold - better consider this opportunity. Don't forget the very important Skippers' Meeting on Tuesday Evening, May 22.

Those readers who would like to know more about the Club should drop in on a Friday Evening in the next few weeks. Come down to the Depot a little after 6 p.m., introduce yourself - one of us will be delighted to have you as our guest, we'll pitch in to answer questions, tell stories and maybe even find you a berth on the experience of a lifetime! You're only a stranger at CYC for the first 60 seconds. We do have tough qualifications for those who want to become members - you must enjoy the water, be willing to consume a beverage or two or, at least, put up with those of us who do, and have a sufficient balance in your checkbook to cover a modest annual fee.

Hey You!!! I've had a lot of requests to include skippers' names and I'm willing to use them here and there, but... if you want your name used you're going to have to drop me a card, or similar, with the yacht name and the name(s) of the skipper(s) to be used and I'm not going to worry about whether or not those named people were even on board for the race I'm writing about! A. Nony Mouse, Box 569, etc. will do just fine, and I DO welcome any input on new boats and owners, publicity requests or other Yacht Club News. ...the end of the Mouse's Tale.

Jim Mabee breaks the tape in the 100-yard dash.

Outdoor Report

from the DNR Gaylord District Office

Mushroom picking is just getting underway at the present time and expect picking to be good by the latter part of the week and coming weekend. Picking will continue generally good until about the first of June.

Trout streams remain in very good condition with generally good catches of Brook, Brown and Rainbow taken from most streams on live bait as well as on streamer flies. Some large trout in the 5-8 lb. class continue to be taken from the lower reaches of such streams as Bear River at Petoskey, the Boyne River at Boyne City and the Jordan in Antrim County.

Lake fishing activity greatly increased on May 15 when the season opened on Northern Pike and Walleye. Success is expected to be good on most waters with special mention of Burt Lake and Black Lake in Cheboygan County for Walleye.

New born baby deer will be appearing along back roads and trails very soon and these animals should be left where seen and not removed from the woods. People can and will be prosecuted if found with baby deer in possession.

Many wild flowers are appearing at this time and the woods should have much beauty to display within the next week.

In the eight northern counties of the lower peninsula, 81 forest fires have burned 155 acres so far this spring. Permits are needed to do any open burning.

State Parks and forestry campgrounds are ready for camping and sites should be available until possibly the holiday weekend of May 26. Enjoy swimming, fishing, sail boating or whatever, but have respect for any body of water.

TWENTY-FOUR ATHLETES from the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix took part in Special Olympics competition held Friday, May 4 at the Civic Center in Traverse City. There were several ribbon winners included in the local team, four of whom will be selected for the State Special Olympics to be held in June at Mt. Pleasant. Participants shown above include, front row left to right, Connie Cunningham, Jean Gatliff, Joan

FIRST TO SIGN UP for some of the cheese and sausage being sold by members of the Charlevoix Little League is Lelloy Buchanan, above, of Oleson's Food Store. Taking the order are Little Leaguers Guy Gengle, left, and Tim Jervis. Starting May 15 and running one week only, the money raising project is aimed to provide funds for baseball caps and a lawn mower for the league. Players selling the Sun Meadow brand assortment of cheeses, cheese spreads and sausage will also be earning prizes for their efforts. Orders can be placed with any Little League member or by calling Sue Gengle at 547-6019 or Judy Jervis at 547-6108.

1984 STREET, SIDEWALK, AND CURB PROGRAM

City of Charlevoix, Michigan

The City of Charlevoix is proposing to invest approximately $150,000 in street paving, sidewalk replacement, and curb repair during the 1984 construction season. This program will replace about 25 to 30 blocks of existing streets, and repair curbs in those same blocks. The program will also replace about one-half mile of sidewalk along US 31 and on certain other streets. No new construction is proposed; this program will only repair, replace, or replace existing facilities.

Street paving and curb work will be funded from current sources, without debt, in the Major and Local Street Funds. Sixty percent of sidewalk repair will be assessed to adjacent property owners, with the remaining 40% funded from current General Fund sources.

A list of the streets, curbs, and sidewalks included within this program is available for public inspection in the Clerk/Treasurer's Office at City Hall. The City Council will hold a hearing to solicit public comments on the proposed program during its regular City Council meeting on:

A FAMILY FEDERAL HOME MORTGAGE 15 SUCCESS STORY

Bob and Mary just escaped a 30-year mortgage.

(And probably saved the cost of their house!)

How is that possible? Wonder no more. Bob and Mary just financed their new house with Family Federal Savings' Home Mortgage 15 - a 15 year adjustable mortgage plan that pays off in half the time of a regular 30 year mortgage.

Just think. Fast equity and debt free home ownership in half the time! Bob and Mary's monthly payment is guaranteed to stay the same for 5 years. (5 times longer than most adjustable loan programs). It's a plan designed to save Bob and Mary thousands of dollars. Considerably more than the cost of their home based on today's rates. While back at the 30-year mortgage plan they'd still owe more than 85% of their loan. An escape that saves big. Wouldn't you say?

Get the facts on how you could save - just like Bob and Mary did. Come to where the "Smart Money" is -

PART II INSURING MICHIGAN'S FUTURE

The demand for electricity in the United States is rising rapidly. Our economy is growing, and our consumption of electricity is increasing. If our economy is to continue to grow, the demand for electricity will continue to rise. This means that we must find ways to meet this demand. One way is to build new power plants. Another way is to improve the efficiency of our existing power plants. Both of these methods are expensive. A third way is to develop new sources of energy. This is the most promising method, but it is also the most difficult. We must find ways to develop new sources of energy that are clean, safe, and reliable. This is the challenge we face as we insure Michigan's future.

Dr. Chalmers Starr

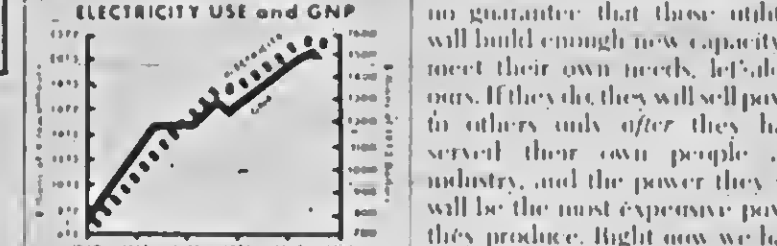

Vice Chairman

Electric Power Research Institute

POWER TO GROW

Electricity grows at a rate approximately equal to the growth rate of the Gross National Product. The two track side-by-side. One cannot grow without the other. Careful studies of that relationship since the 1973 oil embargo have demonstrated conclusively that economic activity and electric consumption are linked more closely today than ever before. As our economy grows, so grows our electric use.

ELECTRICITY USE AND GNP

In a previous message on these pages we discussed the issue of electric energy supply in Michigan and how we must increase that supply by completing ongoing construction projects. As our economy continues to grow, we must also meet the needs of our own people and industry, and the power they sell will be the most expensive power they produce. Right now we have the lowest electric rates in Michigan. If we depend upon other utilities to supply our customers with power, that will no longer be the case.

ENERGY DEPENDENCE?

Is the way we plan for the future in Michigan? It is that a rational course of action when one of the highest priorities of our state is to encourage industrial expansion and attract new business? In the wake of the 1973 oil embargo one concept was hurried into the minds of most Americans. Energy independence. No longer would we entrust our energy future to others, we would control our own destiny.

At Consumers Power Company our goal for almost a century has been to provide power to our customers when they want it and need it. That's the basis of our planning. By carrying through construction projects we intend to ensure that our customers hold the key to the future—a reliable electric energy supply—in their own hands.

Bloodmobile exceeds goal

Charlevoix area residents contributed 128 pints of blood to the American Red Cross Bloodmobile's last Thursday.

One hundred and forty prospective donors appeared to give blood. Twelve of them had to be deferred, according to Mrs. Herman Isor, who, with her husband, was coordinator of the event.

"The Red Cross goal was 115 pints, so we certainly exceeded that," Mrs. Isor said. "Six of our donors were first-timers and we had a lot of drop-ins." The Coast Guard and Air Force as well as the high school kids were most supportive," she added.

Service organizations and local businesses also helped with the Bloodmobile. The Lions Club sent 10 members to help unload and load the trucks. Kappa Sigma Chapter of Delta Sigma Phi Sorority staffed the canteen, the American Legion donated its Hall, Oleson's Food Stores donated cookies and fruit juices, the First State Bank donated coffee, and local news volunteers were recruited by Eileen Sotherland.

In addition, 10 telephone callers contacted a list of almost 330 people to try to set up appointments for prospective donors.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile comes to Charlevoix two or three times a year. It was here last December and is scheduled again for the Red Cross September 13, 1984.

Heath Green represents county 4-H clubs in Lansing

Heath Green, of Charlevoix, represented Charlevoix County April 30-May 2 at the 1984 4-H Capitol Experience in Lansing. He was one of 72 Michigan 4-H youth and volunteer leaders participating in the event.

"The purposes of the activity were to acquaint Michigan 4-Hers with legislative and governmental processes and to encourage them to get involved in public affairs on local, county, regional, state and national levels," explains Leah Green, Charlevoix County Extension 4-H program assistant.

The youths attended sessions on state government, met with media representatives who cover the capital, including the governor's office and the Senate and House chambers, and talked with representatives of several state agencies.

The 4-H members spent one afternoon working on a community service project of their choice, ranging from assisting a local food bank to lending a hand at a child abuse center in Lansing. After returning to Charlevoix County, Green will help organize a community action program, using knowledge he gained through the Capitol Experience program.

The program was sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth and Natural Resources and Public Policy programs.

First 300,000 released Friday

Salmon plant underway

by DAVE KNIGHT

An audience ranging from state officials to interested local residents watched Friday afternoon as the first of a half-million chinook salmon fingerlings to be planted in Lake Michigan off Charlevoix this spring swirled out of a Michigan Department of Natural Resources airtight tanker into a man-made creek at the Medusa Cement Company.

DNR Director Ronald Skoog, making his first visit to Charlevoix since assuming the post last year, was on hand for the plant and expressed gratitude to the Medusa Company for its cooperation in the project.

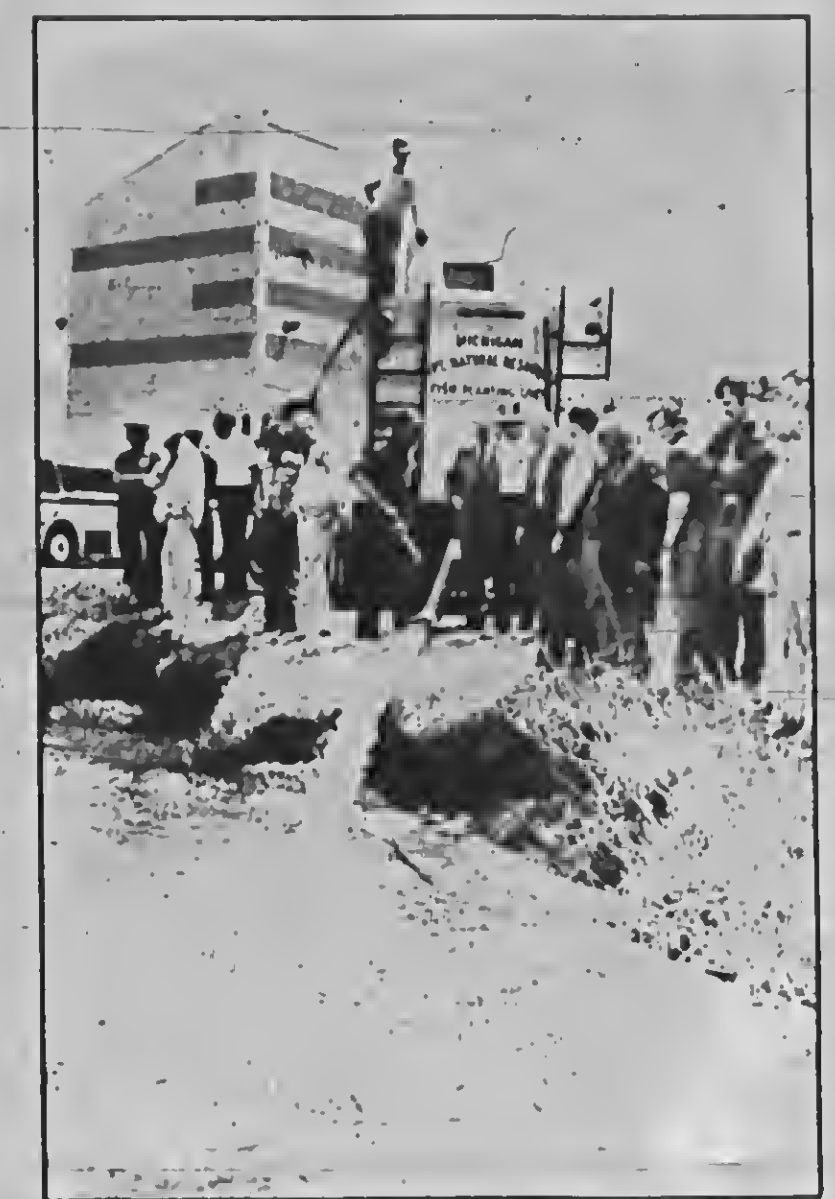

Medusa Creek, constructed by the cement manufacturer to drain its quarry, was approved for the plant following negotiations earlier this year between the company and the DNR. According to the agreement reached between DNR and Medusa, large scale plants of chinook will continue at the same site for the next five years and a harvest facility will be constructed on Medusa property to handle the fish returning to the creek.

Said DNR fish biologist Steve Swan, who has coordinated the salmon planting program, "Charlevoix's beaches are windrowed with alewives right now. Our purpose is to turn those alewives into salmon."

State Sen. Mitch Irwin was also present for the planting ceremonies. Said Irwin of Medusa's involvement, "I think the public-private cooperation here is the main thing."

Said Medusa Cement president Dan Solms, who deposited the ceremonial first fingerlings into the creek, "We're very happy and proud to be a part of this project. This is good not only for Charlevoix but for the State of Michigan."

The chinook planted this year are expected to return to the area on spawning runs starting late summer next year and will be of trophy size in about three years.

About 300,000 of the total 500,000 fingerlings to be planted were deposited into Medusa Creek by a DNR large scale planting unit as the audience looked on approvingly.

Consumers Power seeks support from county

by PEG OHLE

The financial plight of Consumers Power Company, especially as it relates to Consumer's Midland nuclear plant, was personally brought to Charlevoix County earlier this month by Richard D. Dahlquist, area manager for the company.

Dahlquist appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, saying that Consumers was in dire financial straights and asking the County Board's support in requesting more expeditious action by governmental agencies so that Consumers could proceed with the business at hand.

Dahlquist presented a resolution which he asked that the County Board pass and forward to other governmental agencies and elected public officials.

The "Whereas's" of the resolution stated that the Board of Commissioners recognizes that an adequate supply of electricity at reasonable prices is necessary; that the Board desires to insure an adequate supply in the future, even should expedite the process, and should be mindful of the public cost of delays in the process.

public hearings before agencies issuing licenses and permits are a necessary part of the approval process but should not be permitted to serve as a forum for endless debate of technical and policy issues which are the responsibility of the governmental agencies to decide.

In light of all this, the resolution requests that: —the federal and state regulatory agencies which must issue licenses and permits for the construction, expansion and operation of the state's electric generating facilities should expedite the process, and should be mindful of the public cost of delays in the process.

public hearings before agencies issuing licenses and permits are a necessary part of the approval process but should not be permitted to serve as a forum for endless debate of technical and policy issues which are the responsibility of the governmental agencies to decide.

EPA study addresses many questions about TCE problem

by DAVE KNIGHT

The bottom line recommendation of a "focused feasibility study" released May 14 by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, is that a lake water intake and treatment facility is the most practical approach to providing Charlevoix with water free of trichloroethylene (TCE) contamination. That recommendation is the subject of a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 22 at City Hall.

In its report, the EPA responds to many other questions about the scope and impact of the TCE contamination that has plagued Charlevoix since its discovery two and a half years ago.

Following are some of those questions and how they are addressed in the EPA study:

Q. Where is the TCE coming from?

A: No point source has yet been identified for either the TCE that has been detected in the city water supply nor the perchloroethylene (PCE) that has been detected in the groundwater aquifer that supplies the city well, but not yet in the water supply itself.

"The exact source for TCE is still unidentified," says the study. "But the suspected location has now been more closely defined...to be in the block bounded by Grant and State Streets on the east and west and by

Clinton and Mason Streets on the north and south. (See map.)

"The suspected source for PCE may be the same as the source for TCE. However, the preliminary data indicate a source farther to the south in the area bounded by Antirrhinum and Hurst Streets on the north and south and Grant and State Streets on the east and west."

The contour lines on the map showing suspected source locations based on drilling tests are "intermittent," not definitive, points out the study. In almost every test boring, some level of TCE and PCE was found.

According to the study, "This implies that there are multiple sources at varying distances from the municipal water supply system."

Q. If the source or sources of contamination were found tomorrow and promptly removed, would the replacement of the entire city water system still be necessary?

A: Solving the problem by cleaning up the source involves not only removal of all the contaminating materials (soil, drums, etc.) but also cleanup of the contaminated groundwater and restoration of the aquifer as a safe source of water. A third factor, that which is crucial to this point, is the time such a process would take and the ongoing risk to public health and environment that would exist while the aquifer is purged.

Let's assume that the contaminant is coming from within within the area delineated on the map as having the highest TCE levels thus the suspected location of the source. If we also assume that the source is as close as it can be to the caisson of the city well and still be within the suspected source area, that means it could be a minimum of 1,000 feet from the well.

Using a complex formula involving porosity, hydraulic conductivity, and other factors, the EPA has calculated that the contaminant progresses at a rate of 32 feet per day.

"At the velocity of contaminant movement," says the study, "any action taken at the source could not be detected at the caisson before 3.12 days, or 8.5 years."

Also to be considered is the area affected by contamination and the volume of contaminated water to be purged and treated. Based on test well samples and what is known about the geology and groundwater flow in the area, the EPA estimates the area contaminated at levels above the acceptable risk levels to be approximately 7.5 million square feet, or 172 acres.

The estimated total volume of contaminated water is 982 million gallons.

The agency calculates that one complete flushing of the groundwater aquifer, by natural discharge into Lake Michigan, takes 103 years. For a satisfactory elimination of the TCE and PCE contaminants, the EPA says it would take five complete flushings, or, at least 51 years.

Since EPA policy dictates that any permanent solution be implemented within three to five years after taking action, the agency has written off source control as an alternative to providing a safe drinking water for Charlevoix.

Q. Could a series of pumping wells accelerate the purging of the aquifer?

A: If such a series of three or four wells, says the study, "have a radius of influence of 500 feet and the contaminated zone is purged of five volumes, the total volume of water necessary to be purged is five times the present 'contaminated' volume plus the daily flow of water through the zone."

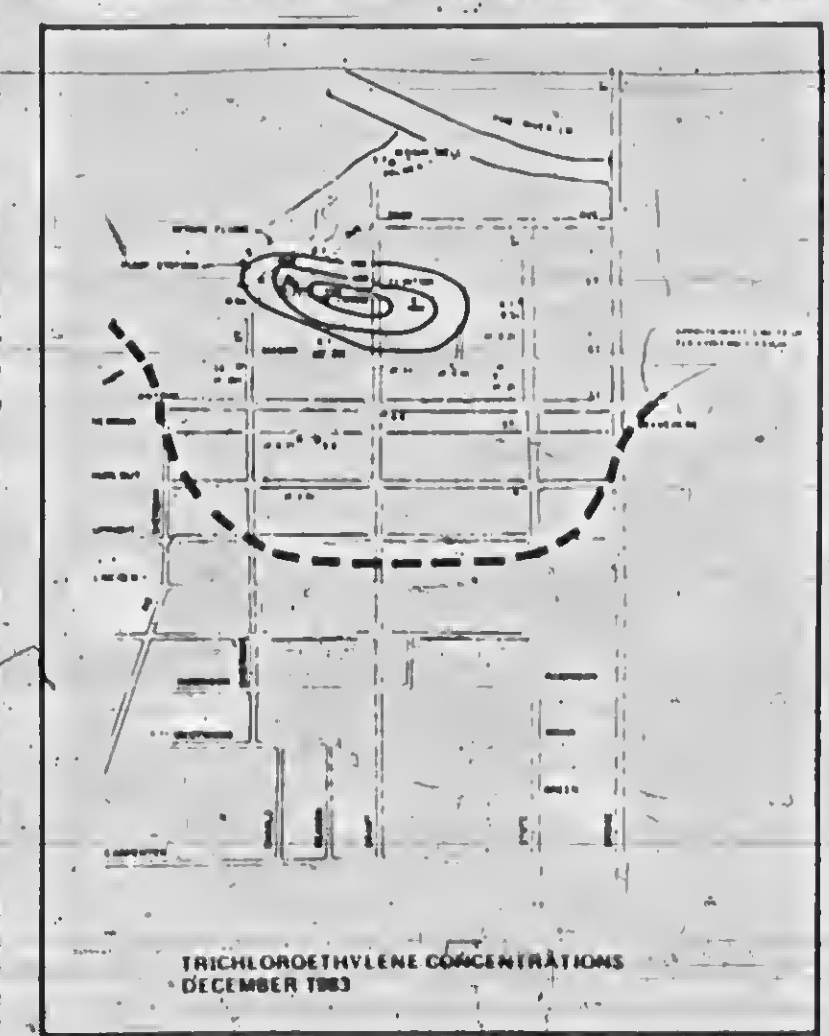

Let's use as an example the 875,000-square foot area with PCE concentrations higher than 100 ppb. There is an estimated 114.5 million gallons of contaminated water in this area. That volume would have to be purged five times but there is also an estimated 100,000 gallons per day of regional groundwater flow that enters the area and would have to be pumped over the number of days purging continues.

At a minimum, pumping would have to continue at a rate of 500 gallons per minute for three years. This would not affect the much larger area contaminated at levels greater than the acceptable risk level but less than 100 ppb. To purge this larger area, according to the study, would at least double the pumping rate and triple the time for cleanup.

Not taken into consideration, of course, is additional release of contaminants from undiscovered sources in the future.

"Even with removal of all identifiable sources and purging of the aquifer by multiple pore volumes of water," says the study, "some residual levels of the aquifer."

P-Day at hand

by DAVE KNIGHT

Final orders have come down from the Operation Petunia high command in preparation for "P-Day" (Planting Day) this Thursday, May 24.

Planting will commence at 5 p.m. Thursday, according to chairman and field general Dale Boss, and will take place rain or shine.

The only potential weather condition that would cause a delay in the planting schedule is threatening lightning, said Boss.

Should it rain on Thursday, the picnic following the planting chores will be moved from East Park to the Market Mall.

Final preparation of the four miles of roadside beds were completed this week. Organizers predict the best success yet with the 45,000 multi-colored petunias to be planted along U.S. 31 in this, the third year of Operation Petunia. Added to the beds this season have been liberal amounts of old sawdust to hold the moisture and reduce the amount of watering necessary. Also tilled into the beds have been liquid cow manure, fertilizer and weed control agents.

Volunteer planters are instructed to report for duty at 5 p.m. Thursday by which time the flats of petunias will be curbside at each block, said Boss.

Block captains have again been assigned (see accompanying map) and will be wearing their distinctive white pith helmets. Command posts will be established at the Edwards (IGA) parking lot for the north side and at Accents by Burlew on the south side.

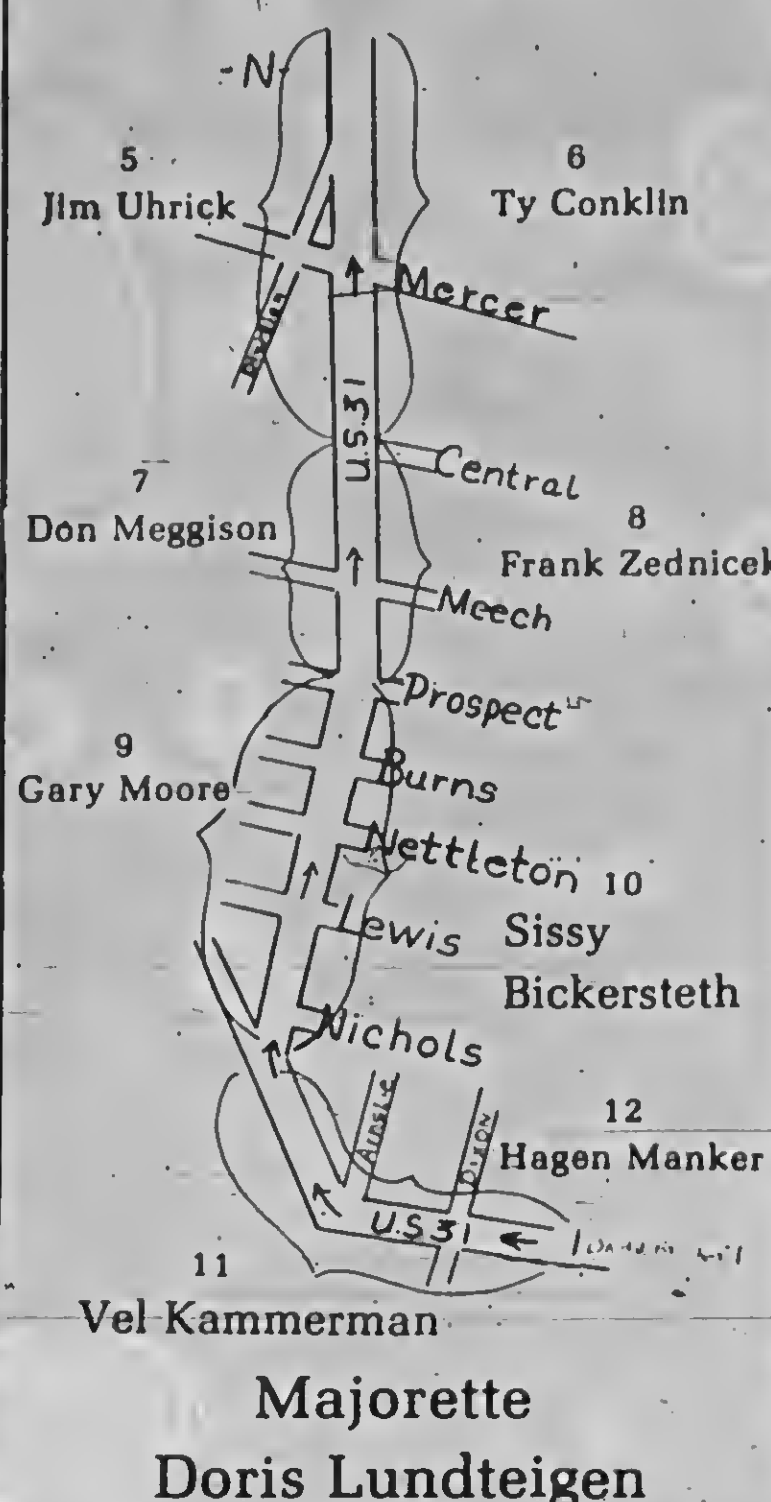

Planters of all ages are urged to take part with children under Middle School age accompanied by adults. Block captains will also have jobs for those who are not physically able to do the actual planting.

As in past years, local residents are encouraged to complement the roadside flowers with petunia beds in their own yards. Flats of petunias in the same five colors used by Operation Petunia are available at all area florists.

THE ENTIRE STAFF of the First State Bank prepared last week for Operation Petunia by practicing their best planting techniques in the bank's sidewalk planters. President Lou Hollow and the rest of the staff also modeled the custom-designed, purple Operation Petunia t-shirts that will be available this year.

Seeks to fund substance abuse services with liquor tax

William J. Streur, of Charlevoix is among the originators of a statewide petition drive to earmark state liquor revenues for the prevention and treatment of substance abuse in the State of Michigan.

The petition drive proposes an amendment to the Michigan Constitution that Streur estimates will generate an additional $42 million for substance abuse services. The funds would supplement the current annual state allocation of about $23 million.

According to Streur, there were more state dollars allocated in the fiscal year 1979-80 than there are allocated for 1983-84. In the meantime, the demand for services has continued to escalate at an ever-increasing pace, he said.

He points out that the recently strengthened drunk driving laws have boosted substance abuse patient loads in northern Michigan by over ten percent in less than a year. In spite of the increased case loads, however, Streur indicates that the system is serving less than ten percent of those in need of services.

"The initiative would function as a prepaid health insurance for abusers," said Streur. "Since it is estimated that 20 percent of the drinkers are consuming 80 percent of all alcoholic beverages sold in the State of Michigan."

He said further that passage of the initiative will result in a transfer of less than one-fifth of one percent of the state general fund.

He also emphasized that the proposal is not a tax increase but a tax freeze. Any further increases in state liquor taxes would require a vote of the people and would remove from the legislature the option to counteract the vote earmarking the proposed supplemental funds.

The failure of the proposed ballot to either sign or help initiative, said Streur, will result not only in a continuing decrease in the availability of Center during regular business hours.

Ridership on county buses down by 500 in April

Ridership on the Charlevoix County Transit System, 1,589 were taken by senior citizens, 1,577 were taken by March, the System's April report shows.

regular riders.

The average fare collected has been averaging about 67 cents a ride, while the cost of operating the Transit System during April averaged out to approximately $3.58 a ride. Because of the low operation of the Transit System, it is expected the Charlevoix County Commissioners will soon announce a new management plan for the System.

Surplus food distribution set for May 30

A surplus food distribution will be held in Charlevoix County Wednesday, May 30, beginning at 10 a.m. This month the food to be distributed includes cheese and butter.

Eligibility guidelines for the surplus food is based on the annual income of the household and the size of the household. For a household of one person the annual income must not exceed $6,225.

Distribution sites for Charlevoix county residents include: V. F. W. Hall, Charlevoix; Community Church annex, East Jordan and Holy Cross Church, St. James.

Time to start planning

One could not help but feel a bit awestruck Friday watching 300,000 or so chinook salmon fingerlings tumble out of the pipe from a DNR truck, dart around in swarming masses as they got their bearings and then settle into the lazy current as it carried them toward Lake Michigan.

It is one of the true miracles of nature that, in the matter of minutes it took for the first of the young fish to reach the big lake, an imprint had been established within them, an imprint that will be strong and accurate enough to guide them right back to the same spot each summer from the hundreds of miles they are expected to range during adulthood in the Great Lakes.

Nothing against the Medusa Cement plant but what a place for a fish to call home!

Less than two months ago, the very ordinary ditch that runs through the plant was nothing more than a quarry outfall. Now it is to be the major spawning ground for a world class sport fishery. What a difference a little respect - and one heck of a lot of planted fish - can make.

For many of those who were on hand Friday, the plant represented the culmination of a lot of hard work. It must have been especially satisfying for those who remember the halcyon days of sport fishing in Northwest Michigan, who saw stocks gradually dwindle from overfishing in recent years and who now envision its re-emergence as one of the best finest sport fisheries on the North American continent.

For others who were there, however, the sight of the swirling schools heading toward the lake represented only the start of a lot of hard work to be done.

Make no mistake about it. We face the potential for a great amount of new traffic in the area if the chinook program develops anywhere near expectations. Although the heavy action is three years away at this point, the time to start planning is right now.

There are many bases to cover. Both the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township should soon start to analyze what public improvements will be necessary such as launching ramps and parking. The issue of how to accommodate commercial charter boats must be addressed as does the question of where all those thousands of 30 to 40 pound King salmon will be cleaned.

I spoke on the phone recently with city superintendents of both Frankfort and Manistee about setting up a study mission to those cities comprised of the individuals from Charlevoix who will be most involved in the planning for the influx of sport fishermen.

Both those communities have experienced tremendous sport fishing booms since large scale plantings were initiated in their waters during the 1970s. Both, however, were also caught unprepared.

The officials each told me that they wish their cities had begun planning long before their sport fisheries had matured. Problems developed on several fronts, most of which were fish cleaning and boat ramps.

We would be wise to study the stories of Frankfort and Manistee closely so that Charlevoix can learn the lessons they learned the hard way.

Clockwise

Alewife alert

By Bob Clark

THE ALEWIVES are coming! The alewives are coming! And they're dying in windrows on Charlevoix's Lake Michigan beaches. The die-off appears to be worse than other years, but it's not as bad as it was 15 years ago. At that time, lakeshore property owners were out on the beach with shovels every morning to bury the hapless victims. If they didn't, the aroma of dead fish would be overpowering under the mid-afternoon sun.

The problem diminished after the Department of Natural Resources planted lake trout in the area. But the trout apparently are thinning out because the alewives are back.

Friday's plant of young Chinook salmon in Medina Creek should help in the future, since salmon are voracious eaters; but they won't be much help this year.

The alewife is not native to the Great Lakes, but is a common food fish along the Atlantic Coast, according to Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary. It apparently invaded the upper Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Welland Canal - just like the sea lamprey did many years ago.

The alewives on our shores certainly would rank low as dietary supplement for humans since they are all spines, fins and bones. But carnivorous birds - like loons - don't know any better and attempt to feed on them. During the first major die-off, Karl Kuebler, former conservation officer on Beaver Island, found more than a dozen dead loons on a single one-mile stretch of beach. Each dead loon had a bristly alewife lodged in its throat.

The island's loon population was seriously diminished for several years, but eventually returned to normal, much to the relief of loon lovers. Point Lake wasn't the same without a lone loon crying in the distance.

IS THERE ANYTHING prettier by dawn's early light than a Michigan whitefish?

I came upon three gigantic deer one frosty morning last week crossing U.S. 31 east of Bay Shore. They were so big they looked more like elk than deer, healthy survivors of last November's deer season. They apparently had been running, because when they stopped in the middle of the highway they snorted clouds of steam in the chill air.

They crossed safely well ahead of me, although I slowed to a crawl to see if any dogs were in pursuit. There weren't.

It was a pleasant encounter, because all of a sudden I was the summer of 1968 and I was back working as a section-hand on the Gorman Lumber Co. at Ontonagon. The company's logging railroad ran east out of Ontonagon along the Lake Superior shore. The highlight of my morning ride aboard the little open-air speeder was spotting deer along the banks of the Flintstone and Firesteel rivers.

For some reason they always looked wet, and they steamed like locomotives as they bounded into the forest.

Letters: Water says no

To the Editor:

Failure to resolve Charlevoix's water problem says "NO to Michigan." Word-of-mouth and all major newspapers have carried our story of "water contamination." Though the health threat could be small and tourists who circumspect our community maybe few, it's damage we cannot afford. Nor can our great state of Michigan afford it. Actually, persons have differing levels of susceptibility to diseases, like cancer which TCE may very well help create. People react differently to dust, radioactivity, pollen, etc. For someone to say he drank TCE laced water or endured heavy radioactive doses does not mean it is, or will be, safe for others!

Clean water is one of the world's most valued assets. Will Charlevoix residents take no further chances and show they place actual value on clean water? And let us unanimously cheer the EPA for their helping us!

Memorial Day plans

By FRANK MARTIN

Residents of the Charlevoix area will join with Americans around the globe in paying homage to the victims of this country's wars during the observance of Memorial Day, 1984, scheduled for Monday, May 28.

The formal program at Brookside cemetery at approximately 10:45 a.m. Monday will be preceded by the traditional parade through the business district to Brookside cemetery.

Participants in the parade will assemble at Park Avenue and State Street at 9:30 a.m. Monday. At 10 a.m. sharp, the parade featuring the color guard and firing squad of members of Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Clement Olach, post commander, and the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, Louis D. McKennie, post commander, will begin the march that will include brief stops at the Michigan Chapter Memorial of the U.S. Submariners of World War I located in East Park where flowers will be strewn on the waters of Round Lake and at Memorial Park at Bridge St. and Belvedere.

The Charlevoix High School Marching Band directed by Terry Isenbarger will play patriotic selections during these brief ceremonies, taps will be played and a salute fired.

The parade will then continue to Brookside cemetery. While the crowd is assembling, the band will play several selections.

Vincent R. Olach, retired U.S. Army veteran, will deliver the Memorial Day address after being introduced by Benjamin S. Gill, retired U.S. Navy veteran and a former prisoner of war serving as master of ceremonies.

Floral tributes will be presented by Post Commanders Olach and McKennie; taps will be sounded; a salute will be fired and the program will conclude with the playing of the National Anthem by the high school band directed by Mr. Isenbarger.

Flags will be placed at the graves of all veterans prior to Memorial Day by local veterans' groups and their auxiliaries. If your serviceman or woman's grave is not marked with a flag please advise the post commander listed above.

Those participating in the parade are invited to the V.F.W. Post Home on US 31 North following the program for refreshments of coffee and donuts/cake.

The program is being planned by Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be held at the high school gymnasium.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Grauel, Jr.

Elzinga - Grauel

Lynn E. Elzinga and William H. Grauel, Jr. were married March 31 in a candlelight service at the Central United Methodist Church in Traverse City.

The Reverend William Hietel of the Asbury United Methodist Church in Traverse City performed the double-ring rites before approximately 250 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Elzinga of Traverse City, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Grauel, Sr. of East Jordan.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight ivory satin featuring a scoop neckline, leg-o-mutton sleeves, and chapel-length train. The fitted bodice and train were accented with re-embroidered acyion lace, seed pearls, and crystals.

The bride carried a bouquet of cascading philopopsis orchids, stephanotis, baby's breath, and ivy. Nancy J. Powers assisted the bride as maid of honor. Lynn E. Smith, sister of the bridegroom, Kathy Purchase, Coleen Elzinga, cousin of the bride, and Claudine L. Allen, another cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids.

-that the Public Service Commission and the State Legislature strive to contain electricity rates and authorize additional increases only after determining that due care and attention have been given by Consumers Power in fulfilling its role as the major provider of electricity to this area.

The Board of Commissioners took no immediate action on Dehliquis's request. Instead, it turned the resolution over to the County Planning Commission, which is expected to act on it at the next Planning Commission meeting, on June 7.

Girls' sweep Hurons in two at Rogers City

The Charlevoix girls softball team posted two wins over Rogers City by scores of 6-2 and 11-8 in games played at Rogers City Saturday. This week the team will take on Lincoln Alcona in a pre-district elimination game on the local field at 3 p.m. Friday. At the same time, Rogers City will be playing at East Jordan. The winners of the two games will be paired in district competition. Coach Mary Lieberman said.

In their first win over Rogers City, Charlevoix got off to a fast start, scoring two runs in the first inning, two in the second and one each in the fourth and sixth before the Hurons got on the board with their two runs. Rhonda Buchanan on the mound for the victors gave up three hits, walked six and had four strikeouts. Kathy Verks allowed six hits. Ann Kroll had a double and Meg Fowler, Buchanan, Amy

Boys' track team is fourth at Kalkaska Class C regional meet

The Charlevoix Rayder boys track team with 61 points, placed fourth among the 16 Class C teams entered in the regional meet at Kalkaska Saturday and qualified for state competition in six events Coach Hal Evans reports.

Houghton Lake with 87 points took the regional title. Rogers City and Traverse City St. Francis with 83 points each were followed by Charlevoix, Kalkaska with 38, Tawas, 34; East Jordan, 31; Boyne City, 30; Lincoln Alcona, 29; Benzie Central, 25; Lake City, 11; Roscommon, 10; Elk Rapids, nine; Pine River, four; Onaway, one; Whitlmore-Prescott, 0.

The Rayders took only one blue ribbon in the meet, this by the mile relay team of Jim Martin, Matt Landon, Alec Sheets, and Doug Sloan in a time of 3:33.4. Martin placed second in the 200 M. run in a time of 22.8 to break a school record set in 1972 by another Martin, Kevin, whose record was 22.7.

The top three winners in each event qualified for state competition at Clare, June 2.

Other Rayders who qualified were: the 3200 M. relay team of Sheets, Landon, Lee Allard and John Tunison and the 800 M. relay team of Martin, Pat Mitchell, Jim Kenney and Sloan Kenney, Mitchell, Kevin which both placed second in their respective events; Sloan placed second in the 400 M. run with Landon coming in fourth; Allard came in third in the 3200 M. run to qualify for state competition. Placing fourth were Tunison and the 800 M. relay team of Mollie Bolduc, Michelle North, Leslie Miller and Cathy Dohm finished fifth and Rhonda Brown, sixth, in the long jump to account for the points. Benzie Central with four; Charlevoix, three; Onaway, one; East points walked away Jordan, 0.

Pre-district game is Friday

The Charlevoix girls softball team will meet Lincoln-Alcona on the local field at 3 p.m. Friday in a pre-district game. The team was to host determine whether or not the team will advance to the Class C

District Tournament. Coach Mery Lieberman said, were marked by excellent defensive play on the part of Charlevoix. Brenda Kolinski was the losing pitcher. Jill Matthews, Denise Pontrinaud and Laura Ford accounted for Potosky's hits. Buchanan was credited with the second win after relieving one hit each for Michelle Gagnon in the

Rayders ousted from tourney by St. Francis

A home run with on-man on in the top of the sixth inning in Class C pre-district action knocked the Charlevoix Rayder baseball team out of state competition for the first time in eight years according to Coach Pete Spieles. The game was during the elimination series leading up to the district tournament in which the Rayders lost to Traverse City St. Francis by a score of 3-2. Cleland, the winning

Yachting Notes

by A. NONYMOUSE
D-Day, H-Hour, M-Minute, S-Second minus a very few... 1984 starts at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 23; which is probably today, if you're reading the Courier when you should be. (If you're cheating and reading this Tuesday, don't forget the Skippers Meeting tonight - 7 p.m. CYC.) Wednesdays hereafter, through mid-October, are totally fouled up as local businesses, industries, doctors' and dentists' offices, construction firms, even government(!) lose their mechanical, accountants, surgeons, sweepers, presidents, carpenters, clerks, typists, editors, secretaries, bankers, pilots, etc., etc. to the mania of "Wednesday Night at the Races"! On that day, the attention to duty starts to wander by lunch time; the physical body joins the soul and both leave the premises somewhere between 3 and 5 p.m. (The latter is only adequate for those who work within 100 yards of their basic water transportation device.) Don't consider having surgery those afternoons - you'll notice the good Doctor is already wearing his sheath knife! And all this is not bad; I firmly believe that it is simply a confirmation that many of us have our priorities in proper order!

Each race night, a first gun will sound a little before 8 - it's our call to attention; the signal to begin the countdown to our start. If you're watching, you'll see nothing but confusion until the class that is starting converges on the line for it's gun - then the fleet again diverges as each skipper chooses his course to the first mark. It's due to windward, so we can't get there from here and have to go somewhere else first! After rounding, we'll all form a pretty line, most with "chutes" over to the jibe mark. Here we'll do just that (gybe) by putting the sails over on the other side smoothly and serenely. Then we're back to the start and go up again, straight back and then to the finish, usually in front of the Depot.

contamination will remain for at least 50 years.

"The goal of cleanup actions would not be to restore the aquifer to pristine conditions but to replace the level of contamination in the aquifer to some acceptable level of risk."

Q. What is considered to be an acceptable level of TCE or PCE in the water supply?

A. The EPA Cancer Assessment Group has established various risk levels for many compounds and chemicals. The "1 million" risk level for TCE is 2.8 ppb. As explained in the study, this implies that if 1 million people each drink two liters a day of water contaminated with 2.8 ppb TCE for a period of 70 years there will be one additional cancer death directly related to the presence of TCE at that concentration in that particular population.

With the present concentration of TCE in the Charlevoix system at about 45 ppb, the "1 million" risk level is 16.1, or, 16.1 additional deaths over a lifetime exposure in a population of 1 million.

Assuming that the levels of contamination remain relatively constant over time, the EPA calculates that it will be necessary to remove 97.2 percent of the TCE to reduce the concentration levels below the "1 million" risk level.

Should the TCE concentration in city water keep increasing up to 500 ppb as projected, (see chart) it would be necessary to remove 99.4 percent of the contaminant to meet accepted standards.

"The endangerment assessment shows that continued use of the existing water supply system...poses significant risk to human health...The trend of the plume indicates that contaminant levels will most likely increase," according to the study. "As a result of the above risk calculations and the historic trend, the risks associated with the 'no action' alternative are unacceptably high."

Notice Public Hearing On Increasing Property Taxes
The City Council of the City of Charlevoix will hold a Public Hearing on a proposed increase of 1.70 mills in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1984. The hearing will be held on Monday, June 4, 1984 at 8:00 o'clock in the p.m. in the Council Chambers, City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan. If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 17.81% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing. This notice supersedes the previous notice to increase taxes, published on May 2, 1984. The previous notice was based upon revenue projections which included a 1% administrative fee on tax collections. This fee may no longer be proper. Therefore, the City has elected to adjust the tax levy to collect the budgeted amount of revenue without an administrative fee. A comparison of actual 1983 to proposed 1984 revenues from all tax collection sources are as follows:

	Actual 1983	Proposed 1984
Operating Levy	10.5 mills	10.6 mills
Capital Improvement Levy	—	1.1 mills
Debt Retirement	3.0 mills	2.0 mills
Total:	13.5 mills	13.7 mills

Top O' Michigan refunds

The Board of Directors of Top O' Michigan has announced that a one-time refund will be made to all member-consumers of Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company who received electric service during the period from January 1, 1983 to March 31, 1984. This refund is the result of lower than anticipated wholesale power cost. The refund will be based on the amount of electricity each member-consumer purchased during the period January 1, 1983 to March 31, 1984. It will be shown as a credit on the bills issued on May 15, 1984 for both monthly and annual accounts. Annual accounts billed in August and October will receive their refund as a credit on their bill at that time. Refund notices will be sent by mail to all former member-consumers during this period. To receive their refund check, they must return the notice in accordance with the instructions provided.

Condos boost bldg. report

Permits for 16 new condominium units at The Harborage in Boyne City were issued by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection last week. Altogether, 23 permits for new residences were issued in April, along with 26 miscellaneous permits for a grand total of 49. The miscellaneous building included six residential additions and remodeling jobs, nine residential garages, three decks and porches, five commercial additions and remodeling jobs, and one addition to a mobile home. The new houses are spread throughout the County: one in Bay Township, nine were issued in January, nine were issued in February, 16 in March, 21, and in April, 49. Total construction costs of the building projects covered by April permits are estimated at $1,178,077. As the weather has improved since the first of the year, so has the number of building permits issued in 1984.

For Saints and Sinners

by Reverend Philip G. Schaerbaum

First Congregational Church
"Do not lose heart; though outwardly we are wasting away, yet inwardly we are being renewed day by day." II Corinthians 4:16
The Springtime of Life. The petals of yesterday have shriveled into the past; tomorrow is an unopened bud that may be blackened by frosts of fate. The future is but a seed, not yet planted, of unknown quantity. But today - today is a gorgeous blossom of beauty and fragrance. Today is a new page in the book of life. Upon it, and upon it alone, you can write a record of your accomplishments. But once turned, it is gone forever. Yesterday is a page turned. You cannot add one line to it, nor erase one word from it. It is closed forever, and can affect the new page only in so far as it has affected your heart and your courage. Your mistakes and fears of yesterday need not be carried forward in the ledger of life. The past holds no mortgage on today. Today is yours, an unmeasurable treasure house of golden opportunities, a sea of unthought possibilities, a forest of building prospects. Today is the clear note in your song of time. There are fourteen good, active hours in today, and each day. This is the best hours for thought and rest. No one has yet discovered the limit of accomplishment that may be crowded into a day. Today is yours - use it.

Horse show summer schedule set

Three Pleasure Horse Shows are scheduled for early summer. The first show will be held Saturday, June 16, at Lake Charlevoix Farms on the Charlevoix-Boyer City Road, and will be sponsored by the Charlevoix 4-H Council. The second show will be a two-day affair, on Saturday and Sunday, June 23 and 24, at the Emmet County Fairgrounds in Petoskey, sponsored by the Emmet County 4-H Council. The third show will also be a two-day affair, on Saturday and Sunday, July 7 and 8, at the Emmet County Fairgrounds, sponsored by the Midnite Sun 4-H Club and the Northwest Michigan Horseman's Association. All shows will start at 9 a.m. and are approved by 4-H and the Northwest Michigan Horseman's Association for points. There will be halter classes, English classes, western classes, speed classes, and novice classes. Door prizes will be awarded. Further information offices: Charlevoix may be obtained from County, 532-6232, or Maura Harshbarger at Emmet County, 347-4778, or from either 258.

Obituaries

PAUL L. MCCLOSKEY
Funeral services for a Hayes Township resident, Paul L. McCloskey, 67, who died May 16 at Little Traverse Hospital, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Charles Green of the Trinity Missionary Church of Petoskey officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., June 19, 1917, Mr. McCloskey moved to Kingston, Pa., with his parents at the age of 14 years. From 1934-37 he attended Carnegie Tech. In 1939, he moved to Detroit where he was married Dec. 16, 1940, to the former Elizabeth Jane Whipple. He was employed at the Ford Motor Co. as a supervisor in the product development division until he retired in 1974. At that time they moved to Hayes Township to make their home. They had summered at Susan Lake since 1966.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Karen J. Hedger of Garden City and Mrs. Marv (Joyce) Foote of Fort Wayne, Ind.; 10 grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Christine McCloskey and a sister, Miss Grace E. McCloskey, both of St. Petersburg, Fla.

The family suggests memorials to the Trinity Missionary Church of Petoskey. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the funeral home.

ETHEL WEISINGER
A memorial service for Mrs. Ethel Weisinger, 94, who died May 15 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held Monday at the First Congregational Church. The Rev. Philip Schairbaum, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Raymond Griffin, retired pastor, officiated.

Born in Cernowitz, Austria-Hungary, March 23, 1890, the former Ethel Lieberman was married to Otto Weisinger of Hamburg, Germany, in New York City in 1916.

Mrs. Weisinger traveled extensively with her parents and her husband and lived, for many years, in China. Mr. Weisinger preceded her in death in the early 1960's. She spent many years in California where she operated gift shops in the Beverly Hills Hotel and the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco.

In 1967, Mrs. Weisinger moved to Charlevoix where she became active in the First Congregational Church, the Charlevoix Women's Club and the German Conversation Club. She was currently teaching a German class at the Friendship Center in Petoskey.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Julius W. (Edith) Gilbert of Charlevoix and Dr. Margot Smith of Berkeley, Calif. and four grandchildren, Walter, Peter, Larry and Janet.

The family suggests memorials to the Julius Gilbert Scholarship Fund of the Charlevoix Area Hospital or the Crooked Tree Arts Council in Petoskey.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

HAROLD BOSS
Funeral services for Harold Boss, 71, who died May 16 at his Charlevoix home, were held Sunday at the Barnard United Methodist Church. The Rev. Glenn Britton officiated. Interment was in the Atwood Cemetery.

Born in Banks Township June 10, 1912, Mr. Boss was married to the former Mary E. Merrow at Ellsworth, Nov. 13, 1943. He operated a farm in Banks Township until moving to Charlevoix in 1963. He was employed at the Freedman Aircraft Corp. until retiring in 1974. He was a member of the Barnard United Methodist Church.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Donald (Lorraine) Kelly and Mrs. Gordon (Marcia) Himebauch, both of Charlevoix; four grandsons, Jeffrey and Scott Kelly and Marc and Mike Himebauch and a sister, Mrs. David (Mildred) Matchett of Ellsworth.

The family suggests memorials to the Barnard United Methodist Church.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

BEATRICE E. SPROW
Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Beatrice E. Sprow, 73, of Traverse City, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home May 17. The Rev. Cecil Drost officiated at the service. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery. Mrs. Sprow died May 14 at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

Born in Blair Township, Grand Traverse County, April 10, 1911, the former Beatrice E. Drost attended Traverse City schools. In 1937, she was married to Otto (Bud) Russell at Auburn, Michigan. The couple later came to Charlevoix to live until the early 1960's when they moved to Petoskey to establish the Russell Shoe Store. Mr. Russell preceded her in death in 1969. She was later married to Robert E. Sprow at Sarasota, Fla. They returned to northern Michigan in the early 1970's and purchased the Indian River Inn. Since 1980 they had lived in Traverse City.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Gary Russell of Traverse City and David Russell of Brutus; eight grandchildren; a step-son, Thomas Sprow of Bryan, Ohio; a step-daughter, Mrs. Kent (Diane) Hutton of Houston, Tex.; one brother, Irving Drost of Panasotke, Fla. and a sister, Mrs. Robert (Lottie) Sarasin of Houghton Lake.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

Garden Club plans to expand Memorial Garden once more

The Memorial Garden was established in 1977 by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club. In 1978 the City Council resolved that it be made a part of the park system. This can be changed only through a public hearing.

It has since been maintained by members of the Garden Club with the help of memorial donations and professional help from Mathews Nursery of Harbor Springs and Site Planning and Development of Charlevoix.

The garden was enlarged last year. Donations have continued to come in, so the garden will again be expanded this year. The present garden includes a Red Jade weeping crabapple, magnolia, pines, cotoneasters, weigela, and golden privet bushes in a free form arrangement. There are also rocks and driftwood.

Many people have remembered their loved ones with this living memorial. Those for whom gifts have been given are: Frank Webb, Daniel Schoelberger, Harney and Mildred Ochs, Hubert Olach, Doris Ochs, Irene Young, Marian Purdy, Edward Golden, Mable Cromwell, Floye Martin, Jerrine Durni, Franklin Curtiss, Dorothy Parker, Frank P. Mikulski, Charles H. Stevens, Margit Hamilton, John Uhrick, Elsie and Edward Clagett, Curtis Burlin, Raymond Close, Mrs. H.H. Yoder, Anthony Stabnick, Trina Nelson, Velma Gibb, Ida Edwards, Floyd Chamberlain, Anton Olaszewski, Joseph G. Morris, Jr., Earl M. Holborn, Marion Bridge, Dorothy McRee, Emma and Jon Moh, Joseph Uhrick, Arlo Wickersham, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Francis, Hubert & Mildred Paddock, Kenneth McLean, Albert Sutton, Frank Novotny, Gordon Freedman, May Smith, George Cook, Mrs. Lynn Miller, Edward Leeward, Edward Edwards, Lawrence Foley, Edward Loop, Edward Olach, and Myrtle Ditlefsen.

Anyone interested in contributing, may call or write Mrs. Marge Dinwiddie, 807 E. Dixon, Charlevoix, 547-2630.

Walter Midener at the Michigan Foundation for the Arts awards ceremony.

Midener honored by Foundation for the Arts

Over 400 guests encourage and support Michigan art and artists. The annual Michigan Arts Awards were established in 1976 to recognize five Michigan artists for outstanding achievement in their field. This year's recipients of the $2,500 awards are: Troy jazz musician J.C. Heard; Ann Arbor painter Gerome Kamrowski; East Jordan sculptor Walter Midener; Kalamazoo poet Herbert Scott; and East Detroit dancer-choreographer Denise Sykula. Each artist made a brief presentation or performed at the ceremony.

In addition, Patron of the Arts awards recipients were honored for their support of the arts in Michigan. Chief Justice G. Mennen and Nancy Williams, of Grosse Pointe, and Dr. Dacho Dachhoff, of Big Rapids received special commemorative plaques of Pewabic pottery.

Buday, Dohm voted president, vice president

by the Flash Staff

Maureen Buday was elected President and Kathy Dohm Vice President of the Charlevoix High School Student Council in voting results announced Friday, May 18.

The election capped a lively campaign of candidates and a write-in effort. Also running were Christine Pace and Lenore Erber on one ticket and Cheryl Aull and Kathy Shephard on another.

Olson, who campaigned as "Crash and Crazy", also drew some votes but, according to Principal Vane Smith, they could not have been elected because the council's constitution does not allow candidates who have not filed nominating petitions with enough signatures.

Other Student Council representatives elected for the 1984-85 school year were, representing the 9th grade, Jill Austin, Dan Drury, Ellen Pearl, Roger Smith and Bonnie Thernm; for the 10th grade, Valerie Barnes, Karl Erber, Lori Gleason, Ann Kroll and Dan Staubling; for the 11th grade, Jason Brindel, Kathleen Balmer; for the 12th grade, Sharon Martin and Julie Lindberg, Dianna Boday, Joe Hayes, grade, Toni Eakes, Amy Ann Wagner.

National Honor Society inducts new members

by Wendy Olinger

Your first question might be, "What is the National Honor Society?" Well, to begin with, it is a national organization under the direction of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

For the Charlevoix High School, our advisor is Mr. Glen Taylor. Other council members are Mr. Vane Smith, Mr. Dennis VanGuilder, and Mr. Jensen. The council selects new members, member and describing and is also responsible for dismissing, when necessary, any member who cannot uphold the requirements for Leadership, 3) Service, and 4) Character.

To meet the standards, any sophomore, junior, or senior with a 3.6 average or above in the council of the National Honor Society. Another requirement: All of these considerations will be assessed by faculty council members, and then the successful candidates will be notified at the Induction Ceremony.

The Induction Ceremony is usually conducted by the officers and members of the local chapter or by members of a nearby school. The Induction Ceremony was held on May 11, 1984 in the high school cafeteria.

In 1980, it was the first Winter Induction Ceremony since the reinstatement of the organization, and only nine students were accepted.

In 1981, at the Winter Induction Ceremony, only nine students were accepted. There was also a Spring Induction Ceremony that year with sixteen students being accepted.

Through the years, millions of students in more than 20,000 public and private schools have been selected as members of the National Honor Society.

These students have met the high standards: Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character maintained by the chapters of the National Honor Society. Not only have they lived exemplary lives within their schools, these honor students have continued to be motivated by the challenging ideas of this Society.

Again this year we are requesting that seniors make all photography appointments for senior pictures no later than September 7, 1984. This date will give photographers the necessary lead time in order to have two (2) COLORED pictures to the high school office by the October 4 deadline date with the yearbook company (wallet size colored pictures will be acceptable - one picture for the Yearbook and one picture for the annual supplement to the Charlevoix Courier).

Note... COLORED pictures not received by the October 4, 1984, deadline date will NOT appear in the 1985 Yearbook. Since the senior pictures will be done in color in the Yearbook this year, it is most critical that the October 4 deadline be met. There can be NO exceptions or waiting for senior pictures this year.

We suggest that students have their pictures taken during the summer in preparation for the deadline date of October 4, 1984. Questions may be directed to the high school office at 547-3222.

PAGEANT CONTESTANTS: Charlevoix High School students Michelle North, left, and Molly Bolduc, right, will be participating in the Miss Teen Michigan Pageant to be held August 2-4 in Mt. Pleasant.

A Quebec adventure

by Tammy Southwood set out for their annual trip to Quebec. After visiting time in the cities of Toronto and Charlevoix High School Windsor to Quebec City Montreal, the students spent four days and three nights in the charming city of Quebec. The hotel Le Concorde, centrally located, accommodated the students during their stay, and afforded them panoramic views of the city both day and night from the revolving restaurant on the 24th floor. Days were spent visiting such places as the Plains of Abraham, The Montmorency Falls, Saint Anne de Beaupre, upper and lower Quebec city, Parliament building, Laval University and many other places of historical interest. Large shopping centers, above and below ground, provided hours of entertainment. Nights were filled with dining, dancing, and the opportunity to build lasting friendships.

Because very little English is spoken in Quebec, our French coordinator, Madame Francoise, allowed the students to step into a different culture and make their textbooks come alive. It was a very memorable and enriching experience - one that will be long remembered by all who went.

Students on the trip this year were: Bonnie Bergmann, Mary Browe, Kathleen Buday, Kathleen Campbell, Michael Chew, Brenda Currier, Holly Edger, Jill Gray, Eric Green, Charles Hastings, Sharon Martin, Leslie Miller, Andy Monteith, Laurie Moore, Carol Ormsby, Mary Ritsema, Tim Salmonson, Lisa Seymour, Tammy Southwood, Jami Staley, Rebecca Wallace, Tim Wieland, Lisa Williams, and Jeff Young, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wendt and French coordinator, Madame Francoise.

Honor students listed for late spring semester

In order to have your name placed on this Honor Roll, a student must attain a 3 point or better academic average for the marking period. This marking period began on March 5, 1984 and ended April 20, 1984. Students who attained an all A- average are in italics - WHAT AN HONOR!!! This is not an accumulative point average - just the marking period grades.

Spanish students experience Mexico

by Donna Thorp
On March 24, the Charlevoix High School Spanish Club started out on their eight day trip to Mexico. Their first day was spent driving to Detroit where they would take their first flight from the Detroit Metro Airport to Chicago. From Chicago they flew to Mexico City and took vans from the airport to their hotel, Romano Diana, one block from the Paseo de la Reforma, the Avenue of the Reform, a famous street which stretches from the National Palace to Chapultepec Park.

March 25, consisted of first seeing the Ballet Folklórico, a lively and colorful two hour presentation of regional dances. After this the group went on to visit the National Palace, the center of Mexico's government offices. On the walls are murals painted by the famous painter, Diego Rivera, depicting the history of Mexico. The Metropolitan Cathedral, the largest in the Western Hemisphere, was the next stop on the list. Then once again the group was on their way again to the National Anthropological Museum, which houses the Aztec Sun Stone as well as relics of the Olmec, Toltec, and Mayan cultures of ancient Mexico. After this long day the group returned to their hotel for a quiet dinner.

March 26, was a new day. The day began by touring through the rich and wealthy sections of Mexico City. Then they were taken to see the Olympic Stadium, site of the 1968 Olympics. Across the street was the University City College, a huge federally funded university. The main attraction there is the library building with a world famous mosaic mural. Xochimilco was the next place visited, it was the floating gardens. The group was served lunch on a "lancha" (a long narrow boat decorated with flowers and propelled by a man using a long pole). Vendors were floating alongside selling everything from flowers to Mexican blankets.

This was the first chance everyone had at trying out their bartering skills. One student even traded her watch for three hand woven baskets. Several students took the shirts off their back to trade for new ones. Items such as T-shirts (from U.S.) are not commodities among the Mexican people. When the fun filled day ended, the group returned to the hotel for dinner and then spent an exciting night at the luxurious Camino, a disco place in the most expensive hotel in Mexico. March 27, activities consisted of visiting the Shrine of Guadalupe. Then it was off to the pyramids, but first there was a roadside stand where a man demonstrated the many uses of the magney stopped at a restaurant where we had cactus salad, refried beans, corn chips, tamales, and sangria to drink. At the pyramids they were shown the pyramid of the sun and moon, and the temple of Quetzalcoatl with its intricate sculptures of the winged serpent protruding from the sides. The members of the group chose to go out to dinner. Then it was off to the San Juan Market where a lot of kids had the chance to buy leather goods, ponchos, sandals, colorful Mexican shirts and dresses, onix chess sets and figurines and lots more.

March 30, was a sad day as the group had to fly from Acapulco to Mexico City where they would board the last plane out of Mexico. From Mexico City they flew to Dallas and from Dallas to Detroit. It had been a long and fun filled week that I'm sure no one that participated will ever forget.

Throughout that week many of the students learned many things and experienced a great deal.

PLUS ONE SUPPLEMENT

EPA to fund 90% of water plant costs

by DAVE KNIGHT

All indications are, following a public hearing, Tuesday, May 22, that the City of Charlevoix won't have to pay a cent for the construction of a lake water treatment facility recommended by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as the best alternative to the city's present water supply contaminated by the industrial chemical trichloroethylene (TCE).

Jack Kratzmeyer, EPA technical coordinator for the Charlevoix project, told the audience of about 40 at the hearing that it would be his staff's recommendation to the agency's headquarters in Washington that the EPA Superfund provide 90 percent of the estimated $1 million capital outlay for the plant.

Ron Wilson, of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Groundwater Division, later announced that the DNR will come up with the remaining ten percent of the construction costs saying, "We (the DNR) want to go on record as being in favor of the EPA's recommendation and as part of our support, the department will be providing the ten percent match."

Kratzmeyer also said that EPA would pay 90 percent of the first year's operating and maintenance costs, estimated at $118,000, before turning that annual expense over to the city.

Timothy Benton, district engineer for the Michigan Department of Public Health (DPH), completed the unanimous show of support from an assorted governmental agencies represented at the hearing.

While Benton pointed out that there are still some design differences to be worked out between EPA and DPH, he did not see them as standing in the way of a construction start on the plant as early as this summer.

Said Benton of the sanctions on the city water system threatened by the DPH last fall unless action was taken toward solving the contamination problem, "We're confident that we can resolve the legal matter and enter into a stipulation agreement with the city."

EPA Region V spokesman John Perrecone said, "We can move quickly on this. We have the dollars in Chicago."

According to a timetable outlined by Perrecone and Kratzmeyer, written public comments on the "focused feasibility study", in which the lake water recommendation was made, were accepted until May 23. The regional office will then submit its final recommendation to Washington.

Kratzmeyer said that a joint agreement between the EPA and DNR, clearing the way for construction of the plant, could be made by June 8.

Plans first developed by the city over a year ago for an intake structure, which would be the first phase of the plant, and a "conventional" treatment facility have been forwarded to the Army Corps of Engineers. The Corps, said Kratzmeyer, has indicated that the plans are satisfactory so contracts could be bid immediately after the construction agreement is made.

The planned intake structure would consist of a cement conduit extending 1,500 feet into Lake Michigan from approximately where the present city well is located at Lake Michigan Beach. Lake water would enter the system through an intake buried beneath the lake bottom and constructed of woven wire screen. The fact that the intake will be buried and that it will also be backfilled with a granular material will result in a pre-filtration of the water that should reduce turbidity, according to the design.

There is a good possibility, said Kratzmeyer, that the intake and necessary chlorination equipment could be complete by the end of the year thus insuring the city water supply with clean water by that time.

The second phase of construction would be a lakeside plant for filtration and flocculation, processes also used at a 15-year old lake water treatment plant in Traverse City.

Graduation at 2 p.m. Sunday

By FRAN MARTIN

The 96th annual commencement exercises for Charlevoix High School will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 3, in the high school gymnasium.

A total of 127 members of the Class of 1984 are expected to receive their diplomas from Dr. Gordon W. VanWieren, superintendent, C. Max Novak, board of education president and Kenneth J. Boss, board secretary.

Dr. Sherrel Bergmann, a 1965 alumna of Charlevoix High School who currently is a professor on the graduate faculty at the National College of Education in Evanston, Ill., will deliver the commencement address "Commencing To and From the Land of Oz." She will be introduced by VanWieren.

The program will open with salutatory addresses by Amy K. Sell and Daniel F. Boday followed by the valedictory speech of Mark E. Hodgson.

Dennis D. Van Guilder, assistant principal, will introduce the students who will be receiving scholarships and special awards, Vane H. Smith, high school principal, and Charles A. Bentley, class advisor, will present the cakes.

Music will be by the 78-piece Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band directed by Terry Isenberger which will play the processional, Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," the senior selection, the National Anthem and the recessional.

Rev. Philip Schaarbaum will give the invocation and Rev. Walter Hastings the benediction.

The class motto is: "To achieve all that is possible, we must attempt the impossible. To be as much as we can be, we must dream of being more."

The class colors are lavender and white, the class flower, the white rose, and the class song "Freebird." Nelson Green and Bentley are class advisors.

Planting in the rain

THINK OF IT as 50,000 petunias getting a drink, planters said of the rain Tuesday. The downpour didn't discourage more than 300 Charlevoix residents from participating in Operation Petunia Thursday. Here Susan Annis keeps friend Laura Hendrickson dry as she plants. The project was completed in just under 2 hours as more than 50,000 petunias were planted in 4 miles of flower beds along U.S. 31 from city limit to city limit. Longtime resident Eleanor Carson, who inspired the 3-year-old project, was honored as the oldest participant. Wally Smith, of Pacifica, Calif., who is visiting Edith Gilbert, was honored as the person coming from furthest away and the A.E. Bergmann family had the most generations participating.

In Memoriam

HUNDREDS gathered for annual Memorial Day services at Brookside Cemetery Monday, Vincent Olach, school district business manager and a veteran, gave the address centering on the importance of patriotism. He asked how many more American citizens must be buried before we learn to live with peace. He added that "A nation that forgets its defenders, will itself be forgotten." The high school band provided music and Clem Olach and Louis Mackenzie raised the flag during cemetery ceremonies.

Peaine Township sues county over assessment changes

by PEG OHLE

Peaine Township, which occupies the greater portion of land on Beaver Island, feels that it is being unfairly treated by the County of Charlevoix.

The treatment at issue is the equalization by the County of property values in Peaine Township. In an effort to right a perceived wrong, Peaine Township has filed with the Michigan Tax Tribunal a "Petition for Review of Action of Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners in Equalizing the Valuations of the Several Townships and Cities of Charlevoix County, Michigan, for 1984."

Specifically, the petition states that the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners passed an equalization resolution which added to the assessed valuation of residential and real property classifications as follows:

Raised the Peaine Township Board of Review assessed value on residential classification of $7,794,700 to $8,407,150 for a multiplication factor of 46.36 (1.07857); raised the Board of Review assessed value on commercial classification of $60,600 to $65,282 for a multiplication factor of 46.34 (1.07891).

This equalization by Charlevoix County is "unfair, unjust, inequitable and discriminatory" according to the petition, because:

Peaine Township believes the equalization is "unsubstantiated by competent material and substantial evidence and is based upon inadequate, incomplete and misstated studies of the assessing units of Charlevoix County for 1984."

Peaine Township believes the equalization study "misstates land values and misjudges the values of buildings and improvements."

The studies "did not consider valid samples and did not reflect the actual value of real property in the Township."

Peaine Township believes "the equalization factors applied to Peaine Township real property for 1984 result in township-wide assessments in excess of 50 percent of true cash value and in excess of the general level of assessments prevailing in other assessing units of the County."

The studies of the Charlevoix County Equalization Department failed to take into account the effect of creative financing which has inflated sales prices of real estate over and above the true cash value thereof and distorted sale information used in sales studies."

Now, Peaine Township asks the Michigan Tax Tribunal to direct the State Tax Commission to conduct an investigation by equalization study of each of the assessing units of Charlevoix County and be prepared to give testimony and present evidence at the hearing in this case.

Peaine Township also asks the Michigan Tax Tribunal to schedule a hearing on its petition to determine whether the valuations of the County of Charlevoix have been improperly equalized and proceed to make deductions from the valuations of real property classes of Peaine Township to bring township real estate assessments to the average level of assessment of the other units of Charlevoix County, and into conformance with constitutional limits."

Last year, Peaine Township was one of the fastest growing areas in Charlevoix County. The Department of Building Inspection issued 24 permits in the Township during 1984, ten of which were for new houses. So far this year, only three permits have been issued, one for a new house.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners discussed the Peaine Township petition at its meeting last Wednesday. Equalization Director Joan Blanchard told Board members that she had already received requests for information from attorneys involved in the case. The Kalamazoo law firm of Bauckham, Reed, Lang, Schaefer & Travis is representing Peaine Township. Charlevoix attorney Michael Gibbons is acting as liaison for the law firm, according to Mrs. Blanchard.

The County Board will schedule a special meeting in the near future to consider hiring an attorney specializing in assessing and equalization work to answer the charges filed by Peaine Township.

Condo project gets zoning OK

The Charlevoix Board of Appeals last week granted zoning variances to developer Jon A. Hisey for ten additional condominium units at the Harbour Club on the south shore of Round Lake.

The variances were granted after the developer made some minor changes in the plans which were rejected by the Board of Appeals on April 17. Among the changes was allotting less space for parking and more for a green area.

The plans now must go to City Council for final approval. The Board of Appeals is also asking City Council to "take a good look" at the landscaping plans for the project, according to Sue Erber, Board of Appeals secretary.

That was the gist of the report the Road Commission submitted to the County Board last week.

"Our budget is looking better; there's more travel, the state is collecting more (gasoline) taxes, so we're getting more funding," said Fred Welch, engineer-manager of the Road Commission.

The Commission's report for 1983 indicated that it ended the year with a fund balance approximately $100,000 over the start of the year.

During 1983, the Road Commission spent $169,756 for road construction; $665,243 for road maintenance; $322,903 for winter maintenance; $236,901 for trunkline maintenance; and $16,404 for traffic

City plans first extensive street repair program since 1979

by DAVE KNIGHT

The first major street, sidewalk and curb repairs the city has been able to afford in at least five years was approved by City Council at its regular meeting May 21.

Excluding the street repaving done last year as part of the storm sewer installation, the last street, sidewalk and curb repair program was in 1979.

Following unanimous council approval, the city will spend $147,500 this year to pave 1.9 miles of streets, replace 700 feet of curb and repair a half mile of sidewalk.

The program proposed by City Manager Robert Hunt was the result of an assessment of city streets by Hunt and Street Superintendent Leonard Dubey that set repair priorities based on present condition of the streets, amount of year-round traffic, residential or commercial density and the need for further utility work.

Upright from Alice to May, Alice from Huribut to Belvedere, Belvedere from Ferry to Alice, Mason from Bridge to State, Sheridan from Antrim to Garfield and from Garfield to Wood, Sherman from Garfield to Wood, Burns from Dixon to Petoskey, Crouter from Burns to Prospect, Prospect from Crouter to Division, Nettleton from Auld to Petoskey, Nichols from Dixon to Petoskey, Ainslie from Nichols to Petoskey, Central from Chicago to Elm, Oak from Central to Petoskey and the northern 400 feet of Norwood.

Sidewalks to be replaced, at a total cost of $37,500, include east side of Bridge from Huribut to Garfield, the west side of Bridge from Huribut to Wood, the west side of State from Antrim to Carpenter and from Park to Clinton, the north side of Huribut from State to Sherman, the south side of Huribut from State to May, the north side of Mason from State to Sherman, the north side of Petoskey from Michigan to Meech, the south side of Dixon from Michigan to Mercer and the east side of Michigan from Dixon to Division.

Another $10,000 is allocated for curb repair, $12,500 will be held in a contingency fund and $5,000 will pay for engineering.

Only $100,000 had been originally budgeted by the city for street repairs but an early break in the winter weather left a balance of $38,500 for snow removal in the major street fund and allowed $25,000 to be borrowed for the repair program.

Another $22,500 will come from single lot assessments with property owners paying 60 percent of the sidewalk repair costs.

New committee to run Transit System

Operation of the Charlevoix County Transit System will soon be turned over to a three-person committee.

Action taken by the County Board last week created a Transit Committee made up of representatives from the County Board, the County Commission on Aging, and the public at large, yet to be named.

Since the Transit System began operation four years ago, it has been under the jurisdiction of the County Commission on Aging, with Art Saworski acting as general manager.

The close association of the Transit System and the Commission on Aging has created the impression in many places that the System operates only for senior citizens and handicapped persons, rather than for the public at large.

The new committee will meet at regular intervals to try to improve the service and the image of the Transit System.

THOMAS W. ANDERSON, a Charlevoix native who practiced law in Boyne City and was legal counsel for the City of East Jordan, was found dead at his home in Boyne City May 20. Anderson was 32. A complete obituary is on page 9.

Knight on the Town

Community Spirit

I hope every motorist from out of town who happened to pass through Charlevoix on U.S. 31 Thursday evening was thoroughly puzzled. I hope they asked themselves, "What in Sam Hill are all these nutty people doing out in the rain planting flowers?"

The sight was even more amazing than in past years.

To think that a community of 3,500 or so can coax enough of its residents to venture outdoors on a chilly and rainy evening, kneel side by side on the highway and plant some 50,000 petunias is rather mind-boggling.

Why do they do it? Pride.

The reason many passers-through may have had trouble finding the logic of the unusual scene along the highway last Thursday evening was that there are very few communities with as much of a sense of pride as Charlevoix.

So take a bow, all you Intrepid planters!

What you demonstrated last week was a spirit that shall keep its blossom long after the petunias fade in November.

Bob Davis comments

by Congressman Bob Davis

I have joined over 100 other members of Congress in signing a letter to urge changes in the present system for reporting tip income. The letter asks the House conferees to agree to language included in the Senate's version of the 1984 tax bill to make tip reporting procedures less complex and more equitable for small restaurants and for those who work in areas with depressed economies.

In April, when the House passed the Tax Reform Act of 1984, H.R. 4170, there were no provisions to change the complicated and burdensome procedures that were enacted as part of the Tax Equity and Financial Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA). The Senate's version of this year's tax bill, however, does include language to revise the present system of tip reporting for income tax purposes. The letter is an effort to encourage the House members of the conference committee, which is responsible for drawing up a compromise between the House and Senate versions of the tax bill, to include this provision in the final version to be presented to both houses.

The present tip reporting requirements under TEFRA contain what is known as the "Allocation Formula." Under this formula, employees are required to report in their tax returns, tip income of at least 8 percent of the restaurant's total receipts. Through a complicated procedure, an employer whose workers do not make at least 8 percent in tips of total receipts may petition the Secretary of the Treasury for a reduced rate for his or her employees. If approved, these employees are then required to report at least 5 percent of the restaurant's receipts as tip income.

These rules are clearly unfair, particularly in areas of high unemployment or depressed economies where tips cannot be expected to be high. These rules also require the restaurant owner to estimate the earnings of his employees - an estimate which may not accurately reflect true income.

Not only are the tip reporting procedures complicated and unfair, the employees of a restaurant cannot petition the Secretary of the Treasury on their own behalf for the reduced rate. The Senate provision will address these inequities. First, it will allow a majority of the employees of a restaurant to demonstrate that their average tip income was less than the 8 percent minimum - rather than allowing only the employer this right. Second, the 8 percent minimum will be reduced to 5 percent and a lower rate of 2 percent for those who successfully petition the Treasury Secretary will be allowed. Third, it requires the Internal Revenue Service to issue new guidelines on reporting and recordkeeping requirements for tipped employees. The current guidelines for recordkeeping and reporting have caused concern for employees because of confusion over what will be considered adequate proof in the event of an IRS audit of tips received.

The present tip reporting law has caused hardship for employees and employers alike. I am pleased that so many of my colleagues recognize the need for reform of tip reporting requirements and have joined in signing this letter to the conference committee. If enacted, this provision of the tax bill will have a very positive effect on making the tax laws more equitable for those with tip income and for their employers.

IT WAS STRANGE Thursday night to see Charlevoixians going around checking each other's fingernails.

The object, of course, was to determine who had helped with the big petunia planting project - and who hadn't. Dirty fingernails were a sign that one had fulfilled one's civic obligations.

Two schools of thought, of course, have developed over whether the p.m. rain was a bane or a blessing. After a week of warm, dry weather it is ironic that the first drops of rain started to fall just as Operation Petunia was getting under way.

But no one seemed to mind. The work proceeded on schedule and four miles of petunias were planted along U.S. 31 within city limits in less than two hours.

Kids who balk at home when asked to hoe beans or rake leaves turned out in droves to help, along with a sizeable number of senior citizens. Supper afterwards downtown - complete with Tom's Mom's cookies - was an incentive, of course, but something tells me they would have been out there without a bribe. There's something about working in a group that turns people on.

Thanks to the rain Thursday and Friday, the petunias are off to a good start and within a few weeks Bridge Street will be one long flower garden.

RALPH HAMILTON, retired secretary of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, reports that his eighth great-grandchild was born on his 80th birthday May 12.

Engagements

Scott E. Boosher and Jo Anne Jessen

Jessen - Boosher

Scott E. Boosher, former Charlevoix resident, will be married on June 16 in Livingston, Montana to Jo Anne Jessen.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Boosher of Phoenix, who also lived in Charlevoix, and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ewan of Livingston.

The intended bride graduated from Livingston High School in 1983 and moved to Phoenix to attend college. Her fiancé is a 1982 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is currently attending DeVry Institute of Technology in Phoenix.

He will graduate in June of 1985 with a bachelor of science degree in computer science.

The newlyweds will make their home in Phoenix.

Kenney-Kierczynski

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kenney of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Ann, to Robert James Kierczynski of Traverse City. He is the son of Mrs. Jennie Kierczynski and Louis Kierczynski of Gaylord.

The bride-elect is a 1976 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 1982 graduate of Northern Michigan University with a degree in communications. She is presently owner-manager of Kim's Hallmark Corner in Traverse City.

Her fiancé is a 1984 graduate of St. Mary's High School in Gaylord and received a bachelor's degree in education and a master's degree in administration from Central Michigan University. He is employed as a fund raising director for Institutional Financial Services of Conford, California.

The wedding will take place August 11 in St. Mary's church in Charlevoix.

Wildwood's gifts unique

by PEG OHLE

If you're looking for a gift for a politically, socially, or environmentally oriented gentleman who just happens to be a holder, ash trays, bells, flower pots, hour glasses, scales, mirrors, just what you are even a milk can, crafted from the popular decorative metal.

A shiny brass, well-formed elephant of a respectable size with trunk upfitted, ready to trumpet the good political word. Price, $73.75.

Or, if your pocketbook will permit and your friend is a really big Republican, perhaps a larger size elephant will suit your fancy. Price, about $300.

The elephants are "samples of the many more." There is a special gift section just for men showing toiletries, shaving mugs, shoe shine equipment, clocks, barometers, games (dominoes, rummy, backgammon, mah-jongg), and even an old barber's chair which may be for sale.

Wildwood Innovations is located on Park Avenue just around the corner from Bridge Street. Loretta Towles runs the shop for the owners, Bob and Linda Hoffman of St. Louis, Missouri. The shop is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Students receive new flags

Dear Mr. Davis,
Our United States flag is tattered, faded, battered, and torn to shreds. If it isn't too much, we would be honored to have a flag that has flown over the United States Capitol building. I am sure you will because you are such a great representative.

Whether letters to your representatives in Congress and the House of Representatives were ever read, wonder no longer. 5th grade students at Charlevoix Elementary School will tell you that letters are "read and answered". In response to some 62 letters from the fifth graders, their teachers report that two flags have been presented to the school: a new United States flag and a State flag. The flags have been flown over the Falting of Charlevoix have participated in Global Shield 84, an exercise involving U.S. Air Force, Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Navy and Marine Corps units, and elements of the Canadian forces.

The exercise, coordinated by the Air Force Strategic Air Command (SAC), was designed to enhance readiness and the ability of SAC to carry out orders should deterrence fail.

Brown is a base electrical engineer with the 22nd Civil Engineering Squadron at March Air Force Base, Calif. and a 1981 graduate of the University of Texas, Austin. His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Frank and Ruth Boyd of Charlevoix.

Falting is a vehicle operations supervisor with the 379th Bombardment Wing at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich. and a 1972 graduate of Charlevoix High School. His wife, Deanna, is the daughter of Virgil and M. Porritt of Oscoda.

Navy Fireman Apprentice BRAD A. MAYHEW, son of Jane Mayhew of East Jordan, was graduated from Basic Hull Maintenance Technician School.

During the 8-week course at the Naval Training Center, Treasure Island, Calif., students received instruction on the basics of welding, pipefitting and metal smithing. They studied the procedures used to fabricate, install and repair all types of shipboard structures, plumbing and piping systems.

ANITA C. KANE attended commencement ceremonies at Ferris State College in Big Rapids on Saturday, May 19 at which she received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration majoring in Administrative Supervision and Management.

Ms. Kane has attended North Central Michigan College, Lake Superior State College, Northwestern Michigan College and Ferris State College in the evenings for the past eight years to acquire sufficient credit hours to receive her degree from Ferris.

Ms. Kane lives in Eastport with her children: Kenneth, Kristen, Kathleen and Kimberly. She has been employed by Dr. Harry Custer in Charlevoix for the past ten years in the capacity of office manager.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, above, is one of four representatives of the Michigan Sheriff's Association who has been named to represent the state in the recently established National Victim-Witness of Crimes Program Task Force.

The task force has been established through the National Sheriff's Association to carry out the program initiated by President Reagan as one of his priorities in the criminal justice system in the area of victims and witnesses of crimes in the United States. Forty-eight of the 50 states have sheriff's associations. The exceptions are Hawaii and Alaska.

The National Sheriff's Association has been awarded a grant to establish the task force for the purpose of implementing the many recommendations which will result in more and improved services and programs responsive to victims and witnesses of crimes in this country Sheriff Lasater explained.

Sheriff Lasater, who will be seeking his third term as sheriff of the county in the upcoming election, has served on the Legislative Committee of the Michigan Sheriff's Association.

The Army Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Booms, a photographer, is a 1982 graduate of Lake City High School.

Starline Corp. names new execs

A new executive team is at the helm of the Star Line Corporation, the operator of a nationwide fleet of cruise ships originating three years ago in Charlevoix with the Bay Queen, now the Star of Charlevoix.

Heading up the new team are Carl A. Bruggemeier, formerly with the Brennan Family of Restaurants in New Orleans and Houston; and Jerry A. McVety, a 15-year veteran of the hospitality and foodservice industry.

Bruggemeier has been appointed chief operating officer of Star Line and will be responsible for all restaurants and foodservice activities. McVety will be the new chief executive officer.

Star Line owns and operates cruise dining ships along the East Coast and in Detroit, and the company is gearing up to extend operations into all major ports and waterways in the United States.

The designer of the five new ships is Knud Hansen of Copenhagen, a leading designer of passenger ships. Among his more famous designs is the Pacific Princess, the world's largest passenger ship.

Television viewers know the Princess as "The Love Boat." All Star Line ship restaurants offer white tablecloth dining with heavy emphasis on American wines and cuisine - better known aboard the dining cruises as American "cuisine."

Each new ship has two enclosed decks topped by an observation deck with canvas covering. The enclosed decks have cooking demonstration areas where specialty chefs take turns preparing food and talking with the guests during preparations and tastings.

The new ships will have a length of 162 feet and a beam of 45 feet; they are being constructed to Coast Guard specifications at Chesapeake Ship Building, Inc., in Maryland. They will be equipped with the latest navigation equipment.

Home ports being considered for the ships to be completed this year are Savannah, Washington, D.C.; New Orleans; Baltimore and Port Lauderdale.

Expansion plans for 1985 will involve ports on the West Coast. Each ship will fly the flag of the city or state of its home port, with local or regional emphasis in decor theming.

All menus will be developed by Bruggemeier, but these, too, will reflect local tastes and specialties, where possible.

The ships will be serving lunch, dinner and Sunday brunch. Some of the ships also will have a TGIF cruise on Friday evenings, and some will offer Saturday night moonlight cruises, from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m.

This summer, the Star Line dining cruises will operate in Chicago, Detroit, Charlevoix, and Sanford, Fla. just north of Orlando. Both the Star of Charlevoix and

1984 WORLD'S FAIR

The deep south by steamboat, the Mississippi Queen.

You'll Love New Orleans!

by Meg Brown
Bayside Travel

Mark your calendars and get ready for fun — May 12th thru November 11th — are the dates of the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition, better known as the 1984 World's Fair.

The location for this $350 million extravaganza is an 82 acre site on the Mississippi River adjacent to the main New Orleans business district, and within walking distance of the city's famous French Quarter.

The best view of the entire fair and a wonderful way to orient oneself to the fair is the elevated monorail ride. The monorail slithers around the fair site, darting into and out of the giant Convention Center. Best of all, the ride is free and is one of the best deals at the fair.

The admission price to the fair is $15.00 a day, $28.00 for two days for adults. Children (4-11), seniors (55 and over) are admitted at a daily rate of $14 and $26 for two days. Parking fees on the Fair site range from $3 to $8 a day.

The Fair exhibits will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week and the entertainment goes on until 2 a.m. in the morning. And entertainment is an overall highlight of the fair. The great music you can't hear anywhere else but in New Orleans is at the Fair! Authentic jazz, Cajun, two-step, zydeco is everywhere, and most of it is free. From the Jazz and Gospel tent, to the Wonderwall midway to the 5,500-seat Amphitheatre to Reunion Hall — unforgettable toe-tapping, hand-clapping music surrounds you.

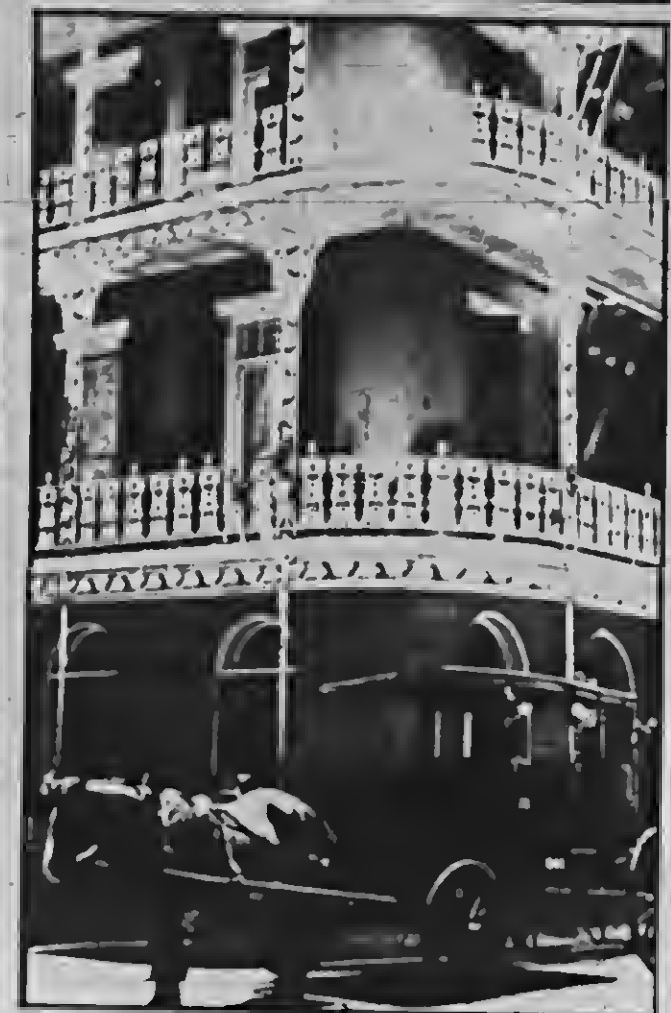

Perhaps the best thing about this World's Fair is that it is located in the city of New Orleans and the special carefree, fun spirit and culture of this city flows into the fair itself. This culture is very apparent in the best block area of the fair — Fulton Mall. The Mall is the entertainment quarter of the fair and includes, some very reasonable and exciting dining opportunities as well as great entertainment.

Although many feel the fair is not for young children, there is a wonderful water play area called Watergarden that is a great attraction for children. The so-called Kid Wash where the kids can pretend they're cars and go through the same kind of cleaning procedure as a car does in a car wash is great fun. If families must bring small children there is a wonderful, and thoughtful benefit at this fair. The Gerber Child Care Center in the air conditioned Convention Center will tend the tots while parents and older children enjoy the fair.

There are some very affordable travel packages to the World's Fair, and a wonderful "steamboat" to the fair package on the Mississippi Queen that would be a travel memory forever.

Check with your travel agent, dress comfortably and cool — and enjoy the 1984 World's Fair!!

Wrapping It Up

by ANNE KELLY

Even as the lilacs begin to bloom, dog-eared notebooks and car pools die a natural death. It's time. Enough is enough. The school year can go ahead and wrap itself up. Graduation? Come forward and receive your diploma!

The spring play has been played. The spring concert has been sprung. The spring fling has been flung at the prom. We have perished through the exam-crams, the report card perspiration, the signing of yearbooks, and pictures and plaster casts. It had to be. The rituals of the Cleaning-Out-Of-The-Locker and Clearing-With-The-Desk have already taken place along with The Emptying-Out-Of-Pockets--Of-Pencils-And-Peanies--And-Chewed-Gum.

There have been all the prescribed class trips and class picnics, and class pictures. There have been book fairs, carnivals and banquets; mother-daughter, father-son, awards. Piano recitals, violin, recitals, dance and gymnastics regalia. The litany, pray for us, of bleachers, sweatsocks, bobby socks, and basketballs is finally by-gone.

Here's to the parents who have pushed, prodded and praised. We're pooped.

A Mere Glimpsé

by ANNE KELLY

The house we live in on Nettleton St in Charlevoix is known as "The Foster Home" to the last generation. The Fosters lived here and raised five children, much as we're doing now — piles of laundry, doubled-up sleeping conditions and a lot of action in and out of the house.

Last summer, one of the foster "boys", Jack, who is now a distinguished and very pleasant gentleman living in California, paid us a visit. He wanted to show his daughter his family's home. They went from room to room, Jack reminding us of his daughter's bits of nostalgia.

"This was my room... here's where we boys slept in the summer so my parents could rent out rooms... this is where the big ash tree stood."

I could tell that it really meant a lot to both of them, this memory trip.

Whenever I dream childhood dreams, the setting is my own family home, where I lived until I was ten years old. It was a three-story house, probably constructed about the same time, and in the same vein as those on the east side of Michigan Ave., perhaps a bit smaller. It is located fourteen miles out on the West Side of Cleveland, which was at that time, a semi-rural area. My parents rented from Harry Hoag, a truck farmer who dabbled in fruits and vegetables and also rented out a few homes on Hawkins Rd. Ours was one of the four homes on the street, a dead end, side-walk and lined with sprawling maple trees, which in themselves hold memories.

I remember every nook and cranny in the Hawkins Rd. house, from the coal bin and fruit cellar to the rafters in the attic where my brothers hung Indian corn and made their room.

I remember piano lessons in the sunroom, Christmases in the living room with stockings hung from hooks under the mantel, and family productions staged on the landing leading to the upstairs, which served as a stage.

I can see myself dust-mopping under the bed in my parents' blue room, and playing in the walk-in toy closet in my green room with yellow curtains.

Downstairs, a heavy oak door led from the dining room to the kitchen. It was fun clearing the table, relay-fashion, through the door, and in the kitchen we ate breakfast in breakfast nook from the window seat in the dining room, we could watch the poplar tree in the backyard drop those fuzzy things all over the lawn. We had a rock garden and a real garden and a garage that closed by putting metal dowels on the bottom of the doors, down into the eanthen floor.

The shades were drawn upstairs and down, when we drove. See Glimpse page 7.

The "Masks" Show

Works range from actual masks to those that play on the wearing of masks in everyday life in an exhibit to open June 4 at the McCune Arts Center, Mitchell at Division Street, Petoskey.

The display, titled "Masks: Myth and Fantasy" is a traveling show from Central Michigan University, and will run through the month of June. It contains 20 items by 61 artists from throughout the U.S. — 41 are from Michigan. Media include ceramics, marble, metal smithing, paintings, photographs, prints and mixed media.

While the majority of entries in this show focused on the idea of a mask, the jurors for the show said that the successful ones took it beyond a literal interpretation. "They explored different ramifications of what the mask might mean."

Winners of the show were a watercolor collage titled "When I Didn't Get the Job," by Kitty Green of Minneapolis, MINN.,

"Mask: Bluff," a bronze piece by a Billings, Montana artist and two small ceramic masks by Mary Croci of Detroit.

The "Masks" Show will be on display Mondays through Saturdays from 10 till 5 throughout the month of June at the Center. Visitors can also browse through the Art Tree Gallery Shop, where the works of outstanding local and Michigan artists are on sale. There is no admission charge at the Center.

up the drive way." 2084 Hawkins Rd." I can still remember my mother giving out that address to department store delivery services downtown, probably Hale's or The May Co.

I hadn't called ahead, because I had learned that the lady who lived there now, was growing deaf. She had always been peculiar. "She" was Mary, the landlord's daughter who had married and wanted our house. She was the reason we moved.

I had the family, not all of whom were as anxious as I was to revisit the past, wait in the car. I walked up the front sidewalk and onto the porch. For a moment, I was seven years old, skipping down the sidewalk, munching on a bowl of after school potato chips. The Bures' bungalow next door, still looked the same. With cherry wood furniture and needlepoint chairs.

I rang the bell for an eternally no one answered and I was flooded with disappointment. Maybe I should have risked rejection and called to announce this visit. Then, a rather defensive looking man, Mary's husband, I suppose, opened the door about ten inches. I let my eyes periscope around the crack and into the slice of the front room I was reluctantly granted.

"Hi," I began helplessly. My name is Anne Kelly, but when I grew up here I was Anne Webster. My Mom and Dad were Don and Ellen Webster. Still no reaction.

"I'd kind of like to show my husband and kids where I grew up. Would that be all right?"

I could tell immediately that it would not be all right. The ten inches of open door was slowly being reduced to eight, then seven and along with it my chances of sharing my youth with the family.

"Is Mary at home?" I persisted desperately. Mary was apparently not only deaf and peculiar, but infirm as well. She had a cold, the man reported, and really couldn't see me.

Mary! She had squelched the romantic in me. She had pulled down the shades over my enthusiasm. When the door closed, I was relieved that at least I knew that they had never painted the woodwork.

Perhaps it was better in the long run to have been denied. "Brideshead Revisited." It all would have, no doubt, seemed smaller and less significant than it lives in my memory. Maybe the walls would be peeling and pock-marked. Maybe Mary and her husband were terrible decorators or never cleaned at all. Maybe I would have been angry at them both for letting the place go to seed.

Someday there may be a new tenant in that house. And if there is, I will probably pilgrimage one more time, for one more glimpse of the "Webster Home" on Hawkins Rd.

GRADUATING SENIORS shift their tassels after receiving their diplomas during ceremonies Sunday.

127 seniors graduate Sunday

By FRAN MARTIN

Graduation means much if not more to your family than it does to you, Dr. Sherrel Bergmann, a 1965 graduate of the Charlevoix High School and presently professor on the Graduate Faculty at the National College of Education in Evanston, Ill., told the 127 Charlevoix High School graduates Sunday.

"For that reason and the strength of those memories I have chosen to focus on both the graduates and their families in the framework of a familiar children's story, the story of a little girl named Dorothy, and her dog, Toto, from the 'Wizard of Oz,' she said.

In her address which she entitled "Commencing To and From the Land of Oz," she related how Dorothy, as she was swept away from her Auntie Em's farm in Kansas and landed in a strange land, learned what it meant to want and to have a heart, brains and courage. She also learned of the magic she could find in her hometown.

After accepting the invitation to return to Charlevoix for commencement, Dr. Bergmann sent questionnaires, bearing four questions to the graduates. The answers she received assured her, she said, that the members of the class of 1984 did, indeed, have heart, brains and courage. In her address, she expressed the personal thoughts and feelings of the students toward their mothers, fathers, teachers and the citizens of Charlevoix. She read many of their comments which proved they had hearts.

The fact that they were graduating, were making decisions regarding their futures and were already taking on responsibilities as adults proved they had brains, she added.

The fact that they had the courage to answer the questions she had asked and express themselves so eloquently to their parents, teachers and community showed they had courage.

But, she asked, "Do you have the courage to leave the security of your home and community and venture into a totally new environment? To know what you believe in and state it publicly? To be a lifelong learner? To truly love at least one other human being?"

She concluded by saying that, like Dorothy in the Wizard of Oz, you must leave this secure beautiful town, even for just a summer, if you want to appreciate the true magic of your home. Along the way you will meet many people and experience many events that will help you further develop your brains, your heart and your courage. The scarecrows, tinmen and cowardly lions of the world await you."

County office petitions filed

By FRAN MARTIN

CHARLEVOIX — Two races have developed at the county level just hours before the candidate filing deadline for the Aug. 7 primary.

Charlevoix County Clerk Jane E. Brannon of Charlevoix will be opposed by John D. Kujawa of Boyne City, former county commissioner and currently a member of the Charlevoix County Road Commission. Both are candidates on the Republican ballot.

For the register of deeds position, Charlene M. Gaskin of Charlevoix and Eugene F. Beer of Charlevoix both have filed on the Republican ticket. Mrs. Gaskin recently was appointed to the post.

Others who have filed nominating petitions and are unopposed include: incumbents Anah H. Potter, treasurer; Mary C. Fendt, surveyor; Clayton Haeley, drain commissioner; Kraag C. Lieberman, prosecutor; and George T. Lasater, sheriff. All are candidates on the Republican ballot.

Democrat Paul V. LaFrenier also has filed for the sheriff's position and will face Lasater in the general election.

Five of the six incumbent county commissioners, Larry D. Matthew of Sallio Lake, District 1; Lee Moorland of Charlevoix, District 6; Ralph D. Harmon of Boyne Falls, District 2; Oral E. Sulliff of Boyne City, District 3; and Donald R. Smith of Charlevoix Township, District 5, have filed petitions. Thomas Breakey of East Jordan, District 4, has indicated he will be filing petitions.

Rudolph L. Florinski has filed as a Democratic candidate in District 3. He will challenge Sulliff in the November general election.

Other petitions have been taken out, but the clerk's office was not advised who the candidates will be.

Rae Lumber Co., in Pellston, eventually acquiring the company.

Mrs. McRae taught kindergarten in Charlevoix for 37 years before her retirement. She died in December.

McRae sold the lumber company in 1971 and became a general contractor, building more than 100 homes in Northern Michigan.

In the early 1970s he served on the Charlevoix City Council and was instrumental in two major projects, establishing a charter commission and the construction of Pine River Place, a senior citizen housing project.

After McRae left the council, he served as chairman of the city housing commission.

For council, the only incumbent to file a petition at press time was Ray Wood in First Ward.

Incumbent Third Ward Council member Shirley Holoff has taken out petitions as has challenger Paul Burlew.

In the Second Ward, William Russell has taken out a petition. Incumbent James Block has said he will not seek re-election.

Hearing set on Hemingway Point marina

by PEG OHLE

Area residents and others interested in the future of Lake Charlevoix will have a second chance to voice their views on the proposed marina off Hemingway Point on the south shore of the lake in Eveline Township.

The State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is sponsoring a meeting on the matter next Wednesday evening, June 13, in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

The first meeting was held February 15 in the Eveline Township Hall.

School board candidates discuss the issues

Two incumbents and two challengers will be on the ballot for the annual school election Monday, June 11.

Incumbents Kenneth Boss and Steven G. Smith are being challenged by Ronald Moore and James R. Tilton for the two four-year terms.

Boss, 46, of 203 Alice St., Charlevoix, has served 10 years on the board of education. He presently is secretary of the board.

A Charlevoix native, Boss is vice president of marketing for Puffs Home Centre in Petoskey. He and his wife Myrna have three children, the youngest of whom attends Charlevoix schools. Boss is a member of the Community Reformed Church.

Smith, 35, of Quarterline Road, Charlevoix, is vice president of C.H. Smith Construction Co. Inc., where he is a civil and structural engineer. He is seeking his second term on the board.

A Charlevoix native, Smith and his wife, Mary Lou, have two children. One is a scholar.

Moore, 41, of 430 Carson Ave., Charlevoix, has been a resident of the Charlevoix school district since 1970. He is a school psychologist with the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and has never been a candidate for public office before.

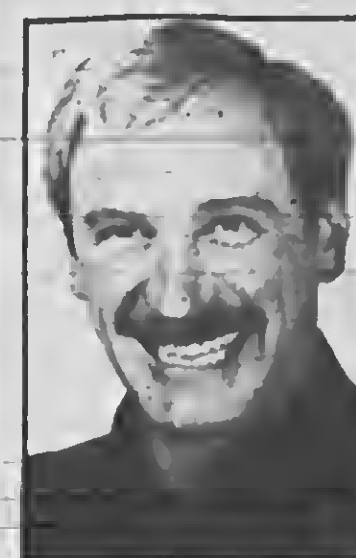

He and his wife, Linda, a reading teacher at St. Mary's School in Charlevoix, have two children. Both attend Charlevoix schools.

Moore has been very involved with the Chip Counseling Center and served as board chairman for several years. He has been a deacon and presently is moderator and chairman of the First Congregational Church Council. He also has been an adult sponsor of the church youth group.

He has been commanding officer and worked with the sheriff's posse for six years and has coached Little League teams. He has served on the board of directors of both the Petoskey and Charlevoix Jaycees and the Michigan Association of School Psychologists. He has been an instructor at North Central Michigan College and has been an associate member of the American Psychological Association. He also assists the county Office of Emergency Preparedness during nuclear disaster drills as public information officer and works with the Emmet County Child Abuse and Neglect Treatment Team.

He was a 1981 recipient of the Liberty Bell Award from the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association and has worked for Operation Petunia.

Tilton, 34, of 206 Prospect, Charlevoix, has lived in the community for nearly two years. He is an electrical engineer employed by Consumers Power Co. and has never held public office before.

He and his wife, Linda, have two children who attend Charlevoix schools.

He is presently involved in Little League.

The following are responses made by the candidates to a questionnaire prepared by the Charlevoix Courier. The responses will be printed in rotating alphabetical order for each question.

Why are you running for the board of education?

BOSS: To continue to promote the best education for our youth in the Charlevoix area. The unity of the present board has been a great factor in a smooth running school system in Charlevoix. I trust we can continue to improve.

MOORE: I feel that it is important for the voters to have several good candidates to choose from. I believe strongly in public service and have the time, interest and ability to be a good board member. I feel that I can be of service to our children and assure that they continue to get a top quality education with my training and expertise in psychology, education, special education, administration, and curriculum. I know something about children and how they learn and feel that our children's education should be the top priority of the board of education.

SMITH: It is my way of helping. It is a way for me to become involved in something I am very interested in.

TILTON: I'm running to ensure that the existing system is maintained and to have board members who are looking for ways to improve that system.

What do you see as the major concerns facing the board?
MOORE: Major concerns facing our board of education include property tax relief, yet continuing to provide a top quality educational program. Also the proposed swimming pool is a concern. (I favor it, but feel the proposal must be put before the voters) and the many changes and recommendations proposed by the National Commission on Excellence in Education such as merit pay for teachers, graduation requirements, teacher training and certification, longer school days, longer school year and others. Lastly, declining enrollment is a concern, along with declining state and federal aid to supplement local tax dollars.

SMITH: Declining enrollment, contract negotiations, financial decisions and curriculum.

TILTON: The major concern facing any school board is the receiving and distribution of funds. The school board is responsible for maximizing the use of these funds for the development of a program that will ensure an atmosphere for students that should include, but not be limited to, social interaction, athletic involvement and extra curricular activities.

BOSS: Declining enrollment is our most pressing issue. We have and are constantly evaluating our building use, curriculum offerings and moving our staff from the different buildings to fit the needs for best instruction. As enrollment has changed in the different grades this has become a must.

How do you assess the educational system in the United States in general right now?
SMITH: Very positive. Teachers teach and children learn, yet every area has its own social and economic concerns.

TILTON: In general, I feel the educational system as a whole is improving. The curriculum offerings available to the students of today will help to ensure their readiness for higher education.

BOSS: That's a tough question. In our area I feel as though we do an outstanding job. There definitely are areas in the United States where the job being done is not good. I'm sure there is some validity to the reports which have been made about education, but I am thankful that we are not getting those reports out of this area.

MOORE: Assessing the educational system of the United States is quite a task. Textbooks are written on this topic and I am much more concerned with our school and our children. Nationally, a lot is happening in education — computers, declining federal financing, back to basics, increased emphasis on math and science instruction, declining SAT test scores and so on. The Commission on Excellence in Education was brought many important issues to light that must be dealt with, but overall, the priority given education nationally and the United States high literacy rate indicate that we are on the right track.

Ginny Woods bids adieu

by ANNE KELLY

When the last day of school dawned for personnel at Charlevoix Middle School, they will be saying good-bye to more than a school year. Students, administrators, teachers and fellow-non-instructional personnel will be wishing Ginny Woods, Middle School secretary, well on her upcoming retirement.

Ginny Woods

receptionist at the helm. Children's Clinic—in Traverse City.

"I'm really going to miss the staff," she reflected. "We've really got a super staff and (she added as it she didn't need to) I'm really going to miss the kids."

Ginny and her husband, Wayne, plan to travel around the country in a motor home before they decide where they'd like to spend their winters. But summers?

"I can't think of a better place to spend the summer than in Charlevoix."

While Ginny is contemplating travel, relaxation, and enjoying the Woods family on a more leisurely basis, Middle School colleagues can't imagine a September starting without Ginny

Principal Dave Smith feels that Ginny was "a very positive force and a big help" which made his adjustment easier when he came to the Middle School as principal. "Other than that she's just a conscientious, efficient, competent secretary who's also excellent at handling people."

"We're going to miss her," added Hank Wagner, coach and teacher there. "She keeps track of little things; she keeps track of me! As coach, I have a lot of organizing or refereeing for games, bus schedules, checks—she keeps track of it all. When she's in the office, she's in charge—it's her domain." He thought for a minute and continued, "She's kind of like a mother. They'll replace her, I guess... but they really can't."

Ilal Evans, a teacher who has worked with Ginny for many years, put it simply. "She has always kept things together; she's the lady in charge; she's always a lady, in the best sense of the word."

'Create a Fish' challenges students

by ANNE KELLY

To preface an 8th grade science lesson in ecology, concluding the studies for the year, Mrs. Anne Shindorf decided that her students needed an end-of-the-year lift. An old beat assignment called "Create a Fish" was the result of her ponderings about "how to motivate a room full of kids with spring fever."

With some scientific data as an introduction to the lesson, covering classifications, characteristics, feeding and survival habits, the fun began.

Students were instructed to: CREATE A FISH THAT CAN: vacuum food from the bottom, eat something bigger than it is, hide on the bottom, slip through small openings, hide in seaweed or perhaps, be seen through. On the other hand they might CREATE A FISH THAT: shouldn't be stepped on, doesn't look like a fish, blows up like a balloon when afraid, must swim against strong currents, can live among rocks and reefs, or can fly or crawl.

Materials suggested for the project were anything from clay and toothpicks to egg cartons and paper clips. With these directives, coupled with the vivid imagination of youth, the projects began.

Today, the science room is overtaken by strange creatures. They

CMU-degree information available

Students interested in Central Michigan University's extended degree programs may obtain information at a meeting June 9 in Traverse City. The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will last about one and one-half hours. The orientation session will be held in room 402 of Building F at the Traverse City

High School. Miliken Dr. CMU offers two external degree programs in the Traverse City area for adults who wish to complete a college education while continuing personal or professional responsibilities. The program is designed to acomodate working adults. Bachelor of science degrees in management and supervision, and in community development, are offered through CMU's Institute for Personal and Career Development. Both degree programs allow students to complete most, if not all, their course work through independent study. For more information, write Individualized Degree Program, 125 Rowe Hall, Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, MI 49859, or phone (517) 774-3865, ext. 257.

McSaubia trail system blooming

by ANNE KELLY

Before white settlers came to Charlevoix, Mt. McSaubia was known to early native American Indians as 'Been-kom-a-gog,' which means, 'A clean place.'

And that's just what promoters of an ecologically preserved Mt. McSaubia area would like to have today: a clean place with all the wild flowers, trees, beach and wildlife left undisturbed for everyone to see and enjoy.

Instrumental in the wildlife preserve project at McSaubia is Jan Glass, who became involved when she expressed concern for endangered plant species during the construction of the nature trails last summer.

If the trails are not upgraded, more will get ruined by traffic," fears Mrs. Glass. "We want kids — everyone really — to be aware of what's out there."

Moore, Boss elected to School Board, indoor pool concept opposed

With approximately 18 percent of the voters in the Charlevoix School District going to the polls in Monday's school election, Ron Moore of the Char-Em Intermediate School District staff, and Steven G. Smith who was seeking his second term as a member of the Charlevoix Board of Education. Moore polled 409 votes to Smith's 320.

Kenneth J. Boss, a 10 year veteran of the board, was re-elected with a total of 543 votes. The fourth candidate, James Tilton, received 203 votes.

The organizational meeting of the board of education is scheduled for July 2. Moore will join the board at that time.

In a straw vote taken in conjunction with the election, school district voters indicated strong opposition to involvement by the school district with a proposed indoor community swimming pool. The results of the voting were as follows:

Question Number J: Would you support a two mill tax levy for two years to underwrite the construction of an indoor swimming pool? Yes: 226. No: 425.

Number 2: Would you support .33 or .4 mill for three years to underwrite the cost of operation of above pool? Yes: 269. No: 466.

Number 3: Should the Charlevoix School District own and operate a community swimming pool? Yes: 226. No: 425.

All city offices to be contested

The deadline for filing nominating petitions for offices in the City of Charlevoix resulted in contests for all positions.

All are candidates on a non-partisan ballot and, with only two candidates for each position, the ballot will not appear until the November General Election.

Hal M. Hill and Ralph McRae will be opposing each other for the office of mayor being vacated by Kenneth A. Staley, a candidate for State Representative for the 103rd District.

In the wards, incumbent Raymond V. Wood is being challenged by a former alderman from the ward, Jeffrey L. Porter; William L.

Bellos and William E. Russell are candidates for the post being vacated by James Block who is not a candidate for re-election and incumbent Shirley J. Roloff has opposition from Paul O. Burlew.

Only three races at county level

Three contests for county offices in the August 7 Primary election developed as the deadline for filing nominating petitions passed recently. One contest also developed for District 1 Commissioner.

On the county level, County Clerk incumbent Jane E. Brannon is being challenged by John D. Kulawski of Boyne City; Charlene M. Gaskin, who was named recently to fill an unexpired term as Registered Deeds will be opposed by Eugene F. Boer of Charlevoix and incumbent George T. Lasater will be opposed by Brock D. Dagner of Charlevoix for the office of Sheriff. All are candidates on the Republican ticket.

In the November General Election, the successful Republican candidate for Sheriff will be opposed by Paul V. LaFreniere, Democrat.

Other incumbents who are unopposed are: Kraag C. Lieberman who will be seeking election to his first term as County Prosecutor after being appointed to the post earlier this year; Anah H. Potter, Treasurer; Mary C. Feindt, Surveyor; and Clayton Healey, Drain Commissioner. All are candidates on the Republican ballot.

The only contest for District Commissioner in the Primary Election will be between Larry D.

Matthew, incumbent, and Bob (Robert L.) Wise of Charlevoix City. Commissioner of District I which includes Hayes, Bay, Evangeline, and Melrose Townships. Both are candidates on the Republican ballot.

In the General Election in November, incumbents Ralph E. Harmon, Democrat, will have opposition from Karl Waldner on the Republican ticket in District II and Oral E. Sulliff, Republican, will be challenged by Rudolph L. Florenski, Democrat, in District III. District II includes Chandler, Hudson, Boyne Valley and Wilson Townships and that section of Eveline Township east of Peninsula Road. District III encompasses the City of Boyne City. Other Commissioners, all Republican, who are unopposed are: Thomas Braskey, District IV (South Arm Township and the City of East Jordan); Donald R. Smith, District V (Marion, Norwood, Charlevoix, St. James, Peaine Townships and that section of Eveline Township west of Peninsula Rd.); L. Lee Moreland, District VI (City of Charlevoix).

Deadline for registering to vote in the August 7 Primary Election is 3 p.m. July 9. A prospective voter registers at the city or township clerk where he or she resides.

Michigan Amateur set to tee off next week

Once again the best amateur golfers in the state will converge on Charlevoix next week for the 72nd annual Michigan Amateur Championship tournament.

For the 21st straight year, the Belvedere Golf Club on Marion Center Road will host the tournament which is expected to attract about 300 entrants. Following practice rounds on Sunday and Monday, June 17 and 18, qualifying rounds of medal play will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at both the Belvedere course and at the Antrim Dells course near Atwood.

Match play will be held Thursday and Friday with the finals set for Saturday. Spectators are welcome during all rounds at no cost.

Defending champion of the Michigan Am is John Johnson of Rochester, who defeated George Catto of Hickory Hills in last year's finals. Just winding up its tournament at Belvedere and Antrim Dells this week is the Michigan Dental Association. Over 160 golfers participated in the event which concluded Tuesday.

No damage to fish, say marina developers

by DAVE KNIGHT

Environmental consultants hired by the developers of a proposed 72-slip marina on Lake Charlevoix at the Hemingway Pointe Club condominium project claim that a revised plan for the project poses no threat to fish spawning habitat in the lake, makes minimal use of lake surface area and is the soundest means of accommodating boats for club members.

Dr. James Ludwig, of Ecological Research Services in Boyne City, said last week that an extensive study of the area proposed for the marina revealed poor spawning habitat and that the construction of the project should have "no effect at all" on the populations of smallmouth and rock bass in the lake.

Ludwig was responding to charges by area sportsmen that the proposed marina would eliminate prime habitat and spawning territory for bass. In a letter sent to several state legislators and officials May 12, the Charlevoix Rod & Gun also voiced concern that by "destroying" prime spawning grounds, future plants of game fish in the lake may be discouraged.

David Hand, president of the club, told members at their meeting Thursday that few responses to the letter were received and those that were were basically non-committal.

It was largely opposition by area sports fishermen that prompted a public meeting to be held by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) at 7 p.m. this Wednesday, June 13 in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium. The purpose of the informational meeting, according to the DNR, is to allow the developers of the project to explain it and answer questions and to give members of the general public an opportunity to express their opinions.

The first hearing on the Eveline Township project was held February 15 but attracted little attention. Following that hearing, approval was granted for the project by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, but the necessary approval from the DNR was held up when staff in the fish division voiced concern over the project's impact on the lake's sport fishery.

Since the February 15 hearing, the developers of the project, Birchwood Farms Construction Co. of Harbor Springs, have revised the design for the marina. Originally proposed to extend up to 415 feet into the lake, the rock breakwall in a "mitigated" plan has been moved 190 feet closer to the existing shoreline on one end and 180 feet closer on the other.

This is the marina design already approved by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The "mitigated" plan shows the marina positioned farther inland than the original proposal.

The first Scouts of Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11, to receive the Leonard "Pete" Burns Scout of the Year Award recently presented the memorial plaque to David J. Smith, right, principal of the Charlevoix Middle School where they will be displayed in the school's library.

The Leonard "Pete" Burns Scout of the Year Award was established in 1982 following the death of Mr. Burns who had been affiliated with scouting for many years. The plaque being held by James Smith, 1983 recipient of the award, (second from left), bears a picture of Mr. Burns, 1967-1982, and the following legend:

"Pete Burns was a lone Scout as a boy when he was growing up in Hayes Township north of Charlevoix."

He was registered as an adult in Scouting from 1948 until 1970. During those 22 years he served as Cubmaster, Scoutmaster, Council Commissioner, and Troop Committeeman. In 1966, Pete received the Silver Beaver Award. It is the highest award given by a Boy Scout Council.

Mr. Burns taught the seventh grade and coached in the Charlevoix Public Schools from 1947 until 1970.

Robert Norman, 1984 recipient, (far left), holds the plaque on which the names of those Scouts being awarded the "Scout of the Year" honor will be recorded.

The Scout of the Year Award is presented annually to the Scout who best represents the qualities of scouting.

City Band sets first rehearsal

The first rehearsal of the Charlevoix City Band will be held at the Charlevoix High School band room at 7 p.m. Monday, June 18, Terry Isenbarger, band director, has announced.

The Charlevoix City Band is a community band made up of musicians from Charlevoix and the surrounding area, Isenbarger explained. Membership in the band is open to anyone who plays a band instrument.

Rehearsals in preparation for weekly concerts are held at 7 p.m. Monday nights at the high school band room.

The band presents concerts in East Park in downtown Charlevoix on Wednesday night during the month of July.

Anyone who is interested in playing with the band is encouraged to attend the first rehearsal on June 18. For further information concerning the band and its activities, contact the director, Isenbarger, at the high school band room (547-2324) or at his home (533-8382).

Typical of the photography of the 1920's is this picture of two local children, taken by the Priest Photography Studio of Charlevoix. They are the late Lawrence Korth and his sister, Lucia Korth McIsling, now of Portage. According to the Korth grand daughter, Donna Korth Gibson, the Korth farm was located southwest of town near the present site of Wain Electric.

Boyne Valley also protests assessed valuation

by PEG OHLE

Boyne Valley last week became the second township to file with the Michigan Tax Tribunal a "Petition for Review of Action of Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners in Equalizing the Valuation of the Several Townships and Cities of Charlevoix County, Michigan, for 1984".

Last Month, Peaine Township filed a similar petition with the Tax Tribunal.

The Kalamazoo law firm of Baughman, Reed, Lang, Schaefer & Travis, which filed the petition for Peaine Township, is also representing Boyne Valley Township and uses the same phraseology in both petitions.

Boyne Valley Township objects to the changes made by the County Board of Commissioners to the figures approved by the Boyne Valley Township Board of Review, as follows:

Lowered the assessed value on residential classification from $10,718,000 to $10,444,824, for a multiplication factor of 1.1334; raised the assessed value on commercial classification from $5,055,091 to $5,248,900, for a multiplication factor of 1.0485; raised the assessed value on industrial classification from $384,100 to $399,097, for a multiplication factor of 1.0390. No change was made in the agricultural classification, which stands at an assessed value of $1,274,050, for a multiplication factor of 1.0000.

The fact that the assessed value of the residential classification was lowered by the County Board of Commissioners makes no difference, according to Joe Tymoc, Township Supervisor. He says the people he has talked to are in favor of taking it to the Tribunal, even those in the residential classification.

There are 1,039 separate parcels of property in Boyne Valley Township, 56 of which are exempt from taxation. Of the remaining number, residential is by far the largest classification, with 732 parcels, and, as noted above, the highest assessed value.

In addition, there are 63 agricultural parcels, 76 commercial parcels, nine industrial parcels, and 43 timber-crover parcels.

Boyne Valley Township calls the equalization by Charlevoix County "unfair, unjust, inequitable, and discriminatory" for many reasons, including "inadequate, incomplete and misstated studies of the assessing unit of Charlevoix County for 1984".

In equalizing tax values in Boyne Valley Township with those in other taxing units of the County, the County Board of Commissioners deducted $27,176 from the Township Board of Review's assessed value on residential classification; added $193,809 to their assessed value on commercial classification; and added $29,948 to their assessed value on timber-crover.

This works out to a decrease in total assessed value in the Township of $41,422, a different kind of basis for appeal, according to a County spokesman, who added that it will be up to Boyne Valley Township to show "they were discriminated against, that they were not treated like other units in the County. What we did was roll back their residential classification value to keep it equitable with the rest of the County."

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is in the process of hiring an attorney knowledgeable in assessing and equalization to represent the County in the two Township Tax Tribunal hearings.

Coincidentally, a hearing referee for the Tax Tribunal was in Charlevoix last week to hear the pleas of 28 property owners objecting to their last year's assessments. Ten of the property owners were from Boyne Valley Township.

SANITARY SEWER EXTENSION from the Charlevoix Waste Water Treatment Plant to a special assessment district, formed earlier this year in Charlevoix Township's south side is slated to begin soon following a recent bond sale to provide the necessary funds. The First State Bank of Charlevoix purchased the $600,000 bonds and bank president Lou Hollo, left, is shown presenting the proceeds to township officials from left, Treasurer Rose Bergmann, Clerk Linda Parath and Supervisor Oscar Stroud.

Also on hand were District Health Department sanitarian Larry Levegood and John Campbell, right, of Site Planning Development, Inc. Campbell, who coordinated the effort to form the district, said preliminary engineering for the project is almost complete. Bids will be let next month, he said, with completion of the new sewer lines possible by this November. To be served will be about 40 homes in the township as well as commercial and industrial customers.

Second Business Mixer is this Thursday

The Charlevoix County State Bank and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will host a "Business Mixer" at the Grey Gables Inn from 5 to 7 p.m. on Thursday, June 14.

What is it that can destroy 10,000 brain cells by drinking just one ounce? What lowers inhibitions, causes liver damage, is addictive and accounts for over 25,000 traffic deaths annually? What is it that causes 125,000 physical injuries from automobile accidents annually? What is it that costs more than $3 billion dollars worth of tragedy per year? What is socially acceptable and energetically advertised as a good thing? ALCOHOL!!

We eagerly defend the rights of people to make their own choices when it comes to living. We become angry when someone speaks out against our habits. But do we ever stop to realize what we are doing to ourselves and others by robbing ourselves of reason through the consumption of alcohol? I doubt it! Get angry if you will, but here is a passage of scripture that points out the seriousness of alcohol. 1 Cor. 6:10.

Two young people were involved in a tragic auto accident. A high school boy was killed and his female companion was critically injured. The parents were told that both had been drinking when the accident occurred. The girl's father flew into a rage and said, "Just let me get my hands on the guy who sold them the liquor! I'll kill him!" Going home, he went to get a drink to calm his nerves and found his bottle missing!

Knight on the Town

A reminder for all of us

by Dave Knight

The first company that I worked for in a resort area had a small line in italics printed at the top of all its payroll checks.

It read: "This is tourist money."

At that particular stage in my life — the tender years, let's say — I was not as interested in where my paycheck came from as I was in where it would eventually go. Looking back, I'm not sure I always went by the best.

But in retrospect, I now know what my employer was trying to get across.

He knew there would be times when we would forget from whence came our daily bread. It's easy to do in any situation when one is dealing with a large number of people who expect V.I.P. treatment and are not shy about voicing their expectations.

Many young people in and around Charlevoix will be stating summer jobs soon if they haven't already. Naturally it is important they realize early on that in the hospitality business courtesy and helpfulness is everything.

But it is not just the young people we must remind nor just people who work directly in the hospitality field.

The summer tourist traffic that has already started to make itself evident and which will soon be upon us in full force affects all our daily lives.

Anyone who believes that tourist dollars do not litter past the gift shops and restaurants is just plain mistaken. The fact is that while we all put up with some of the inconveniences of the influx of visitors, we all benefit, too.

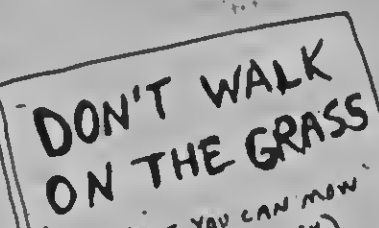

Therefore it is incumbent upon all of us to treat our summer guests with the utmost respect and courtesy.

As has been repeated here before, being a good host is not demeaning, not belittling and not really all that hard.

It can start with a simple smile.

native of Charlevoix, has a natural love of the area and wild flowers in particular. Already compiled, are several sketch books of different varieties of wild flowers on the McSaubo property.

"People don't look up and don't look down when they go for a walk. They just go. There's so much they miss."

Often, when friends look through her sketch books, they are surprised at the number and the variety of wild flowers she has discovered and drawn on the trails they have walked.

"If you draw it, you have to look at it," Mrs. Glass responded to my interest in the extreme care paid to minute detail in her drawings. She has given classes in "Drawing from the Right Side of the Brain," as well as displaying and selling her watercolors at the Art Tree.

The concept she teaches, is that of developing sensitivity to the creative as well as the analytical capabilities of the brain.

"The class is really psychology," she explained. "You learn how to see, not just look. It's a skill that can carry over to other areas of life as well."

Many others are involved in the nature trail preservation project along with Mrs. Glass.

In the spirit of making the conservation project an educational one as well, the schools either have, or will be participating, Advanced biology students, for example, under the direction of Pete Spieles, will be marking and identifying points of interest on an "interpretive loop walk" over the trails.

City Manager Bob Hunt told the council last week that you can tell how the work is progressing — even with your eyes closed. You use your nose.

THE CITY, with the help of prison labor, is doing a fine job of raking up and dead alweives, and burying them before the swimming season starts.

City Manager Bob Hunt told the council last week that you can tell how the work is progressing — even with your eyes closed. You use your nose.

At this point, however, according to Spieles, the trail is in need of much work before the interpretive loop along with the self-directive brochure, can go into effect. Steps and trail boundary reinforcements have to be constructed or improved.

The brochure, or leaflet, describing the points of interest on the trail is in the formative stages. A senior art student at the high school, Beth Jones, has designed a cover sketch, and Tom Southard, middle school librarian and director of the Program for the Academically Talented there, has written a brief historical sketch of the McSaubo heritage.

Jack Grubbs, teacher at St. Mary's school and director of the Mt. McSaubo Day Camp Program, will be using the descriptive brochure with his campers to help them identify certain flowers, plants, trees, and animal homes. It will also be an instrument for teaching hikers about poisonous or other highly endangered species of plants.

Finally, Annabelle Webb, will be offering her expertise in the area of drying, pressing and preserving wildflowers.

There are additional plans for photographing endangered wildflowers that can't be picked, and trees in the four seasons. Mrs. Glass would like to see the elementary students compile leaf collections.

"We want to do it right," she explained. "We had hoped it would be done by summer, but there is a great interest in the project on both education and conservation levels, and one thing leads to another."

She hopes that once the alweives have been taken care of and the beach grass has been planted, perhaps the Summer Youth Corps can be utilized in the work that needs being done on the trail.

"We have to make people aware of what's out there," she reiterated, "in order to appreciate what we've got."

Letters: At turning point

To the Editor:

Hayes Township may be at a crucial turning point in its management of housing developments. Area residents have an opportunity to raise issues that concern the protection of our lakes and environment.

The Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance was developed to protect area residents and the environment. The ordinance clearly states one condominium may occupy each 100 feet of lake frontage and does not provide for tunnel development. Mr. William Fox is proposing funneling many more than the 28 condominium units allowed into the former Camp Charlevoix property in Hayes Township. If this exception to the law is allowed, which development will be next?

Lake Charlevoix is already degrading at an alarming rate. Water clarity has dropped from 16.2 feet in 1977 to 13.8 feet in 1981 and last year clarity was only 10.4 feet. Massive lakeshore developments must surely effect the quality of the lake.

Development may be beneficial, but the environment must be protected. Many questions must be fully explored before allowing construction of this magnitude to begin. The Hayes Township Zoning Board will be meeting Tuesday, June 19th, at 7:30 p.m. Plan on attending.

Winifred Dickson

P.S. Please note that a special Zoning Board meeting has been called to discuss the Camp Charlevoix Development, Tuesday June 12th at 7:30 p.m.

Supports marina

To the Editor:

As a concerned sportsman who enjoys the privileges of sailing and fishing in beautiful Lake Charlevoix I am honestly surprised at the currently circulating petition asking for a denial of a construction permit for a small marina at the Hemingway Point development.

I have no financial interest whatsoever in the project, but, because I am always alerted to possible damage to fishery habitat the petition from the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club prompted me to visit the site of the proposed marina. I would strongly suggest that others do the same.

The facts that emerge to me reveal: (1) A well-defined need for the marina. (2) If it is NOT built, any and all of the 72 projected residences may legally build individual docks reaching out into the lake. (3) The plan for the 72-slip structure which will enclose a total of only 3 1/2 acres of bottom land all of which will be virtually built against the shore. (4) Dredging will be sealed off to preclude any silting. (5) The lake bottom in the area slopes very gradually offshore so that any viable lake trout trolling would be about a quarter of a mile away.

Charlevoix County is sure to grow. Change is inevitable. It is only important that the change be guided by caring hands. Bill Cottrill, developer at Hemingway Point, is a fellow sportsman and fully protective toward the natural resources of Lake Charlevoix.

Finally, but surely a fact with a great impact, the financial boost to the county assignable to Hemingway Point is especially worthy of note. Expenditures are anticipated at more than 3 million dollars a year for each of 4 years of construction. Add to this a substantial tax base for the school district and you have the promise of a considerably improved economy in the county.

After an in-depth, on-the-spot study of the project I can see no valid reason for the circulation of a petition that would in any way delay or obstruct completion of the Hemingway Point marina.

Finally, but surely a fact with a great impact, the financial boost to the county assignable to Hemingway Point is especially worthy of note. Expenditures are anticipated at more than 3 million dollars a year for each of 4 years of construction. Add to this a substantial tax base for the school district and you have the promise of a considerably improved economy in the county.

After an in-depth, on-the-spot study of the project I can see no valid reason for the circulation of a petition that would in any way delay or obstruct completion of the Hemingway Point marina.

I am honestly surprised at the currently circulating petition asking for a denial of a construction permit for a small marina at the Hemingway Point development.

I have no financial interest whatsoever in the project, but, because I am always alerted to possible damage to fishery habitat the petition from the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club prompted me to visit the site of the proposed marina. I would strongly suggest that others do the same.

The facts that emerge to me reveal: (1) A well-defined need for the marina. (2) If it is NOT built, any and all of the 72 projected residences may legally build individual docks reaching out into the lake. (3) The plan for the 72-slip structure which will enclose a total of only 3 1/2 acres of bottom land all of which will be virtually built against the shore. (4) Dredging will be sealed off to preclude any silting. (5) The lake bottom in the area slopes very gradually offshore so that any viable lake trout trolling would be about a quarter of a mile away.

Charlevoix County is sure to grow. Change is inevitable. It is only important that the change be guided by caring hands. Bill Cottrill, developer at Hemingway Point, is a fellow sportsman and fully protective toward the natural resources of Lake Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth T. Rogers

Russell-Rogers

White carnations and orchid floral arrangements graced the altar of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix for the May 26 wedding of Kay L. Russell and Kenneth T. Rogers.

The Reverend Larry Groeters performed the afternoon double-ring ceremony before 220 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cass Russell of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carolyn Brown of Central Lake and Francis Rogers of East Jordan.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of taffeta and Venice lace, with a Queen Ann neckline and long bishop sleeves. Matching lace edged the A-line skirt and attached chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil, which was made by the bridegroom's mother, was attached to a matching lace cap. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white and lavender silk roses.

All the bouquets and boutonnieres were made by Chris Wilhelm, one of the bridesmaids. Cindy Story served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda Empey, Chris Wilhelm, Bea Brown, Robin Smith, and Kelly Filkins. They wore lavender polyester knit gowns with chiffon matching jackets and carried bouquets of silk white and lavender roses.

Junior bridesmaids were Katherine and Elizabeth Campbell, wearing long lavender polyester dresses and carrying miniature bouquets.

Flower girls were Carolyn and Ann Campbell, wearing long white polyester dresses and carrying miniature baskets of white and orchid blossoms.

Jay Rogers, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The groomsmen were Dean Rogers, Bryan Rogers, Gordon Russell, Nate Summers, and Rod Thier. Damien Smith, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. The ushers were Carl Rothenberger and Tom Eggers.

"Endless Love" and "Truly" were sung by vocalist Matt Chellis, who was accompanied by Mrs. Francis Boas.

Pictures were taken by the bride's uncle, Bruce Murray, and the bridegroom's mother, Carolyn Brown.

A reception was given by the bride's parents at the V.F.W. Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Chris Drost were host and hostess.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Lamplighter Inn in Central Lake, hosted by the bridegroom's father and stepmother.

The newlyweds are now at home in Atwood following a trip to Nashville, Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Handy

Pence-Handy

Janet Pence and Jeffery Handy were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon, May 26, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix.

Approximately 200 guests watched as the Reverend David W. Yingling performed the double-ring rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pence of Charlevoix are parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Handy of Harrison are parents of the bridegroom, who has been living in Boyne City.

For the occasion, the church altar was decorated with a unity candle and spider chrysanthemums and lavender pompons. The pews were tied with ribbon bows.

Mr. Pence gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and organza with a Queen Ann neckline framed with organza, a ruffled bodice of Chantilly lace and seed pearls, and a long bishop sleeve. The full A-line skirt featured a chapel train and a ruffle front with layers of lace and organza. The bride's headpiece was of fingertip bridal illusion with pencil edging attached to a Juliet cap trimmed with matching lace and pearls. Her bouquet was a colonial arrangement of sweetheart roses, baby's breath, ferns, and forget-me-nots.

Bonnie Johnson of Charlevoix attended the bride as maid of honor. Jacquelyn Pence, sister of the bride,

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Revor

Mitchell-Revoir

Kim Mitchell became the bride of Greg Revor on Saturday afternoon, May 12, in the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

The Reverend David Yingling performed the double-ring rites before an altar decorated with arrangements of pink gladioli, pink, white and burgundy carnations, roses, candelabra, and a unity candle.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Revor, all of Charlevoix, are parents of the newlyweds.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a matte taffeta gown with chiffon overlay and a fingertip veil of illusion attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink, white, and burgundy silk roses.

Maria Budy served as maid of honor, and Gail and Beth Revor, sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of pink satin and carried clutch bouquets of pink roses and burgundy carnations.

Joe Baillaregon served as best man, and Jim Ball and Rex Fitzpatrick were groomsmen. Scott Ball and Corey Domina helped to seat the guests.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Marina LaBlance, who played and sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Chris Mitchell, sister of the bride, attended the wedding guest book.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Hayes Township Hall following the ceremony, catered by the Village Inn Pizza. Tammy Mitchell, sister of the bride, assisted by cutting the wedding cake, and Tania Domina attended the gift table. Music was provided by Sound System III.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Village Inn Pizza, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to California and Hawaii, the newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is plant manager at Boyne Machine Company. The bride is legal secretary for David W. Fershee in Charlevoix.

Clockwise

U.S. vs. U.S.

by Bob Clock

Don't warn your heart last week's forecast that the planes used by both Saudi Arabia and Iran to wage that hot fight over the Persian Gulf were all manufactured in the United States. So were the guns and ammunition used. Even the pilots in both sides were U.S. trained.

The United States may have many shortcomings, but we certainly cannot be faulted in the production and distribution of armaments. When it comes to the instruments of war, we are second to none.

I sometimes wonder how much bloodshed could be prevented around the world every year if the United States suddenly backed off from its suicidal mania to arm the world.

It is particularly insane for us to find both sides in any given conflict.

A mid-century ago, Germany and the Empire Works which had the reputation of being the world's foremost supplier of arms. It appears that unenviable title has now crossed the Atlantic to these shores.

As an American, I would just as soon wear another badge.

Warriors, of course, claim that it doesn't supply arms to foreign nations. Russia will. Maybe so. That certainly wouldn't prevent us from maintaining a strong defense at home and wherever American 04106302 forces are stationed abroad.

But to arm every nation on the globe is recklessness of the first order.

It isn't weren't for the United States, half the people in the world would still be throwing rocks at each other. And rocks hurt less than bullets.

END OF SERMON

THE COLD SNAP Thursday evening after a blistering day caught many of us by surprise.

A child fog moved in from Lake Michigan and everyone ran for a sweater.

After the sun set, the fog lifted and by 10 p.m. the temperature was back in the 70's. June is often like that.

The fog apparently only settled on the shoreline, however, because five miles inland at Barnard the weather was balmy all evening.

THE CITY, with the help of prison labor, is doing a fine job of raking up and dead alweives, and burying them before the swimming season starts.

City Manager Bob Hunt told the council last week that you can tell how the work is progressing — even with your eyes closed. You use your nose.

At this point, however, according to Spieles, the trail is in need of much work before the interpretive

FIRST CHINOOK of the season caught in Lake Michigan by Tony Kleiber of Charlevoix was this 18-pounder hooked last week. According to Kleiber, owner of Tony's Tackle, the chinook, or king salmon, was caught about one month earlier than his first chinook last year and was probably one of a generation planted in the area nine years ago.

Grey Gables opens early lead in slow pitch league

With two weeks of the current schedule behind them, Grey Gables with a 4-0 record has taken the lead in the Charlevoix Slow Pitch League. Wojan Aluminum with a 3-1 record is in second place.

Among Grey Gables' 30 hits off Bob Smith was a home run by Joe Jones. Ray LaVoie, the winning pitcher, allowed five hits.

Ralph Doan gave up only two hits to the Air Force as he pitched Wojan's to a lopsided win over the Airmen: Dana Smith, on the other hand allowed 25.

In a game that went eight innings, Swanson's K&D edged Howard Zoet pitched the shut-out against Juilleret-Fireside allowing five hits. Bill shutting out Charlevoix Garbage 15-0 and losing to Paul Bunyan Lanes 9-4. Jim Cluk allowed only four hits as Wojan's scored three runs in the fourth inning. The score remained at 3-0 until the top of the sixth when Breckenridge went ahead 4-3 and then added three runs in the seventh for the win.

A double by Amy Antaya in the bottom of the first inning, scoring Rhonda Buchanan and Michelle Gagnon who had hit singles, put Charlevoix ahead, 2-0 early in the game.

Charlevoix scored three runs including two in the first and one in the third to take a 3-0 lead before Breckenridge tied the score in the fourth inning. The score remained at 3-0 until the top of the sixth when Breckenridge went ahead 4-3 and then added three runs in the seventh for the win.

Drenth adds All-American honors to list

Central Michigan University senior Jeff Drenth of Charlevoix earned All American honors in the 1984 NCAA Track & Field Championships in Eugene, Ore. two weekends ago. Drenth, who earlier in his career was an All-American in cross country, for the Chippewas, was ninth in the NCAA 10,000-meter run in a time of 29:12.87. He was the third American runner across the finish line to garner All-American laurels.

Yachting Notes

Ho-Hum, just another beautiful Wednesday, Night at the Races - the thunder storms that started Tuesday and are still brightening the western sky this evening (Thursday), were nice enough to make a neat detour over to Petoskey. The breeze was nice, even brisk, at the start but turned into "Old Man Air" soon after, when the lake becomes more like a golf course - traps, dog legs and opportunities as the wind direction and speed is totally different in various areas of the lake. Sure enough, the old men (not Dave Irish and Karl Jurnes aren't too keen on being classed with the old men, suspect Ken Heininger and Josh Barnes are more comfortable with the term) won all four first places: TRAVELLER, BANDIT, BLAZEN III and CHEEMAUN.

The big boats were seen making some swift headail changes just before their start, as a very decent southerly moved in immediately after a weird calm. The next time we had a good look at that fleet, KRITTER was moving out to a nice lead and seemed to be increasing it throughout. When they were homeward bound to the "D" Mark finish, we had a beautiful slalom course through that fleet and who do you think was out from? So the net was, after TRAVELLER: KRITTER, MISS PIGGY Hey, Dr. S., that's what it says on the "Official Score Sheet"! COLUMBINE (That good-looking J-30) and good old CHARLIE BROWN. After the race Dave (Irish) gave all the credit to Lady Luck. Isn't it strange how often that Lady prefers to ride with certain skippers?

Our fleet (No. 2) had a more competitive race than any earlier this year and one fine performance was turned in by a yacht that will only show up as "did not start". Bruce MacArthur and Crew sailed RIBIT well up in the fleet and must have felt really good at the finish as it wasn't till later that they found they had started early. CANUSA was kind to BANDIT and NIGHT MOVES as they gave a spinnaker halyard snarling demonstration that cost them dearly. After BANDIT: NIGHT MOVES, CANUSA, RAZZ-NA-TAZZ and MARANATHA.

Didn't get time to watch the last two fleets until they reached the finish, but then the three P-28's just moved in like a closely spaced parade. We later learned that the second one, FOX Y LADY was protested and penalized, so the No. 3 Fleet ended up as BLAZEN III, TIRELESS, PHOENIX and OBSESSION.

The JAM Fleet (that's Jib And Main, folks) ended up with very little close times after correction, with TL GI, CYGNUS, COOLWHIP and APOTHECARY trailing BLAZEN III, in that order.

It was good fun, the various bugs that always seem to plague a new system are working out, the Race Committee is becoming more "at home" out there and we're all getting a good chance to evaluate the "reverse order" of starts. Let us enjoy and observe: we'll have a good chance to review and comment at the Skipper's Meeting to be held toward the end of the Spring Series.

Charlevoix Yacht Club's first of its two annual major Regattas is the Charlevoix to Boyne City (and Return) Sail Race. The start is about 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 16, and contestants must be pre-registered. Forms are available at Irish Boat Shop, Village Care, Spinnaker City and the Yacht Club. Do it today!

Teresa Noirot led Alma College Scots

Teresa Noirot, a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School served as captain of the 1984 Alma College softball team which wound up the 1984 season with Alma's best finish ever in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA), second behind national qualifier and defending league champion Calvin College.

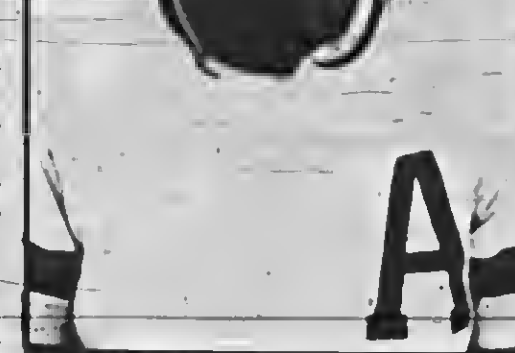

Alma's 8-2 league record reflects the two losses to Calvin in the final double-header of the season. The Scots overall record of 13-4 is the best the team has ever posted.

Noirot, a junior, appeared in 15 of 19 games played and collected seven hits and four runs batted in. She committed just two errors behind the plate. She was elected captain by her teammates and shared the duties with returning captain Sandy Studer.

Noirot was named the most valuable player on Charlevoix's basketball and volleyball teams and made the All-Conference team in softball while in high school.

The daughter of Alva and Evelyn Noirot, Charlevoix, she is majoring in education at Alma College.

Youth diamond programs need more players

Registration for the peanut, ponytail, T-Ball and the new early teen softball program for both boys and girls has been extended another week according to Dwight Boss, Recreation Department Director.

Coaches for all leagues are also needed, Boss said.

If prospective players for these programs do not show an interest and register, the program of sports for the young fry may have to be discontinued Boss warned.

Tourism, small business to be topics of day-long conference

Northern Michigan's small business community and the region's tourism industry will be the focus of a day-long conference on Monday, June 18, at the Victory Lanes Restaurant in Petoskey. State Representative Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon), the organizer of the conference announced today.

Ostling explained that the Tourism and Small Business Conference will feature experts on the subject of tourism who will explain how all small businessmen and women can benefit from increased participation in the tourism industry. There is no charge for the conference and a "dutch treat" lunch will be available.

The region from Houghton and Higgins Lakes all the way north to Petoskey and Harbor Springs is rich in tourism potential," Ostling explained. "We have just begun to scratch the surface of our economic potential through tourism and I am sure this conference will lead us all to a very prosperous 1984 tourism season through shared knowledge and cooperation." Ostling added that the speakers and their topics include two assistant professors from Michigan State University's Department of Parks Commission. Other officials from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan Department of Transportation will also address the business conference.

Dr. George Graff, manager of the natural resources program for the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, will also give a presentation titled "Lobbying for Results". Other presentations are titled "Funding Sources for Tourism Development", "Taking Advantage of the Department of Transportation", "State Responsibility", and "The DNR - Contributing to Tourism Development".

Registration for the conference begins at 8:30 a.m. June 18, and the conference will end approximately 3:30 p.m. following a presentation by Rep. Ostling.

THE CALLING SERVICE THAT'S BEST FOR YOU? JUST PUT YOUR FINGER ON IT.

That's right. You can still put your finger on the calling service you need or want just as easily as before, even though many changes have taken place in the communications industry. Michigan Bell continues to make a wide range of calling services and plans available to you.

A glance at the service options listed below will help you determine if you now have the service and calling plans that best fit your individual needs and budget. As always, reliable Michigan Bell telephone service comes with whatever option you select.

Local Service Options:

Measured Service* - allows up to 50 local calls per month for a small monthly charge. Calls above that limit would be billed to you on a per call basis. If you place few local calls per day, Measured Service could be the most economical choice for you.

Long Distance Options:

Circle Calling - gives you a 30% discount on direct-dialed long distance calls placed within a 30-mile radius within your LATA* except calls placed from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

Budget Toll Dialing - provides a 30% discount on long distance calls anywhere within your LATA between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. Sunday

Measured Service	Call Waiting	Call Forwarding
Circle Calling	Budget Toll Dialing	Speed Calling
Local Service Options	Flat Rate Service	Touch-Tone Service
Three-Way Calling	Disabled Customer Services	Toll Distance Options

evening through Friday morning and from 5 p.m. Friday through 5 p.m. Sunday. Like Circle Calling, the Budget Toll Dialing discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

*LATA is a new term that describes a Michigan Bell calling service area. It stands for local access and transport area.

Custom Calling Services: Call Waiting - when you're on the phone, the Call Waiting signal alerts you someone else is calling. You can alternate conversation between both parties.

Call Forwarding - lets you program your phone so that incoming calls are automatically forwarded to any other telephone you desire.

Speed Calling - allows you to program your phone to dial up to eight or 30 frequently called numbers with simple one- or two-digit entries.

Three-Way Calling - lets you add a third party to a two-party conversation, instead of making separate calls. (Custom Calling Services are not currently available in all calling areas.)

Dialing Options: Through Michigan Bell, you have a choice of Rotary Service or Touch-Tone Service.

Rotary Service is pulse dialing. With this service, you need a pulse dialing phone with either a rotary dial or a push-button dial.

Touch-Tone Service is tone dialing. It is the most modern form of dialing. With Touch-Tone Service, you can use either tone dialing or pulse dialing telephones. However, to get the benefits of Touch-Tone Service (such as last, accurate dialing), be sure to use a push-button phone made for tone dialing, which you can also use to access certain long distance and at-home banking services. (Touch-Tone Service is not available in all areas.)

Disabled Customer Services:

Special Services and Equipment for disabled customers are available through the Michigan Bell Telecommunications Center for Disabled Customers. Voice customers call 1 800 682-8251. Telecommunications Devices for the Deaf (TDD) customers call 1 800 682-3111. Customers are welcome to visit the Center at 26200 Greenwood, Room 13, Oak Park, Michigan 48237.

Inwood reunion sparks old memories

It was time for reminiscing last week when members of the former Inwood Ladies Aid, many of them descendants of the early settlers who were members of the Epworth Methodist Church, met for a reunion at the home of Mrs. Peter Joyce.

The Epworth Methodist Church was located along what is now US 31 South in the area of Inwood Creek. It was organized in the late 1800's and the Inwood Ladies Aid was the name of the church circle affiliated with it. The church itself was moved to Brethren in the early 1920's but the Inwood Ladies Aid continued meeting until the mid-1960's. During World War I, it was recalled, the members rolled bandages for the Red Cross in addition to raising funds for the church. Even during World War II, the group, now composed of daughters, granddaughters and even great-granddaughters of the area did their bit for the war effort.

However, as people moved away and interests changed, the Inwood Ladies Aid oldest member in years, Robert Cummings of Venice, Fla., Mrs. Edward Swanson, Mrs. Joseph Stutzman, Mrs. John Fratrik, Mrs. Clarence Murray and Mrs. Lloyd Cummings.

Eric B. Quist, 25, Wyoming, speeding and expired registration plates, $80 fine and costs.
Christina P. Parker, 19, Charlevoix, speeding, $50 fine and costs.
Laura A. Mattox, 16, Petoskey, careless driving, $95 fine and costs.

Maj. MICHAEL E. CORRADI, son of Edward and Rosemary Corradi of Charlevoix, Staff Sgt. MARK A. ROKUS, son of John A. Rokus of Boyne City and Jean McGee of Charlevoix, and Airman 1st Class JOHN H. WALTILLIG JR., son of John H. and Margaret H. Waltillig of Charlevoix, have participated in Global Shield 84, an exercise involving U.S. Air Force, Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Navy and Marine Corps units, and elements of the Canadian forces. The exercise, coordinated by the Air Force Strategic Air Command (SAC), was designed to enhance readiness and the ability of SAC to carry out orders should deterrence fail.

Corradi is a flight commander with the 929th Bombardment Squadron at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y. He received a master's degree in 1975 from the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. His wife, Marilyn, is the daughter of Richard W. Day of Livonia, Mich.

Rokus is a communications technician with the 2030th Communications Squadron at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich. He is a 1979 graduate of Boyne City High School.

Waltillig is a fuels specialist with the 2nd Supply Squadron at Barksdale Air Force Base, La. He is a 1982 graduate of Carleton Airport High School. His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Daniel C. and Eva Heinzelring of East Jordan.

Air Force Staff Sgt. ROBERT DWYER, son of Mary Dwyer of Chicago, has arrived for duty at Grissom Air Force Base, Ind.

Dwyer, an inventory management specialist with the 300th Supply Squadron, was previously assigned at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam.

His wife, Jeanette, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Skel of Charlevoix.

The sergeant is a 1968 graduate of St. Michael's Central High School, Chicago.

Airman 1st Class DUWAYNE A. DOUGHERTY JR., son of DuWayne and Jean Dougherty of East Jordan, has been named outstanding airman of the month for the 379th Operations Maintenance Squadron at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich.

The competition was based on job knowledge, significant self-improvement, leadership qualities, ability to be an articulate and positive spokesman for the Air Force and other accomplishments.

Dougherty is an aircraft maintenance specialist.

He is a 1981 graduate of East Jordan High School.

Pvt. JOHN M. TELGENHOF, son of Laurene P. Telgenhof of East Jordan, has completed a Vulcan crewman course under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at the U.S. Army Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Texas.

During their training, students learned all phases of the firing of the tracking systems of this air defense system. The Vulcan is a 20mm automatic six-barrel gun mounted on a self-propelled armored personnel carrier and is designed primarily for anti-aircraft defense.

OSUT combines basic training and advanced individual training.

Telgenhof is a 1983 graduate of East Jordan High School.

LAURA STAUBLIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Staubin of Charlevoix, graduated May 12th from Northern Illinois University at DeKalb with a Master of Arts degree in library science.

MICHAEL T. UMLOR, son of Lester and Ellen Umlor of Charlevoix, was recently installed into the Michigan Tech Chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma.

Sigma Pi Sigma is a national physics honor society. Students elected to membership must attain high standards of general scholarship and outstanding achievement in physics.

Umlor, a 1980 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is presently a senior majoring in applied physics at Michigan Technological University.

MARJAN RAWLEY of First State Bank of Charlevoix was awarded a certificate of achievement at the seventh annual commencement exercise of The Robert M. Perry School of Banking at Central Michigan University of Mt. Pleasant on Thursday, May 24.

The School sponsored by the Michigan Bankers' Association and Central Michigan University, was established in 1976 to provide bankers with an opportunity to develop and advance general management and banking skills. This year fifty-nine students from forty-seven Michigan banks attended.

DANIEL W. MONTEITH of Charlevoix was among the graduates who received degrees recently at Utah State University's commencement ceremonies. Monteith majored in business at Utah State.

Tim LeBlanc and Rhonda Buchanan received the Outstanding Athletic and Scholastic Achievement award Monday from the Lions Club. They were presented the award by the club's Vice President Art Ranger (above). Each also received a $100 check toward their education. Both graduating seniors have participated extensively in high school sports and have demonstrated their scholastic abilities. Rhonda will continue her education in social work at Hope College with an academic scholarship and Tim will go on to study marketing and management at Alma College from which he received a football scholarship.

$500,000 bond issue, clerk position to be on Aug. ballot

by DAVE KNIGHT

The ballot for the August 7 election in the City of Charlevoix became busier by two items Monday night as the City Council agreed to place a both a $500,000 bond issue and a charter amendment making the city clerk an appointed position before the voters.

Primarily interested in having the funds on hand should the city's share of a proposed lake water treatment plant increase dramatically, council opted to seek voter approval of the general obligation bonds as soon as possible to take advantage of currently favorable interest rates.

Council made it clear Monday night, however, that it is fully committed to the water plant and that even if the general obligation bond issue fails in August, limited obligation bonds - which do not require voter approval - will be issued in the amount necessary to complete the plant.

Estimates by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers set the local share of the plant's cost at up to $660,000. Estimates by the city's consulting engineers, McNamee, Porter and Seely, however, range closer to $300,000. The final determination of the city's share is not expected until the Corps' preliminary engineering is finished in October, said City Manager Robert Hunt.

The advantage to voter approval of the bonds, explained Hunt, is that a better interest rate could probably be obtained.

The resolution adopted unanimously by council putting the bond issue on the ballot states that the funds will be used for "water, sewer and street improvements."

This language was requested by Hunt so that, should the local share of the water plant fall below the $500,000 amount bonded, the remainder of the money can be directed to the public works project with the next highest priority, a sewer line to the city's north side business park.

Hunt requested the inclusion of "street improvements" in the resolution so that, if possible, the bond proceeds could be used to pay off the scheduled street repair program for this year and the money thus saved in the general fund could be directed to offset the deficit in the city's sewer fund.

The bond issue should not affect the total millage, said Hunt, since the city's present debt service

CHARLEVOIX AREA HOSPITAL was the recipient of an American Flag last week, from the Blue Star Mothers of America, Petoskey Post No. 32. Speaking for the organization, Mrs. Dorothy Zipp explained that the Blue Star Mothers were founded during World War II to help GIs and their families. Every year the organization undertakes charitable projects that symbolize the organization's purpose. The flag given to the hospital was flown over the United States Capitol. Presenting the flag, to William Jackson, Charlevoix Area Hospital General Services Manager, during brief ceremonies, were 11 GIs: Mary Hoffman, Vera York, Ima Hankins, Dorothy Zipp, and Ina Cole.

Want to be Queen?

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is now accepting applications for the Miss Charlevoix, Queen's Pageant scheduled for Thursday, July 26, Jacque Meria, Executive Director of the chamber, has announced.

Applicants must be not less than 17 years or more than 23 years of age by June 15; must be single, never having been married and have no children and parents must be residents of or own property in the Charlevoix School District.

The contest will include an interview with the judges at a dinner prior to the pageant and during the pageant, there will be talent competition, bathing suit competition and evening gown appearance. All candidates will appear in a group dance routine to open the pageant.

The 1984 Miss Charlevoix will receive her crown from the retiring Miss Charlevoix, Beth Jones, and during the coming year, will represent Charlevoix at the Venetian Festival and at other events in which Charlevoix will be entered including the annual Cherry Queen competition in June 1985.

Applications for the Miss Charlevoix Competition are available at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce office at 408 Bridge St.

Beth Jones

Queen Beth to compete in T.C. pageant

Beth Jones, 18, Miss Charlevoix 1983, will represent Charlevoix in the National Cherry Queen Pageant to be held in Traverse City later this month.

A recent graduate of the Charlevoix High School, Beth has represented Charlevoix at various events during the past year including the Venetian Festival, the National Trout Festival and the National Bass Festival.

Queen Beth, who has blue eyes, brown hair, and is 5'8", has had three years of drama at the Charlevoix High School and has modeled for a local designer.

She lists painting with acrylics, drawing, softball and swimming as her hobbies. She plans to attend the Kendall School of Design and major in Interior Design. She has been involved in Performing Arts and 4-H.

Queen Beth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jones.

The good news: EPA commits to clean water; the bad news: it's years away

by DAVE KNIGHT

"We are not going to allow Charlevoix to exchange one potentially hazardous situation for another."

With that, Michigan Department of Public Health (DPH) groundwater division engineer Timothy Benton said last week that his department will not allow use by the city of water from Lake Michigan until a complete filtration and treatment facility is completed.

The only mitigating circumstance in that position, said Benton, would be a dramatic increase in the concentrations of trichloroethylene (TCE), the contaminant in city water that has prompted the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to agree to build a new lake water treatment plant for Charlevoix.

Latest TCE levels have ranged in the 29 to 31 parts per billion range.

The DPH stance put a damper on the announcement last week that the EPA has committed itself to building the $2 million water treatment plant with money from the agency's Superfund and that the project has been officially turned over to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for design and construction.

The effect of the DPH position is to prevent the city from using lake water as an interim source as soon as an intake structure is built - which is projected for this November - and delay any use of TCE-less lake water for the up to two years it is expected to take for construction of a complete treatment plant.

Benton said that among DPH concerns is the formation of a group of chemicals called trihalomethanes (THMs) in lake water which can occur when organic matter can be exposed to chlorination. THMs, as TCEs, are considered to be potential causes of cancer in humans.

He also cited the problems of turbidity and unsafe bacterial presence as standing in the way of the city's use of raw water.

City Manager Robert Hunt told the City Council at its meeting Monday night that an attempt to fight the DPH on its position would have "less than a 50 percent chance of success" and that the adverse publicity created by such an effort may be counterproductive.

Council agreed and decided not to instigate a legal battle with the state on the matter.

In a memo to the council, Hunt called the latest DPH stance "a reversal of the Department's 1983 decision, when they agreed to allow use of the intake structure before the remainder of the plant was completed."

The 1983 ruling, he continued, "was apparently calculated to give the city an interim option...as attractive to the city from a time perspective as a carbon treatment alternative. Now that the department is assured that the city will be taking its water from the lake over the long run, it is less concerned with how quickly the lake water is used."

Another glitch that has developed since the EPA announced its decision to provide 90 percent funding for a lake water treatment facility is that the city lost surface waters and that claims by the developer to the contrary were "based more on dollar signs than any ecological reason."

Dr. James Ludwig, environmental consultant to the developers, responded that not only was the topography of the property not conducive to an inland lagoon but that such a design would require extensive dredge maintenance with its accompanying environmental impact.

Marina plan is hot topic at informational meeting

by DAVE KNIGHT

A decision from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is expected in a matter of days on whether to grant a permit for construction of a 72-slip marina at the Hemingway Point Club development on Eveline Township's Lake Charlevoix shoreline.

The marina proposal was aired at a special informational meeting Wednesday, June 13 at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

Over 100 area residents attended the session, many of whom voiced opinions either for or against the project proposed by Birchwood Farms Construction Company. Birchwood Farms was assigned management of the project last year by Nuskegon Federal Savings & Loan following foreclosure by the bank on the property.

Major issues concerning opponents of the project include the possible loss of fish spawning habitat, the use of public waters for a private, commercial venture and the precedent a favorable ruling would set in regard to other Lake Charlevoix developments.

Twelve condominium units have already been constructed at Hemingway Pointe and 60 more are planned. Bill Cottrill, president of Birchwood Farms Construction Company and general manager of the Hemingway Pointe Club, said that should the approval for the marina not be granted, the eventual 72 properly owners at the development will have rights as riparian owners to each construct their own docks into the lake.

This, said Cottrill, and other supporters of his plans, would be a much greater environmental threat than the marina.

A bevy of criticism was leveled against the marina proposal, however, by not only several of the local citizens attending the meeting, but also representatives of at least two statewide organizations with interested constituencies in the area.

Thomas Washington, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), described the situation as "another classic example of intrusion on the public trust that the DNR is responsible for."

Washington argued that the marina could be built inland without loss of surface waters and that claims by the developer to the contrary were "based more on dollar signs than any ecological reason."

Dr. James Ludwig, environmental consultant to the developers, responded that not only was the topography of the property not conducive to an inland lagoon but that such a design would require extensive dredge maintenance with its accompanying environmental impact.

Islanders press fight to keep physician

Residents of Beaver Island are still hoping they will be able to keep their physician, Dr. Leonard Siudara.

They were notified May 25 by the State Department of Public Health that the appropriation for Dr. Siudara's subsidy had been deleted from the budget.

Since 1979, Dr. Siudara has received $42,500 annually from the Department of Public Health to care for the 310 year-round and 2,000 summer residents of the Island. That is his entire income for operating the Beaver Island Medical Center.

The average $10 office call fee does not go to the physician, but directly to the Medical Center, as do extra fees for blood studies, X-rays, medications, etc. During the last fiscal year, $23,543 in fees was collected. This, along with gifts to the Center and payments by health insurance carriers kept the Medical Center going, according to Vivien Visscher, president of the Board of the Beaver Island Medical Center.

State Senator Mitch Irwin and State Representative Ralph Osting have sent a joint communication to Senator Connie Binsfield and Representative Robert Emerson of the Public Health Conference Committee requesting that the $42,500 subsidy be reinstated in the state budget.

In their letter, the legislators stressed that the need for medical care on Beaver Island was not only for routine care of infants, adults, pregnancies, and the aged, but for the large number of emergency situations that arise. They also called attention to the fact that travel to the mainland is sometimes impossible and always expensive.

Osting has noted this is not the first time the subsidy has been threatened and says he is hopeful it will be reinstated.

Knight on the Town

R.I.P.

By Dave Knight

The following should be included in this week's obituary column:

S.P.L.A.S.H.
Swimming Pool Lovers' Advocating Safety and Health, also known as S.P.L.A.S.H., died Monday, June 11 at the age of about six months.

S.P.L.A.S.H. was born in the basement of Village Inn Pizza this past winter to several loving parents who longed for a community indoor pool in Charlevoix.

His early life was spent reviewing over two dozen possible sites for such a facility as well as the means to pay for construction and upkeep. During its short existence, S.P.L.A.S.H. became well known in the community, especially in barber shops, bars, coffee shops and beauty parlors where its merits were the frequent subject of lively debate.

Said one who knew S.P.L.A.S.H. well, "It had a worthy cause. There's a lot to be said for promoting water safety in this area and surely the health benefits of swimming for all ages cannot be disputed."

The cause of death, according to attending physicians, was a coincidental case of unfortunate timing which was complicated by tight purse strings.

In short, S.P.L.A.S.H. was weakened mortally by the lingering drinking water dilemma in Charlevoix. It found out that persuading people to pay for water to swim in was extremely difficult when those same people were being told that they did not have (clean) water to drink.

Interestingly, S.P.L.A.S.H.'s vital signs were still strong only a month before its death. A scientifically devised telephone survey indicated not only broad public support for an indoor pool but also a modicum of willingness to pay for it through millage.

With such a clean bill of health under its belt, S.P.L.A.S.H. ventured confidently ahead. When the EPA appeared to bail out the city with funds to build a new water plant, S.P.L.A.S.H. decided to take the bold and risky step of conducting a straw vote on its intentions during the annual school election.

That decision cost S.P.L.A.S.H. its life. Voters in the Charlevoix School District who showed up June 11 - about 18 percent of those eligible to vote - turned thumbs down on three S.P.L.A.S.H. proposals by an average of two to one.

It was a quick and merciful death. Said one parent the day after the election, "It was a good thing while it lasted. But it's over. Dead."

Funeral arrangements were unclear as of this writing.

organization is prepared to pursue opposition to the project saying, "I want to leave no doubt that MCCC will not sit by and let this nibbling effect continue on Lake Charlevoix or any other lake in the state."

MCCC includes as an affiliate member the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club which has strongly opposed the marina project, circulating petitions against it and organizing a letter campaign directed at state officials and lawmakers.

Also speaking in opposition to the marina was Donald E. Winne, executive director of the Michigan Lake and Stream Associations, Inc., of which the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association is a member.

Winne pointed out that case law in Michigan establishes that neither the DNR nor any other state agency has the right to restrict use of inland lake surface waters by the public.

"It is understood that other permits have been issued on Lake Charlevoix and structures have been built out into the lake removing a portion of the surface of the lake from use by the public. If this permit is issued," said Winne, "where does the process stop? Will the DNR be caught up in a position to grant other requests on Lake Charlevoix and on all inland lakes across the state?"

Other organizations opposed on record at the meeting as going to the marina included the Tip 'O' the Mitt Watershed Council and Water and Air Team Charlevoix, Inc. (WATCH).

At least four DNR employees also spoke out against the marina. While the DNR Land Resource Programs Division (which sponsored the meeting) has not made its final determination regarding the permit, the DNR's Fish Division has taken a strong stand against it based on what the division feels would be a substantial loss of fish spawning territory.

Karl Hofsford of the DNR Land Resource Programs Division said that the criteria to be considered in the review of the permit application include adverse effects to the environment and public trust, rarity of the resource, public interest in the development versus public interest in degradation of the resource and possible alternatives to the proposed location.

decreases substantially in the next two years.

The charter amendment approved by council for the August ballot would change the position of City Clerk from an elected position to one "appointed by a majority vote of the entire council for an indefinite term."

Since the resignation about one year ago of City Clerk Deane Balch, who was the last elected clerk for Charlevoix, the positions of city clerk and city treasurer have been consolidated. City Manager Hunt estimates that the consolidation has saved the city about $30,000. James Brinker, former city manager, now holds the combined title of clerk-treasurer.

Mayor Kenneth Staley noted to the council his personal opposition to the charter amendment, saying, "I am not in favor of eliminating any elected officials."

Council member Earl Muma also indicated opposition to the amendment and cast the only "no" vote on the resolution placing the matter on the ballot. In other action, the council: Approved the expense of $12,500 for the city's share of a $252,363 project to repair erosion damage to the north bank of the Pine River Channel near the bridge. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has agreed to provide $250,000 for the work.

Faded memories

By Bob Cook

A TRIP HOME should be a nostalgic experience, but for transplanted Detroiters there isn't a great deal to be nostalgic about. I had an opportunity to spend 24 hours in my old hometown last week, but I might as well have visited China. I couldn't understand the language, many of the old landmarks downtown have been replaced by modern buildings that look like auto parts and Hart Plaza, which is reputed to be the heart of New Detroit, was all but obliterated by litter.

I suppose if I had spent the past 20 years in Detroit, I would understand the new patois that is the common language of the streets. A few years ago educators called it "Black English" and insisted that teachers in inner-city schools familiarize themselves with it so they could communicate with their students.

There hasn't been much about "Black English" in the press lately, and I assume the new dialect has become so deeply entrenched among both blacks and whites that there is no longer any need to talk about it. But to the untrained ear, it sounds about close to English as Spanish does to Latin.

The most striking example of the new architecture is the Renaissance Center - an extremely confusing complex of gigantic pistons housing a hotel, offices, restaurants and shops. It is so confusing that the owners are spending $3 million to simplify the interior design.

The litter was a direct result of a three-day Gaelic Festival, one of Detroit's popular ethnic events. Irish singers and dancers were performing in the Hart Plaza amphitheater when we arrived, and it would have been enjoyable concert if you didn't have to view it from windows of paper cups, paper napkins and other assorted garbage. Of course, the Detroit River was still there, as broad and beautiful as ever - and probably a lot cleaner than it was when I was a kid. Windsor didn't appear to have changed much, although the lights were brighter than I remembered them.

If Detroit excels in any area, it is moving vast numbers of automobiles on its super expressways. We left downtown Detroit at 4:30 p.m. Monday when the evening rush-hour was getting under way. One hour later we 50 miles north, almost to the southern border of Genesee County.

In the old days on surface streets it took longer than that to reach city limits.

IF YOU THINK mosquitoes are big and plentiful this year, just wait until you encounter a raiding party of potato bugs. The potato bugs are big and plentiful but also voracious.

The potato bugs at the Charlevoix City Garden apparently don't have enough potato leaves to gnaw yet, so they are attacking a close relative, the tomato.

So start your young tomato plants with Sevin - so they don't get Eight.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Creasman

Regier-Creasman

Arrangements of white roses and pink carnations graced the altar of the First United Methodist Church of Ann Arbor for the June 2 wedding of Mariko Lois Regier, former Charlevoix resident now living in Ann Arbor and Craig Creasman, also of Ann Arbor.

Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. Austin Regier, former Charlevoix residents now of Potteryville, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Creasman of Lincoln Park.

The Rev. Donald Strobe officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 120 guests. The professional, Pachelbel's "Canon in D" and the recessional, "Brandenburg Concerto, First Movement," were played by a string quartet.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. For her wedding she chose a traditional white wedding gown of chiffon over satin adorned with pink roses of satin and chiffon.

A band of pink roses secured her chignon veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and pink carnations.

Michiko Regier of Tokyo attended her sister as maid of honor. Her younger sister, Masako Regier, of Potteryville served as bridesmaid. They wore identical pink chiffon over, satin gowns and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Michelle Brumwell of Brighton, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, also wore a gown of chiffon and satin - Justin Hennig of Gibraltar was the ringbearer.

Dr. Michael Rizzo of Ann Arbor assisted the bridegroom as best man. Dr. William A. Turner, Jr., of Trenton was groomsmen.

A reception, hosted by the parents of the couple, followed at the Campus Inn, Ann Arbor. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hennig assisted. The couple will be at home at 7581 Windsor Woods Dr., Canton, after June 22 following a wedding trip to Charlevoix.

The bride will be entering her junior year at the University of Michigan where she is majoring in Economics. The bridegroom is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School and will be beginning a residency in general surgery at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the parents of the bridegroom, was held at Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor, on May 31. (Photo by Aartvark Studio)

To hold swimming classes for toddlers

A swimming class for toddlers ages three and four years will be offered by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced.

The children must be registered Wednesday, June 20, from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m., at the same time all children for swimming classes must be registered. Anyone unable to register at that time may do so during the same hours on Monday, June 25.

Swimming classes will be given between the hours of 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Boss announced.

4-H horse show added

Another area horse show has been added to the summer schedule.

The Charlevoix County 4-H Council will sponsor a Speed Show on Saturday afternoon, June 30, at 2 p.m. at the Emmet County Fairgrounds.

There will be classes in Cloverleaf, Straight Barrels, Speed and Action, Down and Back, and Flag Race in four age groups: Pony, 13 and under, 15 to 17, and 18 and over.

County board hears report by Varnum on District Court caseload

by PEG OHLE

Laurie L. Howell, probation officer for the 90th Judicial District, has a caseload of 267 cases at the present time. Of this number, 147 report to her monthly.

District Court Judge Harvey C. Varnum included these figures in his report to the County Board of Commissioners last week.

Ninety-two persons on probation were convicted of impaired driving; 54 were convicted of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, having an unlawful blood alcohol level, or impaired driving, second offense; 68 were convicted of miscellaneous crimes; 23 are on deferred sentences; and 28 have bench warrants outstanding against them.

The probation officer is in charge of collecting fines, restitution money, and court appointed attorney fees from those under her jurisdiction. Each month she reviews all outstanding uncollected cases and notes those that are delinquent. She uses the Community Service Work Program as often as she can when the comes across a case that just cannot pay.

There are many circumstances that warrant a delinquent account, according to Mrs. Howell. Some alcohol-related cases end up in residential treatment, which causes court fines to fall behind. Many are given extensions on fines due to work layoffs or seasonal work. Many end up on the Community Work Program.

"We do not jail people for lack of payment. If they violate probation in other areas, we can then notice them to serve discretionary jail time," she explains.

Presently, there are 25 cases that have gone five or six months without payment which can be considered delinquent. They total $6,458.90. Probationers come and go, the report indicates. During the first six months of this year, 53 persons were discharged and 61 new persons began reporting to the probation officer.

To make it more convenient for probationers in the eastern part of the County to report to the probation officer, Mrs. Howell spends the afternoons of the first and third Fridays of each month in Boyne City. She is available in the Boyne City Police Department from 1 to 5 p.m. on those days.

When necessary, Mrs. Howell also goes to Boyne City or East Jordan to talk to probationers who have special problems. Judge Varnum also reported that Magistrate Wayne Barnett regularly holds office hours in auxiliary offices in East Jordan and Boyne City to serve persons who have been issued tickets or who have other court business he can handle.

The 90th District Court is undertaking an alternative sentencing program, according to Judge Varnum. This could take many forms, including shorter jail sentences followed by the Community Service Work Program. Incases where the crime results in a specific loss to the victim, the perpetrator of the crime and the victim could get together and work out ways in which to right the wrong.

For Saints and Sinners

by Pastor Jim Plackner
Bethany Lutheran Church

In the next couple of days, leading up to the birthday of all us Americans on July 4th, we're going to be hearing a lot about freedom and being free.

God has a lot to say about freedom and being free all year round! He has real freedom.

People very often don't want anything to do with God and His Commandments because, as one little boy put it, God's up there making sure no one has any fun - and as soon as He sees someone having fun, He hits them with a commandment. That little boy is not the only American who feels that way; many do.

Many people think that to respond to God and His Commandments is to lose your freedom and to have no fun. Wrong. I suppose God is in the business of making sure that we have fun in life - but I know for sure that He is in the business of making sure we live.

And He's good at it.

Any loving parent is going to spell out for their children to understand what is dangerous and what is safe. God the heavenly Father does the same thing in the commandments. They are a lesson on how to avoid death: don't do those things which lead to death. Break the commandment equals sin equals death. Obey God and live. How good to God to let us know what is dangerous in life.

We need that! And we need Jesus who died for our sins and rose from the dead for our living, forever, because we, out of weakness, cantankerousness and natural meanness, often break His Commandments anyway. Jesus stands ready to forgive anyone who wants it. To free anyone from that sin and that death which goes along with it.

The Commandments and Jesus give the same message (at least here): the only freedom God does not allow us is the freedom to kill ourselves by sinning. Other than that, the whole world, the whole experience is yours.

And that is freedom God's style. Free from sin, free from death, free to live.

School board adopts $4.25 million budget for 1984-85

by FRANK MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting June 16, adopted a tentative budget of $4,257,715 for the 1984-85 school year.

In other action, the board heard a report from Arthur Ranger on engineering plans for the reconstruction of parking areas at the high school, entered into an agreement with the DDA, accepted a resignation, approved the extension of a leave of absence, approved debt retirement payments and approved the hiring of a part-time math teacher for the coming school year.

In presenting the $4.2 million budget, Vincent Olach, business manager, said that following the audit, the tentative budget would be revised and presented for acceptance in the fall. The budget will be supported by revenue from taxes and other sources in the amount of $4,268,637.

Arthur Ranger, engineer, presented plans for renovating four areas used for parking at the high school. He said that because the school site is so flat, draining is a major problem and made numerous recommendations for better drainage.

The large parking lot south of the gymnasium, at the east entrance to the gymnasium, the area to the west of the gymnasium near the athletic field, and the driveway and parking area at the front of the school.

"Assuming, however, that is that there will be major problems in all the areas, I would estimate the project would cost $141,000," Ranger advised the board. He went on to say that chances are, materials could be salvaged, the drainage problems may not be as serious as anticipated and that the project will be less expensive than anticipated at this time.

"Black top and gravel will be the most costly items," he advised. Ranger also gave estimates for each of the four projects.

The project was referred to the building committee for recommendations.

The agreement with the Downtown Development Authority was approved for the purpose of providing a formula for sharing a portion of the captured assessment valuation of the DDA. The agreement has to be supported by the four parties involved: the school district, the DDA, the American Bank-Detroit on the high school bonds

District, the county and the city before it can be finalized.

The resignation of Cynthia Haynes, part-time French teacher, was accepted with a regret.

Cara Hochhalter was granted a year's extension of her year's leave of absence.

Debt retirement payments in the amount of $5,119 to the First of Michigan State Intermediate School and $112,924, to the National Bank of Detroit on the Elementary School bonds were approved.

It was recommended that Laurie J. Keller be hired as a part-time math teacher. A graduate of Northern Michigan University with a major in math and a minor in music, she has also done graduate work at Michigan State University. She taught at Pellston and a summer program at Petoskey before leaving her profession to raise a family.

Supl. Gordon W. VanWieren reported on the Math Study committee which is making recommended changes in the program to bring continuity to the course throughout the 12 grades.

The next meeting of the Board of Education is scheduled for July 2.

Champagne Cruise highlights local July 4 activity

The sound of fireworks won't be the only thing popping on board the Beaver Islander this July 4.

The ship, carrying passengers for the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Champagne Cruise, will board at 8:30 p.m. and depart at 9:00 p.m. from the Beaver Island Boat Dock in Charlevoix.

The boat will then cruise the North Arm of Lake Charlevoix to Boyne City where those aboard will enjoy a fantastic fireworks display. For listening and dancing.

There will be a band aboard the ship. Beverages and snacks will be available and there will be a cash bar. The cost is $10 per person. For more information or to obtain tickets contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 408 Bridge St., Charlevoix, Mich. 49720. Phone: 517-547-2101.

Knight on the Town

Postscript

By Dave Knight

Some weeks ago, I wrote in this space about my beloved elementary school principal, Sister Mary Vianney, and her amazing ability to insure a beautiful, sunny day in May each year for the annual procession honoring the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Sister Vianney was amazing in many ways, actually, which is mainly why I can remember her so distinctly after so many years. Dominican sisters at the time wore the traditional black and white habits and to the youngest already a little apprehensive about school, they could be rather intimidating. But Sister Vianney was warm and reassuring to us little tykes and she made our early years of schooling most pleasurable.

She was reassigned by the Dominican Order before I advanced too far at Sacred Heart School so my last contact with her was about 23 years ago, as close as I can figure. The good sisters at Sacred Heart served four of two to four years at a time, so I got used to them coming and going on a regular basis. This made it difficult, however, to keep track of them once they left.

I have no idea where Sister Vianney went after leaving our school nor what occupied her for the next 20 years. She was in her 50s. I would guess, when I knew her so I really was not sure, when I wrote the column about her this past May 16, that she was even still alive.

And I certainly was not expecting to find out.

But last week I received the following correspondence from a Mrs. Albert Ganey in Chicago:

"Enclosed is a copy of a column you wrote about a month ago. We, Sister Vianney's family, did enjoy reading the column and wondered if you knew at the time that she was seriously ill."

"It seems that most of her prayers were answered - whether they were prayers for good weather or for more serious concerns."

"May God continue to bless you in your work. Thank you for your column."

Apparently my mother had sent the column to Dominican novitate at Sinsinawa, Wisconsin and it did indeed reach Sister Vianney, that last week of May.

I hope she liked it.

Included with the letter from Mrs. Ganey was an announcement of the death of Sr. Mary Vianney on June 8.

Election moross

By Bob Clock

Can you ever recall a time that the state of Michigan has gotten itself into such a mess over an election? I can't.

Recently, we were vacationing in northern Michigan, and drove through your city on the return trip - what a pleasure it was!

We do not know who planned and planted the lovely "avenue of petunias", but it is beautiful, and represents a great deal of work on the part of those who did the job.

We tried to guess - was it the City Chamber of Commerce, a garden club, some civic organization, etc.?

As tourists, it was an impressive sight, and we want you to know that we enjoyed and appreciated the beauty.

Please convey our thoughts to those who are responsible for it. Thank you.

I thought your readers might be interested to know that their community now has its very own comic book superhero: BIG ROCK! Alias Simon "Rocky" Rhodes, musician, Big Rock has the power to magically transform himself into a super-strong, indestructible creature of living stone (despite his name, he is not, never was, and never will be a radio-active mutant), and he uses his great powers to protect the Great Lakes State as a member of THE NORTHERN STARS, a super-team comprised of Michigan's Greatest Heroes. The Northern Stars appear in their own comic book, created and published in Michigan, and coming soon to better book stores throughout the area. I am enclosing a copy of Big Rock's model sheet that you could print if you'd like to give your readers a sneak preview of Charlevoix's new superhero.

IT SEEMS IT would be very easy to pass a law requiring redistricting every 10 years based strictly on the federal Census, with several expediting provisions.

For example, no district should ever, under any circumstances, be divided except along county lines, or, in the case of metropolitan areas, precinct or ward lines.

The one-man, one-vote principle should be followed as closely as possible, so long as the geographical integrity of each district is preserved.

THE PARTY POLITICS that usually enters into the redistricting process is nothing more than a ploy to subvert democratic processes and our lawmakers should have the good sense to do what is morally right rather than what is good for their particular party.

If such a law were on the books this year, the chaos attending the upcoming primary could have been avoided.

One clear-cut bill spelling out the new legislative boundaries would have turned the trick.

OF COURSE, the high court is not to blame. It was simply setting to rights a poorly conceived redistricting plan drawn up by the Legislature last year which was challenged in Oakland County Circuit Court - not because it was a poor plan but because it violated the constitution.

Judge George LaPlata found the redistricting unconstitutional because it came about through amendments to a bill dealing with absentee ballots and the Detroit city income tax.

The constitution says no bill "shall be altered or amended so as to change its original purpose."

Redistricting had nothing to do with the court decision - but perhaps it should have, since politics is at the root of the problem.

Refunds covering the original $100 filing fee were being mailed to candidates as rapidly as possible, in case any of them were hard-pressed to come up with a second filing fee on such short notice.

Presentations marking the anniversary will be made by Congressman Bob Davis and the Michigan Historical Society.

Letters: Chx. ad revisited

To the Editor:

If your public Television programming coincides with ours here, maybe a lot of Charlevoix residents were as surprised as I was to see a glimpse of Charlevoix on Bill Moyers' "A Walk Through the 20th Century - Post-War Hopes, Cold War Fears" this week.

The shot was a striking Dodge advertisement done at the Charlevoix railroad station in the early 1950s widely circulated in magazines at that time - I have a copy framed on our wall here at home. The name of the town shows clearly in the background, although you had to look very quickly to catch it on the TV screen. As I recall, Dodge dealer Floyd Brown was successful in persuading the company's advertising agency to come to Charlevoix to shoot pictures for ads used at that time.

Some weeks ago you printed a picture of a group of young Charlevoix women dressed in men's costumes for a party held in 1913, in which all but one of the group were identified by the sender, Grace Daniels Zoelner of Union City, Ca. The missing name has now been supplied by our uncle, Gordon Todd, who lives in Hayward, Ca. The young lady was Lois Frazier, whose parents had a shoe store in town at that time.

Now, can anyone tell us where the "Frazier shoe store" was?

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Krueger

Miller - Krueger

Approximately 250 guests witnessed the marriage of Valerie Sue Miller and Arman Timothy Lee Krueger on June 8 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

The double-ring rites were performed by the Reverend R. Dale Magoon before an altar decorated with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums, pink and white carnations, and gladioli.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Krueger, all of Charlevoix.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown of Chantilly lace with a high neckline and stand-up collar. The sheer yoke was outlined with matching lace and seed pearls, and the full skirt, bishop sleeves were accented with lace.

The multi-tiered, tulle-trimmed train, and her bridal hat with Miller distributed seed packets, and matching lace featured a puff of veiling. She carried a bouquet of silk roses, white azaleas, and baby's breath.

Marna LaBlanc provided vocal and organ music for the ceremony. Suzy Parker served the bride as the rehearsal dinner in their home maid of honor, and Toni Eakes, Sheila North, and Kathy Lignell were bridesmaids. The maid of honor wore a dusty rose gown of stationery with the United States Air chignon and lustre gl.

same style. They carried wicker baskets with arrangements of silk white and pink azaleas, white carnations, and pink and dusty rosebuds with accents of baby's breath. All the flowers were made by the bride.

Katie Fletcher served as flower girl, wearing a short-sleeved full-length hooped dress of white lace and pink ruffles, trimmed with pink roses. Benjamin Moulton, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

Kurt Ruffall served as best man, with Willie Ringer, David Krueger, and Greg Krueger, brothers of the bridegroom, serving as groomsmen. Ross Carey and Johnny Ralder were ushers.

Following the wedding ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception at the Charlevoix Yacht Club. Shelly Miller assisted by the bride, and her bridesmaids, and Leslie Miller served the wedding cake. They are all sisters of the bride.

In addition, Ann Zimmerman, cousin of the bride, helped distribute seed packets.

Northwood Orchestra

The Northwood Orchestra, sponsored by the renowned Leontine members, exuberance and musical talent. The orchestra, composed of professional chamber orchestra musicians from throughout the United States. Since its establishment in 1979 as the resident orchestra for the Northwood Institute Festival of the Lakes, a concert series held annually to northern Michigan.

Two New York appearances highlight the orchestra's short, yet impressive history. In April of 1981, Don Th. Jager, Music Director and conductor, led the Northwood Orchestra and founder of the critically acclaimed Canadian Brass in a concert of 20th-century music at Avery Fisher Hall. The performance featured a specially commissioned piece by Lukas Foss entitled "Night Music," dedicated by the composer in memory of John Lennon. The Northwood Orchestra returned to New York in April of 1983, this time performing in Carnegie Hall for the presentation of the Albert Schweitzer Music Award to Van Cliburn.

Norman Paulu is first violinist of the Pro Arte Quartet and Assistant Resident and Professor of Music at University of Wisconsin in Madison. Prior to assuming these positions, he was concertmaster of the Oklahoma City Symphony Orchestra and founder of the Oklahoma Quartet, the first professional quartet in the southwest. Mr. Paulu has given solo recitals and has appeared in orchestras and chamber ensembles throughout the U.S., Canada, South America, and Europe. He has played under numerous celebrated conductors including Thor Johnson, Eric Leinsdorf, Dmitri Mitropoulos, Charles Munch, and Morton Gould. Mr. Paulu received a M.M. and the seldom conference Artists Diploma from the Eastman School of Music.

EUGENE PROCTER — Program to be announced. Eugene Procter, baritone, received a B.A. from University of Alabama, a M.M. from Cleveland Institute of Music, and a Performer's Certificate in voice from the Conservatoire de Musique de Ceneve. Mr. Procter was distinguished as a finalist in festivals in Cass City, the Metropolitan Opera Michigan, and Boulder Regional Auditions. See Orchestra page 2.

MEXICO

Be Neighborly — Visit Mexico — and Save!

by Meg Brown
Bayside Travel

Wild stories are coming from Mexico — $2.50 steak dinners, hotels for $10.00 a night and much more! True or all these tales be true?

The seasoned traveler will state the old adage, "you pay for what you get." True as that may be, before you put your luggage back in the closet, let us assure you that you will pay less in Mexico for more than a traveler did two years ago. The country is just abounding in good buys and these savings will probably continue with little diastatic change in the economy for at least a year. So now is definitely a wonderful time to plan a late spring vacation to our Southern neighbor.

Let's show some of the highlights of cities on the Pacific coast of Mexico, often referred to as the "magnificent Mexican Riviera."

Acapulco — What's new in Acapulco, which for the last 25 years has been Mexico's premier resort — just about everything! True the climate is the same as always, superb. Acapulco has just completed a $300 million redevelopment program aimed at preparing this beautiful port city for the 21st century.

Puerto Vallarta hasn't lost its small-town charm, and it has become a center for artists and artisans from all over Mexico. Most of the hotels are located just outside the town; most are new and contemporary. They're spread along 5 miles of glorious beaches against a backdrop of mountains. Even though the hotels lie directly on the beach, the pool areas are some of the most elaborate you'll ever see — just an ideal place to while away a vacation complete with waterfalls, and miniature islands decked out in full jungle regalia.

Guadalajara — Strolling maraches, gentlemenly charros on horseback, and Mexico's national drink, tequila, make Guadalajara the essence of Mexico. Although inland and far less popular to tourists than the port cities of the Mexican Riviera, the climate is great, the food excellent, and the atmosphere is exhilarating.

Only a few miles from Lake Chapala, and a couple of hours drive to the Mexican Pacific, rose-garlanded Guadalajara is a city with all the conveniences of a major Mexican commercial center. Sightseeing musts are the impressive State Capital, the University Cathedral, and Degollado theatre. Also Tlaquepaque is an artistic center featuring stunning local handwork, and a visit to the Tequila bottling plant is great fun.

Mazatlan — One of Mexico's great fun towns, Mazatlan is tops with fishermen and surfers, and offers some excellent championship golf. This vibrant, yet lesser known seaside resort — "the pearl of the Pacific" — has some of the best hotels found anywhere with outstanding restaurants, and nightlife that goes until dawn. Some of the richest agricultural land in all of Mexico lies between Mazatlan and Los Mochos. Exploring some of this territory will give a visitor an excellent concept of ranching life in Mexico. There are some great package fares which usually include charter air and land accommodations to Mexico — call your Travel Agent today — and be neighborly and thrifty all at the same time — visit Mexico!

Dance Scholarships

BAY VIEW — For the first time the Bay View Theatre Arts Department is providing dance scholarships, thanks to the generous gift of Mrs. Sue Hempstead in memory of Mrs. Charlotte Hager. Applicants must be able to demonstrate financial need as well as show an ability to move and an eagerness to learn, but need not have extensive dance training to be considered.

Interested persons should obtain an application from the Director of Theatre Arts, Willard Pierce in Bay View, 347-1082 or write Ann Sullivan, P.O. Box 88, Chilmark, Mass. 02535.

Ann Sullivan will conduct the scholarship audit at 8 p.m. Monday, July 9, in the first floor dance studio at Evelyn Hall, Bay View.

The 5th Annual Mixed Doubles Round Robin Tennis Tournament will be held on Saturday and Sunday, July 14 and 15. Charlevoix players will play on Saturday on several private courts in Charlevoix. After the tournament which starts at 4:30 a.m. players are invited to a tennis luncheon at Turtle Hill, where souvenir prizes will be awarded.

On Sunday, final matches will be played at the Little Traverse Racquet Club where all three divisions A, B and C will meet in competition with the winners from Harbor Springs, Birchwood, Petoskey and Walloon. Anyone 16 years or older who is interested in playing in the fund raising benefit for the Crooked Tree Arts Scott — 18 years of Traverse City. The women will be judged on sports wear, swimsuit, interview response, poise and overall appearance by a panel of 7 judges representing WKHQ, Hawaiian Tropic and the Press.

Five of the above mentioned contestants will be selected to travel to Detroit's glamorous Metro Airport Holiday Inn where they will compete with the five finalists selected in each of the other Regional Contests (Detroit, Grand Rapids, and Saginaw). From here the five contestants chosen from all of Michigan will travel to Daytona to vie for the Miss Hawaiian Tropic USA title. One more contest leads the winners of Honolulu, Hawaii to seek the International title — which includes a Monarch Ski Boat, Porsche 944, a dream vacation for two anywhere in the world, a national modeling assignment and more.

Radio station WKHQ invites the public to call the Star of Charlevoix for reservations on the Dinner Cruise so that you can be on board for the 2nd Annual Miss Hawaiian Tropic Northern Michigan Pageant on June 29 at 6:30 p.m.

Hunt resigns

by DAVE KNIGHT

Robert A. Hunt has announced his resignation as Charlevoix city manager to take a similar position in Incline Village, Nevada. Hunt's decision was explained in a June 29 letter to Mayor Kenneth A. Staley, members of the City Council, city department heads and city employees.

"Karen (Hunt's wife) and I have made this decision with a great deal of mixed emotion," wrote Hunt. "We care a lot about Charlevoix and the many friends we have made here over the past three years. The town will always hold a special place in our hearts and personally I hope that one day we will be able to return. On the other hand, we are looking forward to our new life at Incline which is also a special community."

The title Hunt will assume in his new job is General Manager of the Incline Village General Improvement District. Though titled differently under Nevada's system of local government, the position is basically similar to that of a city manager.

Incline Village, a community of about 6,000, is located on the northern shore of Lake Tahoe near the California-Nevada border and is about 250 miles east of San Francisco.

A Mayville, Michigan native and University of Michigan graduate, Hunt was named Charlevoix city manager in October, 1981 following the resignation of James Brinker who is now city clerk-treasurer. Before coming to Charlevoix, Hunt was assistant city manager at Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

His tenure as the city's third-city manager since the position was created by the 1977 city charter was almost cut short in April, 1982 when he resigned over a disagreement with the council. That resignation was later rescinded.

Hunt will stay on the job until August 3 and has offered to stay one week after that date to help council screen applicants for the position which has had a yearly salary of approximately $28,000.

"The City of Charlevoix has made a great deal of progress over the past three years," wrote Hunt. "We have come a long way toward understanding what it takes to make professional government work and I believe we are now beginning to see some of the fruits of our labors."

He acknowledged the frustrations of dealing with a newly chartered form of city government saying, "It has not been an easy task to guide the community through the changes mandated or implied by the new city charter. Neither the mayor nor council has received the credit they deserve for their perseverance."

"Charlevoix's capacity for teamwork is a source of great strength. But teamwork, under the best of circumstances, is difficult to achieve and requires enormous energy, commitment and patience to maintain. I apologize if I have appeared drained as a result. I remain grateful for the opportunity to be part of your efforts."

THE ONE-HUNDREDTH BIRTHDAY of the Charlevoix County State Bank was observed last week with several special functions and presentations. Congressman Bob Davis' area representative Bill Hunter, right, was the first to present a commemorative plaque to bank Vice-President and Cashier Lorraine Brown, left, and President Gordon R. Wellman. Plaques were also received from State Sen. Mitch Irwin, the Michigan Historical Society and the City of Charlevoix among others. The birthday celebration Thursday and Friday attracted hundreds of local residents to the bank's parking lot where free hot dogs, pop and birthday cake were consumed to the accompaniment of a band. The focal point of the observance was Thursday evening's dinner at Duffy's of Charlevoix attended by former bank officers and employees, several local and state banking officials and many area residents.

Marina Shores gets final okay

by DAVE KNIGHT

Assured that the developers of the Marina Shores condominium project in the former Foster Boat Works building on Ferry Ave. will provide a stretcher that will fit in their elevator, City Council gave its approval Monday night to the final site plan for the project.

The only fly in the ointment during the council's discussion of the proposed 37-unit complex came when it was pointed out that the project's three-floor elevator was designed to be 80 inches long and the city ambulance crew's stretcher is 84 inches long.

Arch Wright, a partner in Charlevoix Development Company (CDC), expressed dismay that the discrepancy had been brought up at such a late stage in planning.

According to Wright, the building's plans had been made available to city officials two months ago but the objection to the elevator length was only brought up to him Monday afternoon.

Wright pointed out that a 70-inch long elevator was installed in another CDC project, the Weatherly Terrace addition, just last year and was approved.

Fire Chief John Martin told the council that he was unable to locate an ambulance stretcher in his equipment catalogs shorter than 84 inches.

The matter was settled with Wright's agreement to provide a stretcher that will fit into the elevator.

Approval of the final site plan came on a unanimous vote.

Following almost 12 hours of deliberation Saturday, a federal district court jury in Cincinnati found Charlevoix attorney John R. Michael not guilty of participating in a fraudulent business operation out of Charlevoix up to two years ago that collected deposits on farm pole buildings but never delivered the products.

Four other defendants, however, were found guilty on numerous counts of mail fraud and conspiracy in the case.

Lowell J. Bava and his wife May were each convicted of one count of conspiracy, 17 counts of mail fraud and two counts of interstate transport of money obtained by fraud.

Duane J. French was convicted on one count of conspiracy, six counts of mail fraud and two counts of interstate transport of money obtained by fraud.

David C. Dietz entered a plea of guilty earlier in the trial to one count of conspiracy, two counts of mail fraud and one count of perjury before a federal grand jury.

According to an indictment filed by the U.S. Attorney General in September, 1983, a firm known as Detroit Steel Pre-engineered Bridge and Building Corporation with an address listed at 228 Bridge St. in Charlevoix advertised steel farm buildings in such agricultural magazines as Michigan Farmer and Ohio Farmer.

When people responded to the ads, according to the indictment, Bava and French would follow up with a telephone call and arrange for Dietz to make a sales presentation to the potential customer in person.

Between January, 1981 and February, 1982, the phony firm collected and deposited $264,000 in down payments but, claimed the Attorney General's office, never intended to produce any buildings.

Michael was accused of depositing some of the Detroit Steel proceeds in his client trust, knowing that they had been obtained by fraud. He claimed all along, however, that he had no knowledge of the actual nature of the phony business and was only providing a routine service to a corporate client.

"I was sucked into this monumental scam just like all the farmers whose money was taken," said Michael on Monday. "They (the other four defendants) retained me as their attorney and basically conned me into depositing their money in my trust account."

Forty-eight individuals were claimed by the prosecution to have been defrauded in the scheme. Many of these victims testified in the trial which lasted about three weeks.

The trial was held in the Southern Ohio federal district court because most of the victims of the fraud were from that area. None were listed as being from the Charlevoix area.

Michael, a former Charlevoix County prosecutor who has practiced law locally for over 25 years, was represented by Ohio attorney Daniel O'Brien.

Visiting British lawman sees many familiar problems here

by PEG OHLE

The handsome gentleman in the unfamiliar black uniform you may have seen around town lately is a visitor from England.

He is Superintendent John R. Mansfield of the Norfolk County (England) Constabulary, who, with his wife, is a house guest of Sheriff and Mrs. George T. Lasater.

Yes, Superintendent Mansfield is an honest-to-goodness English bobby, complete with tall hard hat and billy club, looking just like the television and movie versions of English law enforcement officers.

And why is he called a "bobby"? Superintendent Mansfield didn't offer the explanation, but we found out that it dates back to the early 19th century in England. That's when Sir Robert Peel organized the first constabularies. "Bobby" is a nickname for "Robert." Police "bobbies" are named for Sir Robert Peel.

This week is a busy one for our

English guests. On the Fourth of July (celebrating our independence from their homeland), Superintendent Mansfield is Grand Marshall at the East Jordan parade and a participant in the parades in Horton Bay and Boyne City. Last Saturday, Sheriff Lasater treated his guest to an evening and most of the night at the rock concert at Castle Farms.

Crowds and the problems that accompany them are not new to this English police officer. His district is home to the Norwich City Football Ground, which he says, "provides one of the largest policing operations on alternate Saturdays for eight months of the year. Crowds of between 14,000 to 27,000 attend, with disruptions caused by about 200 home and visiting supporters who require between 120 and 300 police officers to control."

While the Norfolk Constabulary covers a much larger area than Charlevoix County (701,000 compared with Charlevoix County's 20,000), there are some similarities, the Superintendent reports.

One of its main towns in Great Yarmouth, which is basically a vacation resort from May to September.

A large chemical manufacturing plant, surrounded by residential housing is located in the area (causing concerns not unlike our Big Rock).

The area is basically rural, with farms producing wheat, barley, and sugar beets, along with cattle, pigs and poultry.

But while there are similarities between Norfolk and Charlevoix Counties, there are also differences.

Statistics show that the most frequent crime reported in Norfolk County is that of "theft from vehicles." In Charlevoix County, that crime is far down the line. Superintendent Mansfield explained this difference by the fact that most Englishmen repair their own automobiles and carry special tools

Two killed, two injured in auto mishap

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is investigating a two car accident near East Jordan late Saturday that took the lives of two young Flint women.

The accident happened on M-66 in South Arm Township approximately one-half mile north of the East Jordan city limits near Lord Road at 11:25 p.m. Saturday, June 30.

Dead are Tami L. Hancock, 25, who was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Reed Freidinger, Charlevoix County Medical examiner, and Susan E. Kazmier, 21, who was pronounced dead at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The second passenger, Catherine L. Benson, 22, Davidson, was treated for minor injuries.

The driver of the second vehicle, Matthew L. Rogers, 18 of Alma, was transferred to the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals after being treated briefly at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

All were transferred to the hospital by East Jordan ambulances.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies were assisted at the scene by East Jordan City Police and the East Jordan Fire Department.

English guests. On the Fourth of July (celebrating our independence from their homeland), Superintendent Mansfield is Grand Marshall at the East Jordan parade and a participant in the parades in Horton Bay and Boyne City. Last Saturday, Sheriff Lasater treated his guest to an evening and most of the night at the rock concert at Castle Farms.

Crowds and the problems that accompany them are not new to this English police officer. His district is home to the Norwich City Football Ground, which he says, "provides one of the largest policing operations on alternate Saturdays for eight months of the year. Crowds of between 14,000 to 27,000 attend, with disruptions caused by about 200 home and visiting supporters who require between 120 and 300 police officers to control."

While the Norfolk Constabulary covers a much larger area than Charlevoix County (701,000 compared with Charlevoix County's 20,000), there are some similarities, the Superintendent reports.

One of its main towns in Great Yarmouth, which is basically a vacation resort from May to September.

A large chemical manufacturing plant, surrounded by residential housing is located in the area (causing concerns not unlike our Big Rock).

The area is basically rural, with farms producing wheat, barley, and sugar beets, along with cattle, pigs and poultry.

But while there are similarities between Norfolk and Charlevoix Counties, there are also differences.

Statistics show that the most frequent crime reported in Norfolk County is that of "theft from vehicles". In Charlevoix County, that crime is far down the line. Superintendent Mansfield explained this difference by the fact that most Englishmen repair their own automobiles and carry special tools

Hunt resigns

by DAVE KNIGHT

Robert A. Hunt has announced his resignation as Charlevoix city manager to take a similar position in Incline Village, Nevada.

Hunt's decision was explained in a June 29 letter to Mayor Kenneth A. Staley, members of the City Council, city department heads and city employees.

"Karen (Hunt's wife) and I have made this decision with a great deal of mixed emotion," wrote Hunt. "We care a lot about Charlevoix and the many friends we have made here over the past three years. The town will always hold a special place in our hearts and personally I hope that one day we will be able to return. On the other hand, we are looking forward to our new life at Incline which is also a special community."
